TAFT IS NOW GAINING, BUT WILSON HOLDS LEAD.

Poll of the States Shows the New Jersey Governor is Still Going Strong.

Unless Something Unforeseen Happens Between Now and Election Day the Straws Indicate Democrats Will Land Their Man in the White House—Slight Changes Since Last Herald and Los Angeles "Times" Review.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] President Taft making gains in several States, but still third. The Bull Moose holding his own, losing in some sections and gaining in others.

Gov. Wilson still well in the lead of all rivals and still going strong.

Such is the situation in the great battle for the Presidency, as indicated by the New York Herald and Los Angeles Times' impartial, nation-wide canvass twenty-two days before election.

SLIGHT CHANGES.

Conditions have changed but slightly since the last installment of the polls was published a week ago. If the ballots and reports of trained political observers are to be accepted as a basis, Gov. Wilson is easily the leader. The Bull Moose movement has to all appearances, touched its highest point. Best indications obtainable at this time are that the Bull Moose nominee is running second and the President third, with a chance in some States, if the present growth of the movement continues, to overtake his nearest rival.

The ballots taken in States east and west of the Mississippi continue almost without exception to place Gov. Wilson first, with the President third.

HOW DRIFT IS CHANGING.

The drift of sentiment indicated by test votes, taking the total number cast throughout the country, shows:

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. The union laborites in session at San Diego, while in apparent sympathy with the Industrial Workers of the World, did not deem it expedient to indorse by resolution the peculiar operations of that twin order.

The San Gabriel Valley Inter-city Commission met at Pomona and spent the evening discussing the proposed county charter. Sentiment seemed favorable to the adoption of the instrument.

A Los Angeles woman went to San Bernardino to enforce a judgment against a theater in that city and after a controversy which drew the greater portion of the population of the town was compelled to return without the goods.

Robert J. Burdette and his wife, who have been touring Europe, returned yesterday and Rev. Bob told the reporters who greeted him that all the world is making preparations to come to California to spend the winter.

PACIFIC SLOPE. It was announced yesterday at San Francisco that within a short time three-fourths of the prisoners in Folsom and San Quentin will be allowed to discard the stripes and adopt a new style garb to be chosen by prison officials.

Southern Pacific officials yesterday gave out a statement to the effect that the receipts of the lines leading to San Francisco and Oakland were increased many thousands of dollars in September because of the visit of William J. Bryan to those cities.

Dr. Stocking, medical superintendent of the Agnew State hospital, said yesterday that women victims of inebriety are seldom cured of the disease.

Mrs. Ana Christensen, on trial at Pasco, Wash., for the alleged poisoning of her husband, declared she is certain she will be acquitted.

Sidney Edward Boniface, musical instructor and choir singer, has been arrested at San Pedro on a charge of bigamy.

John Oosterhuis, master of a coasting vessel, has been indicted at San Francisco for alleged smuggling.

Wilbur Voliva, successor to John Alexander Dowie as head of the Zionist church, while in San Francisco yesterday declared his faith in Dowieism as a constructive social and religious influence.

In a fire that destroyed his home near Ripon, Martin Seigler was burned to death. Joseph Gray, a ranch hand, has been taken into custody.

GENERAL EASTERN. It was announced in New York yesterday that contributions to the Wilson and Marshall campaign fund total $417,000.

Mrs. Sadie Blake was yesterday acquitted in a Chicago court of the charge of having murdered Morris Sturm. She is the seventh Chicago woman to be acquitted of a murder charge within the past few years.

Mrs. Hugh J. McIlvoy, who recently was made the legatee of a fortune of $400,000, was deserted by her husband ten days after their marriage.

Mrs. Lucy Saylor, sentenced to the Joliet prison two and a half years ago, as an accessory to the murder of her husband, was released yesterday.

The murder yesterday in Brooklyn of Frank Omico is believed to have been the work of Camorrists. Amico played an important part in bringing the gang to justice and afterwards left Italy because he feared the vengeance of the society.

Daniel Riley, a chauffeur of Chicago, was yesterday held under $25,000 bond for having caused the death of a citizen. This is the largest bail ever required in Illinois for a similar offense.

The Jackson-Mack Manufacturing Company of New York, silk petticoat manufacturers, has failed because of lack of demand for its product. The dullness in the market is said by dealers to be due to the close-fitting dresses now worn by women.

MISS CALHOUN AT THE ALTAR.

BECOMES THE BRIDE OF WILSON B. HICKOX.

Fashionable Wedding in the Forest City Is Attended by the Elite of Society—Scion of a Pioneer Ohio Family Wins a Handsome Young Woman for His Spouse.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One of the most notable weddings of the autumn was celebrated this afternoon when Miss Martha M. Calhoun, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Calhoun of Euclid Heights, was united in marriage to Wilson B. Hickox.

When Miss Martha's engagement to the wealthy scion of one of Cleveland's oldest families was announced a large event was planned to take place in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, to be followed by a large reception at the home. But the best laid plans "gang aft aglee" and a few months ago society was startled by the announcement of a broken engagement. The marriage at the church was canceled and Miss Calhoun went to California. But the breach did not last. Upon Miss Calhoun's return the wedding date was set. Even then society looked forward to a wedding celebration of great splendor, but fate again intervened and the sudden bereavement in the Hickox family, the death of Charles G. Hickox, changed the plans. It was feared also that the sale of Euclid Heights property which would close the street leading to the Calhoun mansion might interfere, but the sale was postponed.

THE INVITATIONS.

The wedding today was in no sense as large as that of the second daughter, Mrs. Paul Scott Foster. Only 160 invitations were issued, but the ceremony was carried out with the same exquisite detail in appointment. The Rev. Frank Dumoulin, dean of Trinity Cathedral, performed the ceremony in the beautiful ballroom of the Calhoun home as the soft shades of twilight mingled with the glow of a hundred candles.

The huge room, which opens onto a large garden, was decorated in the softest tones of a pinkish gray and with rose-colored hangings at the windows, was done entirely in huge chrysanthemums.

AT THE ALTAR.

An altar built in the stage at one end was banked in palms, interspersed with snowy chrysanthemums, showing tall standards which were looped with cathedral candles. The white satin kneeling cushion was draped in lace, an heirloom in the family.

The bridal party formed on the second floor and descended the stairway to the hall, thence through the drawing-room to the ballroom at the end, where the dean and Mr. Hickox with his best man, Mr. Fayette Brown, awaited the coming of the bride. Six ushers, Mr. Carl Blossom, Mr. Henry Curtis, Mr. Henry Raymond, Mr. Patrick Calhoun, Jr., Mr. Kenneth Wick and Mr. Shelton Martin of New York preceded the bridal party. Then followed the matron of honor, Mrs. Paul Foster, the bride's sister.

The bride walked with her father, Mr. Patrick Calhoun, who gave her in marriage.

Her gown of exquisite lace, an heirloom worn by Mrs. Patrick Calhoun at her wedding and by Mrs. Foster at her marriage, was draped over soft ivory satin.

The bridegroom's gift, a beautiful string of pearls, to which was attached a diamond pendant, set in platinum, was worn with the handsome costume. The bridal bouquet was of white orchids covered with lilies of the valley, which fell to the tops of her white satin slippers.

Supper was served to one hundred guests at small tables arranged in the breakfast and reading-rooms.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. Shelton Martin of New York, Mrs. Charles B. Hickox of New York, Miss Maynard and Mr. Benjamin Maynard of San Francisco and Mrs. Charles B. Germain of New York.

Rose Calls Becker Its Leader.

Declares Gotham Police Lieutenant Decreed Death of Rosenthal.

"Croak Him, Get Him!" He Is Alleged to Have Told the Gun Men.

Amazing Story of the Alliance of the Law With Modern Vice.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 12.—[Special Dispatch.] In one of the most amazing stories ever told on a witness stand at any time in any country, "Bald Jack" Rose, the self-accused graft collector for Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, on trial for the murder of Gambler Herman Rosenthal, outlined today before Supreme Court Justice Goff the details of the plan to put Rosenthal out of the way before he could "squeal" to the District Attorney and thereby bring about the ruin of Becker and others implicated in receiving protection money from inhabitants of the "underworld."

PLAIN LANGUAGE.

In plain, strong language and without the slightest hesitation, Rose told how Becker had demanded that Rosenthal be "croaked," how he gave him $100 with which to stimulate the activities of the late "Big Jack" Zelig in this direction, and of conversations which occurred after the killing and at a time when Rose and those implicated in the plot were quaking from fear. He also went into the alleged partnership between Becker and Rosenthal, which led up to the desire of the head of the strong-arm squad to get the gambler's life and of his efforts to bring about his death through Zelig, Lefty Louie and other gun men.

A FASHION PLATE.

Rose was dressed in the height of style and did not appear to have suffered greatly during his confinement. At first he evinced some nervousness, but as he proceeded with his tale under the questioning of Asst. Dist.-Atty. Moss he became more confident in himself and settled down to his task. Frequently he was interrupted by John F. McIntyre, attorney for the defense, who interposed endless objections, but the interruptions failed to cause the witness embarrassment.

Becker himself was jaunty enough

Princess Alice of Greece, who, with her children, appears in the upper panel, has decided to leave Athens immediately for the Turkish frontier with a number of nurses, as all the indications point to war, a Cabinet meeting having been held yesterday with the King to discuss such an eventuality. In the lower panel is Prince Alexander of Servia, who, with a section of the general staff, has left Belgrade to join the colors at the front. The royal train is held in readiness at the Belgrade station for King Peter, who desires to be with his troops when they cross into Turkey. The map shows the location of Scutari, the objective point of the Montenegrin army and a city that King Nicholas has coveted for years.

THREE DEAD, FIVE DYING IN STORM IN CHICAGO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When Chicago took count of its injuries today, following the storm of the night, it was found that three persons had been killed, five fatally injured and thousands of dollars' damage done.

The dead: Charles J. Mitchell, Valentine P. Fleming and Tony Gereka.

The injured: George Faber, Edward O'Brien, Jr., William Corcoran and Leon Kreshman and an unidentified man.

Two horses were electrocuted by grounded wires, portions of the city were thrown into absolute darkness for several hours and heavy damage done throughout the city and especially on the Northwest Side.

Charles J. Mitchell, 34 years old, was struck by an electric automobile driven by Miss Clara Black. The accident occurred in a blinding storm. Both Miss Black and the police declare the accident was unavoidable.

Valentine P. Fleming was blinded by the rain and while holding an umbrella in front of him, stepped on the chains of a coal hole in front of the Medina building. The gates were released and he was caught under the arms. His chest was crushed. He died in an ambulance.

WISCONSIN FLOODS WORST IN YEARS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KENOSHA (Wis.) Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The worst floods known in Kenosha for many years followed the great rain of Friday night and Saturday morning and just after 4 o'clock this morning a great dike gave way and Jerome Creek broke over its banks and flooded over a hundred acres in the south and west parts of the city. In many places houses were completely surrounded by water.

Women and children were taken from the houses in boats. The water swept over a vast territory. Street railway traffic was maintained, although at places the cars were run through the water.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—"Your enemies are gathering on the frontier, seeking to snatch your patrimony from you, and to destroy the happiness of your sons and grandsons. It devolves upon you to prevent them from treading one inch of sacred soil soaked in the blood of your ancestors. Fight with the courage of those ancestors." Thus the Sultan of Turkey today ended a proclamation ordering the mobilization of his army to defend the Ottoman empire. And with the issuance of the order ends practically all hope that peace will reign in the Balkans before widespread war and desolation follow Montenegro's opening of hostilities.

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In spite of the official optimism and assurances that all the great powers are united, the German public fears a general European conflagration. The Berlin Exchange experienced yesterday one of the blackest days in its experience and the panic continues today on a sensational scale, prices tumbling in all the markets. Not only do the speculative and financial circles seem to have lost their heads in the belief that sensational rumors of mobilization in Russia and Austria are true, but panic has also seized the small provincial investors whose sale orders are pouring in upon the bankers with every mail.

The great Berlin banks, which control $8,000,000,000 of Germany's national fortune, hurriedly have called a meeting today of their directors with a view to stopping the panic.

According to London reports a war panic also reigned in Capel Court for a short time today on a continuance of heavy unloading from Paris, Berlin and Vienna. Weak accounts were closed out. The wholesale depression spread to all departments. Bargain hunters caused a half-hearted rally, but the close was nervous.

CHRISTIAN ARMIES APPROACH SCUTARI.

BY PAUL LAMBETH.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The Montenegrin army has approached within gunshot of the Turkish redoubts defending the town of Scutari. Prince Danilo, in command of the main army, is awaiting the arrival of Gens. Vukovitch and Martinovitch, who made a detour following the southern lake shore. The attack on the city will begin as soon as the three corps have united. The Turks are prepared to offer a stubborn resistance, but the fall of Scutari is almost certain to be chronicled either tomorrow or Monday.

Gen. Martinovitch suffered heavy losses after crossing the Boyana. A strong force of Turks made an unexpected descent on the unprotected rear of the column and destroyed part of the baggage train and several heavy ammunition wagons. The explosion of the powder was the first intimation Martinovitch had of the diversion in his rear.

From Vienna comes a sensational report of an Austro-Balkan agreement, laying the basis for a new European imperial federation. Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of Foreign Affairs, declines to discuss the proposition or to admit that Great Britain is officially aware of its existence, in fact. In diplomatic circles, however, the report is given general credence and it does not seem to have taken the embassies by surprise.

A former under secretary of foreign affairs is authority for the statement that Austria's intention in this regard has been the subject of official correspondence between England, Germany, Russia and France for the last month or six weeks. These nations, he says, will never tolerate such a strong combination in the near east. "It would be a standing menace to every European power and would destroy the Balkan buffer, to create which the powers of Europe have cooperated as far as possible in friendly assistance to Bulgaria, Roumania, Servia and Montenegro."

STANTON GOES ON COMMITTEE.

Former Speaker Named by State Body.

Issue in California Is Up to the People.

Former Senator Castigates the Progressives.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Phillip A. Stanton, former Speaker of the California Assembly, is the selection of the Republican State Central Committee for appointment as National Committeeman for California. The State Committee, in session at the St. Francis here today, unanimously declared for Stanton and National Committeeman Samuel Perkins of Washington will recommend his appointment to the National Committee.

Committeeman Perkins came to California several days ago empowered to name the California committeeman to succeed Russ Avery of Los Angeles, who was ousted from the committee because he had affiliated with the Progressive party. Rather than make the selection himself, Perkins conferred with Gustave Brenner, chairman of the State Central Committee, and with S. Fred Hogue, the former Taft State chairman. While Brenner was given the chance to name the committeeman, he decided to put the matter up to the State Central Committee, which decided unanimously.

STANTON ACCEPTS.

The former Speaker, who is a member of the committee, was present at the meeting and in a brief speech declared he would accept the position and take his coat off to work for the Republican cause in California.

The State Central Committee decided to retain the headquarters in the St. Francis for the work of the campaign.

Chairman Brenner announced the appointment of A. Hochheimer of Willows and of N. A. Ulm of Santa Ana as committeemen at large. The other committeemen at large will be named within the next few days.

A resolution was adopted which sets forth political conditions in California, and gives answer to Lieut.-Gov. A. J. Wallace, who refused to call a special session of the Legislature to amend the primary law so Republicans could vote for the nominee of the Republican convention. It states further that Republicans have exhausted every means to get the Taft electors upon the ballot and have failed. The matter is now put squarely before the people.

THE RESOLUTION.

Following is the resolution:

"Whereas, the Republican State Central Committee of California notices with regret the refusal of the acting Governor to call an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the purpose of amending the primary law, which, as is well known, at present operates to disfranchise tens of thousands of men and women at the coming Presidential election; and, whereas, the reasons which Gov. Wallace gives for his refusal are, under the provisions of section 1 of article IV of the Constitution of this State as amended October 10, 1911, no act passed by any session of the Legislature can become operative until the expiration of ninety days of its adjournment, except acts calling elections, acts providing for tax levies or appropriations for the usual current expenses of the State, and urgency measures necessary for the important preservation of public peace, health or safety, etc.; and, whereas, we beg respectfully to call to the attention of the people of California that the primary law is an act, and that, therefore, that even though he call an extra session, the Republicans of this State could obtain no relief, and

Whereas, we beg to respectfully call to the attention of California that the primary law is an act relative to elections and to the calling of elections, and furthermore, we state the fact is, that the amendment that we seek to the primary law of this State on behalf of many thousands of Republican citizens is an urgency measure necessary to the important preservation of the public peace. In 1911 Gov. Johnson convened the Legislature of this State in extraordinary session, on Monday, November 27, and one of the reasons of his calling that session was to pass an act legalizing the registration of voters, which referred exclusively to the city of Los Angeles. It appears that in that case many citizens had been illegally or irregularly registered, and many persons had been illegally or irregularly appointed to act as deputies or to take affidavits of persons registering, etc., and the act itself, as passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor, recites as follows: "That there was an existing feeling of unrest and apprehension regarding such registration and such election; that unless the right of such persons to vote at such election is legally established prior to the holding thereof, public disorder and breaches of the public peace at such election are liable to ensue, and the public safety and the orderly conduct of such election are liable to be endangered." This act was approved December 4, and the election in Los Angeles was held on December 6, and

Whereas, if such conditions were likely to endanger the public peace, how much more is the danger to the public peace under the present protection of the present primary law of this State, when it is absolutely impossible for the Republican men and women of California, who desire to vote for William Howard Taft for President of the United States to so do.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we respectfully submit that the reasons stated by the acting Governor for his refusal to call the extra session are not well founded either in law or in fact and his excuses are entirely unsatisfactory to the people of this State who by his act and by the operation of the present law are disfranchised; and

"Be it further resolved, that we, the Republican State Central Committee of California, having exhausted every measure within our power to preserve the right of independent franchise without success, do now submit the whole subject matter to the consideration of all fair-minded citizens, without regard to party."

BRENNER'S STATEMENT.

"It is not for this committee to indorse or advise Republicans to support anyone other than the Republican nominees," said Chairman Brenner today. "As individuals they may do as they please.

"This committee is going to be the strongest organization of its kind ever gotten together in California. Every member is going to be a fighter and this body of men will be together long after the next election."

Former United States Senator C. N. Felton said: "The Republican party has always stood for progress and prosperity. During the dark times of our country, it was the Republicans who straightened out affairs. The history of the United States is the history of the Republican party.

" 'Whom the gods destroy they first make mad.' The Republicans have made Roosevelt and Johnson mad, and their destruction politically will come November 5."

The following committeemen were in attendance: E. C. Chapman, Corte Madera; P. T. Clay, San Francisco; H. M. Wisler, Los Angeles; Oscar Greenbaum, San Francisco; Joseph Rock, San Francisco; Gustave Brenner, San Francisco; Robert Sweeney, Los Angeles; N. A. Ulm, Santa Ana; Edward I. Wolfe, San Francisco; Thomas Flint, San Benito county; Alexander Russell, San Francisco; A. J. Martin, San Francisco; W. F. Mixon, Woodland; Robert Beardslee, Stockton, M. C. Chapman, Oakland.

The following were also present: S. Fred Hogue, San Francisco; Phillip A. Stanton, Los Angeles; Russ Campbell, Santa Rosa; former Senator J. J. Luchsinger, Vallejo; Thomas Hender, San Francisco; Assemblyman Milton Schmitt, San Francisco; former United States Senator C. N. Felton.

LAWRENCE (Mass.) Oct. 12.—Thirty thousand American flags were carried through three miles of muddy streets today by 30,000 men, women and children in a demonstration against the Industrial Workers of the World. VOLIVA ARRIVES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "I am this kind of a man—I never bother about immediate results when I am sowing seed. I do not know how many people are with us, because a church membership roll can be made to deceive oneself. It is all in the spirit, and not in numbers. I know that our organization is growing in power and influence. That is enough."

So said Wilbur Glenn Voliva, successor of John Alexander Dowie. His title is general overseer of the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church of Zion. He is here to speak in Dreamland Rink tomorrow afternoon.

"Our policy at Zion City is to do things," he explained in his most pleasant accents. "We have no use for idlers. My idea throughout the entire time that I have been general overseer is to carry out the lines laid down by Mr. Dowie.

"We have had an eventful and a successful trip. We have had meetings at St. Paul, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Seattle and Portland. From here we go to Los Angeles, San Antonio, New Orleans, St. Louis and thence to Chicago, arriving at Zion on November 2.

Cross Vs. Crescent.

TO OUST THE MOSLEMS FROM EUROPE FOREVER.

BY EMIL ANDRASSEY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

VIENNA, Oct. 12.—Definite relations of the secret Austro-Balkan negotiations unveil a sensational scheme by which Austria-Hungary hopes to seize the balance of power in Southeastern Europe, and Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria to shake the mailed fist of an empire of vast dimensions in the face of the Hohenzollern autocracy of Berlin and his traditional enemy, Czar Nicholas of Russia. The mysterious visit of Ferdinand to Franz Josef, the aged Emperor's guarded statements to Parliament of the Ambassadors, the significant threat of Count Bechtold, Austria's Foreign Minister, and admittedly the Metternivm and Talleyrand of today are all now explained to the amazement and consternation of the foreign legations here.

Austria-Hungary and the Balkan States are in absolute alliance, offensive and defensive. The octogenarian regent of the unhappy Hapsburgs will at the right moment proclaim himself at the head of the new crusade against the Turk.

The seizure of Vienna by the Moslem hordes in the Zenith of their reign in Europe is to be avenged by driving the Turk from Europe and restoring the cross in the imperial city of Constantine.

The following are said to be the main provisions of the Austro-Balkan agreements:

Austria to use her influence with the concert of Europe to assure noninterference with the advance of her allies, Bulgaria, Servia and Montenegro, against the Turks, to throw her army into the field in the event of Turkish success and if the powers threaten the Balkan alliance, to support the latter on land and sea.

Bulgaria, Servia and Montenegro to enter an Austro-Balkan confederation, electors of each confederated nation to elect a successor to the Emperor Franz Josef. Rumania and Greece to be invited to join this confederation. Greece to be offered a share in the partition of Turkey in Europe.

The reigning houses in the confederation to preserve their regal rank, but the finances of each state to be regulated by an imperial commission to be headed by the Austrian chancellor.

No secret is made of the fact that Franz Josef's successor has already been decided upon. The ambitious Ferdinand of Bulgaria is to mount the throne of Rudolph of Hapsburg, to which he has long aspired.

Thus Count Bechtold, with one bold stroke, hopes to realize his dream of a greater Austria and remove the heir apparent, Archduke Franz Ferdinand, against whom he has intrigued consistently, instigated to a great extent by his wife, who hates the lovely Countess Chetek and has repeatedly insulted her whenever she has shown herself at the Imperial Palace.

The Archduke Franz Ferdinand is said to have sacrificed himself willingly. He prefers his home with his wife and children to the worries and intrigues of court. His children are debarred by law and his own consent from the imperial inheritance, so there was little to induce him to threaten the aspiring Bulgarian Czar.

TWENTY-THREE ESCAPE FROM PENITENTIARIES.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Oct. 12.—[Special Dispatch.] Four of the most desperate convicts in the Ohio Penitentiary made a daring escape from the big prison today by sawing through the bars of a sewer manhole behind the prison hospital, dropping into the underground tunnel and working their way to the sewer's outlet on the banks of the Sciote River.

The escape was so cleverly executed that for hours after the men were missed prison officials did not know the method of their escape.

Hammers and chisels were found at the prison entrance of the sewer and two abandoned suits of prison gray in the sewer outlet on the river bank.

The missing prisoners are James Neal, serving three years for burglary; Clyde Stratton, serving four years for burglary; George Washington, serving twenty-five years for burglary, and William Barnegraff, serving life for murder. The first three are third-termers. Stratton escaped over the wall last year and was recaptured in Chicago several months later.

NINETEEN ESCAPE.

EXODUS FROM RAWLINGS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RAWLINGS (Wyo.) Oct. 12.—Nineteen prisoners broke out of the State Penitentiary this afternoon. Five have been recaptured. The remainder are in the hills pursued by a posse headed by Warden Alston. It is reported that the posse has several of the escaped convicts located in a canyon north of the city and a clash is believed to be imminent. No casualties have been reported.

Tunnel Meeting.

BUSINESS MEN ENDORSE SECOND-STREET BORE.

AT A MEETING of business men held in one of the rooms of the Merchants' Bank and Trust Company last night resolutions indorsing the Second-street tunnel project were adopted. Several merchants declared that it was immaterial to them whether the bore through Bunker Hill was at First or Scond street, but that something must be promptly done to bring the residents of the northwest section to the stores on South Broadway between First and Second streets. The resolutions will be presented to the City Council Tuesday and haste urged in adopting plans for a one-bore tunnel. It was stated that this could be constructed for less than $300,000 without possible law-suits.

The meeting presented many diversified interests. Several residents on the hill declared that Los Angeles could grade the hill to better advantage than to construct two or three tunnels in the next few years. Others greatly favored First street to Second, but they were in the minority at this particular meeting.

F. M. Coulter, who presided, explained that many merchants like himself felt that some action must be taken within a short time and he hinted that if some relief were not afforded that a number of large concerns would move farther south.

Personally he said he felt sentimental drawings to the northwest section and knew that there is a large population there that is seeking quick passage to the stores on Broadway from First street, south. He said that he had been working for years to get something done and while he favored a First-street tunnel he was informed that the other project stood a better chance with the City Council.

Dr. Lamb and Lawrence Holmes spoke in favor of cutting the entire hill down and the latter quoted from experiences in Seattle, where thirty-five or forty hills were leveled to street grades.

T. Wiesendanger, a large property-owner, spoke on behalf of the First-street project and enumerated its advantages.

C. Wesley Roberts gave his experience in selling property in the section adjacent to Second and Broadway and advocated the Second-street tunnel as the most feasible at the present time. F. W. Braun, Miles Gregory and a number of merchants gave their views.

After considerable discussion, a committee drew up a resolution which placed those present on record as favoring the Second-street tunnel. Virtually all present said they hoped the First-street tunnel could be secured later.

WAR PANIC IN BERLIN.

not enter such an alliance, but will, on the contrary, support Turkey with the aid and approval of Russia."

The belief is growing in Downing street that a European war is inevitable, involving three, if not all the great powers.

The sudden change of orders by the admiralty, strengthening the British fleet in the Mediterranean, is deemed significant of the extreme gravity of the situation.

NO PEACE TALK BY THE POWERS.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—From all the capitals today came news of increasing tension and continued preparation for war, and this has spread now to Vienna and Budapest. Reassuring statements have been issued from several quarters, but undoubtedly with the object of stemming the panic of selling on the bourses.

The text of the note handed by the representatives of the powers to the Turkish government proves to be more feeble even than was anticipated, and as it contains no suggestion that the powers will undertake to guarantee the carrying out of reforms in Macedonia, it is not likely to have any effect in allaying public feeling in the Balkans, which is all for war.

The reply of the Balkan states like that of the Turkish government, has not yet been delivered.

REVOLT ON FRONTIER.

In Turkey war is accepted as a certainty. The organization of small bands of Bulgarian and Servian irregulars to operate in certain districts of European Turkey is described in a special dispatch from Salonika. Their work will be chiefly that of inciting the village populations in the frontier districts to revolt and in case of their refusal to do so, the bands are said to have been ordered to burn the houses and massacre the inhabitants.

The reports of maltreatment of the Turkish population in Bulgaria are denied in a dispatch from Sofia, which declares that no insult of any kind had been offered to the Turkish legation or Consuls in Bulgaria.

Austria, says a Vennia dispatch, intends to take immediate action in case either Turkey or Servia should invade the sanjak of Novipazar.

The concentration of the Servian forces has been impeded by the scarcity of transport facilities.

Three main armies, aggregating 200,000 men, are being formed by that country. One of them is mobilising at Tsaribro on the Bulgarian frontier and is to co-operate with the Bulgarian troops. Another is gathering at Milanovatch and Nish in preparation to advance against Uskub while a third is mobilising at Kralievo, intending to penetrate the sanjak of Novipazar.

Seventy Servian villages in the sanjak of Novipazar are reported from Vienna to have risen against the Turks.

The Moslems are said to have taken swift reprisals and to have suppressed the revolt by executing all the ringleaders, including numerous priests.

TURKS REGAIN TOWN NEAR THE FRONTIER.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 12.—The relief of the town of Berna by Turkish reinforcements is reported by the military commander of Scutari today. He also says the Turks have reoccupied the heights around the town of Gusinyo, near the Montenegrin frontier to the northeast of Podgoritza.

Bulgarians blew up two bridges between Istip and Kotschana last night, according to a telegram from Kustup.

ARMIES CONTENDING FOR TOWN OF BARANA.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Desperate fighting for the possession of Barana between the Turkish and Montenegrin armies in the vicinity of Lake Tuscari is in progress.

The town has been repeatedly taken and retaken by both sides, says a dispatch from Cettinje today. Turkish troops repulsed the Montenegrins after another sharp engagement at Tushi.

The Montenegrin general, Lazovitch, has taken the place of Gen. Bozovitch, who committed suicide when the King reproved him on the field of battle for wasting ammunition.

Letters of a Slim-Made Woman to Her Fat Sister

Second Letter: On the Heritage of Overfatness.

Dear Sis: You've heard the adage "Like Father, Like Son." Well, I never before thought of it applying to overfatness until today. Clara Moore was here with her 10-year-old boy. He is enormous—weighs nearly 300 pounds. She came to ask how I reduced myself to my present slim trimness.

Of course, I told her about Marmola Prescription Tablets—How they contain exactly the same ingredients as the Marmola Prescription that took off my fat, and assured her they were perfectly harmless. Said she'd be willing to buy a ton of them if they did any good at all. The boy is a tremendous eater and is too lazy to take any exercise (all fat people are,) but you know I stopped starving and cavorting long before I started to take Marmola.

That's the beauty of this wonderful method—it isn't dependent upon any other treatment. And I know I'M doing that boy a favor.

In a few months, he'll be solid and smooth-skinned, with better figure and health than ever before and he need never again dread the extreme obesity that is now such a family trait.

If more parents knew that for 75c they could purchase a large box of Marmola Prescription Tablets from their druggist or the Marmola Co. (Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.), hereditary overfatness would be a thing of the past. Don't you think so?

Affectionately, BETTY.

TAFT IS GAINING.

that the tide toward the President has set in. They point to a drift to him in Pennsylvania. They say that in nearly every part of the country Republicans who, ten days ago, were threatening to vote for Wilson to "save the country from the Bull Moose," are now streaming back into the Taft camp, fully believing the President has a good chance of being elected.

Evidences of this were found notably in New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Oregon. In other sections the Herald and Los Angeles Times reporters found evidences of a growth in the drift from Taft to Wilson to defeat the Bull Moose candidate.

SURE OF WILSON.

Democrats are satisfied nothing can prevent the election of Wilson. The campaign managers declare they will carry nearly every State in the country.

It is too early to predict what story the millions of ballots will tell on November 5. Cross-currents are at work and there seems to be a feeling of unrest among voters in many communities, which may bring about a marked change between now and election. As the Herald-Los Angeles Times has before stated, it makes no prophecy based on straw ballots. It presents the figures for what they are worth. It is a notable fact, however, in the present campaign that the reports of special correspondents continue almost without exception to bear out, in a general way, the story told by the straw votes.

Up to the present the Herald and Los Angeles Times have taken 154,771 test votes. They have made every possible effort to have them bona fide. In every case canvassers have asked the recipients of the ballots to indicate their true attitude.

DIVISION OF VOTES.

Of the 154,771 votes cast Gov. Wilson has received 65,168, the Bull Moose nominee 46,356, President Taft 33,759 and Debs 9528.

Of a total of 39,861 votes taken in the great battleground of the Middle West the President received 8081, Wilson 15,683 and the Bull Moose 12,235. These votes were cast in the States of Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa. In Ohio the President has gained, but Wilson appears to be easily in the lead. The vote of the Republicans is apparently to be split about in twain. In Illinois the Bull Moose continues to be in the lead, but Wilson is pressing him hard. The President is making gains in Chicago, but apparently is far behind the other two nominees.

In Indiana Gov. Wilson appears certain to carry the State, barring unseen developments. In Michigan Wilson is gaining on the Bull Moose with the President running third. Wisconsin is leaning strongly toward New Jersey's Governor and Minnesota seems certain for him, with the President and the Bull Mooser running neck and neck for second place. Iowa promises to go for Wilson. Republicans there are afraid the President cannot be elected, and rather than risk the possibility of having the Bull Mooser in the White House are threatening to swing in great numbers to Wilson.

There seems little doubt the President has made progress in various sections of New York State and in parts of New England. In Rhode Island, Connecticut and sections of Massachusetts, where the Bull Moose sentiment had been very strong, many manufacturers and business men are declaring openly for the President on the theory they do not want the tariff interfered with. This is apparently having considerable effect upon employees of some institutions which would be injuriously affected by any disturbance of the tariff system.

NEW LIFE.

In some parts of the country the Republicans have injected a new life into their campaign. They are not pessimistic and listless as they were a short time ago. In New York State for instance, the leaders have started a real campaign for the President. They are roused to keenest activity by the nomination of a popular favorite, Job E. Hedges, for Governor and they are making a real campaign. Some of them believe they will win. Others say they see no possibility of victory in the Empire State. New Jersey remains friendly to her Governor. While the President has apparently gained ground there and is still gaining, the lead of Wilson is seemingly too great to be overcome. Pennsylvania Republicans feel reasonably confident of victory. That ballots and personal inquiries in the Keystone State indicate a close contest. Wilson leads at the present time with the President second. The straightening out of the tangle of the electors in Pennsylvania has given new hope to the Taft men and they are working desperately.

STATES FOR WILSON.

Of thirty States in which test ballots have been taken Wilson has twenty-three States to his credit. The Bull Mooser stood first in five, Illinois, Connecticut, Idaho, Washington and Michigan. The President led in two, Utah and Wyoming. The only change from last week is that the President gained Wyoming, having had but one State, Utah, in the last review.

In these thirty States the Bull Moose candidate runs second in seventeen, Gov. Wilson in seven and the President in six.

Kansas and some other Western States, so far as the inquiry shows, are "going mad" for Wilson. There has been nothing like the hurricane of Bull Moose sentiment which was predicted in some of the Western States but the candidate looms formidably in others.

In New England anything may happen. On paper the President seems to be favorite in Vermont, although it is generally conceded the Bull Moose has a fair chance for victory. In Maine it seems like a fight between Wilson and the Bull Moose. The President has not developed marked strength here. Rhode Island is uncertain, and Massachusetts, according to best straws obtainable, is leaning to Wilson, while the Bull Moose wave is receding, but with the President not yet certain of second.

The situation throughout the country is most interesting. The consensus of opinion seems to be that Gov. Wilson will be elected. Some politicians say they would not be greatly surprised to see the Bull Mooser finish first. Others declare that there is no possibility of his getting the necessary electoral votes to win.

The Democrats are so confident of victory that they are all but picking out jobs for one another. They declare that Gov. Wilson is growing steadily stronger and nothing short of a catastrophe of some kind could keep him out of the White House.

From now till the close of the important and spectacular campaign the Herald and Los Angeles Times will endeavor to keep their readers informed as to the changes in the situation. Tens of thousands of new straw votes are being taken from one end of the country to the other for tabulation and publication in the Sunday Herald. At the same time experienced and skilled political reporters are going from State to State getting in touch with sentiment. Special articles describing conditions will be supplied by them from week to week until election next Sunday the fourth installment of the reviews will appear. In November, two days before election, the final and elaborate forecast number will be issued indicating as nearly as it is possible to do, what the general result on the national and State election will be.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 26, THE LAST, FINAL $1750 DAY!

There'll Be No Hope for You If You Put Off Getting the Answer Book.

In a contest similar to the one now being conducted by The Times the first ten prize winners received the following scores:

	Correct.	Incorrect.	Total answers submitted.
2	71	6	692
3	70	7	698
4	68	9	684
5	67	10	677

8	65	12	644
9	65	12	652
10	66	13	599

This contest has just ended. It was conducted by a western newspaper, and, being in its basic principles similar to the Booklovers Contest now being conducted by The Times, it shows a great many things that contestants may ponder over.

The figures are taken from a copy of the newspaper itself, in which the winners are announced, so undoubtedly they are correct.

But to get back to The Times' contest. Be sure that you understand thoroughly that the last day to obtain Answer Books is two weeks from yesterday. After that day you will not be able to get any more pictures or catalogues either—nothing will be for sale after that day!

The following Sunday, October 27, starts the week during which contestants may send in their sets of answers. Be sure you have your set weighed, if you send it by mail, so that you will not make the mistake of putting insufficient postage on it.

All sets must be in The Times' office by midnight of Saturday, November 2.

The Answer Book, you know, permits you, while using only one copy of each picture, to do what the winners of that other contest, whose scores are given above, did: to send in many answers, and thus increase your chances of getting the correct answers. With an Answer Book you need only one copy of each picture, yet you can make as many as ten different answers to each picture!

With each Answer Book The Times presents you, free, with thirty-five test pictures, if you agree to take, or to continue to take if you are already a subscriber, The Times for three months.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Southern Pacific's activity in preparing for the construction of a coast line from Portland here, is indicated by the filing of deeds in Humboldt county which will rearrange the affairs of the Willamette Pacific Railroad Company into such shape as to permit of immediate work on the proposed new line. The deeds were filed by an official of the company who has just returned from Eureka.

Through the papers filed, the Southern Pacific conveys to the Willamette Pacific all its rights of way from Mad River north to the Klamath River, which is the Del Norte-Humboldt line. Similar deeds conveying rights of way in Del Norte county have also been filed.

The Willamette-Pacific, was organized a year or so ago by Southern Pacific agents in Portland for the purpose of getting a line from Eugene, Or., to Coos Bay, Or., Eugene being the junction of the present lines of the Southern Pacific. Two months ago amended articles were filed in Humboldt county, calling for the extension of the road from Coos Bay to Eureka, thus completing the chain from this city to Portland.

WORK STARTED.

The construction work on the line from Eugene to Coos Bay is already progressing, and when the line reaches Coos Bay and the Northwestern Pacific reaches Eureka, it is expected little time will be spared to close the gap. The new deeds give the Willamette company, which is controlled by E. O. McCormick, E. E. Calvin and other Southern Pacific heads, the necessary facilities with which to begin construction work at a moment's notice.

When the Eugene-Coos Bay line reaches Eureka and meets the Northwestern Pacific the value of such projected lines as the Fernley-Lassen branch may become more apparent than now. There is believed to be no question but that the Southern Pacific construction work in North and Northeastern California is prompted in part by a desire to head off the Hill interests, which are already working toward this city. That the northern part of the State will be the scene of an intense railroad rivalry within a short time is accepted as beyond question.

The Northwestern Pacific, which is owned jointly by the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe, is making rapid progress with its construction work. It is now carrying passengers to McCann's mills, sixty miles south of Eureka. The rails are laid ten miles south of McCann's mills and within six miles of Fort Seward. The Island Mountain Tunnel, requiring a bore of 4000 feet, is two-thirds completed and will probably be finished in March. The entire road is expected to be open in 1914. Altogether it is an unusually expensive road, but it is declared to be one of the best-constructed in the State.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The international conference of the Scottish Rite Supreme Councils of the World adjourned sine die this afternoon. The conference is said to have been satisfactory to the various delegates and the general impression is that many doubtful matters have either been adjusted or at least are on the road to adjustment later on.

One of the big features scheduled for the international conference was concluded with elaborate ceremonial at Albert Pike Consistory last evening, in conferring the Thirty-second Degree, that of Master of the Royal Secret, upon the international conference class of twenty-two candidates. The ceremonial was secret throughout.

An unusual feature was the delivery of an address by President Leslie Cleveland McNemar of the class who said, in part, as follows:

"We have been profoundly impressed with the beautiful lessons taught in each succeeding degree, assuming as they do the moral philosophy of every age and creed. At the close of each session the invariable comment among us has been: How beautiful; how instructive. Never quite comprehending, perhaps, the full import of its teaching, but ever ready to receive more light in Masonry. We have taken our vows reverently. We have assumed our obligations thoughtfully and we hope to keep them faithfully.

"To all those brethren who have worked so assiduously in the presentation of these degrees in order that we might receive a more thorough knowledge of their deep and profound significance, we extend the gratitude of a rescued brother. To those who have assisted us in any manner to become brethren among you, we have raised our voices in thanks. To Scottish Rite Masons everywhere we send greetings and pledge them a life of devotion to the fraternity."

If Tongue is Coated Give Syrup of Figs to Thoroughly Cleanse its Little Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Children dearly love to take delicious "Syrup of Figs" and nothing else cleans and regulates their tender little stomachs, liver and thirty feet of bowels so promptly and thoroughly.

Then they get sick, the tongue is coated, stomach sour, breath bad; they don't eat or rest well; they become feverish, cross, irritable and don't want to play. Listen mothers—for your child's sake don't force the little one to swallow nauseating castor oil, violent calomel or harsh irritants like Cathartic pills. A teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs will have your child smiling and happy have your child smiling and happy again in just a few hours. Syrup of Figs will gently clean, sweeten and regulate the stomach, make the liver active and move on and out of the bowels all the constipated matter, the sour bile, the foul, clogged-up waste and poisons, without causing cramps or griping.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging or injuring your children. Being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful. Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

STANTON GOES ON COMMITTEE.

Former Speaker Named by State Body.

Issue in California Is Up to the People.

Former Senator Castigates the Progressives.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Phillip A. Stanton, former Speaker of the California Assembly, is the selection of the Republican State Central Committee for appointment as National Committeeman for California. The State Committee, in session at the St. Francis here today, unanimously declared for Stanton and National Committeeman Samuel Perkins of Washington will recommend his appointment to the National Committee.

Committeeman Perkins came to California several days ago empowered to name the California committeeman to succeed Russ Avery of Los Angeles, who was ousted from the committee because he had affiliated with the Progressive party. Rather than make the selection himself, Perkins conferred with Gustave Brenner, chairman of the State Central Committee, and with S. Fred Hogue, the former Taft State chairman. While Brenner was given the chance to name the committeeman, he decided to put the matter up to the State Central Committee, which decided unanimously.

STANTON ACCEPTS.

The former Speaker, who is a member of the committee, was present at the meeting and in a brief speech declared he would accept the position and take his coat off to work for the Republican cause in California.

The State Central Committee decided to retain the headquarters in the St. Francis for the work of the campaign.

Chairman Brenner announced the appointment of A. Hochheimer of Willows and of N. A. Ulm of Santa Ana as committeemen at large. The other committeemen at large will be named within the next few days.

A resolution was adopted which sets forth political conditions in California, and gives answer to Lieut.-Gov. A. J. Wallace, who refused to call a special session of the Legislature to amend the primary law so Republicans could vote for the nominee of the Republican convention. It states further that Republicans have exhausted every means to get the Taft electors upon the ballot and have failed. The matter is now put squarely before the people.

THE RESOLUTION.

Following is the resolution:

"Whereas, the Republican State Central Committee of California notices with regret the refusal of the acting Governor to call an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the purpose of amending the primary law, which, as is well known, at present operates to disfranchise tens of thousands of men and women at the coming Presidential election; and, whereas, the reasons which Gov. Wallace gives for his refusal are, under the provisions of section 1 of article IV of the Constitution of this State as amended October 10, 1911, no act passed by any session of the Legislature can become operative until the expiration of ninety days of its adjournment, except acts calling elections, acts providing for tax levies or appropriations for the usual current expenses of the State, and urgency measures necessary for the important preservation of public peace, health or safety, etc.; and, whereas, we beg respectfully to call to the attention of the people of California that the primary law is an act, and that, therefore, that, even though he call an extra session, the Republicans of this State could obtain no relief, and

Whereas, we beg to respectfully call to the attention of California that the primary law is an act relative to elections and to the calling of elections, and furthermore, we state the fact is, that the amendment that we seek to the primary law of this State on behalf of many thousands of Republican citizens is an urgency measure necessary to the important preservation of the public peace. In 1911 Gov. Johnson convened the Legislature of this State in extraordinary session, on Monday, November 27, and one of the reasons of his calling that session was to pass an act legalizing the registration of voters, which referred exclusively to the city of Los Angeles. It appears that in that case many citizens had been illegally or irregularly registered, and many persons had been illegally or irregularly appointed to act as deputies or to take affidavits of persons registering, etc., and the act itself, as passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor, recites as follows: "That there was an existing feeling of unrest and apprehension regarding such registration and such election; that unless the right of such persons to vote at such election is legally established prior to the holding thereof, public disorder and breaches of the public peace at such election are liable to ensue, and the public safety and the orderly conduct of such election are liable to be endangered." This act was approved December 4, and the election in Los Angeles was held on December 6, and

Whereas, if such conditions were likely to endanger the public peace, how much more is the danger to the public peace under the present protection of the present primary law of this State, when it is absolutely impossible for the Republican men and women of California, who desire to vote for William Howard Taft for President of the United States to so do.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we respectfully submit that the reasons stated by the acting Governor for his refusal to call the extra session are not well founded either in law or in fact and his excuses are entirely unsatisfactory to the people of this State who by his act and by the operation of the present law are disfranchised; and

"Be it further resolved, that we, the Republican State Central Committee of California, having exhausted every measure within our power to preserve the right of independent franchise without success, do now submit the whole subject matter to the consideration of all fair-minded citizens, without regard to party."

BRENNER'S STATEMENT.

"It is not for this committee to indorse or advise Republicans to support anyone other than the Republican nominees," said Chairman Brenner today. "As individuals they may do as they please.

"This committee is going to be the strongest organization of its kind ever gotten together in California. Every member is going to be a fighter and this body of men will be together long after the next election."

Former United States Senator C. N. Felton said: "The Republican party has always stood for progress and prosperity. During the dark times of our country, it was the Republicans who straightened out affairs. The history of the United States is the history of the Republican party.

"'Whom the gods destroy they first make mad.' The Republicans have made Roosevelt and Johnson mad, and their destruction politically will come November 5."

The following committeemen were in attendance: E. C. Chapman, Corte Madera; P. T. Clay, San Francisco; H. M. Wisler, Los Angeles; Oscar Greenbaum, San Francisco; Joseph Rock, San Francisco; Gustave Brenner, San Francisco; Robert Sweeney, Los Angeles; N. A. Ulm, Santa Ana; Edward I. Wolfe, San Francisco; Thomas Flint, San Benito county; Alexander Russell, San Francisco; A. J. Martin, San Francisco; W. F. Mixon, Woodland; Robert Beardslee, Stockton, M. C. Chapman, Oakland.

The following were also present: S. Fred Hogue, San Francisco; Philip A. Stanton, Los Angeles; Russ Campbell, Santa Rosa; former Senator J. J. Luchsinger, Vallejo; Thomas Hender, San Francisco; Assemblyman Milton Schmitt, San Francisco; former United States Senator C. N. Felton.

OLD GLORY ON PARADE.

All Lawrence Engages in a Demonstration Against The I.W.W.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAWRENCE (Mass.) Oct. 12.—Thirty thousand American flags were carried through three miles of muddy streets today by 30,000 men, women and children in a demonstration against the Industrial Workers of the World. Hardly a building in the city was without decorations. Lining the streets through which the parade passed, the spectators stood ten deep and almost without exception everyone waved the stars and stripes.

VOLIVA ARRIVES.

Will Deliver an Address in San Francisco and Then Come to Los Angeles.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "I am this kind of a man—I never bother about immediate results when I am sowing seed. I do not know how many people are with us, because a church membership roll can be made to deceive oneself. It is all in the spirit, and not in numbers. I know that our organization is growing in power and influence. That is enough."

So said Wilbur Glenn Voliva, successor of John Alexander Dowie. His title is general overseer of the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church of Zion. He is here to speak in Dreamland Rink tomorrow afternoon.

"Our policy at Zion City is to do things," he explained in his most pleasant accents. "We have no use for idlers. My idea throughout the entire time that I have been general overseer is to carry out the lines laid down by Mr. Dowie.

"We have had an eventful and a successful trip. We have had meetings at St. Paul, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Seattle and Portland. From here we go to Los Angeles, San Antonio, New Orleans, St. Louis and thence to Chicago, arriving at Zion on November 2.

Cross Vs. Crescent.

TO OUST THE MOSLEMS FROM EUROPE FOREVER.

BY EMIL ANDRASSEY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

VIENNA, Oct. 12.—Definite relations of the secret Austro-Balkan negotiations unveil a sensational scheme by which Austria-Hungary hopes to seize the balance of power in Southeastern Europe, and Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria to shake the mailed fist of an empire of vast dimensions in the face of the Hohenzollern autocracy of Berlin and his traditional enemy, Czar Nicholas of Russia. The mysterious visit of Ferdinand to Franz Josef, the aged Emperor's guarded statements to Parliament of the Ambassadors, the significant threat of Count Bechtold, Austria's Foreign Minister, and admittedly the Metternivm and Talleyrand of today are all now explained to the amazement and consternation of the foreign legations here.

Austria-Hungary and the Balkan States are in absolute alliance, offensive and defensive. The octogenarian regent of the unhappy Hapsburgs will at the right moment proclaim himself at the head of the new crusade against the Turk.

The seizure of Vienna by the Moslem hordes in the Zenith of their reign in Europe is to be avenged by driving the Turk from Europe and restoring the cross in the imperial city of Constantine.

The following are said to be the main provisions of the Austro-Balkan agreements:

Austria to use her influence with the concert of Europe to assure noninterference with the advance of her allies, Bulgaria, Servia and Montenegro, against the Turks, to throw her army into the field in the event of Turkish success and if the powers threaten the Balkan alliance, to support the latter on land and sea.

Bulgaria, Servia and Montenegro to enter an Austro-Balkan confederation, electors of each confederated nation to elect a successor to the Emperor Franz Josef. Rumania and Greece to be invited to join this confederation. Greece to be offered a share in the partition of Turkey in Europe.

The reigning houses in the confederation to preserve their regal rank, but the finances of each state to be regulated by an imperial commission to be headed by the Austrian chancellor.

No secret is made of the fact that Franz Josef's successor has already been decided upon. The ambitious Ferdinand of Bulgaria is to mount the throne of Rudolph of Hapsburg, to which he has long aspired.

Thus Count Bechtold, with one bold stroke, hopes to realize his dream of a greater Austria and remove the heir apparent, Archduke Franz Ferdinand, against whom he has intrigued consistently, instigated to a great extent by his wife, who hates the lovely Countess Chetek and has repeatedly insulted her whenever she has shown herself at the Imperial Palace.

The Archduke Franz Ferdinand is said to have sacrificed himself willingly. He prefers his home with his wife and children to the worries and intrigues of court. His children are debarred by law and his own consent from the imperial inheritance, so there was little to induce him to threaten the aspiring Bulgarian Czar.

TWENTY-THREE ESCAPE FROM PENITENTIARIES.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Oct. 12.—[Special Dispatch.] Four of the most desperate convicts in the Ohio Penitentiary made a daring escape from the big prison today by sawing through the bars of a sewer manhole behind the prison hospital, dropping into the underground tunnel and working their way to the sewer's outlet on the banks of the Sciote River.

The escape was so cleverly executed that for hours after the men were missed prison officials did not know the method of their escape.

Hammers and chisels were found at the prison entrance of the sewer and two abandoned suits of prison gray in the sewer outlet on the river bank.

The missing prisoners are James Neal, serving three years for burglary; Clyde Stratton, serving four years for burglary; George Washington, serving twenty-five years for burglary, and William Barnegraff, serving life for murder. The first three are third-termers. Stratton escaped over the wall last year and was recaptured in Chicago several months later.

NINETEEN ESCAPE.

EXODUS FROM RAWLINGS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RAWLINGS (Wyo.) Oct. 12.—Nineteen prisoners broke out of the State Penitentiary this afternoon. Five have been recaptured. The remainder are in the hills pursued by a posse headed by Warden Alston. It is reported that the posse has several of the escaped convicts located in a canyon north of the city and a clash is believed to be imminent. No casualties have been reported.

Tunnel Meeting.

BUSINESS MEN ENDORSE SECOND-STREET BORE.

AT A MEETING of business men held in one of the rooms of the Merchants' Bank and Trust Company last night resolutions indorsing the Second-street tunnel project were adopted. Several merchants declared that it was immaterial to them whether the bore through Bunker Hill was at First or Scond street, but that something must be promptly done to bring the residents of the northwest section to the stores on South Broadway between First and Second streets. The resolutions will be presented to the City Council Tuesday and haste urged in adopting plans for a one-bore tunnel. It was stated that this could be constructed for less than $300,000 without possible law suits.

The meeting presented many diversified interests. Several residents on the hill declared that Los Angeles could grade the hill to better advantage than to construct two or three tunnels in the next few years. Others greatly favored First street to Second, but they were in the minority at this particular meeting.

F. M. Coulter, who presided, explained that many merchants like himself felt that some action must be taken within a short time and he hinted that if some relief were not afforded that a number of large concerns would move farther south.

Personally he said he felt sentimental drawings to the northwest section and knew that there is a large population there that is seeking quick passage to the stores on Broadway from First street, south. He said that he had been working for years to get something done and while he favored a First-street tunnel he was informed that the other project stood a better chance with the City Council.

Dr. Lamb and Lawrence Holmes spoke in favor of cutting the entire hill down and the latter quoted from experiences in Seattle, where thirty-five or forty hills were leveled to street grades.

T. Wiesendanger, a large property-owner, spoke on behalf of the First-street project and enumerated its advantages.

C. Wesley Roberts gave his experience in selling property in the section adjacent to Second and Broadway and advocated the Second-street tunnel as the most feasible at the present time. F. W. Braun, Miles Gregory and a number of merchants gave their views.

After considerable discussion, a committee drew up a resolution which placed those present on record as favoring the Second-street tunnel. Virtually all present said they hoped the First-street tunnel could be secured later.

WAR PANIC IN BERLIN.

not enter such an alliance, but will, on the contrary, support Turkey with the aid and approval of Russia."

The belief is growing in Downing street that a European war is inevitable, involving three, if not all the great powers.

The sudden change of orders by the admiralty, strengthening the British fleet in the Mediterranean, is deemed significant of the extreme gravity of the situation.

NO PEACE TALK BY THE POWERS.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—From all the capitals today came news of increasing tension and continued preparation for war, and this has spread now to Vienna and Budapest. Reassuring statements have been issued from several quarters, but undoubtedly with the object of stemming the panic of selling on the bourses.

The text of the note handed by the representatives of the powers to the Turkish government proves to be more feeble even than was anticipated, and as it contains no suggestion that the powers will undertake to guarantee the carrying out of reforms in Macedonia, it is not likely to have any effect in allaying public feeling in the Balkans, which is all for war.

The reply of the Balkan states like that of the Turkish government, has not yet been delivered.

REVOLT ON FRONTIER.

In Turkey war is accepted as a certainty. The organization of small bands of Bulgarian and Servian irregulars to operate in certain districts of European Turkey is described in a special dispatch from Salonika. Their work will be chiefly that of inciting the village populations in the frontier districts to revolt and in case of their refusal to do so, the bands are said to have been ordered to burn the houses and massacre the inhabitants.

The reports of maltreatment of the Turkish population in Bulgaria are denied in a dispatch from Sofia, which declares that no insult of any kind had been offered to the Turkish legation or Consuls in Bulgaria.

Austria, says a Vennia dispatch, intends to take immediate action in case either Turkey or Servia should invade the sanjak of Novipazar.

The concentration of the Servian forces has been impeded by the scarcity of transport facilities.

Three main armies, aggregating 200,000 men, are being formed by that country. One of them is mobilizing at Tsaribro on the Bulgarian frontier and is to co-operate with the Bulgarian troops. Another is gathering at Milanovatch and Nish in preparation to advance against Uskub while a third is mobilizing at Kralievo, intending to penetrate the sanjak of Novipazar.

Seventy Servian villages in the sanjak of Novipazar are reported from Vienna to have risen against the Turks.

The Moslems are said to have taken swift reprisals and to have suppressed the revolt by executing all the ringleaders, including numerous priests.

TURKS REGAIN TOWN NEAR THE FRONTIER.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 12.—The relief of the town of Berna by Turkish reinforcements is reported by the military commander of Scutari today. He also says the Turks have reoccupied the heights around the town of Gusinyo, near the Montenegrin frontier to the northeast of Podgoritza.

Bulgarians blew up two bridges between Istip and Kotschana last night, according to a telegram from Kustup.

ARMIES CONTENDING FOR TOWN OF BARANA.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Desperate fighting for the possession of Barana between the Turkish and Montenegrin armies in the vicinity of Lake Tuscari is in progress.

The town has been repeatedly taken and retaken by both sides, says a dispatch from Cettinje today. Turkish troops repulsed the Montenegrins after another sharp engagement at Tushi.

The Montenegrin general, Lazovitch, has taken the place of Gen. Bozovitch, who committed suicide when the King reproved him on the field of battle for wasting ammunition.

Letters of a Slim-Made Woman to Her Fat Sister

Second Letter: On the Heritage of Over-fatness.

Dear Sis: You've heard the adage "Like Father, Like Son." Well, I never before thought of it applying to overfatness until today. Clara Moore was here with her 10-year-old boy. He is enormous—weighs nearly 200 pounds. She came to ask how I reduced myself to my present slim trimness.

Of course, I told her about Marmola Prescription Tablets—How they contain exactly the same ingredients as the Marmola Prescription that took off my fat, and assured her they were perfectly harmless. Said she'd be willing to buy a ton of them if they did any good at all. The boy is a tremendous eater and is too lazy to take any exercise (all fat people are,) but you know I stopped starving and cavorting long before I started to take Marmola.

That's the beauty of this wonderful method—it isn't dependent upon any other treatment. And I know I'M doing that boy a favor.

In a few months, he'll be solid and smooth-skinned, with better figure and health than ever before and he need never again dread the extreme obesity that is now such a family trait.

If more parents knew that for 75c they could purchase a large box of Marmola Prescription Tablets from their druggist or the Marmola Co. (Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.), hereditary overfatness would be a thing of the past. Don't you think so?

Affectionately, BETTY.

TAFT IS GAINING.

that the tide toward the President has set in. They point to a drift to him in Pennsylvania. They say that in nearly every part of the country Republicans who, ten days ago, were threatening to vote for Wilson to "save the country from the Bull Moose," are now streaming back into the Taft camp, fully believing the President has a good chance of being elected.

Evidences of this were found notably in New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Oregon. In other sections the Herald and Los Angeles Times reporters found evidences of a growth in the drift from Taft to Wilson to defeat the Bull Moose candidate.

SURE OF WILSON.

Democrats are satisfied nothing can prevent the election of Wilson. The campaign managers declare they will carry nearly every State in the country.

It is too early to predict what story the millions of ballots will tell on November 5. Cross-currents are at work and there seems to be a feeling of unrest among voters in many communities, which may bring about a marked change between now and election. As the Herald-Los Angeles Times has before stated, it makes no prophecy based on straw ballots. It presents the figures for what they are worth. It is a notable fact, however, in the present campaign that the reports of special correspondents continue almost without exception to bear out, in a general way, the story told by the straw votes.

Up to the present the Herald and Los Angeles Times have taken 154,771 test votes. They have made every possible effort to have them bona fide. In every case canvassers have asked the recipients of the ballots to indicate their true attitude.

DIVISION OF VOTES.

Of the 154,771 votes cast Gov. Wilson has received 65,168, the Bull Moose nominee 46,256, President Taft 33,759 and Debs 9528.

Of a total of 39,861 votes taken in the great battleground of the Middle West the President received 8081, Wilson 15,683 and the Bull Moose 12,235. These votes were cast in the States of Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa. In Ohio the President has gained, but Wilson appears to be easily in the lead. The vote of the Republicans is apparently to be split about in twain. In Illinois the Bull Moose continues to be in the lead, but Wilson is pressing him hard. The President is making gains in Chicago, but apparently is far behind the other two nominees.

In Indiana Gov. Wilson appears certain to carry the State, barring unseen developments. In Michigan Wilson is gaining on the Bull Moose, with the President running third. Wisconsin is leaning strongly toward New Jersey's Governor and Minnesota seems certain for him, with the President and the Bull Mooser running neck and neck for second place. Iowa promises to go for Wilson. Republicans there are afraid the President cannot be elected, and rather than risk the possibility of having the Bull Mooser in the White House are threatening to swing in great numbers to Wilson.

There seems little doubt the President has made progress in various sections of New York State and in parts of New England. In Rhode Island, Connecticut and sections of Massachusetts, where the Bull Moose sentiment had been very strong, many manufacturers and business men are declaring openly for the President on the theory they do not want the tariff interfered with. This is apparently having considerable effect upon employees of some institutions which would be injuriously affected by any disturbance of the tariff system.

NEW LIFE.

In some parts of the country the Republicans have injected a new life into their campaign. They are not pessimistic and listless as they were a short time ago. In New York State for instance, the leaders have started a real campaign for the President. They are roused to keenest activity by the nomination of a popular favorite, Job E. Hedges, for Governor and they are making a real campaign. Some of them believe they will win. Others say they see no possibility of victory in the Empire State. New Jersey remains friendly to her Governor. While the President has apparently gained ground there and is still gaining, the lead of Wilson is seemingly too great to be overcome. Pennsylvania Republicans feel reasonably confident of victory. That ballots and personal inquiries in the Keystone State indicate a close contest. Wilson leads at the present time with the President second. The straightening out of the tangle of the electors in Pennsylvania has given new hope to the Taft men and they are working desperately.

STATES FOR WILSON.

Of thirty States in which test ballots have been taken Wilson has twenty-three States to his credit. The Bull Mooser stood first in five, Illinois, Connecticut, Idaho, Washington and Michigan. The President led in two, Utah and Wyoming. The only change from last week is that the President gained Wyoming, having had but one State, Utah, in the last review.

In these thirty States the Bull Moose candidate runs second in seventeen, Gov. Wilson in seven and the President in six.

Kansas and some other Western States, so far as the inquiry shows, are "going mad" for Wilson. There has been nothing like the hurricane of Bull Moose sentiment which was predicted in some of the Western States but the candidate looms formidably in others.

In New England anything may happen. On paper the President seems to be favorite in Vermont, although it is generally conceded the Bull Moose has a fair chance for victory. In Maine it seems like a fight between Wilson and the Bull Moose. The President has not developed marked strength here. Rhode Island is uncertain, and Massachusetts, according to best straws obtainable, is leaning to Wilson, while the Bull Moose wave is receding, but with the President not yet certain of second.

The situation throughout the country is most interesting. The consensus of opinion seems to be that Gov. Wilson will be elected. Some politicians say they would not be greatly surprised to see the Bull Mooser finish first. Others declare that there is no possibility of his getting the necessary electoral votes to win.

The Democrats are so confident of victory that they are all but picking out jobs for one another. They declare that Gov. Wilson is growing steadily stronger and nothing short of a catastrophe of some kind could keep him out of the White House.

From now till the close of the important and spectacular campaign the Herald and Los Angeles Times will endeavor to keep their readers informed as to the changes in the situation. Tens of thousands of new straw votes are being taken from one end of the country to the other for tabulation and publication in the Sunday Herald. At the same time experienced and skilled political reporters are going from State to State getting in touch with sentiment. Special articles describing conditions will be supplied by them from week to week until election next Sunday the fourth installment of the reviews will appear. In November, two days before election, the final and elaborate forecast number will be issued indicating as nearly as it is possible to do, what the general result on the national and State election will be.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 26, THE LAST, FINAL $1750 DAY!

There'll Be No Hope for You If You Put Off Getting the Answer Book.

In a contest similar to the one now being conducted by The Times the first ten prize winners received the following scores:

	Correct.	Incorrect.	Total answers submitted.
1	72	5	701
2	71	6	692
3	70	7	698
4	68	9	684
5	67	10	677
6	66	11	662
7	65	12	630
8	65	12	644
9	65	12	652
10	66	13	599

This contest has just ended. It was conducted by a western newspaper, and, being in its basic principles similar to the Booklovers Contest now being conducted by The Times, it shows a great many things that contestants may ponder over.

The figures are taken from a copy of the newspaper itself, in which the winners are announced, so undoubtedly they are correct.

But to get back to The Times' contest. Be sure that you understand thoroughly that the last day to obtain Answer Books is two weeks from yesterday. After that day you will not be able to get any more pictures or catalogues either—nothing will be for sale after that day!

The following Sunday, October 27, starts the week during which contestants may send in their sets of answers. Be sure you have yours weighed, if you send it by mail, so that you will not make the mistake of putting insufficient postage on it.

All sets must be in The Times office by midnight of Saturday, November 2.

The Answer Book, you know, permits you, while using only one copy of each picture, to do what the winners of that other contest, whose scores are given above, did: to send in many answers, and thus increase your chances of getting the correct answers. With an Answer Book you need only one copy of each picture, yet you can make as many as ten different answers to each picture!

With each Answer Book The Times presents you, free, with thirty-five contest pictures, if you agree to take, or to continue to take if you are already a subscriber, The Times for three months.

Talks on Teeth

New Teeth for Old People

We put new teeth in old mouths every day in the week.

Good, strong, serviceable alveolar teeth without plates, that enable the old people to chew food and keep the stomach in good shape.

Why should any man or woman spend the best years of their lives, the twilight years, with a disfiguring partial plate or bridge, that is [illegible] when, with no trouble or pain, they can get a perfect set of teeth that will be as solid as a rock in the mouth.

Many don't believe we can do anything for them, and the others are afraid they will have to undergo an operation to have the new teeth put in.

As a matter of fact, there is no pain or discomfort of any sort whatever in connection with

OUR REX METHOD OF ALVEOLAR TEETH, AS PERFECTED BY DR. RANKINE

In Restoring Missing Teeth

Indeed, it is so simple a plan that it is a wonder it was not discovered before we invented it. No cutting, no boring into the gums, nothing about the work that is to be dreaded, and when the new teeth are in place, what a source of satisfaction the wearer experiences at meal time. [illegible]

We don't say, "Now, be careful what you eat," but, "Use these teeth just as you would if they grew in your jaw." There is one condition that we must have, and that is, that two or more teeth are left in either jaw.

Will you let us look your mouth over? You won't obligate yourself to spend a penny just because you grant this favor.

PLATES

There are a large number of people who through force of circumstances are compelled to wear plates. We have a department to take care of all people who require that class of work. We have one of the most expert [illegible] plate work on this Coast [illegible] that department, which [illegible] our patients better fitting [illegible] ing and more serviceable plates than have ever been able to procure elsewhere.

If you live too far away from our office to come in person, send for our book, "ALVEOLAR DENTISTRY," and read it thoroughly. You will then have a clear idea of what this method is. We do not perform any surgical operation, nor do we bore or cut into the gums. It is practically painless. Your teeth are of sufficient importance to cause you to attend to them without any further delay. Why not act on our advice and either call or write to us at once?

WORK IS BEGUN ON COAST ROAD

Portland-San Francisco Line Under Way.

Willamette Pacific Is the Holding Company.

Merry Fight Expected With Hill Interests.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Southern Pacific's activity in preparing for the construction of a coast line from Portland here, is indicated by the filing of deeds in Humboldt county which will rearrange the affairs of the Willamette Pacific Railroad Company into such shape as to permit of immediate work on the proposed new line. The deeds were filed by an official of the company who has just returned from Eureka.

Through the papers filed, the Southern Pacific conveys to the Willamette Pacific all its rights of way from Mad River north to the Klamath River, which is the Del Norte-Humboldt line. Similar deeds conveying rights of way in Del Norte county have also been filed.

The Willamette Pacific was organized a year or so ago by Southern Pacific agents in Portland for the purpose of getting a line from Eugene, Or., to Coos Bay, Or., Eugene being the junction of the present lines of the Southern Pacific. Two months ago amended articles were filed in Humboldt county, calling for the extension of the road from Coos Bay to Eureka, thus completing the chain from this city to Portland.

WORK STARTED.

The construction work on the line from Eugene to Coos Bay is already progressing, and when the line reaches Coos Bay and the Northwestern Pacific reaches Eureka, it is expected little time will be spared to close the gap. The new deeds give the Willamette company, which is controlled by E. O. McCormick, E. E. Calvin and other Southern Pacific heads, the necessary facilities with which to begin construction work at a moment's notice.

When the Eugene-Coos Bay line reaches Eureka and meets the Northwestern Pacific the value of such projected lines as the Fernley-Lassen branch may become more apparent than now. There is believed to be no question but that the Southern Pacific construction work in North and Northeastern California is prompted in part by a desire to head off the Hill interests, which are already working toward this city. That the northern part of the State will be the scene of an intense railroad rivalry within a short time is accepted beyond question.

The Northwestern Pacific, which is owned jointly by the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe, is making rapid progress with its construction work. It is now carrying passengers to McCann's mills, sixty miles south of Eureka. The rails are laid ten miles south of McCann's mills and within six miles of Fort Seward. The Island Mountain Tunnel, requiring a bore of 4000 feet, is two-thirds completed and will probably be finished in March. The entire road is expected to be open in 1914. Altogether it is an unusually expensive road, but it is declared to be one of the best-constructed in the State.

The conference is said to have been satisfactory to the various delegates and the general impression is that many doubtful matters have either been adjusted or at least are on the road to adjustment later on.

One of the big features scheduled for the international conference was concluded with elaborate ceremonial at Albert Pike Consistory last evening, conferring the Thirty-second Degree, that of Master of the Royal Secret, upon the international conference class of twenty-two candidates. The ceremonial was secret throughout.

An unusual feature was the delivery of an address by President Leslie Cleveland McNemar of the class who said, in part, as follows:

"We have been profoundly impressed with the beautiful lessons taught in each succeeding degree, associating as they do the moral philosophy of every age and creed. At the close of each session the invariable comment among us has been: 'How beautiful; how instructive.' Never quite comprehending, perhaps, the full import of its teaching, but ever ready to receive more light in Masonry, we have taken our vows reverently. We have assumed our obligations thoughtfully and we hope to discharge them faithfully.

"To all those brethren who have labored so assiduously in the presentation of these degrees in order that we might receive a more thorough knowledge of their deep and profound significance, we extend the gratitude of a rescued brother. To all who have assisted us in any manner to become brethren among you, we have raised our voices in thanks. To Scottish Rite Masons everywhere we send greetings and pledge them a life of devotion to the fraternity."

A CHILD'S WASTE CLOGGED BOWELS

MAKES IT CROSS, PEEVISH, RESTLESS AND FEVERISH.

If Tongue Is Coated Give Syrup of Figs to Thoroughly Cleanse Its Little Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Children dearly love to take delicious "Syrup of Figs" and nothing else cleans and regulates their tender little stomachs, liver and thirty feet of bowels so promptly and thoroughly.

Children get bilious and constipated just like grown-ups. Then they get sick, the tongue is coated, stomach sour, breath bad; they don't eat or rest well; they become feverish, cross, irritable and don't want to play. Listen mothers—for your child's sake don't force the little one to swallow nauseating castor oil, violent calomel or harsh irritants like Cathartic pills. A teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs will have your child smiling and happy have your child smiling and happy again in just a few hours. Syrup of Figs will gently clean, sweeten and regulate the stomach, make the liver active and move on and out of the bowels all the constipated matter, the sour bile, the foul, clogged-up waste and poisons, without causing cramps or griping.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging or injuring your children. Being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful. Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name "Syrup of Figs and Exlixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Company. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.—[Adv.

Fleet.

BLUEJACKETS IN FIFTH AVENUE.

SIX THOUSAND OF THEM IN A PARADE.

With Heads Erect and Faces to the Right They File by the Reviewing Stand in Salute of Their Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Osterhaus—How They Landed.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 12.—[Special Dispatch.] Six thousand jackies of the Atlantic fleet, with sprightly step and gleaming eyes, marched down Fifth avenue today in the biggest and grandest procession in the annals of the navy.

Heads erect and faces to the right, they marched past the reviewing stand at Forty-second street in salute to their commander-in-chief, Rear-Admiral Hugo Osterhaus.

The sailors had every reason to be proud as they marched forward, because they had just accomplished one of the most remarkable disembarkation orders ever issued. Six thousand men from twenty-one battleships comprising four divisions of the fleet had disembarked at one strategic point within sixty minutes, or the wonderful record-breaking average of 100 men per minute.

Four navy tugs—Ontario, Somona, Palapsco and Patuxent—three river steamers—Rosedale, Sylvester and Isabel—and the large barges and launches from each of the twenty-one battleships were used in transporting the sailors from the ships to the landing place.

As soon as each ship came alongside the jackies sprang ashore with yells of delight the moment the ship was tied to the pier and less than five minutes was occupied in tying up, disembarking and clearing again. Great crowds lined the streets and cheered the seamen vigorously. Thousands visited the ships today, especially the Utah, Wyoming and Arkansas.

GOOD HIGHWAY DAY.

Nearly $1200 was collected by the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Association Committee yesterday. The total so far is $24,055. The subscriptions of yesterday were as follows: A. K. Brauer, $25; Brownstein, Louis & Co., $80; Hotel Maryland, $25; Luitweiler Pumping Engine Company, $25; W. B. Glidden, $25, and Wholesale Metal Dealers' Club, $1000. The latter amount is one of the largest subscriptions received.

INEPXERIENCED HAND SENDS TWO TO DOOM.

Woman Driving New Electric Roadster Loses Control of Car on Hill Near Los Angeles Country Club, Machine Overturns and Two Are Pinned Under the Wreckage—Man Is Thrown Clear.

A WOMAN'S inexperienced hand at the steering wheel sent two women to their death yesterday afternoon and seriously injured a man within sight of a score of golfers on the grounds of the Los Angeles Country Club, when an electric roadster, driven by Miss Ida A. Stevens, a wealthy resident of Santa Monica, was overturned on the Wilshire road.

Miss Stevens, who was learning to drive the machine, was almost instantly killed, and Miss Mary Pratt, also a resident of Santa Monica, was so severely injured that she died within two hours. Miss Pratt died in the big clubhouse of the Los Angeles County Club, attended by three physicians who happened to be there. R. B. MacIntosh, a demonstrator for a local automobile agency, was the man who was injured in the wreck. He was taken to his home in Glendale by a passing automobile party and last night physicians declared that his injuries are so serious he may die.

Apparently Miss Stevens became frightened when her car ran down the hill from the country club entrance on the boulevard. From the position of the wrecked machine it was evident that the roadster had been going along at the rate of twenty-five miles or more and that it had skidded slightly toward the south side of the road. When Miss Stevens felt the machine skidding she evidently tried to turn sharply back into the main roadway. The front wheels of the machine were cramped under the hood and the car was going at a sufficiently high rate of speed to cause it to turn completely over.

UNDER THE WRECK.

MacIntosh was thrown clear of the machine but Miss Stevens and Miss Pratt were caught beneath the wrecked car. The electric roadster was built after the type common to gasoline cars, with a hood and a steering wheel, and Miss Stevens was pinned beneath the wheel, while Miss Pratt was crushed by the body of the electric.

L. T. Bradford of the Bradford Baking Company, accompanied by Joseph Ball, a friend, was playing a round of golf when they saw the electric overturn. Bradford ran for his machine, which was standing a short distance away, and in a few seconds he was racing to the aid of the women. Other golfers hurried to the scene of the wreck and the men who got there first, after a hard struggle, managed to right the machine and relieve the unconscious women of its crushing weight.

It was evident that both women were fatally hurt. The women were lifted into automobiles and a fast run was made to the country club, a quarter of a mile away. Miss Stevens died in the automobile before the clubhouse was reached, but Miss Pratt, her skull fractured and suffering from internal injuries, lingered for two hours before she died.

Dr. Dudley Fulton, Dr. Ray Smith and Dr. Guy Cochran were at the clubhouse and worked over and Pratt until she died. The fracture of the skull she had suffered was sufficient to cause death. Miss Stevens had been terribly crushed by the heavy car.

When the first news of the accident was flashed to the Central Police Station, all of the police automobiles were away on trips and it was some time before officers could be sent to the scene of the accident. The County Hospital ambulance was sent to the Country Club and a machine was also dispatched from the University Police Station. It was nearly an hour after the accident before they reached the scene.

INEXPERIENCE EVIDENT.

"I noticed the women drive past the Country Club grounds a few minutes before they overturned," said Bradford. "When they drove by I noticed that the machine was a new one and that the woman who was sitting at the steering wheel was not accustomed to driving. She had her hands too far up on the steering wheel and I believe it was this fact that caused the accident as much as anything else. Running east from the club grounds is a fairly long hill with a slight grade and the electric evidently ran down this hill at a fast rate of speed. It must have been going nearly thirty miles an hour to have overturned as it did."

It was some time after the accident before it was known who the two women were. Miss Stevens's name was finally found on a set of plans for a new home that she recently built in Santa Monica. The name on the plans was spelled Stephens but this is not the correct spelling of her name, according to friends. On the door panels of the machine, were the initials of its owner, "I.A.S." With this to work on the police soon found out who the victims of the accident were.

A complete identification of both bodies was made by Charles A. Pegner of the real estate firm of Miles & Pegner. Pegner was driving along the Wilshire road and saw the wrecked machine. He recognized it as a machine he had seen driven about Santa Monica during the afternoon and when he learned that two women had been killed in the wreck, he viewed the bodies and gave the police the names of the dead women.

Miss Stevens was about 40 years old and Miss Pratt, who lived with Miss Stevens, was nearly 50. Both were wealthy and both came to Santa Monica from the East. Miss Stevens lived in Zanesville, O., until a year ago when she removed to California. Telegrams were sent to her relatives last night notifying them of her death. The bodies were taken to the Pierce morgue.

FOR IMPROVEMENT.

At a meeting of residents of the district bounded by Sixty-third street and Florence, Moneta and Vermont avenues, Sixty-sixth and Figueroa streets Friday night, the Sixty-eighth-street School District Improvement Association was formed. The primary object will be to look after the storm-drain arrangements of the southern part of the city, also to confer in the near future with the Board of Public Works and the Hawthorne Water Company with the object of improving the water service. J. R. Tyson is president and E. H. Enright secretary and treasurer.

FRITCH NOT GUILTY.

Good Eaters Are Good Fighters

Whether at Work or Play, Endurance Comes from Good Digestion, Always Assured by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Men and women must have quick wit and good grit to stand the day's battles. A dyspeptic may get away with his work, but is always at swords' points with those around him. A good stomach and a good meal well digested puts us in a good, jolly fighting mood, the sort that mows down work and commands the hearty cooperation of our associates. The man at the head of a business who has a good stomach has behind him a good fighting force against competition and the daily mixups that are bound to take place. In fact, a well organized business is like our digestive system.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as soon as taken into the system go right to work as assistants to the stomach, rendering it an immense amount of help in working out the very complex processes of digestion, encouraging it in the performance of its functions, relieving it of a portion of its duties, thereby allowing it a temporary respite, and also toning up, strengthening, revitalizing its secretory glands, mucous membranes, absorbing glands and muscular walls in such a way that the stomach soon recovers its lost powers of digestion, motility, assimilation and ultimately does its work as well as ever without outside assistance.

These powerful little tablets contain in a concentrated form, every element necessary to digest all forms of food, whether meats, vegetables, cereals, eggs, fish, etc., and they act equally well in an acid or an alkaline medium. If your stomach is ailing, does not digest as quickly or as thoroughly as it should, and your entire system in consequence is suffering from malnutrition and mal-assimilation, you owe it to yourself to give the abused stomach assistance to help it out of its present condition.

The solution of your stomach-trouble problem is easy: Go to your druggist at once and secure a package, then take one or two after each meal or as required, then note the difference in the way you feel. All druggists sell them. Price 50 cents.—[Adv.

STOMACH SICK, SOUR, UPSET AND FULL OF GAS? PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN.

In five minutes! Time it! All Indigestion, Heartburn and Dyspepsia gone and your stomach feels fine.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which cost only 50 cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is astonishing. Please don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.—[Adv.

SAYS LIEUTENAN KILLING OF

Rose, on the Witness Stand, G Accused New York Official, C ders a Brief Adjournment— tion on the Brow of the Accu

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE T

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Notwithstanding it was Saturday when adjournment is usually taken over the week-end, the trial of Police-Lieutenant Charles Becker, charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal went on as usual today.

"Bald Jack" Rose, chief informer against Becker, was called at 10 o'clock. Before going on the stand Rose said:

"I am going to make good."

The jurors are held in the strictest seclusion. Even telephone connection in their rooms was cut off.

ROSE TESTIFIES.

There was a craning of necks in the crowded courtroom as the baldheaded gambler began to testify. Rose said he had known Rosenthal twenty years and Becker several years.

The witness did not look at Becker, but the former police officer watched Rose. Rose spoke in deliberate tones.

"Did you ever have business relations with Becker," he was asked.

"Yes, I collected money for him."

Rose then told of meeting Rosenthal and Becker in the Elks Club on a New Year's celebration.

Mrs. Rosenthal was present. Becker said to Mrs. Rosenthal, according to the witness:

"Now, don't worry. Herman and I have a thorough understanding. He is my friend, and I am his friend and his troubles are all over."

Rose said he met Becker again at his house and at the Union Square Hotel, when Becker told him the details of the alleged partnership in the gambling house between Becker and Rosenthal.

"Becker," Rose testified, "said Herman had made a proposition to him that he go into partnership with Rosenthal in running a gambling house and had asked him to invest $1500 in it. I said no one ever made any money in the gambling business with Rosenthal."

"Becker, however," continued the witness, "did not agree and made a proposition to allow Rose to take a twenty-five per cent. share in the business of the establishment. Becker took a $2500 chattel mortgage on Rosenthal's property and arranged for a "dummy" to hold the mortgage.

"Becker asked me," the witness went on, "if I would take charge. I said I would."

GAMBLING PROFITS.

The witness told of conversations with Becker in which the police lieutenant inquired about the profits of the gambling house.

"I reported to him on one occasion that the house had made several thousand dollars," said Rose. "He told me to tell Rosenthal to send him [illegible]. I went to see Rosenthal and Rosenthal said he would not give it, because he thought he hadn't had a square deal on the mortgage. I told Becker. Becker said just as soon as his attention was called to that place he would raid it. He told me to tell that to Rosenthal. I told Rosenthal. Rosenhtal said:

'You tell Becker he can't raid this place unless he gets the proper evidence and he can't get it because I know all his men and they can't get in here.'

"'So that's his attitude, is it?' Becker said when I told him this. 'All right, I'll raid it. Tell Rosenthal.'

"Rosenthal sent word by him to Becker: 'Tell that fellow he'd better not start anything with me.'

"The next day Becker told me that Commissioner Waldo had called his attention to the place and he (Becker) would have to raid it. I told Rosenthal. Rosenthal said, 'Tell Becker he can't bluff me; I don't believe Commissioner Waldo ever called his attention to my place.'

AS A "FAVOR."

"Several days later Becker told me complaints were pouring in and he would have to raid the place. He told me to see Rosenthal and tell him to do him a favor.

"'Tell him he has to stand for a raid,' Becker said. 'I did him a favor and he must do one for me. I'll raid the place and it will relieve me from worry, and in a few days he can reopen his place and everything will be all right.'

"Rosenthal replied to me: 'You tell Becker he must think I'm crazy to stand for such a thing. He might as well take a torch and burn it up. It's my place and I'm going to handle it the way I think best.'

"I saw Becker and told him what Rosenthal said.

"'Well, I'm going to raid the place and raid it in a few days—within a week.'

"I told Becker it would only cause trouble, and he said: 'Don't you worry about that. It won't cause me any trouble; it will only cause trouble for Rosenthal.'

"'Do you want me to tell that to Rosenthal?' I asked.

"'No,' he answered, 'I'm through with that fellow.'

"A few days later Becker told me that he was going to get two men from the strong-arm squad to swear to the evidence.

"'That's awfully dangerous, Charley,' I said.

"'No,' he said, 'it's all right. I'll make Rosenthal satisfy the mortgage. I'll raid his place if it's the last thing I do.'

"'All right,' I said. 'I'm not going to be in the house when it's raided.'"

THE RAID.

The house was raided.

"Later," Rose testified, "Rosenthal complained to Becker that policemen were still stationed in front of his house and said he was sore because his wife's nephew was taken in the raid."

Rose said his next meeting with Becker was at his own house.

"He told me," Rose said, "that Rosenthal had been calling him up every day asking a meeting to find out what he was going to do about the indictment against the men arrested in Rosenthal's place. He put Rosenthal off. Soon after Becker said Rosenthal had begun to talk around street corners that he was in partnership with Becker and was going to show him up.

THE RAID.

Rose said his next meeting with Becker was at his own house.

"Becker told me," Rose said, "that Rosenthal had been calling him up every day seeking a meeting to find out what he was going to do about the indictments against the men arrested in Rosenthal's place. He put Rosenthal off. Soon after Becker said Rosenthal had begun to talk around street that he was in partnership with Becker and was going to show him up.

"Becker a few days later told me he had seen Waldo and that the Commissioner had heard of Rosenthal's charges and had not believed them.

"Becker said to me, 'That fellow [illegible] is getting dangerous.'

"I said, 'Nobody will believe Rosenthal.'

"'Well,' he answered, 'so long as Commissioner Waldo doesn't believe him, I guess there's nothing to worry about.'

"I asked Becker if he had taken the policemen out of Rosenthal's place. He said 'No.' 'Well,' I told him, 'as long as that man stays there, Rosenthal will talk.'

"'I don't care much what he says,' Becker replied.

"Did you and Becker discuss newspaper interviews that Rosenthal had given?"

"Yes. Becker told me I shouldn't worry about that; that he had Jack Sullivan looking after the papers and that Rosenthal couldn't get anything printed. Later Becker told me a morning paper had gotten an affidavit from Rosenthal and was going to print it.

"'I guess Rosenthal means to do what he said he would do—to squeal and break me,' Becker said.

"'I'll get a couple of gang men,' I told Becker, 'and go around and tell Rosenthal if he does not stop his attacks on you something will happen to him.'

"'Oh, hell,' Becker said, 'I don't want the fellow beaten up. If I did I'd beat him up myself, or have him beaten up for resisting arrest. But a beating up won't do for him. He must be put where neither you nor I nor anybody else will ever have to worry about him again.'

THE ORDERS.

"'What do you want done with Rosenthal?' I asked Becker during the conversation," the witness testified.

"'I want him (Rosenthal) murdered, shot, croaked, dynamited, or anything,' Becker replied. 'I want him put where we will never have to worry about him again.'"

The witness here told of Becker's alleged instructions to him to get out on bail "Big Jack" Zelig, the gang leader then in The Tombs, and have Zelig's men put Rosenthal out of the way.

"'Do you know sentiment at police headquarters is so strong that they don't care if Rosenthal is put out of the way?' Becker asked. 'I want you to go over to The Tombs and see Zelig and have him give orders to croak Rosenthal tonight. I will see Zelig is out on the street.'

"Becker gave me $100 to take to Zelig. 'I'll meet you tomorrow morning to see what Zelig says,' he told me. 'Tell him that there will be no danger to his gang.'

"I saw Zelig and gave him the $100 and told him it came from Becker," Rose continued.

"Zelig said, 'I don't want that $100. I want to get out of here. You and Becker got me into this trouble.' I told him the $100 was just a little favor from Becker and that he was not to worry. Zelig said, 'If you want to do me a favor get me out. I won't do anything for Becker unless he does get me out.' I saw Becker next day and told him Zelig wanted to get out and would not do anything until he did get out."

FOUR GUN MEN.

Rose said he went to the home of the four gun men, "Gyp the Blood" and his pals, and told them about the Rosenthal-Becker situation.

He told them, he said, that Becker would "frame up" if they did not "croak Rosenthal."

"They agreed to do it that night."

Rose said they had delayed "doing the job" and Becker had insisted that the "hurry it along." He told of a plan to kill the gambler at the Garden Restaurant. It failed, he said, because of a suspicion that private detectives were guarding Rosenthal.

"Becker got hot at this," Rose added. "He kept asking 'Why all this stalling? Why don't you get him?' One day he said: 'Now, this is going on too long. Either you are stalling them, or these fellows are stalling you.'

"'Detective!' he said. 'Wake up and shoot Rosenthal in front of a policeman. Get through with it; get it over.'"

The witness then passed quickly to the events immediately preceding the murder. He told of going to "Bridgie" Webber's gambling place and thence to the La Fayette baths where he met Jack Sullivan.

"I received a telephone message from Becker," Rose testified. "He asked me if I had heard of subpoenas issued by the attorney for 'Dollar John' and if I had fixed it so that 'Dollar John' would corroborate Rosenthal before the grand jury. I told him it hadn't been fixed. Becker said, 'I told you what this thing would come to if you didn't get rid of this fellow. Why don't you do it tonight?' I said I'd do my best.

"I remained at the baths until that night and had dinner with Sam Schepps, Vallon and Plitt. They came in a machine."

Plitt had been described as Becker's press agent.

Rose testified that Vallon, Schepps and himself went to Fourteenth street and Second avenue and got an automobile. Then they went to Dago Frank's house.

"I asked Frank where the rest of the crowd was," Rose continued. "He said he had received a message to come down town to 'Bridgie' Webber's place. We went there and saw 'Bridgie,' 'Gyp the Blood,' 'Lefty Louie' and 'Whitey' Lewis on the sidewalk. We all went up into 'Bridgie's' place and had drinks. 'Bridgie' said, 'Herman Rosenthal is at the Metropole.' Everybody got up then and went out."

"Who went out?"

"'Lefty,' 'Gyp,' 'Whitey,' 'Dago Frank' and 'Bridgie.' I stayed behind and waited when word came in that Rosenthal had been shot." Rose said he went to the La Fayette baths and telephoned to Becker.

"'Did you hear the news?'" I asked him.

CONGRATULATIONS.

"'Yes,' said Becker. 'I congratulate you.'"

"'How did you get the news so soon?' I asked Becker.

"'I got it from a newspaper man,' he said.

"'Are you coming down town?' I asked.

"'I'll be right down,' he replied."

That was about 2:30 o'clock, Rose said. Becker got down about dawn and met Rose on the sidewalk with "Bridgie" Webber near "Bridgie's" gambling place.

"'I am glad it's done,' Becker said.

"Becker said he was late in coming down," Rose added, "because he had stopped at the police station to see Rosenthal's body."

"'If it wasn't for Dist.-Atty. Whitman being there, I'd have reached around and cut his tongue out,' Becker said to me," Rose said slowly and deliberately.

"'Don't worry, Jack,' Becker told me. 'The only thing to do now is to lay low till it blows over.'"

Rose says he hid at Harry Pollock's home with Sam Schepps. Rose telephoned Becker and was told not to worry, but to stay where he was. Becker told him, Rose continued, that he should sign an affidavit saying that he (Rose) had advanced the $1500 which Becker lent Rosenthal.

"I told Becker it was a poor thing to do, now that the man was murdered," Rose said, "but he insisted. That midnight he sent his lawyer, John W. Hart, with the affidavit. I signed it."

PERSPIRATION.

Before Rose was half through with his story drops of perspiration were standing on the brow of the accused police lieutenant. He did not once take his eyes off the witness. Mrs. Becker, who sat near her husband, looked steadily at the floor. Attorney McIntyre, Becker's counsel, volleyed objection after objection until he was reprimanded by Justice Goff. Twice he demanded that court be adjourned on the ground that it was a legal holiday and each time the court cut his argument short.

ROSE RESUMES.

"'Bridgie' Webber gave me $1000 after the shooting at Fiftieth street and Eighth avenue," declared Rose, continuing his testimony. "I gave it to 'Lefty Louie.'"

"When was this done?" asked Mr. Moss.

"On the Tuesday afternoon after the shooting. The shooting was early Tuesday morning."

"What did you say to Lefty Louis when you gave him the money?"

"I told him 'there's $1000 for you, Louis. You and the rest of the boys lie low for a few days. Becker says above all things you must not talk and that everything will be all right.'"

THE DEFENSE.

The witness was then turned over to the defense.

"You will have only today to cross-examine Jack Rose," Justice Goff notified Becker's counsel. "You will finish his cross-examination if I have to sit here till midnight."

"Rose, are you a murderer?" was McIntyre's first question.

"No."

"Did you procure the murderers of Spanish Louie?"

"I did not."

"Were you guilty of that murder?"

"No," shouted the witness.

"Did you kill Kid Twist?"

"No."

"Did you ever see him?"

"No, I've heard of him."

"Did you procure his murderers?"

"No."

"Was Sam Schepps with you when you signed the affidavit sent you by Becker at Pollock's home?"

"He was."

"You signed that paper under oath did you?"

"Yes."

"And thereby committed perjury?"

"Yes, I did," admitted Rose, coolly.

"Why did you do this?"

"I did it for Becker; I would have done anything for him that night."

"What is your name?"

"For twenty years," the witness said, "I've been known as Jack Rose."

"Did you know James M. Sullivan in Connecticut?" pursued Mr. McIntyre, referring to Rose's attorney.

"Yes, he was my press agent when I used to get up prize fights in New Haven, Waterbury, Hartford and other cities."

"And when you were apprehended for murder he became your lawyer, didn't he?"

"I was never apprehended," Rose replied emphatically. "I gave myself up at police headquarters."

"Were you held for murder in this case?"

"Yes."

Rose said he came here from Poland when he was two and a half years old. He is now 37.

HIS CAREER.

Mr. McIntyre sought further to unfold Rose's history.

The witness said that about twenty years ago, he ran two gambling houses in New York and that three or four years ago he had an interest in a gambling house called the Hesperian, in which Rosenthal was interested.

Rose added that he had also been engaged in theatrical business and had variously been a gambling-house proprietor, book maker and play producer.

"Did you not swear, in a law suit against Rosenthal in 1907?" demanded Mr. McIntyre, reading from a printed record, "before a Supreme Court justice, that you were not interested in gambling business?"

"I did."

"Did you tell the truth then?"

"Yes."

"I made up my mind," Rose volunteered, "to quit gambling for the sake of my family, and lead a respectable life."

"How did you terminate your interest in Rosenthal's gambling-house?" pursued Mr. McIntyre.

"It terminated when Becker raided the place."

"And you and Rosenthal fell out then?"

"Yes, our relations were strained after that."

"Weren't you known as a stool pigeon for the police?"

"No, I was only known as a collector."

"When Rosenthal told the District Attorney about alleged relations with Becker, did you learn that Rosenthal had given your name to the District Attorney?"

"Becker told me so."

"And you felt Rosenthal had squealed on you, didn't you?"

"I felt so, yes; I felt that Becker's interest and mine were the same."

"Did you tell a newspaper reporter that as a result of Rosenthal squealing on you?"

"I did not."

"Did you say the squealer should be out of the way?"

"No."

"Or anything resembling that?"

"Yes, I told that to Becker."

A moment later Rose declared he had told Becker no such thing.

ROSE COLLAPSES.

Rose collapsed on the witness stand at 7:15 o'clock and Justice Goff, who announced that there would be recess for supper ordered a cessation in the questioning to give the witness a chance to revive.

when the recital began, but it was not long before beads of perspiration appeared on his face and trickled down to his collar. He fidgeted with a pencil, took copious notes and now and then conferred earnestly with McIntyre. It was by far his worse day, unless Rose can be broken down under cross-examination, and the gambler's testimony will prove a severe blow.

After going into the matter of the partnership, the breach between Becker and Rosenthal and his own efforts to bring about a reconciliation, the witness launched into the conception of the murder and followed his course of events step by step until after Rosenthal lay dead on the sidewalk in front of the Hotel Metropole.

He had gone to Zelig at the behest of Becker and, with the knowledge of the gang leader, had approached "Lefty Louie" Rosenberg and "Whitey" Lewis. Once they knew that Zelig wanted the job done they were quite willing to do it.

"TO CROAK HIM."

"We'll croak him right now—tonight," the witness swore they told him.

But there was a delay and Becker became nervous. He took Rose to task in no gentle manner.

The excuses did not go with him and he finally declared it began to look as though he would have to "croak" Rosenthal himself. After this delay Rose declared Becker accused him of stalling and demanded that he bring to him "Bridgie" Webber and Sam Schepps. With these Rose set out to find Becker and eventually came onto him while he was conversing with Harry Vallon.

Then came the story of how the gamblers were forced to act and how the murder was actually committed. When the deed had been done Rose, in common with the others, was paralyzed with fright and sought encouragement from Becker. This they got in plenty, but it did not wholly allay their fright. It was at this meeting that Becker, according to the witness, expressed his pleasure that the job had been so well done and assured them that no harm would come to them.

"It was a pleasing sight to me to look at that Jew from West Forty-seventh street," Rose swore Becker said to him. "If it were not for the presence of Whitman I would have cut his tongue out and hung it up somewhere as a warning to other 'squealers.' He is dead and that is the end of it."

Following Rose's sensational testimony the defense took the gambler on cross-examination into his life with searching questions which demanded humiliating answers.

Through the grilling ordeal Rose sat tight, replying patiently that he never sought the death of Rosenthal for personal revenge, but at the bidding of Becker. He denied that he had procured the murders of "Kid Twist" and "Spanish Louis," two East Side rival gang leaders, who met violent ends.

The justice repeatedly ruled out questions by the defense in cross-examination and several exceptions were noted to these rulings. Rose firmly denied that he had ever told various characters cited that he wanted to have Rosenthal killed because the informer put him out of the gambling business.

Ruptured People—Try This for Relief and Cure

Here is something you can try sixty days without having to risk a single cent of your money.

Something which has cured—in the last twenty-four years—thousands of ruptured people—

Something so strengthening to the ruptured parts that you can work right along while being cured—

If you don't find yourself getting better after trying a Cluthe Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager—

If you don't think it's doing you a lot of good—making a new man of you—

Then we don't want a penny.

Try It 60 Days at Our Risk.

This is more than a truss—more than merely a device to hold your rupture in place.

For your protection we guarantee in writing that a Cluthe Truss will keep your rupture from coming out—when you are working, exercising, taking a bath (this truss is waterproof)—every minute of the day. If a 60 days' trial doesn't prove it, the truss won't cost you a cent.

You see this truss—unlike all others—is self-adjusting, self-regulating.

The support it gives automatically increases when there is any sudden movement or strain—as in working—so no strain can force your rupture out.

And, in addition, a Cluthe Truss provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the real cause of rupture.

While relieving the weak ruptured parts of all strain, this Truss is constantly strengthening the ruptured parts.

Does that by automatically massaging them—this healing massage does for these parts what exercise does for a weak arm—restores their lost strength—in many cases makes them so strong that a truss is no longer needed.

Curing Begins at Once

This massage is so beneficial that nearly all feel better and stronger—get immediate relief—after trying this truss.

So beneficial that a Cluthe Truss has cured some of the worst cases on record—

Among them men and women 50 to 70 years old, who had been ruptured from 20 to 50 years.

Cured many of them after everything else, including operation, had failed to do any good whatever.

Our Expense If It Fails

You are making the mistake of your life if you let any doubts or past disappointments keep you from finding out what a Cluthe Truss can do for you.

Remember that we ask you to take no chances—

We'll make a truss especially for your case and send it to you and allow you 60 days' trial to prove that it will hold your rupture—that it will put an end to the trouble you've heretofore had and improve your condition. If the trial fails to prove this, we'll be the losers, not you.

Get World's Greatest Rupture Book

So that you can judge for yourself, we want to send you a free book we have written—a cloth-bound book of advice. Even physicians who have read it say it's the best book ever written on Rupture.

It sums up all we have learned about rupture in forty years of day-after-day experience—in the successful treatment of over 100,000 cases. It deals with rupture in all its forms and stages—explains the dangers of operations—exposes the worthless trusses and the equally worthless makeshifts masquerading under such names as "appliance," "method," "system," "plasters," etc.—puts you on guard against throwing money away on things that can't stand a fair test.

And it tells all about the Cluthe Truss—how little it costs—how it ends constant expense on account of your rupture—how thousands have found this truss as comfortable as their clothing (no springs or web or elastic band or belt around your waist—no leg-straps)—how you can try one 60 days at our risk—thus giving you plenty of time to make sure of its wonderful holding and healing powers and of its waterproof and wearing qualities.

It tells—in their own words—the experience of many former sufferers—gives their names and addresses—perhaps you know some of them.

Book sent in plain, sealed envelope. Write for it today—don't put it off—this book may be the means of adding many years to your life and of restoring you to full strength and usefulness.

This Dear Old Lady

was a nurse to the sick and wounded during the Civil War. Twenty-three years ago, at a time when her doctor thought she could not recover from her illness and when he thought other medicines would be useless he advised her to take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Look at her photograph. What a pleasing picture of health and content she makes now, in her advancing years!—her brain alert, eyes bright and memory clear. It is within your power to maintain your faculties, your activity and willing, pleased friendships if you will but make an effort to do so.

If you are not aging gracefully, if you suffer from ills which you should not, if your faculties are becoming impaired, if the attention and interest of your friends are lessening, perhaps you can benefit from the experience of Mrs. Kane. Advice is as good as it turns out to be. The advice of Mrs. Kane's doctor to her was pretty good, she thinks. See if you agree with her. Read her letter, which follows:

"I am 72 years old and have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for the past 23 years. When I first took it my doctor said it was only a question of a few months before I would die from that dreaded disease, consumption. The doctor said it was no use to take any other medicine, but advised to take lots of eggs and milk, and use about a half wineglass of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in each glass of egg and milk, and to eat as much food as possible.

"At the expiration of ten months my cold disappeared and I gained in weight steadily, and today I weigh 195 pounds. My memory is so very good that I can remember things that happened as far back as the battle off Hampton Roads, between the Monitor and Merrimac, on March 9, 1862. I was then nursing the sick and wounded of the Union, which I did till the war was over.

"I went to Canton, China, as a missionary nurse, in 1875 to 1880, and can recall many of the disastrous events, such as famine and plague, during this period in China. Hoping that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey will do for others what it has done for me, I remain, yours very truly. Mrs. E. Kane, 2043 Palmetto Street, Brooklyn, N. Y."

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

does more toward restoring and maintaining good health, unimpaired memory and faculties in men and women than all other medicines combined. It is nature's true tonic-stimulant. Note that Mrs. Kane gained in weight steadily, and her cold disappeared. Her doctor believed she would die of consumption. He prescribed Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. She recovered, and today, 23 years after her serious illness, for which she took Duffy's, at the age of 72 she is alive and well and weighs 195 pounds.

Determine today to regain your own health and strength. Make up your mind to use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. See that you get Duffy's. Write our doctors for advice. They will give it absolutely free and in confidence. You will also receive a valuable illustrated medical booklet.

WONDERFUL BANQUET OF WONDERLAND MEN.

Realty Federation Spread in Unique and Pretentious Setting, With a Spotless Town Marred Only by an "Open Eddyfice"—Strong Addresses a Feature—Remarkable Telegram on Behalf of an Absent Speaker.

IN A LITERAL blaze of glory the eighth annual convention of the California State Realty Federation came to an effulgent close last night with one of the most pretentious banquets ever given in Los Angeles, in the ballroom of the Hotel Alexandria. Nearly 500 realty men from all parts of California, and half that many hosts, sat down to a feast that came as a fitting climax to the greatest realty convention ever held in the State, and to the royal entertainment which Los Angeles and its real estate men have showered upon their guests for three days.

Over all hovered the indomitable energy and spirit of the Golden State. Although glass clinked glass many times in the course of the evening in toasts to Los Angeles, San Francisco, Fresno, Oakland and Stockton, the one to which crystal goblets were raised the most was to "One for All, All for One, California," the California described by Toastmaster Gates as "1000 miles long, 1000 miles broad, 1000 miles deep and 1000 miles high."

The long speakers' table on the eastern side of the banquet-room was a marvel of the florist's skill. In front of the long row of plates were ten miniature poles, each surmounted by a frosted incandescent globe, and underneath ran a miniature railway track the length of the table with locomotives and cars on it. One side of the track was flanked by a long line of yellow baby chrysanthemums and on the other by a miniature town. In this town appeared also many saloons, but there was also a church, a power-house and numerous bungalows to preserve the municipal morals.

AN OPEN "EDDYFICE"

Real blue grass and tiny gravel walks in front of each little structure gave the unique decoration the appearance of a Spotless Town, marred only by the glaring sign in front of one of the saloons, "This Eddyfice Open All Night." An immense bank of red rosebuds at the rear of the little village completed the decorations of the table. On the wall behind the speakers' table were two giant bunches of yellow chrysanthemums, and at each table had been placed an immense bowl of red, pink or yellow roses surmounted by an enormous basket of Fresno grapes.

It was after 8 o'clock when the guests were led from the room on the third floor of the hotel in which an impromptu reception was held to the ballroom on the floor below, and the banquet started. At the speakers' table were seated Senator Lee C. Gates, the toastmaster of the evening; Former United States Senator Flint, Mabry McMahan, the retiring president of the federation; George N. Black, the incoming executive; George D. Toy of San Francisco, A. L. Harrigan, Francis Cutting of Stockton, Charles G. Andrews, president of the Los Angeles Realty Board; John P. Pryor of Pacific Grove; O. E. Hotle of Oakland and a number of other members of the newly-elected directorate of the federation, while at the tables grouped so closely around the big room that there was scarce space to pass appeared the faces of Los Angeles's most prominent officials and business men.

MAKING THINGS LIVELY.

The real estate "boys" were there to make things lively, and lively they were from the moment that the wide-swinging doors admitted the throng until the last speaker had said his say and the last guest had regretfully left the banquet room. Crowds of delegates from San Jose, San Francisco, Oakland, Stockton, Fresno and Sacramento shouted their yells defiantly across the long stretch of tables and sang their favorite songs with spirit and fervor. The hustling crowd from San Francisco stole a march on their rivals and had copies of their songs distributed to each diner. The refrain of the Bay City crowd was the 1915 Fair and the glories of San Francisco, sung with abandon to the tunes of "All Hands on Deck," "Tousey Mongaley," "Have You Got Another Girl Like Mary?" and "Casey Jones," the latter with a rousing chorus running thusly:

"In San Francisco you'll never see a frown,
We would even boost for Watts, that lonesome town.
We've got to keep a-boostin' or we will lose our position,
So all get together for that Exposition."

Perhaps faulty meter and rhyme didn't bother the crowd that composed the songs "On the San Francisco Special 1 G.M." as a line at the bottom of the song sheet announced, and it was certain that it didn't bother the singers, for when they got started, all rival boosters were drowned out in the volume.

Just before the speaking began Harry Girard appeared on the balcony in which the orchestra was placed and led the guests in singing the official song of the federation, "Welcome," written and dedicated to it by John S. McGroarty, the Los Angeles lawyer-editor-poet, diners and speakers joining in with a volume of sound that shook the chandeliers.

President Charles G. Andrews of the Los Angeles Realty Board presided and spoke for a few moments before introducing Senator Gates as toastmaster:

"There have been many conventions in Los Angeles, but there never has been a convention held here that closed its labor in such a blaze of glory as that in which the California State Realty Federation has done tonight," he said. "The great ship of the federation has been launched. It slid gracefully from its ways out into the graceful waters and loaded to the gunwales with members of the federation, now has its prow pointed to the harbor of prosperity. Los Angeles is proud of the manner in which she has entertained our visitors and the Los Angeles Realty Board is proud of it. (Cries of "They may well be.")

When Gates arose he was greeted with cries of "Oh, you Lee," "Our Next Governor," and was given three cheers and a tiger.

"California has never possessed such a representation of ardor and loyalty as she possesses here tonight," said Gates. "California, judging from the energetic and loyal sons gathered here tonight has never been so near the goal of the Millennial State as she is this moment.

"I never had such a clear meaning," continued Gates, "of the meaning of the legal phrase 'caveat emptor' as I obtained when I loked over these guests tonight. I know now why they say: 'Let the buyer beware.' (Applause.) That probably applies also to my profession, the legal profession. (More applause.) And the buyer is not the only one who must look out for himself. I think the maxim should have an amendment. (Let the seller beware also.)

Senator Gates said that the State of California owes more to real estate men within its boundaries than to any other profession of men for the work of advertising to the civilized world the beauties of the greatest land on the face of the earth, and declared that the real estate profession has been elevated to a standard of excellence and square dealing unequaled in any other part of the great American republic, and that they have not forgotten, in being real estate dealers, sellers of the glorious soil, to be citizens as well, doing their utmost to advance the interests of their State and protect the welfare of its citizens.

"Gentlemen," the speaker concluded, "you are here tonight celebrating California. Tomorrow you will go home to sell California, you will go home to tell California, and when you pass out of the portals of the City of the Angels here in the Southland, remember that you are leaving a city with the reputation of being the best band of fellows that ever gathered within its gates."

NEW PRESIDENT HEARD.

Senator Gates then introduced Mabry McMahan of San Francisco, the retiring president of the federation, while the guests stood up and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." In a few words McMahan reviewed the work of the federation during the past year and then gave way to his successor, George N. Black of Los Angeles, the new president.

"Ten years ago the real estate business in California was in a deplorable condition," said Black in part.

"The business had no standing, the broker no prestige, his word no credence. Public opinion seemed to sanction the theory that the real estate agent must be necessarily an Ishmaelite with his hand raised against every man, and every man's against him.

"Sectionalism was rampant all over the State, intercity jealousies and antagonisms prevailed everywhere, the town was arrayed against the country and the country against the town. The accepted motto of the day was that 'Every knock is a boost,' provided you knock the other fellow's city, or his deal, while boosting your own.

"About this time a few of our local brethren who had become heartily sick and tired of these unnatural conditions met and organized the Los Angeles Realty Board for the cultivation of co-operation and good fellowship among real-estate brokers, and the elimination of the evils of the business by the promotion of honesty and dignity in real-estate transactions.

"Other cities followed suit, and in 1904 the California Realty Federation was organized for the purpose of lifting the real-estate business of the entire State to the highest attainable standard of honesty and efficiency. We have had to fight our way literally to the heights to which we aspired.

"It has been a long fight, a slow fight, and a difficult fight, because we found that we had to educate the public as well as to discipline ourselves, but in looking back over the struggles of the past ten years it is profoundly gratifying to know that it was a fight well worth while, because we have unquestionably made good.

"Sectionalism is dead and buried beyond resurrection, and out of its ashes has arisen the never nobler pan—California spirit, the spirit of 'One for All and All for One.' What this spirit has accomplished already in the winning of the great exposition affords but a faint suggestion of what we can accomplish in the upbuilding of California by united, systematic and unselfish effort.

"The public has become educated to the fact that the reputable real-estate brokers of California have exalted their business to the dignity of a profession by establishing among themselves a code of ethics demanding absolute and unconditional honesty and fair dealing toward one another and toward the property owner and the investor.

"And the brokers themselves have learned that no permanent business success can be built up except on an honest basis; that every real-estate agent becomes the trustee of the man whose business he handles, and that he owes his client the same moral obligation in all of his business dealings as if he were under a surety bond guaranteeing faithful service.

"We intend to boost for California 365 days in the year, except this year, which is 366.

"We intend to watch carefully all matters of proposed new State legislaton or taxation affecting real estate, with the view, first of all, of safeguarding the interests of the property owner, and after that our own interests as brokers.

"And, finally, we propose particularly to purify our own business by exposing and prosecuting every real-estate fake and every fraudulent stock-jobbing scheme that pretends to rest upon real estate as a foundation, and we shall make every effort possible under the law to have the human hyenas who fatten by thieving from the poor and the credulous driven by the scorpion whips of justice into courts of criminal jurisdiction."

UPBUILDERS ENTHUSE.

With the first words of ex-United States Senator Flint, who responded to the toast, "The Real Estate Men as a Factor in the Upbuilding of California," the pent-up enthusiasm of the assembly overleaped all bounds. The words of burning eloquence with which the Los Angeles man captivated his hearers dispersed all semblance of order. Every man in the banquet hall rose to his feet with waving handkerchief in hand, while erstwhile dignified business men of affairs stood on upholstered chairs with all the abandon of school boys and vented their approval with shouts and shrill whistling. The assembly evidently gauged its speaker correctly, for seldom, if ever, in a short address, have words more potent been uttered by a public speaker.

"We of Los Angeles," declared the speaker, "have no controversy with any other part of California. With a State so prolific as to soil and every natural advantage there is no good reason why one locality should envy the good fortune of another. We want to be prosperous, but in our prosperity we will stop long enough to rejoice with you people of San Francisco and other cities in your prosperity. Each can claim for itself advantages that transcend those of any other State in the Union without conflicting with the claim of sister cities."

Commenting on the lead taken by this city in its effort to cement the bond of unity and good fellowship between the real estate men of the whole State, the speaker reviewed the early history of the municipality and traced step by step the growth and development of its wonderful resources.

"There is a reason," he declared, "why we of the South should set the standard of this great movement which promises to unite the commonwealth. Long before the little band of gold diggers had settled about San Francisco and Oakland in the north in 1849, a little band of Digger Indians settled in the desert land where now blooms the proud city of Los Angeles. Some of the more enterprising among them began to buy up tracts of seemingly worthless land and dispose of it at a slight profit. From this inauspicious beginning we have deevloped until we are experts. We have become perfect in the art of selling real estate. We have converted a desert into a garden and made orange trees to bloom where nothing but cactus was wont to stand.

"There are some people in every community who always look on the dark side of life. To them nothing is good. They disparage their city and its industries and can find nothing good to talk about to the stranger

Healthy Old Age Is What Dr. Hartman Advocates

S. B. HARTMAN, M.D.

See here, young man, I heard you complaining the other day of being nervous, sleepless, brain fagged, and the like. A young man, hardly in the zenith of your life, complaining of such things!

And this is very common, too. You are not the only one. Probably three out of four of the young men of today have just such symptoms as you describe. What does it mean?

Look at me. I am eighty-two years old. Sound as a nut. Tough as hickory. Do not know what it is to be tired. While I cannot do as much physical work as I used to when a young man, I can do a great deal. Probably twice as much as the average young man of today.

What has kept me so strong and well? I will tell you. I do not use tobacco. I do not use alcoholic stimulants. I do not use tea or coffee habitually. I go to bed early. I get up early. I am always doing something; something that occupies my body and mind. I love to work. I take a cold water towel bath every morning, winter and summer. It is these things that have kept me well and strong. You could be just as well and strong as I am if you would do as I do.

You may ask, do I ever get sick, have I ever had occasion to take medicine at all? Yes, I have got sick. Sometimes I feel a little touch of climatic trouble, like cold, malaria, slight catarrhal symptoms, but my only medicine is Peruna. I always keep a bottle of Peruna in the house. I keep a bottle of Peruna on my desk in my office. Once in a while I take some. I do not take it habitually. Take it only when I feel a little out of sorts. One swallow will perhaps be all that will be necessary, but it is always handy by.

It is a sorry sight to see the young men of today begin to peter out physically when they ought to be in the glory of their manhood and the height of their vigor. Eat plain food. Live frugally. Give up all weakening habits. Live as God intended you to live. Take Peruna when you do not feel as well as usual.

If you want me to I will send you a book which will tell you a great many more things about yourself and about matters that may be of great value to you. Enclose a two-cent stamp for postage and the book will be sent in a plain wrapper and you will not be troubled with any follow-up letters or advertisements.

Special Notice:—Many persons inquire for The Old-time Peruna. They want the Peruna that their Fathers and Mothers used to take. The old Peruna is now called Katarno. If your dealer does not keep it for sale write the Katarno Company, Columbus, Ohio, and they will tell you all about it.—[Adv.

Choice Altalfa Lands
Heart of Riverside County
$100 to $150—Four Years' Time

Soil Talks. Water talks. Transportation talks. Location talks. Climate talks. And price and terms talk louder than all else on Perris Irrigated Farms. This land opening in the Perris Valley is the most important that has occurred in Southern California for many years. Everybody knows about the soil. It is the silt deposit of ages producing bountiful crops.

For Alfalfa, it is especially successful. Vast fields of heavy crops testify to that. Farmers who have labored there under difficulties in former years before the water was developed, finally became independent. Now a modern water system brings every acre sold in Perris Irrigated Farms under ditch, and opens the way for hundreds of practical men to farm at a profit, where every condition is right, and success is assured from the start.

The Fruits of this zone thrive. The usual farm products grow big. Oranges have been grown for years on the rim of the valley. There is no production more diversified than that possible on Perris Irrigated Farms.

Only 18 Miles from Riverside. Close to the live town of Perris. A Santa Fe station right on the land. Only 2¼ hours' ride from Los Angeles. Go and see it. Whether you are a special farmer or a general farmer, or only an investor, these lands may make you rich. Because they are going up, and still up. Two high type pumping plants producing a large volume of water now in operation.

WONDERFUL BANQUET.

within their gate. The real estate man has revolutionized this. He is always an optimist and his city always the most progressive and up-to-date. This spirit has spread until everybody over the State is becoming a booster not only for his own locality but for the State as a whole."

PANAMA-PACIFIC.

Speaking of the exposition, the speaker said that it belonged to the State as a whole and that the people of Los Angeles were as deeply and vitally interested in its success as are the people of the north. He paid a tribute to the press, declaring that without the assistance and good will of the newspapers such conventions as the one just closed would not be held because they would be ineffective.

"We are willing and anxious," he said, "to co-operate with you in any good work that pertains to the welfare of the State or any part of it."

O. E. Hotle of Oakland, in an address punctuated with wit and humor, told of "The Real Estate Man as an Asset." His words fully justified the assertion of the toastmaster in introducing him a s a man whom the assembly would be glad to hear and from whom the assembled guests would learn muchof value.

An interesting feature of the evening's programme and one entirely spontaneous, was the reception of the news announcing the inability of Samuel G. Buckbee to be present because of a death in his family. At the sugestion of the toastmaster, the guests rose and drank a silent toast to the absent member. Buckbee's place was very cerdibly filled by George D. Toy of San Francisco, who spoke on "The Gospel of Unity."

AND M'GROARTY.

Senator Gates read a long telegram explaining the absence of John S. McGroarty, who was to have spoken on "The Value of Sentiment and Poetry in the Real Estate Business." The telegram follows:

"BISHOP (Cal.) Oct. 12, 1912.
Phillip D. Wilson,
Secretary Los Angeles Realty Board, Los Angeles, Cal.

"To members of the State Federation of Realty Boards, the members of the Southern California Editorial Association send greetings, congratulations, inspirations, apologies and further greetings amidst the joqs of our semi-annual exploration excursion to the harvest festival of the Owens River Valley.

"It was our bounden duty to your organization and the State of California to surrender the body and of our inspiring plet, John McGroarty, to keep his promises to address you upon the subject of the value of sentiment and poetry in the real estate business which would have made it necessary for your beloved to leave at 2 o'clock this morning on a combination freight and passenger train to cross the desert in on a ninteen-hour ride.

"Midnight found him worn and and still determined to leave, Passenger Agent Batturs, who is our pilgrimage, could give us assurance that this combination, please train would connect We overruled McGroarty's and placed him in a led to perhaps evolve another message imperishable as the lines in he said 'California lies not east but like a scroll unfurled the hand of God hath hung it the middle of the world; the and dews that kiss it, the balmy that blow and the stars in diadems upon its peaks of the mighty mountains over it, the white seas swirled. It is California stretching down the of the world.'

"The whole value of poetry and sentiment we understand in protecting the health and physical comfort the one Californian who is so richly endowed with both these attributes believe we shall merit your hearty approval. The mind and sould, which so beautifully resurrected the picture of the mission scenes, is tranquilly at work, and under influence of this mountain air and homespun pumpkin and corn scenes we may in the near have something even as enduring as these lines he wrote some ago:

'The bright days of pleasure and gray days of pain, I have had my share of both and so many again, but all the day I ever if God but let me choose, I take the day I spent upon the of Santa Cruz.'

"Faithfully yours,
[Signed] "CHARLES E. JONES,
"J. RANDALL,
"M. V. HARTRANFT.

"The Apology Committee of Southern California Editorial Association."

McGroarty's place was taken by A. Harrigan of San Francisco. Mr. Harrigan read a letter from the visiting ladies to the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Los Angeles Realty Board, thanking the latter for the splendid entertainment given them during their stay in the city. He then a few words of praise for the real estate profession and the members of the federation.

The banquet then broke up, the guests departed, the lights went out and the eighth annual convention of the California State Realty Federation was at an end.

VERNONS WIN TWO CONTESTS.

Busher Musser Handed His in Afternoon Game.

Receives a Hard Walloping by a Big Score.

Halla Gets All He Wanted in the First Inning.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

The Tigers took two more jumps toward the top by making a clean sweep of yesterday's double bill with the Angels. Hogan's men won in the morning, 5 to 4, and repeated in the afternoon by the gigantic count of 10 to 4. This two-ply triumph made it five in a row for the striped scrappers, and there is considerable uneasiness up in Oakland.

Paul Musser was sacrificed to the vaulting ambition of the Tigers' pennant aspirations in the afternoon, and he was sacrificed to a finish. Paul fanned ten men, and pitched good ball outside of the third and sixth innings. But the things the Tigers did to him in those spots come under the head of assault and battery.

Agnew opened the third with a home run over the left field fence. Brackenridge fanned, as becomes a pitcher. Carlisle and Kane slashed out doubles, Bayless blazed his name in the hit column with a single, and two more runs were over the pan. Roy Brashear and Hosp were put away on infield drives.

This, under normal conditions, would be regarded as a lucrative inning, but the events of the tempestuous sixth made the fans forget that it had ever happened. Eleven Tigers went to bat in that frame, and seven of them scored. There were six hits, but only one was a clean drive. A Hoganite would walk to the plate, stick out his bat and the result was a hit of some sort. In fact, the ball was knocked outside the diamond but three times, and two of these were fly balls that were caught. All this time, the Tigers ran around Musser like hoops around a barrel, while his support was about as useful to him as so many cigar-stand Indians.

LITSCHI STARTS IT.

Litschi lead off in the sixth with a triple that knocked the name "Vernon" from the scoreboard. The superstitious pointed to this incident as an ill omen. It was—for Musser. After the scoreboard had been repaired, McDonnell drove to Howard, and Ivan cut loose with a low throw that caught Moore in the mid-section and made him gasp for breath. This scored Litschi and spared McDonnell. Agnew drove to Berger, who tried for a force-out at second, but McDonnell slid in ahead of the throw. Brackenridge placed a slow grounder to Berger, who could not come in and make the throw in time to retire anyone. This snugged the sacks. Carlisle timed a grounder to Moore so perfectly that no one had a chance to cover first. McDonnell flashed over the plate unhampered on the hit. Musser, the plate dwindling to the dimensions of a mustard seed in his heated vision, walked Kane, forcing Agnew in with a run. Bayless dumped the ball down to Moore, and beat Charley and his helpers to the bag. Musser walked over near first, and while he and Moore were conducting a mutual admiration society with reverse English, Carlisle stole home. Roy Brashear bunted near the plate. He beat out Boles's throw, which was too high for Moore. Charley blocked the throw, and fired the ball back to Boles too late to get Kane. Dick Bayless ran to third on the play, and was courteous enough to stay there while Musser threw Hosp out at first. Dick delivered the seventh run on Litschi's long fly to Driscoll. McDonnell mercifully ended the massacre with a fly to Daley. Then Musser, just to prove his versatility, fanned the first two men up in the next inning.

Driscoll's single, a couple of wild pitches by Brackenridge and a "squeeze" by Boles gave the Angels an ace in the fifth. Hits by Berger, Daley and Moore prompted two more Angel runs in the sixth. With the game safely tucked away, Brackenridge here gave way to Carson, who was touched for one run in the eighth.

MORNING GAME.

It was past the witching hour for lunch when the Angels and Tigers finished the trouble that started at 10:30 a.m. The Tigers piled up a four-run lead early in the game, the Angels, by persistent plodding tied up the score in the sixth, putting it on a 4-to-4 basis, and then Vernon drilled out the winning run in the tenth.

Jack Halla pitched the first inning for the Angels. He started nicely by fanning Carlisle, and Kane flied to Driscoll. That was the extent of Jack's triumph. Bayless busted a double to right, and Roy Brashear dumped Dick over the dish with the same kind of a blow to the left field fence. Brashear scored when "Babe" Driscoll made a subtle muff of Hosp's hard-hit fly. Litschi shoved Franz into a force play at second.

At the beginning of the second inning, "Handsome Poll" Perritt was introduced as Halla's logical successor. "Poll" pulled through that frame in great shape, but disaster in the shape of three hits and two runs overwhelmed him in the third. With one out, Kane's speed carried him to first ahead of a grounder to Howard, and Johnny pinched second. Bayless hit a fly to deep right. Driscoll ran back with the ball, stuck up his left hand blindly and got only a bunged finger for his trouble. The sphere kept right on for two bases, but Kane, who had remained at second to observe the outcome of Driscoll's efforts, did not get further than third. Roy Brashear saw a meager opening between Howard and Berger and swirled the ball through it, scoring Kane and Bayless. Hosp forced Brashear at second on a pretty play, Berger to Page. Perritt found Hosp deeply engrossed in thought about six feet off first base, and nipped him with a quick snap to Moore.

JOE LANDS ON JINX.

For the Angels, Moore walked in the second, stole second, took third on a wild pitch and scored on Driscoll's hot drive. Edmondson, Brashear, Hosp and McDonnell all collaborating in the colossal task of nailing "Babe" at first.

BIG CROWD SEES FIFTH CONTEST.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Total attendance, 34,683. Total receipts, $63,201.

National Commission's share, $6320.10.

Each club's share, $24,-440.45.

Joe Berger landed on the solar plexus of his batting jinx with a wholesome triple to right in the fourth, and scored on Daley's infield out. Moore marshaled a single to left, Page forcing him at second. Charley started to corsair second, and not only accomplished his purpose, but continued to third when no one covered on Brown's peg. Driscoll repaired the damage which he had inflicted in the first inning by singling Moore home.

Dillon's men evened the count in the sixth inning after two were down. Moore was hit over the heart with an inshoot. This really hurt Edmondson more than it did Charley, for Charles stole second and scored on Page's single to center.

Thus the thing stood until the tenth. Edmondson was cast aside in the ninth in order to let Harry Stewart try his skill as a pinch hitter. Harry didn't accomplish his purpose. He says that hereafter he will stick strictly to pitching. Roy Hitt took hold where Edmondson let go. Roy was touched up for a couple of hits in the ninth, and handed out a walk in the tenth, but all of these things did not suffice to get a runner past second.

At the opening of the tenth, Hogan was fired off the premises by Umpire Wheeler. This maddened Hogan's mates into avenging their chief by hanging up the deciding ace. Brashear, first up in the tenth, was walked. Roy worked his way along to third on infield outs by Hosp and Litschi. He scored on McDonnell's infield single to Berger in short left, Clarence barely beating Joe's bullet-like throw to Moore.

Berger took revenge on Brown, gathering up his grounder and tossing him out by a margin that left no doubt in the mind of the umpire. The Angels couldn't come back in their half.

COY'S HOMERS FOR OAKS DEFEAT SENATORS TWICE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 12.—Oakland took two ragged games from Sacramento today, the first by a score of 6 to 4, and the second 6 to 2, in six innings, darkness interfering at that point.

Bert Coy, with a home run in each game, played a big part in the Oakland victories. In the first game after Swain's home run had tied the score at four-all in the eighth, Coy put the ball over the fence in the ninth after Leard had been hit by a pitched ball, scoring two runs which were good for a win.

Peters was hit on the head by a hard-pitched ball in the second inning of the second game and was relieved by Fitzgerald. The locals led 2 to 1 until the fifth inning, when Coy started a rally with a home run and by the time Coy came up again and closed the inning by fouling to Reitmeyer, the Oaks had put over five runs on five hits and two errors. CALIFORNIA BACKS TOO FAST FOR U.S.C. TEAM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For the second time in as many years, the California freshmen triumphed over the Southern Californians on the Rugby field this afternoon, piling up a total of twenty-three points against the three counts registered by the southerners.

California has a wonderful freshman team. It is nearly as good as any varsity ever turned out at Berkeley. The six weeks of consistent training and practice was apparent as soon as the men took the field. In contrast to the perfect condition, it must be remembered that the Methodists have only been in harness since the middle of September, and that this was their first real contest of the year.

The first pretty piece of work that brought the bleachers to their feet was a fifty-five-yard run by Len Livernash for a score. Montgomery booted the ball, and when Livernash secured, he started out like a frightened rabbit, not trusting to pass to any of his team mates. Gianelli and Montgomery made desperate attempts to down him, but failed.

In the first fifteen minutes of play, the Trojans more than held their own. The forwards were working great in the scrum, and the Livernash boys, with Toolan, were getting the ball out of the scrum almost every time. In the line-outs, the Blue and Gold babies had a slight advantage, and showed much more cleverness in their foot work. One great weakness of the southerners was their inability to successfully break up the many dribbling rushes.

The large crowd was enthusiastic in their support of the U.S.C. players, and it was the general opinion that with a few good games like the one today, the visitors would give either one of the big varsities a good run for the money.

Promptly at 2:30 Seccor kicked off for U.S.C. It was hardly seven minutes after the play started that the ball was back in midfield, and Livernash got away for the sensational run of the day.

From the drop-out, the Trojans returned, but the freshmen were not to be denied, and by a series of dribbling rushes from the scrum, carried the ball to the twenty-five-yard line. All the forwards engaged in a passing rally and Gianelli, went over. Montgomery scored the goal, making the score 5 to 3.

During this period of the game the visitors were penalized for off-side play, and passing off the ground, time and again they were forced to fight doggedly on their five-yard line, and it was only after a desperate rally that Lantz secured and passed out, via his five-eighths, Togni planting the ball between the posts.

In the second half the U.S.C. team came back with a rush, and were at times dangerous. Meadow played a wonderful defensive game on the wing, and averted several tallies. A shift was made in the line-up at this point. Haney, who had been breaking through on the line-outs, and smothering the California half-back at all stages of the game, was removed, and Patterson was moved back to take his place, Alber going in at half-back. It looked like a stand-off, uneil Porter intercepted a pass and dashed through the loose for a try. Hardy converted the goal.

A number of times the California backs rushed the ball to their opponents, line, only to be met by a great defense that got the ball out of danger. The Trojans' scrum was getting the ball most of the time, but when the backs got hold of it, Fish and Hodges, the break-aways, would smash things. The last try was the result of clean-cut passing.

The line-up follows:

U.S.C.		California Freshmen.
Livernash	forward	King
Toolan	forward	Edinger.
Livernash	forward	Buckner
Keller	forward	Hardy. (Saunders)
Hollingsworth	forward	Wolff (Waltz)

Tescke	forward	Porter
Patterson (Alber)	half-back	Lantz
Lund	five-eighths	Hazeltine
Haney (Patterson)	five-eights	Togni (Graff)

Oxnam	center	Lane
Meadow	wing	Hayes

SUTER MAKES NEW RECORD IN BEATING THE SEALS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—Suter of Portland made a strike-out record for the Coast League season in today's afternoon game here against San Francisco, by fanning sixteen men. Portland outplayed and outbatted San Francisco, winning 8 to 3. The morning game also went to the northerners, 7 to 2.

In the morning game, Rodgers and H. Baker each drove the ball over the fence, Baker later making a two-bagger. Although San Francisco registered fourteen hits to Portland's 5, costly errors, five in all, at critical times, prevented scores.

Local Y.M.C.A. Team Has Very Easy Time in Defeating Fast Bunch From South Pasadena.

Thirty-one to nothing was the score piled up against South Pasadena High School yesterday afternoon by the Y.M.C.A. eleven, on the East Seventh-street field.

This was the first game for both teams, yet the play was snappy and notwithstanding the fact that they were outclassed, the South Pasadena lads put up an interesting game and fought for every inch Y.M.C.A. gained.

EXCITING TIE GAME.

Compton High School Team Holds U.S.C. Even, Owing to Very Good Work by Negro Player.

In their second game this season, the ruggers from Compton High School tied U.S.C.'s preps on Bovard Field yesterday afternoon.

Both teams scored in the first half and in the second Compton pressed the preps hard, but failed to carry the ball over.

The shining light of the affair was a colored lad who bears the name of Elish Ward. Time and again this lad broke away for long runs and his booting kept the ball close to the preps' line. The score was 3 to 3.

Broc Four-Passenger Brougham, Model 28

The Luxurious BROC

THE thorough comfort of the Luxurious Broc brougham—Model 28—is far in advance of accepted standards. It's difficult to imagine, for there's nothing to measure it by; but experience demonstrates it. Even on solid tires, Model 28 rides like a cradle.

There are several reasons for this.

Its 95-inch wheel-base—longer than that of any other four-passenger electric—minimizes inequalities of the road.

Its springs are quick-acting and slow to recoil. Thus they absorb shocks without tossing the occupants of the car on the rebound. They also eliminate side-rock in turning corners.

The eight-inch cushions of the rear seat are the acme of comfort.

And Model 28 is the roomiest four-passenger electric built. Door-width and knee-room are ample; and head-room is sufficient for tall millinery or a man's opera-hat.

Boston—Hooper drove the ball to left field for three bases and scored on a three-bagger by Yerkes. The crowd was in a turmoil of excitement when Speaker came to the bat. Yerkes scored when Doyle muffed Speaker's grounder. Speaker tried to go to second on the error but was thrown out, Murray to Fletcher. Lewis was out, Mathewson to Merkle. Gardner out to Merkle, unassisted. Two runs, two hits, one error.

FOURTH INNING.

New York—The Boston fans were simply delirious with joy and they cheered Hooper as he went to his position in right field. Murray out on a fly to Yerkes. Merkle struck out. Bedient burnt the ball over the plate with bewildering speed and he had his drop curve working nicely. Herzog sent up a high one to Stahl. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Boston—Stahl out, Herzog to Merkle. Wagner struck out. Cady flied to Snodgrass. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FIFTH INNING.

New York—Meyers singled to left. Fletcher flew out to Hooper. Mathewson struck out. Devore flied to Hooper. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Boston—Bedient line-flied to Merkle. Hooper out, Doyle to Merkle. Fletcher threw out Yerkes at first. It was a brilliant stop and throw of a hard grounder. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING.

New York—Doyle out, Yerkes to Stahl. This was another clever play, Yerkes taking the grounder on the grass toward first base. Snodgrass flied to Gardner. Murray fouled to Gardner. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Boston—Speaker out, Doyle to Merkle. Lewis out, Herzog to Merkle. Gardner out on a grounder to Merkle unassisted. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING.

New York—Merkle got a two-bagger to the left-field bleachers. Herzog flew to Wagner. Meyers flied to Speaker. Merkle went to third after the catch. McCormick went to bat for Fletcher. Merkle scored on Gardner's error on McCormick's grounder. Shafer ran for McCormick. Gardner threw out Mathewson at first. One run, one hits, one error.

Boston—Shafer went to short in place of Fletcher. Stahl out, Mathewson to Merkle. Shafer threw out Wagner at first. Herzog threw out Cady at first. Mathewson was pitching in full form, having turned the Boston batters back in one, two, three order in the last four innings. No runs, no hits, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING.

New York—Devore struck out. Doyle out at first on a grounder to Stahl, unassisted. Snodgrass struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Boston—Bedient flied out to Snodgrass. Hooper flied to Schafer, Yerkes lined to Herzog. No runs, no hits, no errors.

NINTH INNING.

New York—Murray out on a fly to Gardner. Merkle flew out to Speaker. It was a long drive but Speaker judged it perfectly.

Wonderful Rugby.

AUSTRALIANS WIN GREAT GAME FROM STANFORD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Australians, 6; Stanford, 0.

Six thousand people saw the All Star Australian Rugby team defeat the Cardinal varsity on Stanford Field this afternoon, in the greatest exhibition of the English game ever played in the State. The Antipodeans surpassed the varsity in all departments of play, except in gameness, and the spectators were treated to some wonderful flashes of Rugby as it ought to be played.

The visiting forwards dribbled and the backfield was passed and worked together in a manner that never before had been seen here. The brilliant "Waratahs" did not run up a larger score than they did only on account of the aggressive and smashing game the fighting Cardinal played.

Stanford fought the visitors to a standstill in the first half and it was not until another half of the second period had elapsed that the "Waratahs" got the ball across the line.

The classy playing of the visitors availed them little against Stanford's fierce playing and it looked as if the teams were going to battle to a draw, but within fifteen minutes of the end of the game the "Waratah" back started a rush on Stanford's 30-yard line which the Cardinal defense could not check and the spheroid was swept across the line. Prentice failed to convert. Shortly after, Capt. Prentice kicked a goal from placement from the 25-yard line and raised the score to 6 to 0.

The teams lined up as follows:

Stanford — Erb, fullback; Noble, Templeton, wings; Reeves, Andrews, center; P. Harrington, Kern, five; Cass, A. Erb, half; Gard, Froth, rear rank; Schaupp, back; Partridge, Smith, side rank; Bly, Sinclair, Corbet, Peck, first rank.

Australia—Duryee, fullback; Carroll, Jones, wings; Wogan, center; Prentice, Wellbusch, fives; Walker, half; George, Griffin, Pugh, Kent, Fahey, Richards, Fraser, Wylie, forwards.

Down and Out.

POOR OLD AL KAUFMAN PUT OUT IN TWO ROUNDS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Luther McCarthy of Nebraska put the finishing touches to Al Kaufman's ring career in the second round at the Eighth and Howard streets arena this afternoon. After four knockdowns, the last of which was a crashing right that sent the dazed Californian full length on the canvas with his head through the ropes, Captain of Police O'Shea signaled to Referee Jim Griffin that the bout must be ended.

The decision was given to McCarthy before the count had been completed, but Kaufman had absolutely no chance and the action taken in stopping the match was quite right.

The bout was a disappointment in many ways for while it proved that the San Franciscan is through for all time with the pugilistic game, it was no fair test of McCarthy's ability and the fans are still in the dark as to how seriously he is to be considered for the white-hope division.

Kaufman was simply a shell of a fighter and has absolutely no defense. McCarthy's right hand punches went to the mark almost every time they landed and Kaufman didn't even seem able to move his head out of the way of the glove that he must have seen coming.

CUBS DEFEAT SOX.

Night Wire.] The Chicago Nationals defeated the American Leaguers, 5 to 4, in the first game of the series to decide the baseball championship of Chicago today.

The White Sox threatened to tie up the score in the ninth inning, but Borton failed to hit with the bases loaded and two out.

The Americans out-hit their opponents, but Lavender was given better support. The game was witnessed by a crowd estimated at 13,000.

BRITTON IN FRONT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Jack Britton, the Chicago lightweight, cleverly defeated Leach Cross of New York in a ten-round bout here last night. Britton had the better of every round.

SHUT-OUT VICTORY.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—[Special Dispatch and by Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.] In one of the fastest games of the year, the Browns blanked the Cardinals this afternoon, due mostly to the grand pitching of Wielman, who allowed but one hit, ad struck out six men. He was a little wild at times, but did his best work after allowing men to get on through bases on balls. Harmon was pounded in the pinches, Alex, Harmon and Stovall all scoring runs. Wellman himself batted in a run. The score was 4 to 0.

HUGHEY SMITH ILL.
MOTHER CALLED HERE.

Hughey Smith, catcher of the Los Angeles club, who is ill of typhoid fever at Riverside, is in a critical condition, according to word received here yesterday. Pete Smith, his brother, who is with him, yesterday sent word for another brother and Hughey's mother to come here from San Francisco at once.

Sickness has become so prevalent among the Los Angeles players, that Henry Berry has started a rigid investigation to ascertain, if possible, the cause.

Frank Dillon and "Bill" Tozer were added to the list yesterday. Both of them left the park ill, and took to their beds. Chander Bush, Henry Berry's nephew, who has been working at the park, was also taken ill yesterday, and his case has been pronounced one of typhoid fever.

"Doc" Finley, trainer of the club, is sick at home, and "Boots" Weber, assistant secretary of the team, is just recovering from a short siege of illness.

SANTA CLARA IN FRONT.

SANTA CLARA, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Santa Clara College Rugby team overwhelmed the University of the Pacific today by the score of 36 to 0. The Santa Clara team, under the coaching of Pat Higgins of Los Angeles, is developing into one of the fastest Rugby aggregations on the Coast. The play of the winners today was dazzling all the way and their opponents had no chance during any stage of the game.

TIGER SCRUBS STRONG.

The Oxy second team was too strong for the football team from the Pasadena High School yesterday afternoon on the Crown City gridiron, and walked away with the preps by the score of 13 to 0. The game was well played and the Tiger scrubs showed a great deal more teamwork in this game than at any time before this season.

The Doctor's Answers on Health & Beauty Questions

By DR. LEWIS BAKER.

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given, and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Streets, Dayton, Ohio., enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Distress" writes: "My hair is so oily and straggling I wish you could tell me something to make it soft and fluffy. It makes me positively homely. I also have a great deal of dandruff."

Answer: Many women would be more beautiful if they had soft, fluffy hair. I can tell you a very simple remedy, one that will make your hair soft and fluffy. It will cure dandruff, itching scalp and lusterless and falling hair. Ask your druggist for a 4 oz. jar of plain yellow minyol and use according to directions, and you will be surprised to note the difference in your hair.

"Fred W." writes: "I suffer with headache, indigestion, nervousness, debility and am also thin almost to the danger point. What can be done for me?"

Answer: You can very readily overcome these difficulties by using three-grain hyponuclane tablets. They are put up in sealed cartons with full directions. These are highly recommended by physicians, and if used according to directions you will soon be rid of headache, your indigestion will be gone and you will gain from 10 to 30 pounds. These tablets should be taken regularly for several months, and you can depend on gaining flesh.

"Lee" writes: "I have tried so many remedies for rheumatism that I am almost afraid to try any more, but if you can tell me a sure cure I will try it."

Answer: Do not be disheartened because you have not been able to find something that would cure your rheumatism for you can be cured if you will take what I tell you. Get from the drug store: Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate 4 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; and syrup sarsaparilla, 5 ozs. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and again before going to bed.

"Fern" writes: "I have suffered with a bad cough for some time and I am also weak and tired most of the time, which I think is due to the severe coughing. Can you give me a remedy?"

Answer: Yes, your weakness is due to the coughing, but you can be cured by using the following: Get a 2½ oz. package of essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle, then take a teaspoonful every hour or two until the cough is cured. This makes a full pint of the very best and safest cough syrup. If your druggist does not have mentho-laxene have him order it for you of the wholesale firms.

Doctor: What can I take for a bad case

I am also bothered with constipation."

Answer: You should not neglect indigestion and constipation as it leads to more serious trouble, very frequently appendicitis is caused by this neglect. Begin at once and take tablets triopeptine. These are packed in sealed cartons with full directions for taking.

"Laura S." writes: "I am so tired and nervous all the time that I can scarcely drag one foot after the other. It is very hard for me as I have to work. My appetite is also very poor."

Answer: What you need is a good tonic restorative treatment. Take the tonic prescribed below and you will soon be strong and healthy and will not have that tired feeling. Your work will become a pleasure to you. Syrup of hypophosphites comp. 5 ozs., tincture cadomene, 1 oz., mix and take a teaspoonful before each meal. This should be continued for several weeks until you feel perfectly strong.

"Martha" writes: "If you know of a safe, harmless but effective remedy for reducing weight, please advise."

Answer: Purchase these two ingredients at the drug store and take a teaspoonful after each meal for three days, then double the dose continuing for several weeks or as long as necessary: Aromatic elixir, 5 ozs.; glycol arbolene, 1 oz. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and always shake before using. It is well to purchase these separately to avoid substitution.

"Anna R." writes: "I have taken medicine from several doctors for liver and kidney trouble and constipation, but it does not seem to help me at all. My skin is sallow, I have constant headaches and dizzy spells. What shall I do?"

Answer: The best remedy that I know for your trouble is three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets.) These are packed in sealed tubes with full directions. Most of the remedies only relieve, but if you take the sulpherb tablets regularly for a few weeks you will be cured. This will purify the blood and your skin will lose that sallow look.

"Busy Mother"—Bedwetting can be easily cured in children by giving them the following: Tincture cubebs, 1 dram; tincture rhus aromatic, 2 drams, and comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz. Give from 10 to 15 drops in water an hour before each meal.

Doctor: "I have a very bad case of catarrh of the head and my stomach, bowels and blood are affected. I suffer greatly and would like a cure."

A. G.:—Local treatment should be used as follows: Get 2 ozs. of antiseptic Vilane powder. Use a half teaspoonful to a pint of warm water; snuff the water from the palm of the hand through the nostrils two or three times a day. Then make a catarrh balm by mixing a level teaspoonful of Vilane powder with one ounce of vaseline or lard and apply to the nostrils as far up as possible. Also take a teaspoonful four times daily of the following: Syrup sarsaparilla comp. 4 ozs., comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz., fluid ext. buchu, 1 oz. Mix and shake well

Pasadena.

BURDETTES ARRIVE HOME.

Pasadena Humorist Returns from Tour of Europe.

Great Season Is Forecast for Crown City.

Woman May Be Supported by the Prohibitionists.

PASADENA, Oct. 12.—Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, who had been absent from Pasadena since May 11, last, returned home from Europe on the Santa Fe limited yesterday. When the train pulled into the station at 2 o'clock in the afternoon there was a party of friends on the platform awaiting their arrival.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Burdette returned home in the best of health and declared that they were never so happy as to be back.

"We say each year," said Mrs. Burdette, "that we shall not leave again, and then we feel the need of a change and go after all. But there is no place like Pasadena for us."

The distinguished couple spent a large part of the time they have been away from home at Baden-Baden, and both declare that they have been greatly benefited, and have never felt better than now.

Dr. Burdette forecasts a very profitable and brilliant winter for Pasadena.

"Everything looks all right," he said, "and I believe that Southern California is going to have a fine winter and a great many visitors. They are already on their way here."

The party that greeted Dr. and Mrs. Burdette at the railway station was headed by Roy Bradley Wheeler, Mrs. Burdette's son, and his wife, and they were escorted to their home, Sunnycrest, No. 891 South Orange Grove avenue.

TELLS OF HORRIBLE THINGS.

A first-hand account of atrocities practiced by the rubber-gatherers of Bolivia was received yesterday by Charles B. Moody, No. 1259 Summit avenue, in a letter from a friend, Walter I. Gholz, also formerly of Pasadena, and now a teacher at the American Institute at La Paz. Gholz writes in part:

"Indians are induced by all sorts of promises to enter the services of the rubber companies. When they get into the forests there is no escape for them. They are treated worse than dogs and often flogged to death, or their hands and feet chopped off by their cruel overseers. Their only escape is death. About four months ago three of the boys from our school ran away. Their parents were notified and we did all that we could in an effort to get them back. One returned, another had gone into the army, but the third boy is supposed to be in the rubber country, and all hope of ever getting him back has been abandoned."

WOMAN MAY RUN.

Although no one will mention any names, it was reported yesterday that the prohibitionists of the city will back a woman for one of the city commissioners when the officers who are to take the reins of government are chosen next spring.

It is believed by those who are behind the plans that there are phases of the city government that can be handled by a woman better than by a man and that the fair sex should at least be represented on the board. They claim that if a woman is nominated she will receive much support and probably be put into office.

CITY BRIEFS.

The new $10,000 auto fire engine, which arrived in the city last week, and which has already been tested as to its pumping capacity, will be tested for speed by the city commissioners tomorrow.

A Coroner's jury yesterday morning exonerated the crew from all blame for the death of Mrs. W. H. Blackwell of No. 78 West Peoria street, who was killed by being struck by a Pacific Electric car at Bairdstown last Thursday night.

Plans for the dedication of the new Elks' home on West Colorado street next Saturday were completed yesterday. The exercises will be the most elaborate ever held by the local lodge. Many visiting Elks from all parts of the State will be present and between the hours of 1 o'clock and 5 o'clock in the afternoon the public will be invited to inspect the building.

The opening dance of the Altadena Country Club last night was one of the prettiest affairs that has been given yet this winter. J. B. Coulston, president of the club, was the host. He was assisted by a large committee.

The annual Education Day of the Shakespeare Club comes next Tuesday. The programme will open at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the clubhouse, and Dr. Jeremiah Rhodes, superintendent of city schools, will make the chief address. His subject will be "The American Girl."

Rev. Edward MacLellan, lately from London, will preach at the First Congregational Church this morning.

AFTER THE VIOLATORS.

Pomona Trustees Irritated by Speeders Who "Cut Corners" Will Rigidly Enforce Laws.

POMONA, Oct. 12.—Because of continued violations of the city traffic ordinance on the part of automobilists and others who "cut" street corners and whose actions have caused several accidents, the ordinance will henceforth be rigidly enforced by Chief of Police Tracy and his deputies. White circles have now been painted on the pavement, marking the center of each street crossing in the business district, to serve as guides and as restrictions for the benefit of automobiles and others. Parties guilty of "cutting corners" hereafter will be subject to a fine by Police Judge Gallup.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Dr. David Prescott Barrows, dean of the pedagogical department of the University of California, is the guest of his mother-in-law, Mrs. B. S. Nichols of North Park avenue. Dr. Barrows will participate in the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Pomona College on Monday, when he will deliver an address upon "The Educational Ideal of a College."

About a hundred and fifty members of the Catholic Church of this locality passed today at a picnic at Urbita Springs with others from Riverside, Redlands and San Bernardino. The picnic was held in honor of Discovery Day under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus. The local banks and postoffice were closed here today because of the holiday.

An interesting meeting and banquet and session of the San Gabriel Inter-city Commission was held at Pilgrim House here at which there was a good-sized attendance. President John D. Reavis presided and there were several addresses explaining the advantages of the new county charter.

Louis Brosseau, who is a Pomona pioneer, is convalescent from an operation performed at the Pomona Valley Hospital, where he has been for a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Jennie Marsh of No. 919 West Holt avenue has received the news of the sudden death of her son-in-law, B. R. Wallace, a civil engineer who has been in the employ of the Butte Power and Electric Company. Mr. Wallace was accidentally killed while superintending some work. The remains were brought here today by the widow and the funeral will be held here.

Pomona.

COUNTY CHARTER SHOWN UP BY A STEREOPTICON.

POMONA, Oct. 12.—Gathered in the Congregational Church at Pomona last night, members of the San Gabriel Valley Inter-City Commission, with many ladies and friends, listened to a careful analysis and explanation of the proposed county charter made by Frederick Baker, one of the prominent members of the Board of Freeholders who framed the instrument. Throwing the important sections of the charter on a screen by means of a stereopticon, Mr. Baker was able to take the subject up line by line and show exactly what was the purpose and what would be the operation of every provision.

The speaker explained that the purpose of a county charter was to substitute local government which could adapt itself to special needs for the long-distance control from Sacramento which must of necessity be rigid and inefficient. He brought out the fact that the kind of government needed for a county such as Los Angeles, having upward of 500,000 people, would be radically different from that in a county such as Alpine, where the total population is only 350 persons. Besides this advantage from home rule, one of the chief aims in framing this county charter was to gain the advantages of the short ballot, which was characterized as the most important step in the reform government of today.

Under the terms of the county charter as drawn, the only elective officers are the Supervisors, District Attorney, Sheriff and Assessor, while all the great number of other officials, except a few chief deputies and the officers of the school system, are appointed under the provisions of Civil Service regulations. In respect to civil service, Mr. Baker pointed out that the Board of Freeholders had been fortunate in having the assistance of Elliott H. Goodwin, a national authority on this subject, who had outlined this civil service article in the charter and had made many valuable suggestions.

Considerable discussion was provoked by the clause providing public defender to act for persons unable to provide their own counsel in legal matters, but it was shown that in Oklahoma and in other sections where this officer had been provided for, only such persons as were unable to pay for actually-needed assistance took the time of this county officer. In this and in other provisions of the charter it was shown that the board had been moved by humanitarian motives, as for example, in providing for compensation to be paid to dependents of prisoners held at enforced labor.

Although the State law provides for recall of all elective officers, the charter framers have extended the principle to appointed officers as well, in order that all positions might be under the control of the people at all times.

Because of the fact that many members had left by the time the explanation of the charter was completed, it was decided not to set the formal approval or disapproval of the commission upon it at this meeting, but to take action at the next meeting of this body.

Earlier in the evening the members of the commission and their friends enjoyed a delightful dinner served by the ladies of the church during which several matters of business were transacted. In the absence of Fred J. Smith, member of the Executive Committee from Pomona, who was unable to be present because of an accident, W. H. Truitt, secretary of the Pomona Board of Trade, opened the meeting after an invocation by Rev. A. P. Davis, by introducing John D. Reavis, president of the commission. Mr. Reavis, in briefly explaining the purposes and work of the commission, told of the rapid progress of the lighted way movement, which is indicated on all sides. Bairdstown, he announced, had recently voted to light that portion of the boulevard which lies within their limits, and Monrovia and Glendora had also ordered the lights. "The residents of this beautiful valley," said the speaker, "must stand together upon all matters of common interest, and by so doing we can make our valley not only the most beautiful, but the best governed and most progressive section in the world."

Robert Jordan, chairman of the committee which has been drafting a uniform automobile ordinance, reported that his committee, in conjunction with the Automobile Club of Southern California and the various attorneys of the cities, had completed an ordinance. This ordinance provides for a limit of fifteen miles an hour in the more thickly-settled portions of the cities and twenty miles an hour in the outskirts of the cities, the limits to be marked by signs clearly placed. The details and provisions of this ordinance will be brought up at the meeting of the Executive Committee of the commission, where the ordinance will be voted on as a whole for the recommendation of the commission.

Other matters of business were a change in the by-laws providing for dues on a sliding scale of $5 to $15, to be determined by the Executive Committee on the basis of population and valuation instead of the present fixed scale of $5 from each city, and a short but vigorous condemnation of the proposed amendment to the constitution providing for city and county consolidation.

The next meeting of the commission will be held in South Pasadena on Friday, October 25.

MORLEY SELLS BEACH HOTEL.

Los Angeles Investors Form Corporation and Take Over the Redondo Beach Hostelry—News Briefs.

REDONDO BEACH, Oct. 12.—Hotel Redondo again changed hands today and will be under new management within a few days. The five-year lease held by James F. Morley since last July has been sold to a Los Angeles close corporation and the hotel will be run on the American as well as European plan under the new regime.

Although the parties interested would not make public the name of the company or men that have taken the hotel it is understood that it will be controlled by men interested in some of the large Pasadena hotels.

The inventory was taken today and the contract signed by the new owners.

When Morley took hold of the hotel last summer he made extensive improvements and installed a complete and most modern kitchen and other needed improvements. It is due to his success of the past season that today's sale was effected.

Tomorrow and Monday a large number of hunting parties will leave here to be on the ground when the hunting season opens. Among those who plan to go are a party composed of A. Protsh, Father J. O'Callaghan, John I. Lechner, Charles Noeser, Louis Culler, Herbert Culler and Charles Love, who will go to Hemet, Perris and that vicinity. J. P. Luxford and E. L. Chrisman will leave for San Diego county Monday; W. M. McKnight and S. D. Barkley will leave for Bakersfield Monday; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cavanah and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Shiner will leave for San Diego the first of the week.

NEW SCIENTIST CHURCH.

Whittier Congregations Will Dedicate New Edifice Today with Ceremonies of Considerable Splendor.

WHITTIER, Oct 12.—Dedication of the new Christian Science Church, just completed at the corner of Washington avenue and Bailey street, will take place tomorrow, services to be held both morning and evening. Simple services will mark the opening of the new edifice, to be conducted in the usual manner by the church reader, Mrs. Helen Gahr. The new structure was erected at a cost of $7800, with furnishings, and occupies a most enviable site in the city, at the southwest corner of Central Park.

Ten young Whittier ladies are already entered in the contest for queen of the Whittier flower show. The contest promises to become quite as spirited as any in the history of Whittier queen making. Those whose names are already entered for the voting contest are Misses Gladys Coffin, Bessie Woods, Edna Stone, Edith McCaslin, Vivian Rice, Marian Miller, Elma Gregg, Rosa Hadley, Florence Darling and Naomi Little. The flower show will be held October 24 to 26.

Rev. George W. Coultas, the newly-assigned pastor of the Whittier Methodist Church, will give his first sermon here tomorrow. Rev. Coultas has been in Southern California for the past seventeen years, having charges near or in Los Angeles all that time. He comes here from the pastorate of the St. James Church, Los Angeles, where he has served the past six years.

Joe Buckmaster, a High School freshman, will be confined to his home for several weeks as a result of a collision with an automobile last evening. Returning from work he was riding rapidly down the road in Whittier College campus, and did not notice the approaching auto, as he turned into Painter avenue. Frank Milhous, an East Whittier rancher, driving the auto, saw the boy and supposed the lad saw him. Young Buckmaster struck the front of the machine squarely and was thrown under the auto, a wheel passing over his leg and breaking the ankle.

What a Prominent Physician Has to Say of My Wonderful Stomach Remedy.

Sept. 12th, 1911.

Mr. Geo. H. Mayr, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:—My wife received your letter and treatment a few days ago. She took the medicines as per directions Saturday with wonderful results, as she passed a large quantity of gall stones of various sizes. I will send you a money order herewith for balance of treatment. Have recommended you to several that I know need your treatment. I have practiced medicine 20 years and have used Olive Oil treatments for a long time for my wife, and I can assure you that your combination greatly surprised me. You shall hear from me again soon.

Yours gratefully,

What a Trained Nurse Has to Say.

Aug. 24th, 1911.

Mr. Geo. H. Mayr, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:—To begin with I am a trained nurse and I had two patients that the doctors seemed unable to reach with their medicines and were trying to persuade the patient to submit to the knife. A friend who has tried your Wonderful medicine proposed that I recommend it to my patient, so I did. They agreed to try the medicine if I would try the sample on myself. To please my patients was why I sent for the sample. I know that your medicine is wonderful because it has cured Mrs. Clark Fitzsimmons of Orofino, Idaho, and Mrs. Charley Frear of the same place. I am very glad that I was able to recommend your medicine to them.

Cured After Five Years Sickness.

Mr. George H. Mayr, Chicago, Ill.

I am pleased to inform you that I ordered a full treatment the latter part of March. It cured me after a five years spell of sickness. I ordered a free bottle for a neighbor. Now I must tell you it is through me you are getting so many orders from Willard and Yelton Post Offices. I sojourned through Eastern Colorado and sang your praises and left your address wherever I went. I have not written you at an earlier date as I have just waited to see if I stayed cured before I let you know. Your remedy is surely a wonder. The Doctors told me I had appendicitis and would soon die if I were not operated on. I was lying in bed about all the time with misery most of the time for five years. I took treatment during March, have been busy ever since. It is the only medicine that hit the sore spot.—L. C. Morehead, Willard, Oklahoma.

Doctor Said Cancer of the Stomach.

July 22, 1911.

Mr. Geo. H. Mayr, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:—I write you this morning that I took my last drop of medicine yesterday morning and am now free from gall stones. It has made a new man of me. Sleep well, eat what I want and feel fine. No soreness left but I have some large boils. I think it drove them out. The Doctors said I had cancer of the stomach, and nothing would do but to be operated on, but they were mistaken. I have spent lots of money before and only got temporary relief, but I assure you I feel all right now. Passed about 500 gall stones.

Yours truly, Wm. Campbell,
Denver, Missouri.

BANK SENDS OUT A WOMAN.

Oranges at Watsonville Vie With the Apple.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 12.—Mrs. W. H. Kerr of Los Angeles for the Bank of Commerce of that city came to town last night to take possession of all the furnishings in the Liberty Theater.

After the performance the lights were turned off, and she had to pay $1 before the illumination would be turned on again. Then the participants in the unusual affair, Mrs. Kerr, her son, and Mrs. Mary McDonald and her son, had an altercation in the theater. Mrs. McDonald offered Mrs. Kerr $25 in gold for certain electrical machinery, and informed her that she would not be permitted to take the machinery. This was based upon a judgment of Judge Wood, in a suit of the bank against Mrs. McDonald, the court ruling that the bank could take the machinery unless Mrs. McDonald paid the balance on it.

"I'm here with an auto truck from Los Angeles costing me $2.50 an hour to get this stuff, and I'll take all or none," Mrs. Kerr exclaimed. She took none.

During the deliberations of the principals which were exciting, Attorney J. W. Curtis for Mrs. McDonald was forced to rush young Kerr from the sidewalk for suggestive remarks, the police threatened young Kerr with arrest, and later, in the theater, he had a close call from a fistic encounter.

TO REGULATE BOATING.

Dist.-Atty. R. B. Goodcell is preparing a county ordinance which is aimed to regulate boating on lakes in this county, especially the lakes at Little and Big Bear Valley. The drowning of three young men in Bear Valley, and one boy in Little Bear Valley, has brought to the notice of the public the almost total disregard of safety by boaters. The recent tragedy in Bear Valley was the result of three youths braving a storm in nothing but a frail canvas boat. It is expected to prohibit the use of canvas boats on the lakes.

SPITE FENCE.

The suit of H. H. Whaley against A. E. Aldridge to enjoin the latter from maintaining a "spite" fence along the east wall of the Aldridge building at Third and F streets, was dismissed today. The principals have settled their difficulties. Whaley owns a two-story block adjoining the one-story Aldridge block. Aldridge took exceptions, and on the roof of his building he erected a high corrugated iron obstruction, which completely shut out all light and ventilation from the second floor of the Whaley building. As Whaley and Aldridge are prominent pioneers, their differences have been of much interest to the local public.

ORANGE VERSUS APPLE.

Word from the orange show exhibit being maintained at the Watsonville apple show indicates immense interest in the citrus fruit industry of Southern California. The orange exhibit is being maintained by the directors of the National Orange Show Association. The cream of the citrus fruit is on exhibition, and tons of literature are being distributed. The literature is from every section taking part in the national orange show in this city, and no distinction is shown in favor of any particular district.

NUGGETS OF GOLD.

Nuggets of gold are being found in the Whipple Wash, in the eastern end of this county, forty miles from Needles. Col. Kit Carson, manager of the Whipple Mining Company, brought in one nugget valued at $8. Employes of the company have collected smallers ones. The wash has long been regarded as a likely placer field, but pannings showed less color than prospectors imagined would be possible owing to the general character of the sand. The discovery of nuggets is attracting many prospectors and miners to the locality.

SCHOOL BONDS ISSUED.

School bonds in the sum of $310,-[illegible] have been issued by the various school districts of the county since March 4, last. The readiness which voters have responded to the proposition to vote bonds for school purposes is regarded as a reflect of the prosperity which has held sway in this county for many years continuously. The Chaffee Union High, of Ontario and Upland, voted $200,000; Colton and Mission each voted $35,000; Bloomington, $20,000; Etiwanda, $[illegible] and Yucaipa, $5500.

PERRIS.

PERRIS, Oct. 12.—Contractor W. [illegible] has commenced the erection of the two-story nine-room bungalow for Dr. D. W. Sheldon on Fourth street. The estimated cost of the building when completed is $4000.

The regular monthly meeting of the City Board of Trustees was held Friday evening in the City Hall. The plans and specifications for the sidewalk improvement to be made on D street presented by Engineer Bour[illegible] were adopted. James Noonan was appointed street superintendent. His duty will be to personally supervise the construction of the sidewalks to be put in and to see that the contractor follows the specifications.

Several men have been engaged in prospecting the past week for silica in the hills adjoining the Poorman ranch and near Bernasconi Pass. They have discovered a ledge which gives evidence of containing rich deposits of this mineral.

Electric lights have been installed in the City Hall on Fifth street and also in the Apostolic Faith Mission on [illegible] street.

FULLERTON.

FULLERTON, Oct. 12.—The Fullerton Walnut Growers' Association shipped the first carload of the season from this section today. It was purchased by M. E. Dodge of Los Angeles and Fullerton at 14 cents a pound and goes direct to Denver. The average carload contains from 250 to 275 one-hundred-pound sacks and as the output from this end of the country will be between 125 and 150 cars, the income for the local crop will be nearly $500,000.

The Benchley Fruit Company and H. F. Dairymple will begin carload shipments the first of next week.

As Mrs. W. A. McLaughlin and infant child are in destitute circumstances, a cash subscription is being taken up today for their benefit. It will be remembered that McLaughlin disappeared from Venice last Sunday, leaving his clothes in a bathhouse.

TWENTY YEARS FOR A BLOW.

Man on Probation at Ontario Alleged to Have Become Intoxicated and Mixed in a Fistic Encounter.

ONTARIO, Oct. 12.—Because Frank Mix, a somewhat notorious character of this city, got mixed up in a fistic encounter here last evening and attempted to spoil the features of his victim, he is today stared in the face by a twenty-year term in San Quentin.

Several months ago Mix was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of his minor sister-in-law and save for his wife and several small children would now have been behind the bars. As it was, Judge Wood of Los Angeles, occupying the Superior Court at San Bernardino, gave him twenty years in the penitentiary and suspended sentence, Mix being placed on parole, upon his promise to behave honorably and abide by the laws of the land.

He is said to have been intoxicated when arrested last evening on a charge of simple assault. This arrest has been reported to Probation Officer M. A. Bagley and if this officer deems it of sufficient impertance, Mix may be called upon to give an account of himself and it is more than likely that he will be sent to San Quentin for breaking his parole.

Bloomington Going Ahead

Attracting Attention of Investors and Growers.

Oranges Win Sweepstake Prizes in Exhibit.

Highway and Hotel Plans Being Fostered.

BLOOMINGTON, Oct. 12—(Special.) The greatest activity that this rich horticultural district has ever shown is being so strongly evidenced at the present time that the interest of outsiders is being attracted to an extent that promises wonderful prosperity for the future. The rich citrus section which captured the sweepstakes prize for Washington Navel Oranges at the National Orange Show at San Bernardino this year, is forging ahead at a rate that has drawn the attention of investors, home builders and realty dealers from Los Angeles and other sections of the Pacific Coast.

The biggest impetus that this section has experienced since the advent of the Fontana company has been given this week by the announcement that the Gibraltar Investment and Home Building Company of Los Angeles has concluded the purchase of three different tracts of land that reach a total of 1471 acres. This property immediately adjoins the city limits of Bloomington and it is understood that the work of subdivision and the sale of the land in the shape of home-sites of small acreage will be begun at once.

In the Heart of Activity.

The tract lies on either side of the main line of the Southern Pacific and the route of the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway passes through the center for two miles. It is the expectation that there will be rapid advancement in this district, as the acreage is ideal for olives, lemons and oranges, and it is in the heart of the activity that is being fostered by the Bloomington Business Men's Association. A hotel that will cost $15,000 and to be located directly east of the big plant of the Curtis Olive Company, is but one of the projects being planted by this active body of hustlers.

The record of the Gibraltar Company for doing things is expected to rapidly develop this town and the rich tract just bought. There is a lemon and orange packing-house on one corner of the land, and one but 200 feet away, while the Southern Pacific Bloomington station is only 100 yards from the new scene of activity. The Curtis Olive Company plant is directly across the street. The land is abundantly supplied with water and Bloomington expects the development to be a big boost for the town.

Though the officials of the company are not willing to talk at length regarding their plans, it is known that Gibraltar has growing at the Rialto nurseries within one and a half miles of this town an immense supply of olive and orange trees besides other nursery stock and this will be planted out in the developing of orchard homes and little farms.

Chain of Nurseries.

These nurseries are only a portion of the chain of over thirty which include the largest stock of growing olive trees in the world besides hundreds of thousands of orange trees. Other nurseries that will supply Bloomington acres are located at Redlands, Hemet, San Bernardino, Glendora, Glendale and in and about Los Angeles.

Two new steam propagating plants that will each grow 3,000,000 olive trees are being built at Hemet and San Bernardino and will help in the development of Gibraltar land at Bloomington into richly paying olive orchards. The acreage that is attracting the attention of investors is protected by mountains on the south that divert the winds, while the protection of the district from frost is shown by the record at the orange show after a winter which produced frosts that blighted many districts.

There is excellent local train service at the Bloomington station close to the land and the Riverside and Bloomington Electric Railway operates within 500 feet of the land. Some of the tract is planted to oranges of which groves surround on all sides. It is threaded by well-oiled roads. Big predictions for Bloomington's growth are now made.—[Adv.

TWO EXCEEDINGLY FASCINATING STORIES

—OF INTEREST TO—

EVERY WOMAN

Love of Little Children

"Nellie Grant, Nurse-Girl," is the heroine and the author of a most unusual fact-story to begin in the NOVEMBER WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION.

After the sudden death of her father, leaving her with almost no money, Nellie had to choose between marrying a young man in her home town and leaving Mooresville to earn her own living. For interesting reasons she decided upon the latter course, and eventually drifted into the one kind of work for which she seemed equipped—the care of little children. Exactly what this gently bred girl observed in the various homes in which she lived, the sunshine and shadow, the big and the little everyday occurrences, and Nellie's own charming love-story are simply and faithfully portrayed in this remarkable series.

The Editor of the Companion vouches for the truth of the statements made, although the names of people and places have of course been changed.

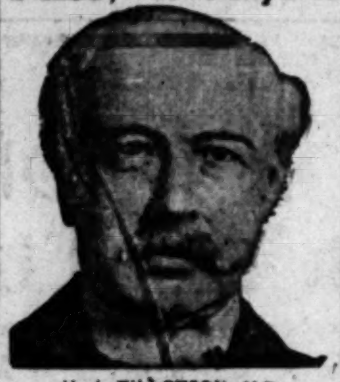
Piles, Fistula, Fissures and Hernia



H. J. TILLOTSON, M.D.
[Established 31 Years.]

I publish my photograph, personally conduct my office. I am the longest established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove. I possess skill and experience acquired in such a way that no other can share. Experience is the safe standard by which judgment should be valued.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their condition, or through unsuccessful treatment have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to treat such cases. It makes no difference about the financial part, as I accept pay for my services as benefits are derived, when I am satisfied the patient is reliable. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my services.

Most Time Saving, Most Natural, Most Safe. No Detention from Occupation, Family or Home. A Radical and Permanent Cure.

I invite you to come to my office. I will explain my treatment for Hernia, Piles, Fistula, Varicose Veins, Pelvic, Nervous, Blood, Kidney, Bladder and Rectal Diseases.

Piles, Fistula, Rectal Diseases.

These diseases are very common; most frequently found in persons of middle or advanced age; are exceedingly annoying, often very painful, and sometimes very dangerous, and frequently unfit one for pleasure or occupation. My treatment and successes are the result of years of experience; my treatment is kindly applied. I cure Piles without cutting. If I do not cure your Piles, Fistula and other Rectal Diseases, my treatment does not cost you anything. Gentleness in treatment comes from treating many cases. I guarantee a cure of Piles, Fistula, Ulcers and all curable Rectal Diseases.

Trusses Seldom Cure Rupture.

Disregard for existing Hernias has cost many lives. The smallest hernias are the most dangerous, because of the increased liability to strangulation. I am aware that a great deal of fraud has been practiced in connection with the alleged cure of rupture. I say positively that I cure rupture, to stay cured. I cure with perfect safety, and entail no suffering, and do not detain you from occupation.

I CURE PILES

FISTULA AND ALL RECTAL DISEASES

Without an Operation

BY MY PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD.

NO Cutting, Cauterizing, Burning, Injecting, Ligating, Detention from Business, Loss of Time.

I GUARANTEE TO CURE EVERY CASE
I ACCEPT FOR TREATMENT

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to all others. I cure without surgery and my patients are never confined in bed and never lose a moment's time from their business.

With my method I absorb pile tumors by medication, applied (or driven in) by a mild electric current. The piles are absorbed in a few treatments, leaving the rectum in a healthy, normal condition. There is no danger, no bad after effects and no pain or soreness.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered by me in my office.

If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. If you will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment.

I TREAT NO DISEASES EXCEPT THOSE OF THE RECTUM AND BOWELS.

REV. EDWARD BROOKS, CURED.

My Dear Mr. White: I wish to express to you again my heartfelt appreciation for what you have done for me. After suffering for years with the worst form of hemorrhoids YOU HAVE CURED ME COMPLETELY, and during the treatment I did not turn aside from my usual work. I therefore commend you and your method to all sufferers from rectal disorders. Very gratefully yours,
REV. EDWARD H. BROOKS (Baptist Minister,) 2812 Menlo ave., Los Angeles, Cal.

REV. D. N. BURTON, CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. White cured me without pain of piles, hemorrhage and ulceration of the rectum. Before going to him I was a semi-invalid, hardly able to get about. Since taking his treatment I have not missed a single Sunday from being in my pulpit. It is one year since he cured me, and I have not had the slightest return of the trouble. I recommend him to all and will gladly write to any sufferer who is in doubt and tell them what Dr. White did for me.
REV. D. N. BURTON, Pastor First Christian Church, Collinsville, Okla.
Formerly of Ocean Park, Cal.

MR. D. R. THAYER, CURED.

After suffering twenty years, Dr. C. H. White cured me of prolapsus and ulceration of the rectum. I know of many Los Angeles people he has cured and I will be glad to talk or correspond with any one needing treatment.
D. R. THAYER, 430 S. Flower St., Los Angeles.

MR. J. W. RICHMOND, CURED.

Dear Doctor White—In response to your kind inquiry as to my health, will say that I am entirely well of the fistula and piles from which I suffered for so many years.

Before going to you I was practically an invalid, having given up all work. Your treatment cured me completely and I am now at work every day and feel as well as I ever did in my life. I will gladly talk to anyone afflicted with rectal trouble and tell them what you did for me.

FIVE DAYS MORE

The American Bond Company of California will be organized next Friday, October 18th. If you act at once you can buy shares in this corporation at the first offering ground floor pre-organization price of 15 cents a share. To date subscriptions received aggregate nearly 200,000 shares. Every day is increasing the number of subscribers.

PROFIT AND SAFETY

The greatest profits are made from the safest and most conservative securities.

A merchant has invested in his business $30,000. Let us say his average net profit on the goods sold is 10 per cent.

What this profit means to the merchant depends on how many times his capital is turned over during the year.

As fast as the goods are sold the money comes back to him for reinvestment in other new goods to be in turn sold to his customers.

If he turns over his capital five times a year—that is, if he does $150,000 worth of business with his $30,000 capital—making an average net profit of 10 per cent. on each transaction, his total profits for the year are 50 per cent. on the invested capital.

The Bond House is a merchant. The commodity in which it deals is bonds—municipal bonds, county bonds, bonds authorized and approved by State and National laws, and first mortgage bonds on established industrial enterprises.

If the Bond House sells its merchandise at a net profit of 10 per cent. and turns its capital five times during the year it earns a NET PROFIT OF 50 PER CENT. UPON THE ENTIRE CAPITAL INVESTED.

The Bond House buys bonds at wholesale and sells them at retail. Its profits, like the profits of the merchant, are dependent upon the number of times it can turn over its capital in the course of a year.

But the Bond House differs materially in many points from the ordinary merchandise business.

The merchant deals in commodities which depreciate, deteriorate and go out of style.

Well selected bonds do not depreciate, but increase in value. High-class interest bearing securities never go out of style.

The goods of the merchant require display, shelf room and storage. If they remain in stock there is a necessary expense in carrying them and the interest on the money invested is being eaten up.

The stock in trade of the Bond House, well selected bonds, draw interest every day they lie in your vaults. They are earning money for the Bond House and it costs the Bond House nothing to carry them in stock.

If a dull period comes for the merchant and he cannot sell his goods the problems of interest, storage, shelf room and general expense bankrupt him.

If a dull period comes for the Bond House and it cannot find a satisfactory retail market for its bonds, its stock in trade continues to earn a profit every day, every week, every month, every year.

Safety and Profit are absolutely assured to the holder of the stock in a fairly organized, well managed Bond House.

The profits of the Bond House are legitimate and clean.

The Bond House renders a definite service to the city, community, public service corporation or industrial enterprise. It provides the enterprise with the funds it needs and is thereby entitled to the low wholesale price for its bonds.

These bonds in turn are justly sold at a higher price on the retail market.

Their sale value is based upon the security and assets back of them and the fixed interest rate which they guarantee.

The bonds so retailed are worth more because of the very fact that the Bond House has guaranteed the necessary funds to the enterprise against which they are issued.

Your Investment Protected and Safeguarded

The organizers of the American Bond Company of California laid down a platform for the protection of every small investor—one that is calculated to absolutely safeguard the small investor against loss.

The American Bond Company of California is to be essentially a public corporation.

It will be a public corporation in the sense that it will aid in the development of Los Angeles and California.

It will be a public corporation in the sense that it will do business with the masses, the small as well as the large bond-buyers of the Pacific Coast.

The way to insure the safety, security and success of a corporation is to have the public interested in its securities. Public sentiment controls. The corporation which fails to recognize this truth is obsolete, ossified and destined to lose power.

The way to inspire public interest and public confidence is to give to the public a fair deal, equal opportunity, and every safeguard and protection that can be afforded.

It is upon this principle that the American Bond Company of California is being organized.

As evidence of our good faith in this assertion we submit that you can now subscribe for the stock of this company in its pre-organization state on the same basis, at the same terms and for the same price as all other organizers of the company are paying for their stock.

This insures you that when a dividend is paid you will get as great returns in proportion to the amount invested as any other stockholder in the company.

There will be absolutely no gift, promotion or bonus stock issued under any pretext or subterfuge.

Every share of stock issued will return its full value to the treasury of the company in cash or its equivalent.

Every dollar received from the sale of stock will go direct into the treasury of the company to be used solely for company purposes—every penny must be used for the purpose of benefiting your stock interest and the interest of your fellow-stockholders.

No commissions will be paid on the sale of stock to any broker, promoter or so-called fiscal agent.

Out of every subscription received one cent for each share will be set aside in a special Reserve or Guarantee Fund.

This special fund will be for the particular protection of the small stockholder who may be forced to realize at any time upon his stock interest in the company.

The Guarantee Fund will serve as a balance wheel for the general market for the stock, and give it a stability and market value that it could not otherwise possess.

I have agreed to act as chairman of the organization committee and am accepting subscriptions pending the organization of the company.

The pre-organization price of the stock is 15c per share. You can, if you wish, subscribe for the shares on the ten monthly payment plan.

$15.00 cash; or $1.50 down and $1.50 per month for nine months buys 100 shares.

$75.00 cash; or $7.50 down, and $7.50 per month for nine months buys 500 shares.

$150.00 cash; or $15.00 down, and $15.00 per month for nine months buys 1000 shares.

$750.00 cash; or $75.00 down and $75.00 per month buys 5000 shares.

Other information will be furnished on request. Call at the office or write.

Remember, however, that there are only a few days remaining to join this company before organization. Act today. Send all orders to the undersigned.

THREE SIMILAR ACCIDENTS.

Woman and Two Men Injured by Being Run Down by Two Automobiles and Bicycle.

Within less than an hour yesterday afternoon three persons, a woman and two men, were knocked down in the streets in different sections of the city by two autos and a bicycle. Each victim sustained back injuries and minor bruises and contusions.

Mrs. M. B. Morley, 38 years old, No. 148 West Eightieth street, was knocked down at Third and Spring streets by a bicycle ridden by W. S. Mayl, No. 121 East Fifty-fifth street. The woman was waiting for a wagon to pass that she might board a street car.

Joseph Hulme, a student, 22 years old, living at Duarte, was struck at Seventh and Valencia streets by an auto driven by E. E. Jones, No. 835 Garland street. He did not see the machine approaching, he said, and stepped directly in front of it.

M. P. Stevens, No. 1634 Long Beach avenue, ran into P. M. Cummings, 55 years old, No. 405 West Forty-second street, at Fourth and Spring streets.

HE WAS BUT ISN'T.

In the case of Morris vs. A. L. Haley, which came up in Judge Young's court Tuesday, the name of A. Reif was mentioned. In its report of the proceedings The Times inadvertently referred to him as vice-president of the A. L. Haley Corporation; it should have read that Mr. Reif was at sometime before June, 1911, vice-president. He is not now connected with the corporation.

How I Killed My Superfluous Hair

Even After Beauty Doctors, Electricity, Powders, Pastes and Liquid Depilatories Failed.

(From a Correspondent)

"Killed" seems a strong word to use, but that is just what I wanted to do to the hair that disfigured my face and arms—I wanted to kill it root and all, so that it would never live again. It spoiled my looks, made me seem old and masculine, and hence interfered with both social and business success.

I tried the ordinary dissolvents and depilatories, but found them worthless—even dangerous. From a so-called specialist, I secured electrical treatment. It was painful and expensive, but I would have stood the suffering and cost, had I not found that the needle (electrolysis) often leaves scars that are even worse than the disfiguring hair itself.

So I gave up hope, and in despair resigned myself to being called the "hairy lady" for the rest of my life, until a traveled friend persuaded me to try a new and easy method learned from the Japanese. In it I found a way to actually kill the hair, and I permanently removed the superfluous growth, at the same time improving my complexion.

Having myself experienced so many previous disappointments, I have decided to forget my own sensitiveness, and for the benefit of my sex I will gladly explain to others the method which cured me. It is nothing like the powder, paste and liquid preparations that simply burn off the exposed hair and ruin the skin. It is a discovery only recently introduced into this country and so simple that any woman can use it in the privacy of her own room, and in only a few minutes time.

Many friends have said to me, "It seems too good to be true," but the test proved it true both for myself and others as well. If you will write me for full particulars, enclosing stamp for reply, which will be sent in plain, sealed envelope, you too may enjoy the same happy experience, for I will tell you fully and freely about this wonderful discovery so you can be just as successful as I was. Please state whether Mrs. or Miss and address, Mrs. Caroline Osgood, Apartment 740BR, 118 East 28th st., New York City.

SPECIAL INDORSEMENT: As the method above referred to has been indorsed by doctors, true specialists and many other publishers we advise all readers that afflicted to take advantage of Mrs. Osgood's offer and write her at once at above address.

STEINWAY

The New Small Grand at $800

THIS wonderful new instrument, whose extreme length is only five feet six inches, preserves the essentials of Steinway design, and the fundamental principles that have so long distinguished Steinway practice are retained intact.

It has the beautiful Steinway Grand tone—full and round, yet with a "bite" to it that is most refreshing. In short, it is a typical Steinway Grand, but composed within case dimensions that insure room for it in the smallest apartment.

The case design of this new Grand is perhaps the most graceful and thoroughly modern that the Steinway House has ever put forth. The lines are simple, the curves carefully drawn out—and the whole impression one of grace and beauty.

We invite you to see and try this triumph in piano-making. It will show you the reasons why the House of Steinway holds with the utmost ease its high position as the world's best producers of Pianos.

—We are exclusive Steinway Representatives for Southern California and Arizona.

—Steinway Uprights, $575 and upward.

—Steinway Grands, $800 and upward.

—Terms on Uprights, $15 and up monthly; on Grands, $25 and up monthly.

A Deplorable Situation.

INEFFICIENCY OF ALEXANDER ADMINISTRATION IS COSTING THE CITY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS.

No Provision for Gaining Revenue from Surplus Aqueduct Water---Harbor Improvement Held Up. No Relief From Street Car Congestion.

Owens River Water Will Be Here in a Few Months, But There Will Be No Distributing Systems and No Possibility of Selling Power—"Boobs" at the City Hall Unable to Grasp the Big Problem of Greater Los Angeles—City's Financial Affairs in Confusion and Bond Buyers Shy at Suggestion of Further Issues—Abundant Revenues Possible, but No Means of Securing Them, Thanks to Boys' Put on Men's Jobs—Guy Eddie's Salary Raised.

THAT the curse of incurable incompetency has paralyzed many of the departments of the city administration and resulted in woeful mismanagement and loss is evidenced by the wretchedly inefficient manner in which the administration is handling the harbor, power and water distributing projects and other municipal enterprises of vast importance to the future progress and prosperity of Los Angeles.

The confidence of financiers and business men of other parts of the country, in the financial sanity of this great city, has been lessened by the pitiful incapacity displayed by the present administration in its conduct of municipal affairs. Under Alexander and Lissner rule, the bonding power of the city has become impaired and the credit of the city reduced.

The enlightened and progressive business men who, in a body, stood by the present administration in the last political crisis, and by the exertion of powerful influences administered a crushing defeat to the Red menace, are disgusted and disappointed with the senile impotency of the handling of big municipal questions and the boyish laxity and shuffling incompetency of the various city officials responsible for the needless delays.

STAGGERING.

The costly failures of the Alexander administration make an appalling summary for tax-payers to consider:

No means provided for distributing or selling the surplus water of the Aqueduct.

No system for utilizing the Aqueduct's electric power.

Taxpayers to be compelled to meet the interest on the Aqueduct bonds for years, on account of this shameful neglect to secure the great revenues from the sale of water and power, which, it was promised, would stop the extra taxation for the Aqueduct.

Little or nothing done in the development of the municipal harbor and docks to prepare for the Panama Canal commerce.

Failure to even make a start on the municipal railway.

Blocking of the San Pedro street railroad franchise and collapse of all plans to remedy the paralyzing and irritating congestion of inter-urban trolley lines.

Utter inability to grasp or solve the problems connected with the vast municipal enterprises of Los Angeles, thereby imperiling the city's advancement and injuring its credit.

Launching a fool proposition to spend $6,000,000 for a pipe line to carry water to orange growers, twenty miles away, whose purchases of water would amount to a few hundred dollars a month, while doing nothing to supply great and profitable demands at the city's gates, not requiring any extra millions of expenditure.

Failure to connect the city's paved highways with the county's good roads system, as agreed upon.

Absolute failure of plan to improve the morals of the city by raising the salary of Guy Eddie, censor of show-girls.

Squabbling, resigning, change after change, fizzle after fizzle, in the Mayor's commissions.

BROKEN PLEDGES.

It was promised that when the Owens River water should arrive at the door of Los Angeles, the revenue from the sale of surplus water and power would be sufficient to meet the interest on the $23,000,000 bonds and create a sinking-fund for the payment of the principal. The water is almost here—will be here in six months—but no revenue can possibly be secured from water or power for two years later, for the reason that no distributing system has been constructed, and none can be in less than that time.

NO POWER.

Unless the water is pouring out of the Aqueduct, there can be no power development. A rushing stream of water is necessary for power. Yet no provision has been made for the discharge of the water from the great conduit. There has been ample time for the completion of a distributing system; buyers are ready to take the water; but the administration has not had the "gumption" to do the work.

Months ago The Times called attention to the fatal lack of competency on the part of the Public Service Commission, which is in charge of this business, gave warning of the very state of affairs which now exists, and showed the folly of placing such inexperienced amateurs and politicians as Henderson and Graham on the Public Service Commission, handling the city's greatest enterprises.

The retort of the administration bosses was to try to put the editors of The Times in jail, through the instrumentality of that grand reformer, Guy Eddie.

What would be thought of the business sanity of a corporation if it should spend $23,000,000 in building a tremendous manufacturing plant and let it lie idle without machinery or equipment, for two years?

This has been the Owens River Aqueduct policy of the Alexander administration. Revenues of $100,000 a month are possible from the city's great water plant, but no provision has been made for securing them.

BAD MANAGEMENT.

Mayor Alexander in his annual report submitted to the City Council, January 1, 1912, stated that he was desirous of establishing the policy of non-partisanship in municipal affairs, and the appointment to office of men selected solely because of their fitness for positions of public trust. The Mayor at that time asked for a vigorous prosecution of work for a complete distributing system within the city for the Aqueduct power, to be ready for use when the city power plant shall be completed.

Instead of adhering to his "non-partisanship" policy, the Mayor has appointed to office only those men who were recommended by that dear friend of the people, M. Lissner, or the bosses of the Good Government Organization. You can search the City Hall with a fine tooth comb and not discover an Alexander appointee who is not branded with the O. K. of the Lissner-Stimson machine.

With the Owens River water almost at the city's door, not a spade has been turned to build distributing systems to supply the power and the surplus water which will soon be available for delivery. The Public Service Commission in charge of providing for the sale and distribution of the Owens River water and power, is directly responsible for this startling state of affairs. Chief Engineer Mulholland of the Aqueduct advised the commission at various times during the past three years to get busy and adopt a comprehensive plan for distributing the surplus water and power. But instead, the commissioners have made no progress, although fully aware that within six months time the Owens River water will be at the city's gates.

PROBLEMS OF POWER-DISTRIBUTION.

Some people want the city to purchase or lease, on fair terms, the distributing systems of the power companies, but the Mayor and Public Service Commission oppose it. Those who advocate the leasing of the power companies' systems say that it is the only method by which the people can obtain, within a reasonable time, and without great hardship to themselves, the benefits of the cheap electric power that the city should develop on the Aqueduct. On account of the impairment of the bonding power of the city, it seems to be impossible for the city to construct a distributing plant on terms fair to the people for some years to come.

If the city is to secure a power distribution system of its own, the only method fair to all the people of the city is to have such a system built by an issuance of bonds, extending over a long period of time, so that the principal and interest of these obligations can be defrayed by a charge for the electric current to consumers slightly in excess of the actual cost to them. But it is obvious that the credit of the city will not permit the sale of such bonds.

The Board of Public Works informed the Public Service Commission years ago that the Owens River water would be ready for delivery January 1, 1913, but despite this no substantial work has been done on the distributing system. The Public Service Commission, having utterly fallen down, is now trying to get its hands on the reserve fund, the city's only resource till the new taxes come in.

FINANCIAL PLIGHT.

Bond buyers assert that no bond house will purchase electric-power distributing, harbor, or municipal railway bonds, which this city might desire to issue after the first of the year, inasmuch as the showing must needs be made that, notwithstanding the fact that the city had the great asset of the Owens River water at its door, its business affairs had been and were being so wretchedly administered that the city was not prepared to put this asset on a revenue-producing basis, and was therefore carrying by direct taxation the burden of the $23,000,000 of bonds issued to bring the water to the city.

The Public Service Commission apparently recognizes the impossibility of acquiring a distributing system by a bond issue, and is making plans to raise the money to construct the power-distributing system through assessment districts, and imposing the cost entirely upon property owners.

In the opinion of able attorneys, however, if the assessment district plan is adopted, assessments must be collected in full before the work is contracted for. If this is so, under the conditions permitted to arise in the city under the present administration, in order to get the benefit of the cheap Aqueduct electric power to which the people are entitled, the property owners will have to raise a fund sufficient to pay for the system, which is estimated at $10,000,000. In other words, in addition to being called upon to pay out enormous sums in direct taxation for carrying the $23,000,000 of Aqueduct bonds, that should be paid from the sales of the water, had the matter been properly administered, they will also have to be called upon to pay at once the sum of $10,000,000 in cash, to get the advantage of their cheap electricity.

Besides, engineers estimate that it will take two or three years to construct the system and put it in operation. If the work is not prosecuted with more energy than has characterized the work of providing the distributing system for the sale of the surplus water it will take a much longer time.

If the construction work on the power plant is rushed with proper diligence it should be completed within a year's time, but this municipal power, like the Owens River water, will be useless on account of no arrangements have been made for its distribution and sale to consumers.

Cities and towns and ranchers adjacent to Los Angeles are clamoring for Owens River water and stand ready to pay reasonable prices for it, but no system has been even started for supplying these people with surplus water. It is estimated that the taxpayers and citizens generally of Los Angeles will lose $5,000,000 worth of power owing to the negligence and laxity of the Public Service Commission and the administration in general, in failing to prepare adequate facilities for distributing the electric power and water.

Two years ago the citizens' of Los Angeles voted $3,500,000 electric power bonds. Of this amount over $500,000 has been expended for generating machinery installed at San Francisquito Canyon and other stations. The tax-payers are paying interest on the bonds, which they will continue doing until the distributing system is completed in the dim future.

THE HARBOR.

The inefficiency of the administration is plainly shown in the work that has NOT been done on the Los Angeles Harbor. Harbor work has been woefully delayed, and after two years of dilly-dallying and squabbling there isn't a stick of lumber in the outer harbor to show for the cost. Of the $3,000,000 bonds voted for harbor improvement work two years ago, all but $300,000 has been expended. Of the $3,000,000 bonds, $2,000,000 was for San Pedro and $1,000,000 for Wilmington, improvement work.

About 20,000 feet of wharfage has been constructed up to the present time, which can be used to accommodate coast-to-coast commerce. No wharfage, however, has been developed in the outer harbor to accommodate the big steamers from foreign ports, which will dock at San Pedro via the Panama Canal. The Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company recently put in 2500 feet of wharfage in the outer harbor and the company is ready to receive the commerce which is coming in a year's time through the great canal. The outer harbor requires immediate attention to prepare for the Panama Canal commerce, but despite this the administration is going ahead at snail's pace in harbor affairs. The administration spent $360,571.00 in improving the harbor front of Wilmington, but has not expended one cent on the outer harbor improvement work.

It is charged that several city officials own property near the inner harbor and that may account for some activity around Wilmington and none on the outer harbor which is of vastly greater importance to Los Angeles.

NO BOULEVARD NOR RAILWAY.

Among the assurances given by the administration to San Pedro and Wilmington previous to consolidation, were the construction of a boulevard along the water

WHOLE WORLD'S MIGHTY COMMERCE FLEETS TURN PROWS TOWARD LOS ANGELES HARBOR.

Representatives of Many Companies Here to Arrange for Dock and Terminal Facilities in View of Panama Canal Opening--- Hundred Millions a Year Business Predicted. Everybody Except the City Rushing to Get Ready.

WHILE Federal engineers and laborers are rushing the Panama Canal through to completion with a good prospect that it will be ready for use in a little more than a year, elaborate and extensive preparations are being made here to take care of the tremendous increase in the business which will certainly come to Los Angeles harbor.

Representatives of steamship companies from most of the world's important ports are here this week arranging for terminal and dock facilities. The city is planning docks in both the inner and outer harbors but has been making poor progress. The Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company's plans provide for more than a mile of docks to be ready when the canal opens, and as much more as soon as it is needed.

The contracts for building 1600 feet of docks along the Mormon Island channel will probably be awarded by the city tomorrow. A few days ago bids were received for building 2440 feet of reinforced concrete wharf. A lot of precious time has been wasted.

It was definitely announced last night that ten large foreign steamship companies, representing some of the most important passenger carriers in the world, will make this port as soon as the canal is finished. These of this city are agreed that the increase in business after the opening of the canal will be enormous and that the gain will become apparent promptly and in many different ways. They say the opportunity for development at the port and the city proper are practicall unlimited. The steamship companies are leaving no stone unturned to enable them to fully cope with the new conditions as soon as they arise.

Business men, manufacturers and capitalists are keenly alive to the situation. No one doubts for a minute that Los Angeles and Southern California is about to enter upon an era of development and aggrandizement which will far eclipse even its wonderful progress in the past.

These men are concerned, however, lest the harbor be not ready for the business when that business comes. The city administration is criticised freely and severely because it has failed to make reasonable progress in the work of harbor development. The inefficiency of the administration has so delayed this work that the steamship companies will be inadequately provided with docking and wharf facilities provided the canal is completed on schedule time and the big rush to this port begins early in 1914.

The harbor development plans upon which the city is working have been generally accepted as adequate and comprehensive. These plans, if efficiently carried through, will provide for as great an increase of business as even the most sanguine can predict. But the consensus of opinion among business men and steamship representatives is that the city must hurry; that there must be no more needless delay nor false moves.

In the outer harbor the city now has under contract the filling of Municipal Dock No. 1 to a point within 1300 feet of the dock formerly known as "Huntington Hill." Next Friday the Board of Public Works will open bids for building 2440 feet of reinforced concrete wharf along the west side of this fill. This should be completed within ten months.

With another bond issue to provide the necessary funds the remainder of the dock could be filled and docking facilities of more than two miles in addition provided. For inner harbor development bids have just been received for the construction of 1600 feet of wooden wharf on the Mormon Island channel and at this point it is proposed to build a long stretch of wharf besides. Whether the additional work will be completed by 1914 is not yet certain.

IN THE OUTER HARBOR.

The Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company has completed 2900 feet of docks on the east side, 1800 feet on the west side and 600 feet on the north end of the west channel. By the time the canal is completed the company will have an additional wharfage of 5400 feet partly completed and proposes to build, under its present plans, at least 2000 feet more. The work now contemplated by the company, therefore, provides for docks 2½ miles long.

A victory for the city in the tideland suits would open the way for extensive development work. The natural facilities and opportunity are practically unlimited. Men who have studied the conditions carefully and who are otherwise competent to judge say that the port of Los Angeles can be put in shape to handle more business than any other harbor in the world provided an adequate amount of money is expended to develop it.

Looking far into the future, when the possibilities of the harbor along the industrial district are exhausted, a second and longer breakwater can be built which would provide practically unlimited docking facilities. The cost of developing a great port here when the business increases and demands it will be much less than has been expended on some of the principal European ports whose scope is less extensive.

Predictions concerning the volume of business at this port after the canal is opened vary widely, but even the most conservative business men are convinced that it will be doubled and redoubled many times in the next few years. Compared with the present figures the transactions in the near future will seem amazing.

According to figures compiled by the local Chamber of Commerce the imports, both foreign and domestic, last year totaled $2,655,558. Of this amount nearly $2,000,000 represented foreign imports on which duties were paid. The exports last year amounted to $222,716. Five years previously in 1906 the total imports were $827,059 and the exports only $12,059. This year's business will undoubtedly show an increase over 1911 of fully 30 per cent.

A HUNDRED MILLIONS.

Secretary Wiggins of the Chamber of Commerce is one of the men who predict an annual business of $100,000,000 within five years. "The harbor won't be big enough," he said yesterday, "unless we move rapidly. I am not in favor of municipal railroad to the harbor. We can't get it going quickly enough. I would prefer a good boulevard and would like to see it built right away."

Steamship men say that in addition to a large and increasing volume of immigration business there is certain to be a big national and international passenger traffic when the opening of the canal gives this port its first big impetus. The following steamship companies have already made arrangements to make the port after the completion of the Panama Canal:

GREAT LINER FLEET.

Union Steamship Company, New Zealand, owing a fleet of seventy-one passenger steamers with a tonnage of 196,573 tons, at present operating from San Francisco to Tahiti, New Zealand, Australia and the South Sea Islands.

Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, owning a fleet of eighty-five steamers with a tonnage of 435,979 tons, operating from London to Colon, South America and the West Indies.

Nippon Yusen Kaisha (Japan Mail) owning a fleet of seventy-four steamers with a tonnage of 298,964 tons, operating from Japan to Seattle and all parts of the world.

Peninsular and Oriental Steam companies represent 1024 ocean steamers and 4,062,126 tonnage.

Preparations on the part of the freight-carrying companies are no less important. The Harrison Direct line, represented here by Balfour, Guthrie & Co., is ready to increase its facilities heavily as soon as the canal route is open. The company came here a year ago, over two years in advance of the canal completion, in order to make its preparations thoroughly.

The American-Hawaiian Steamship Company with twenty-six big steamers and a cargo capacity of 254,000 tons will make this port and expects a big volume of business from the start. This company is negotiating with the Southern Pacific for a harbor terminal. The proposed terminal facilities will include a dock 1000 feet long, which will provide docking facilities for two large steamers and a number of large freight warehouse sheds.

Members of the newly appointed Immigration Commission have only begun their investigations, but even now they are convinced that a mighty tide of immigration will be at once diverted to this port. Rev. Dana W. Bartlett, a member of the commission, says there is good reason to expect not less than 25,000 immigrants annually. These will come for the most part from Southern Europe and will be a desirable class.

By 1920, he predicts one-third of all the immigration to the United States will come through the canal to this coast. Even so far in advance a considerable number of European fruit and vineyard men have booked passages to this port on the first steamship which can come through the canal.

OSAGES PREPARE FOR ELECTION.

Richest Indian Nation to Choose a Governor.

Carlisle Graduate Is Leading Candidate.

Natives Want Right to Sell Oil and Gas Lands.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Oct. 7.—While the election of a Governor of the Osage Nation, the richest nation on earth, is eighteen months away, the Osage citizens are beginning to discuss the matter of a successor to Governor Harry Kopay, a full-blood, who holds the office by the good graces of the Secretary of the Interior. That Kopay expects to be a candidate seems to be a foregone conclusion and that he will inject into the campaign much of the white man's strategy and ginger is probable. Being a graduate of Carlisle, Kopay has the advantage of many other prominent men of the tribe in political ability.

Kopay has been on the pay roll of the United States government, as an employee in a clerical capacity in the office of the Indian agent at Pawhuska, for several years. When the last biennial election was held, last June, Kopay was selected as secretary of the Council. Bacon Rind, one of the sage men of the Osages, was elected Governor. His alleged activities in the interest of the Uncle Sam Oil Company caused his removal by the Secretary o fthe Interior andd Kopay was appointed acting Governor to fill the unexpired term. Bacon Rind succeeded Alf Brown, part-blood Osage, who was one of the wisest men that has filled the executive chair in the history of the Nation.

POLITICS AND BUSINESS.

The Osages are divided, to some extent, by a line that marks the western boundary of the approximately 700,000 acres of land held under lease by the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil and Gas Company. This area is about half that of the former Osage nation, now known as Osage county. The other half is sought by the Uncle Sam Oil Company, which is in somewhat bad repute with the Secretary of the Interior. Bacon Rind was accused of hobnobbing with this company in their effort to get a lease on the western half of the nation. There are excellent indications of oil and gas throughout the western half. In fact, some good gas wells have been drilled up toward the head of Salt Creek in this region.

Kopay is an active, athletic fellow of fine physique, about 38 years old. He has a thorough college education and has retained a great deal of the culture and refinement that college life endowed him with. His wife is dead and he has four children. The estate of the family probably is worth $250,000. His administration, now but a few months old, has been marked with fair treatment to his people and consideration for their welfare. Naturally he is restricted by the regulations made by the Department of the Interior for the government of the Osages. His friends declare that if he were given a free hand he would make a name for himself throughout the country.

TITLE TO LANDS.

Progressive Osages are demanding two items of legislation by Congress, and their demands probably will be made insistent this winter. The most important of these is a law that will permit the Indian to transfer with his title a full title to the mineral value of the land. Under present laws an Osage, under certain conditions, may sell his land, but the title to the oil and gas resources is held in the government and the royalties derived from the sale of these products are credited to a fund that is regularly distributed among the Indians. It is held by those demanding a new law that the development of the county is being retarded because of this restriction. The lands are held to be worth, on an average, $25 an acre for agricultural purposes.

PROTECTION OF STREAMS.

Another demand is for a law that will protect the streams of the Osage nation from the pollution that necessarily arises from the hundreds of oil and gas wells. The waters of many streams are unfit for stock to drink and fish cannot live in them. Sometimes oil covers the surface of an otherwise beautiful stream for a distance of ten to twelve miles and thousands of cattle and horses are deprived of water from that source. Sometimes the oil on these streams catches fire, and the fire cannot be checked, but must be left to burn itself out. Of late the Indians have learned to wade into the water ahead of the flames and by the use of paddles separate the oil into sections and thus prevent the spread of the fire.

The oil and gas inspector of the State has no jurisdiction on the lands of the Osages and therefore the State can take no steps toward relieving the nation of these conditions. On the other hand there is no law of the United States that prohibits the pollution of the streams.

The Oklahoma Legislature last winter passed a resolution memorializing Congress to pass an act permitting the transfer of oil and gas titles with land titles.

NATION IS RICH.

In actual cash and lands the 2200 Osages are worth $50,000,000. Each was given $5000 in cash by the United States government when the lands were segregated into allotments. Each was given 670 acres of land and this is worth approximately $40,000,000, the acreage being about 1,506,000. The average income from oil and gas royalties is a little over $400 a year for each Indian, or a total income of nearly $1,000,000. In addition the average income per Indian from grazing purposes is about $3 an acre, so that the aggregate income from this source is about $4,500,000.

RELICS OF BRONZE AGE.

Over a Thousand Articles Discovered on Removing the Debris From a Cavern in the Karst Mountains.

[London Standard:] A remarkable find of prehistoric weapons and ornaments has been made in a cavern at St. Kanzion, in the Karst Mountains, not far from Abbazia. The cavern, which is known as the "Cave of Flies," from the number of insects which, apparently breeding there, issue forth at certain times of the year, is a subterranean chamber with a perpendicular depth of 150 feet, the only entrance to which is by a hole in the roof. It was recently explored by some climbers with the help of a long rope ladder. A Roman helmet dating from the beginning of the Christian era, which the owner had apparently dropped down the hole was first found. Encouraged by this the imperial museum sent men to dig into the earth and stones which have fallen from the roof and sides and form the floor of the cavern, and at a depth of three feet they discovered over a thousand articles of bronze, including ten hundred lance heads, a number of swords, axes, clasps and vessels. The last named had all been burned through by fire. The date of the articles is estimated at about 1000 B. C. Since it appears impossible that men in the bronze age should have lived at the bottom of such a deep and inaccessible cavern, archaeologists believe the weapons and vessels must have been thrown down the hole as a sacrifice to some subterranean deity.

THEROPY OF KINDNESS.

A Noted Alienist Believed a Change Should Be Made in the Treatment of the Insane.

[Philadelphia Telegraph:] Kindliness on the part of prison keepers and of those having to do with the insane seems to be a trait generally at the present time. Instances are frequent and notable enough to attract attention. A few days ago the announcement was made that the keeper of a Georgia prison camp, where convicts were employed under the contract system at hard labor, had abolished the ball and chain, and placed the prisoners "on their honor." This change from chain and shackle, the warden states, yields results infinitely better than did the former barbarous method.

Now comes the announcement from France that the official head of the great hospital of St. Anne has, on the recommendation of Dr. Mangin, a noted alienist, done away with the straightjacket and other devices heretofore employed to curb the violently insane, and that instead, simple methods of kindness have been substituted. The physician whose recommendations have brought about the change states that it is a great error to use force and violence in the treatment of the demented, even though they be of a violent disposition. In the advocacy of his measures for curing insanity in certain cases and ameliorating the condition of the victim in others, the experienced French alienist is opposed to male nurses, believing them out of place in wards for the insane, and he makes a strong plea for the substitution of women in every instance. Their gentleness, he claims, is in itself a consideration that appeals to the distorted mind of the insane person at the outset, quiets his or her nerves, and makes the subject tractable and easy to manage.

In the hospital mentioned, where 4000 patients are treated every year Dr. Mangin has accomplished wonders according to all accounts, by replacing force and severity in treating the violent with kindness and patience. One of his theories is that the insane patient requires long hours of rest, hence he has adopted what he designates as the "bed cure," giving them full opportunity to repose for many hours in bed.

Luna Park and R. C. Owens.

It seems that Luna Park has recently been sold to colored people. I have been asked repeatedly if I am interested in a financial way in the sale of Luna Park. To my many friends I beg to say that neither I nor the R. C. Owens Investment Company, have ever been, are now, and shall be in any wise connected with Luna Park. I know nothing at all about this proposition.

Convalescents and Invalids Should Drink Puritas Distilled Water

Because of Its Freedom From Impurities of Any Sort.

While PURITAS is in no sense of the word medicinal—being absolutely free from mineral substances—it is decidedly beneficial in cases of invalidism or convalescence.

And the reason is that PURITAS is pure water—containing nothing in the world but the purest distilled, aerated H2O—and its action upon the kidneys and digestive organs cannot fail to be beneficial.

Doctors almost invariably request their patients to drink PURITAS; hospitals use it almost exclusively—because physicians and nurses realize how extremely important it is that the weakened body shall not be compelled to work off impurities absorbed through the drinking water supply; and they recognize the absolute purity of PURITAS Distilled Water.

Do not, however, assume from this that PURITAS is simply for sick people—it is the drinking water for YOU—who perhaps never had a sick day in your life; and may very likely prove the means of avoiding many a dangerous illness.

Possibly you do not know the many processes through which PURITAS Distilled Water goes before it reaches you; the infinite care we take to secure and preserve absolute purity.

First, water from clean wells is thoroughly distilled, then carefully aerated by forcing into it ozone through an electric current; then it is scientifically bottled in big five-gallon clean glass demijohns, tightly corked, and delivered to you—anywhere within the old city boundary lines—for a cost of just 40 cents.

Can you afford NOT to have the protection against the danger of impure drinking water?

Order at once—and if you are out of town, where there is no regular PURITAS dealer (they are in most towns throughout Southern California) we will gladly supply you upon receipt of your name and address with the amount required. Los Angeles Ice & Cold Storage Company. Home 10053; Sunset Main 8191

CHINK'S PILOT IN THE TOILS.

Brains of Smuggling Trade and His Tools.

Samson Second, Fastest in Game, Captured.

Immigration Men's Blow at Crooked Business.

Another blow was struck at the smuggling of Chinese into this country yesterday when Collector Pendleton, on information furnished by Immigration Inspector Connell, seized the gasoline launch Samson Second in the outer harbor. This boat is one of the fastest on the Coast, and according to the immigration authorities, has just returned from a trip north after having landed eighteen Chinese laborers at the Franklin-street wharf, Oakland. She is 45.9 regulation length, 14 tons gross and 9 tons net, and owned by Leland Gregory of Wilmington and John G. Chapman of Lomita. Her license is No. 31, issued June 4 last.

Under the maritime laws the vessel will be forfeited to the United States government for having sailed on a foreign voyage without giving her enrollment and license to the Collector of the Port. The Samson Second put out of San Pedro some time ago, and proceeded to Ensenada, Mex., where the Chinese were taken aboard. Her owners are liable to a fine of $500 for having failed to clear the vessel at the customhouse, and another fine of $250 because no lights were carried. When the Samson was seized by Capt. William Wickersham the crew had gone ashore and the papers were not found.

The Samson Second, according to the immigration officers, has been engaged in smuggling Chinese for some time, and information in regard to her leaving Ensenada for the voyage north was sent to the immigration authorities in San Francisco. For some reason the boat not only effected a safe landing and discharged her human cargo, but returned to San Pedro without having been apprehended. She reached the outer harbor last Thursday night, but stood off while Immigration Inspectors Miller, Kuykendall and Thorndyke lay waiting for the crew to come ashore. The crew landed under cover of night.

DISCOURAGING TRAFFIC.

The capture of the Samson Second makes the ninth capture of vessels engaged in smuggling by the government within the past eleven months, and all of the men known to be connected with the business are either in jail, at liberty under bond, or fugitives from justice. The list includes the McGarvin brothers, Antonio Feliz, Ethel Hall, Ed Hall, Harry ..., Harry Lloyd, Billy Gerald, Adolph Adolphson and John Oosterhuis, a big Hollander called the "Mysterious Man," who has been sought for two years by the immigration authorities, and is in jail in San Francisco.

The immigration authorities say it has been Oosterhuis's plan to go south, get a load of Chinese and transfer them to some other vessel of his fleet, either at Santa Cruz or San Clemente, he going ashore and taking the train north.

Oosterhuis is said to be a seasoned smuggler. It was he who took Evans, the young bank embezzler of this city, to a Mexican port on his gasoline launch Kate, since rechristened the ..., that afterward carried a lot of dynamite to San Pedro that was used in blowing up the Times Building. For carrying Evans to Mexico, it is said among boatmen, he received $14000. He maintains two homes, one in this city and one in San Pedro. The evidence in the hands of the authorities indicates he was the brains of the conspiracy, and that all of the persons who have been apprehended from time to time are only his tools.

Bar Associations Making Efforts to Whip State's Cumbersome Laws into Shape Through Legislature.

Because many of the laws of this State are cumbersome, the various county bar associations are making strenuous efforts to have them whipped into shape by amendments which are submitted to the Legislature for acceptance. The amendments as a rule are accepted by the Legislature.

An extensive report looking to reform in criminal procedure is now being prepared by a committee of which W. J. Hunsaker is chairman. The committee is working over more than twenty amendments to the law which will be submitted and discussed at the annual meeting of the California Bar Association in Fresno November 21, 22 and 23.

The Fresno Bar Association comprises the Committee of Arrangements for the meeting, the chairman being Frank Short. Practically every bar association of the county has representatives in the State Association, and the gathering promises to be unusually well-attended. The president of the State Association is C. E. McLaughlin of Sacramento, T. W. Robinson of this city is secretary.

The annual address will be made by Ralph W. Brackenbridge of Omaha City, and among other papers to be read is one by Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe of San Bernardino. Various reports of the sections will be submitted on reforms in procedure, both civil and criminal.

A report will be submitted from the committee appointed on the legal education for admission to the bar recommending a plan for examination to show that applicants from other States have devoted at least three years to the practice of the law. The association will also discuss the proposed naming by the Supreme Court of a State board of law examiners.

STUDIES OF PEOPLE.

BY NEETA MARQUIS.

Maggie Q.—a borrowed name, of course—is an elderly woman, of perhaps 76 more or less stormy years. She has a little eggshell of a house and a bit of land down in the Arroyo Seco, and lives there quite alone.

One day she came to the Associated Charities and asked them to let her make over to them her small estate, with the understanding that they pay her a small monthly stipend in return, for the rest of her life. As things were, she had no income except the returns from a few chickens she fed on the products of her infinitesimal garden, and real estate men and others were pestering her to death in their efforts to get a hold on her small possession.

Various of her neighbors, even, were making persistent overtures to her, always holding out as a special inducement the glittering promise:

"We would give you a lovely funeral, auntie."

The old lady had finally turned on these soft seducers with the spirited declaration:

"I don't want any funeral till I'm dead."

The Associated Charities took her case under advisement, and agreed to make terms with her for a period of ten years. This would be far beyond the value of the property, for which one real estate dealer had offered $600.

Maggie is contended in her mind now, since no one is clamoring to be her heir any more, and is deeply grateful for all that is done for her.

She has her ups and downs in health, however. Month before last, when the association visitor took her her allowance, she announced with sorrowful conviction that she was dying by inches. But last month, she felt much better, and remarked jocosely that she might live to be a bother for a good many years yet to come.

In her home she has a placard posted on the wall, which reads:

"In case of my serious illness or death, notify the Associated Charities."

Other quaint and unusual requests come in to the association. One man has been askin for three years that they find him a wife. If they were to take him at his word and fulfill his request, however, a large proportion of the general public would probably pronounce the act one of questionable benevolence.

Casese requiring medical aid are not infrequent. A case of particular interest was of a boy of fifteen, who was a member of a family consisting of a father and six children.

This boy had club feet. The association secured him a position, as hat checker, in one of the men's clubs of the city, but he was unable to hold it, as his deformed feet prevented him from getting up and down stairs fast enough.

Later an older sister came to the association stating that a certain prominent physician, who had previously operated on the boy's feet and charged $50 for it, had just said that the operation must be repeated, because the County Hospital had not given the child proper care during convalescence. He said another $50 would be necessary.

The Associated Charities interested another physician in the case, who examined the crippled feet. The specialist made his examination and said the feet needed operating on again, but as the physician who performed the first operation was most familiar with the case, he had better do the work.

The Associated Charities visitor then went to the first doctor, and laid the matter of the family's poverty before him. And this is where the surprise party comes in.

This physician declared he had never looked at the child's feet since he performed the first operation. He was unsympathetic toward the case and insulting toward the visitor. He denied that he had had any money or had demanded any money from the family—which statement the visitor felt assured was untrue.

The visitor then went back to the specialist, who pronounced the paralyzed condition of the feet to be the result of the first operation. He took the boy in charge, had him removed to the County Hospital, and there, after studying the case carefully, himself operated on the feet.

The Associated Charities promised the boy that when he as well, they would see he had an opportunity to learn a trade. They corresponded with the Y.M.C.A., on the subject, and a free course was made open to him there, if it was thought best for him to take it.

He is well now. He suffers no pain, can get around nicely, and has a chance to make his way like other boys, at last.

Which of these, think you, was most truly neighbor to him that was poor and had crippled feet?

LIBRARY BECOMES LARGE.

County Law Book Collection Now Twenty-six Thousand Volumes and Well Housed in Hall of Records.

The County Law Library now comprises 26,000 volumes and is one of the best equipped and most handsomely housed in the State and with few equals in the West. Since it was removed to the seventh floor of the Hall of Records the attendance has increased. Lawyers, who hitherto have killed time loitering in the corridors of the Courthouse waiting for cases to be transferred, now drop into the library and utilize the time working over cases.

The particular pride of Librarian T. W. Robinson at this time is a fine line of Mexican laws, the list antedating the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo down to date. He considers this probably as good a collection as there is in the State.

The Library also contains English, Irish, Scotch, Canadian and many other foreign reports and complete sessions laws which means year books. Another interesting department is the balcony where are kept the transscripts and briefs on appeal cases both in the Supreme and Appellate Courts. These number 5000 volumes and were bound by the county.

The Edison dictating machine installed by the county is proving a boon to lawyers who hitherto brought along their stenographers and dictated direct to them in the three rooms provided for that purpose. The lawyers now bring blank records and carry the canned law back to their offices.

BRIGHT YOUNGSTERS.

Business was entirely suspended at Douglassville, Pa., during the christening of Isaac Grant Irey, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Irey of that town. Following the church baptism a luncheon was served on the lawn of the Irey estate. Everyone living within a radius of twenty miles accepted Mr. Irey's cordial invitation to be present.

Miss Aline Van Barentzen, the little American girl who caused a sensation in the world of music some four years ago by winning the grand prize at the National Conservatory in Paris, has just returned to her home, in West Somerville, Mass.

Roy Avery, aged 12 years, of Londonderry, N. H., a lineal descendant of that splendid horseman, Gen. Israel Putman, and a member of a family in which good horsemanship has always been a recognized characteristic, has broken in another animal to harness. He selected his father's young heifer calf for the experiment.

Margaret Terry Hudson Grant, 2 years and 2 months old, of Minneapolis, is intended by her father to become the world's physically most perfect woman. She has been given systematic exercise ever since she was 3 weeks old. Every part of her body is perfectly formed. She has a normal chest measurement of nineteen inches and an expanded measurement of twenty and three-quarter inches. Her biceps muscles measure five inches. She could walk when she was 10 months old and she could swim when she was 8 months old.

WHAT NEXT?

Capt. Hobson is now on a tour for the Prohibition party. If Hobson were a centipede he would have a new hobby for every leg.

A RICH TOWN.

Business men of Pomona gave a banquet. When they sat down they discovered that they represented an aggregate wealth of $250,000,000. Pomona must be a very comfortable suburb.

DRAWING THE LINE.

Mexican rebels have issued a warning that American railroad men will be shot if found operating in certain districts after October 15. This is certainly putting a premium on skilled labor.

LIVE ONES.

Los Angeles is glad to have had the real estate men of California in this city for a week. They represented brains, energy, cash and character, and the pleasure was all ours. May they come often and stay long.

A STERN MEASURE.

Two bandits accosted a Pasadena man with a command to throw up his hands, and he told them to "go to hell." Instantly they fled. We would hate to use language like that, but if ever we are approached by robbers when we are alone at night we are glad to know what to do about it.

HER MOTIVE.

We see that a young woman at the national capital has jilted a millionaire in order to marry a man who works for a salary. It is possible that she places happiness above vanity and above price. So it is when men and women are large enough and fine enough to take it in this way.

UNFAIR.

One or two silly little schoolgirls at Redlands were detected trying to smoke cigarettes. Immediately the world hears that Redlands schoolgirls are smokers. Of course it is only the rare exception and not the rule. Furthermore, such exceptions of young mischief-makers could probably be found in almost any public school of every city.

STILL WESTERN.

We are happy to note that a census of California shows that there are still many more men than women in this State. We do not think this makes for a state of happiness or superiority, but it augurs that California remains vigorously western and that every daughter of the State, whether native or adopted, can have her pick of a husband.

GRAVE QUESTIONS.

Right glad are we to find the members of the City Council thoroughly aroused to the public's great needs. One Councilman wants to save the sensibilities of citizens by having the city's automobiles painted some other color than yellow and another of the city fathers wants the Council to stop all municipal employees from smoking while on duty at the City Hall. Why worry about insignificant questions like the San Pedro street franchise when such great issues are before the public?

NO ROOSEVELT TICKET IN IDAHO.

All is not beer and skittles for the Bull Moosers in Idaho. Senator Borah, who was Col. Roosevelt's principal supporter in the National Republican Convention, promptly and peremptorily declined to follow him in his formation of and bolt into the Progressive party. The Senator is a candidate for re-election. He is an adroit and far-seeing politician. He knows his Idaho and he knows on which side of the bread the butter is located. He returned to his State and began his campaign for Borah and Taft. His fine Italian hand is visible in the decision of the Supreme Court of Idaho in which that tribunal ruled that the Presidential electors on the Progressive ticket were not nominated in conformity with the State law and cannot be printed on the official ballot.

ACTION OF REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE.

The action of the Los Angeles County Republican Committee in adopting clear and emphatic resolutions with respect to the political situation, will meet with cordial indorsement of all Republicans who do not approve of such treachery and theft as has been perpetrated by the Roosevelt syndicate governed by a pawnbroker, a rebater and a ruffian.

The committee, after denouncing in forceful phrase the theft of the Republican name and organization, and their forcible transfer to the Bull Moose gang, advises all Republicans who can do so to write the names of the thirteen Taft electors upon their ballots. But if, in the opinion of the voters, they can more effectually give expression to their condemnation of the Bull Moose methods by voting for Wilson, it does not hesitate to say that by doing so they will not impair their standing in the future as Republicans and as honest men.

The members of the committee have taken a judicious and fearless course, for which they will receive the thanks of all true Republicans.

WORKS AND EDDIE.

Lewis R. Works is reported to have said that if he were on the bench—which he is not and is not likely to be, "Te deum laudamus"—he would issue an order prohibiting all newspapers from publishing a report of the examination of his client, Eddie, on the ground that the things Eddie is charged with doing on the evidence of four eyewitnesses were too naughty to be allowed to appear in print.

If Works had even a little smattering of law knowledge he would know that reports of court proceedings are privileged, and while it is the privilege of a judge to exclude newspaper reporters from the courtroom during the hearing of any case, it is not his privilege to prevent the publication of accurate reports of such proceedings, if by any means they can be obtained.

One reads with amazement the comments of Mr. Works. He is not, as the casual reader might suppose, one of the attorneys for the prosecution of Eddie. He is one of the attorneys for the defense, and his objection to the publication of the evidence against his client must be regarded as a quasi confession.

There never was any danger of The Times soiling its columns with any detailed account of the evidence against Eddie. It has been careful to abstain from any expression of opinion as to his guilt—a discretion which Mr. Works, his own lawyer, has failed to exercise.

SHIRKING JURY DUTY.

A jury was said of old to be "an innocent man's city of refuge." There is some question as to whether it has not in these latter days degenerated into a guilty man's hope of acquittal. There is a growing and not an altogether inexcusable tendency of otherwise exemplary citizens to avoid jury duty in criminal cases, where the crime charged was committed in the course of what Gompers calls "an industrial dispute." A person liable to duty as a juror who has reason to think that convicting a dynamiter might be followed by a destruction of his property or an assault upon his person by the association to which the dynamiter belongs, often makes haste to acquaint himself with the alleged facts in the case, and on examination on his voir dire, asserts that he has formed and expressed an opinion that no evidence could remove. Or, worse yet, he will go upon the jury for the purpose of voting for an acquittal, no matter what the evidence may be, in order to make himself solid with the criminal classes.

The increase of class consciousness and of the militancy and violence of the syndicalists, must make the administration of justice in criminal cases exceedingly difficult. The requirement that in order to be eligible to jury duty a citizen must be on the assessment roll excludes to a certain extent some undesirables who would otherwise endeavor to find their way into the jury box for the purpose of being bribed. The difficulty in obtaining honest, fearless and disinterested jurors, who will find a verdict in accordance with the evidence, is enhanced by the fact that in cities there seems to be no active public sentiment to back a juror who performs his duty, or to reprehend a juror who shirks it, or is influenced by fear or bribery to misperform it.

REPUBLICAN REGULATION OF CORPORATIONS.

The foremost political issue of recent years has been the control of corporate business for the public welfare. The nation desires a business machinery of high efficiency, serving the interests of the public, and returning ample reward to those who use that machinery ably and honestly.

The policy and action of the Republican party have been to promote business efficiency, business prosperity, and so to control business forces that such efficiency and prosperity shall rest on the permanent basis of honesty, publicity and fair dealing.

The policy and action of the party have recognized that corporations are the accepted and necessary form of doing large business. Our vast enterprises cannot be carried on under the old partnership or individual methods. The corporation, however, is the artificial creature of statute, and the public is thoroughly responsible for corporate conduct and has full power to regulate it. Proper control of corporate business has heretofore been the object of that policy. Federal action has become a necessity, because our great corporate businesses have been practically nationalized by the men controlling them. Most of the large concerns that affect the interest of the public are combinations which have been deliberately organized to cover wide sections of the country and many States.

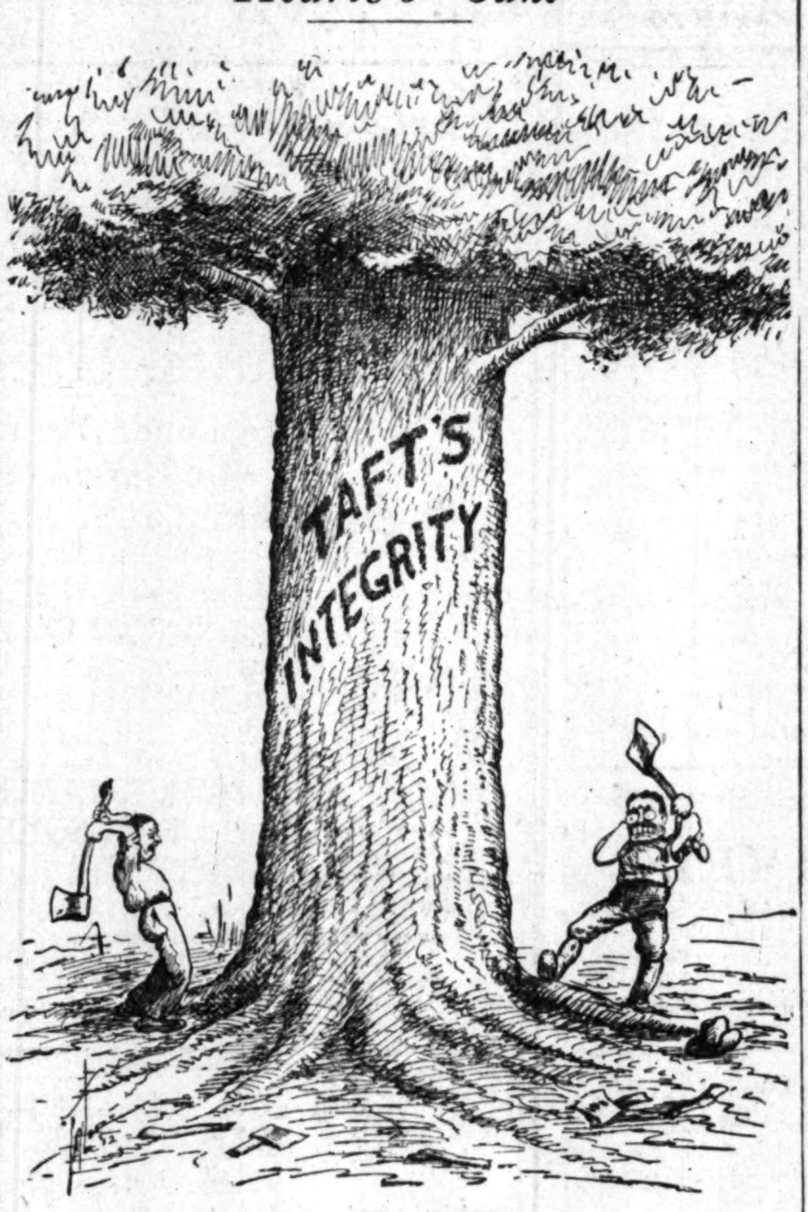
The concentration of business forces in great combinations has placed enormous power in the hands of a few men, with little or no responsibility for its proper use. These powers have been in some instances abused (Roosevelt's Perkins and the harvester trust, for instance,) in unfair competition in special privilege, in forcible monopolization of the avenues of trade and the natural resources.

The object of the Republican government is to preserve the good in our present business organization, its efficiency, its economies, and to prevent and destroy its evils. Business efficiency is necessary for the common welfare; a high degree of organization is necessary for efficiency; but such efficiency must promote first the welfare of the ordinary citizen, and such business organization must be based on that fair dealing and equal opportunity that are a part of the great ideal on which this nation was founded. The increasing control of the Interstate Commerce Commission (a Republican creation) over railways has enforced fair dealing and equal opportunity. The Federal corporation income tax (another Republican creation) has laid the foundation for a higher degree of corporate regulation. The Bureau of Corporations (also a Republican creation) has increasingly enforced efficient publicity of corporate affairs and brought the force of intelligent public opinion to bear on business abuses, and the Department of Justice has sought to enforce existing law.

The result has been a great advance in the solution of a great problem. No single act or statute can settle it at a stroke. The process must be slow, if it is to be effective, but existing law, based, as it is believed, on principles of justice, is being enforced. Intelligent and far-seeing action has been necessary to destroy abuses, and to protect more fully honest efficiency, while laying plainly before the American people the real facts upon which public opinion must gradually be formed.

Under the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, during the three years of President Taft's administration, twenty-two bills in equity have been filed, and forty-five indictments have been found. Decidedly, President Taft has administered the law and is administering it. In several most important suits the voluntary dissolution of the offending corporations has followed.

"Hearts of Oak."



They can't even dent it.

LABOR EXCHANGES.

Prince Bismarck called government labor exchanges "the politics of practical Christianity." Winston Churchill calls them "the politics of action, not of faction." Labor exchanges conducted at the public expense may be desirable in Europe, but they are unnecessary here. The daily papers of every large city are labor exchanges, accessible to all in search of employment. In The Times of Saturday there were 251 advertisements of "male help wanted." One hundred and two mechanics were wanted with pay ranging from $6 per day for plasterers down to $3 per day for painters. Sixty common laborers were wanted, twenty-eight men to work in hotels, thirty-three clerks, twenty-five salesmen and five baseball players. Talk about "the voice of the unemployed." It makes the faintest kind of a noise compared with the voice of the employer, soliciting the haughty plasterer to accept $6 for eight hours' work daubing a wall.

The plain truth is that no healthy, sober, industrious man in Los Angeles need be out of employment of some kind unless he chooses to be idle. He may not be able to get a soft job, or the kind of a job he wants, but he can certainly get a job that will afford abundant food and comfortable shelter for his family and himself.

PLAYING THE ENDS AGAINST THE MIDDLE.

Since government first became a science all the lawgivers from Moses and Confucius down have recognized that the stability of a State rests emphatically on the welfare of what is known as the great middle class—the men who are not abnormally rich or abnormally poor. Aristotle said two thousand years ago, "Happy and well-governed are those States where the middle part is strong and the extremes weak."

This description embodies the leading merit of our Constitution as framed by the fathers of this country. A State which is all middle class, with no extremes of riches or destitution, is an ideal which we perhaps may never attain to, but for which we all may honorably strive along sane and practical lines. It can only be brought about by strengthening the individuals.

The middle portion of society, the bankers, the merchants, the manufacturers, the educators, the professional classes, the skilled mechanics, are obliged to deal honestly with their fellow-men. Of course there are individual exceptions, but with the bulk the rule holds good. Only the extremely rich or the extremely poor become pirates and buccaneers. Inordinate ambition and hopeless improvidence are both corrupting influences.

America today stands between two such extremes—illegal combinations of capital on the one hand and illegal combinations of labor on the other. The wise and judicious statesman will strengthen the middle element, will strive to extend it upward and downward, so as to gradually assimilate the two discordant extremes between which it is placed. This is the end for which President Taft has consistently worked during the last four years to break up illegal combinations that oppress from above or upheave from below, threatening the steady suffocation or the violent destruction of individual liberty. The strengthening of the center is the desirable result for which all good Americans should work. The absorbing of the extremes inevitably follows.

Powerful influences and personalities, hostile to this system of building out society from the solid center to the weak circumference, are bent upon the removal of the Republican standard-bearer in favor of esoteric experiments. They would substitute for the fine precept of Aristotle the dogma of anarchy—Let us destroy the backbone to satisfy the fingers. Roosevelt, especially, is playing the ends against the middle, with the stubborn tenacity and dogged indifference to others that has always marked his public career. He is practically backing the trusts and the labor agitators against the solid center of the American people. In the interests of what? Of Theodore Roosevelt. Therefore he would destroy the national bulwarks, the judges and the courts, which in all ages have hindered tyrants from their ambitions.

From time immemorial this playing for the support of the extremes has been a favorite device with dictators. Cleon played the dissolute youth of Athens and the ignorance of the Helots against the wise regime of Pericles and started the decline of Greek civilization. Augustus Caesar played the Sybarites and the slaves against the plain people of Brutus and Cato and on the ruins of a virile republic set up the decay-spotted Roman empire. The Stuarts played the vices of the rich and the desires of the poor against the puritanism of Oliver Cromwell and the restoration of Charles put back Anglo-Saxon liberty for half a century.

America has continued prosperous and progressive because she has been governed wisely by a people who believe in the Aristotelian principle of strengthening the center. Deeply shall we rue the day when we allow ourselves to be led away by the false promises of those who are playing the ends against the middle. The Bull Moose wedge with a Socialist hammer behind it may split this solid commonwealth into a hundred petty warring factions; but the blow will never be struck.

A DELICATE SQUABBLE.

That was a row of some proportions which a four-day-old infant kicked up at a local baby show last Friday when it failed to take the prize for being the youngest person present. We take it that those who entered the wee one made a good point when they said that a baby does not have to have a coat of arms or a family tree in order to be born when very young. We hope that it is true that the prize went elsewhere because the littlest baby could not be found when the award was made. The bar sinister is tragedy enough without having the point emphasized, and for society, especially the cultured society represented by the schools and the clergy, to punish such a child seems a deep pity. We trust no such injury was contemplated.

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

In the garden of dreams let me rest, far, far from the laboring throng, from the moans of the tired and distressed, from the strains of the conqueror's song. As a native of Bagdad, or Turk, I'd live in Arabian nights, away from the regions of work, from troubles and hollow delights. In the garden of dreams I would stray, and bother my fat head no more, a-wondering how I shall pay for groceries bought at the store. Ah, there in that garden I'd sit, communing in peace with my soul, and never again have a fit when handed the bill for the coal. In the garden of dreams I'd recline and soar on the wings of romance, forgetting this old hat of mine, the patches all over my pants, the clamor of children for shoes, the hausfrau's demands for a gown, the lodge's exorbitant dues, the poll tax to work in the town. Alas! It is as I supposed—there is no escaping my fate, for the garden of dreams has been closed, a padlock is fixed on the gate. The young, who are buoyant and glad, may enter that garden, it seems; but the old, who are weary and sad, are warned from the garden of dreams!

STREAKS OF WIT.

A Natural Question.

[Kansas City Journal:] "Some pretty bathing girls down here."

"So?"

"Oh, beauties."

"Which is in the majority, the drys or the wets?"

Proof Positive.

[Cincinnati Enquirer:] Bill: Why are you so certain that Jones is a truthful man?

Will: He had a black eye one day and when I asked him how he got it he told me that a man hit him.

Only Once.

[Yonkers Statesman:] Mollie: Did you ever propose to a girl in a taxicab?

Chollie: I did.

Mollie: What was the answer?

Chollie: Sixteen dollars and 40 cents.

An Economical Movement.

[Houston Post:] "When militant suffragettes get mad as hornets they won't eat."

"I wonder why?"

"Maybe food reminds them of the kitchen and the kitchen reminds them of thraldom."

Final Relief.

[Tit-Bits:] Drill Sergeant (after worrying Brown for two hours:) Right about face.

Brown: Thank goodness, I'm right about something at last!

One for Him.

[London Opinion:] "You said, when you proposed, that you'd rather live in eternal torment with me than in bliss by yourself."

"Well, I've had my wish."

Thinking of Fuel.

[Satire:] Willie: Say, pop, what's a major and minor chord?

Father: The major chord, my boy, is what I pay for; the minor chord is what I get.

Awful Ignorance.

[Chicago Tribune:] The indignant Georgian clenched his fists and his eyes flashed fire.

"What's the matter?" queried the bystanders.

"That blooming guy from Indiana," he snorted, "is putting salt on his watermelon!"

Lucid Explanation.

[Pittsburgh Post:] "What is this initiative and referendum?"

"It's this way. If I want to go anywhere or do anything I take the initiative by mentioning it to my wife. Then she decides whether I can go or not. That's the referendum."

It Surely Was.

[Satire:] Father: How is it that I find you kissing my daughter? Answer me, sir! How is it?

Young Man: Fine, sir; fine!

On to Him.

[Pittsburgh Post:] "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," remarked the husband as he surveyed her gown.

"You can't jolly me into wearing this dress another season," responded his wife.

Some His Wife Bought.

[Washington Herald:] "You can't tell me there is no honesty in the world."

"How now?"

"I left a box of cigars somewhere the other day. Somebody found it, smoked one and returned the rest."

Improving the Bible.

[Exchange:] "It is pretty hard to improve on the Bible," said Mr. Roosevelt at Little Rock.

He has tried it and should know.

Confession is good for the soul.

Changed His Mind.

[Judge:] Filkins: Thought you intended to sell your suburban home?

Wilkins: I did, until I read the alluring story my advertising man wrote; then I decided to keep it myself.

Why Not?

[Louisville Courier-Journal:] "I'm feeling well today; my mind is at ease and my business is good."

"Why are you going around telling people that?"

"Well, we always put up a holler when things go wrong. Why shouldn't we occasionally admit that things are going right?"

Eager to Have It Ended.

[Chicago Record-Herald:] "I'll be glad when this campaign is over and the votes have been counted."

"Why should you care? Is your business affected in Presidential years?"

"No, but I have a lot of old friends with whom I'm anxious to be on speaking terms again."

Wasting Time.

[Pittsburgh Post:] Never ask a dealer if his goods are fresh. This question is asked 10,000 times daily and has never been answered in the negative yet.

Their Trouble.

"UNCLE BILLY" SAYS "HERE."

Masonry's "Elder Brother" Is at Every Session.

Eighty-five Years Young and Full of Honors.

Introduced California to Order of Eastern Star.

A session of the Grand Lodge of California Masons would not be complete without the presence of its nestor, "Uncle Billy" Moses, 85, erect, clear of vision and intellect, who links the present with the past, and is a welcome guest at every session.

"Uncle Billy" lives in San Francisco now, and his visit to Los Angeles last week is his first to the Southland in nearly a generation. He remembers this city when it was a rambling pueblo, and while his brother Masons spent an afternoon skylarking on the sands at Venice, "Uncle Billy" improved the time by revisiting localities which were familiar to him a half a century and more ago, but which now have changed almost out of recognition.

In the Church of Our Lady of the Angels, however, he stirred the fires of recollection into a flame, and as he stood again in the subdued light of the sacred edifice, hallowed with the touch of years, a voice seemed to come out of the past and he remembered another time when he stood in almost the same spot, sixty years ago.

"Uncle Billy" is not only rich in memory and good health, but he has a wife who takes as much pride in his long and honorable career as he does himself. Mrs. Moses is high in the order of the Eastern Star; a member of the original California chapter, organized by her distinguished husband and wears the first chapter emblem designed in this State. She was a ward of "Uncle Billy's" before her marriage, and her pride in the "Elder Brother" of Freemasonry is unbounded.

"Uncle Billy" is not only rich in memory and good health, but he has a wife who takes as much pride in his long and honorable career as he does himself. Mrs. Moses is high in the order of the Eastern Star; a member of the original California chapter, organized by her distinguished husband and wears the first chapter emblem designed in this State. She was a ward of "Uncle Billy's" before her marriage, and her pride in the "Elder Brother" of Freemasonry is unbounded.

William Schuyler Moses bears the distinction of being Grand Bible Bearer, an office to which he was reappointed on Friday by the incoming Grand Master. He is the oldest Mason in the State, recorded in the annals of the Grand Lodge. He was made a Mason in Rochester, N. Y., in [illegible], and became Master of Golden Gate Lodge No. 30 three years later, and is the oldest Past Master of California record. He has served as an officer in various bodies of the Rite [illegible] Grand Master of the Grand Commandery in 1891. Received Honorarium of the Grand Cross Thirty-second Degree. Court of Honor in 1892. In [illegible] he introduced the Order of the Eastern Star on the Pacific Coast, of which order, he is, by action of the Grand Chapter, the "Venerable" Past Grand Patron. He has been installed in offices connected with Masonry 131 times, and has visited Masonic meetings more than 10,000 [illegible]. At 85 he is still an enthusiastic Blue Lodge Mason, and rarely misses lodge night at Golden Gate No. 30, of which he has been for sixty years a member.

In writing of her husband, Mrs. Moses in a recent issue of the Trestle Board says: "His wonderful memory is replete with anecdotes of historic interest which are truly delightful. He loves to bring the 'long ago' very near, and live over and over again the joys of friendship ad charm of adventures which have mellowed into the truly ripe old age. Dear old 'Uncle Billy's' stalwart form, erect as the proverbial arrow, bright eagle eye, good health, free from all infirmities of age, a regular attendant at meetings of various Masonic bodies, [illegible] the glory of California sunshine, and his unswerving allegiance to Masonic lessons, which have illumined his pathway, lo, these many years."

A Tale of Two Drachmae.

[Indianapolis News:] Charles M. Cross took from his pocketbook a bit of thin yellow cardboard that looked something like the old-fashioned fractional United States currency—shin plasters.

"Where do you think I found this?" he asked, waving it at a group around him.

Of course nobody knew, but supposed that Mr. Cross had been digging into the family archives, and had run across this bit of money.

"My men have been tearing down the old Ritter house. Up in the loft they found a pigeon's nest. The house had been deserted, the windows broken and the pigeons had taken possession. In use as a part of the nest was this money. You can see it is of Greek issue, as it is marked '2 drachmae;' but how did it get in an Irvington house, and in a pigeon's nest?"

Demarchus C. Brown, one of the listeners, was showing increasing interest. "I think I have the mate to that piece of money," he said, and took from his pocketbook a duplicate. "I believe, also, that I can unravel the mystery. Years ago when teaching Greek at Butler College, I had some Greek money that I had brought home from Athens. This money was exhibited in the classroom, and I gave a two drachmae piece to a Greek student who was then living in the Ritter house. I have no doubt that it was left there and that the pigeons afterward appropriated it. That was a good many years ago, and it is a long ways from Athens, but it proves in another sense that the world isn't so big after all."

Heard from the Bleacherites.

[Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph:] Showing that it doesn't pay to overdo a good thing, Howard Camnitz tells a good yarn concerning an incident that occurred when he pitched for Dick Kinsella's Springfield club.

"We had a veteran pitcher," Camnitz says, "who hadn't been going very well. He lost a couple of games and the management released him. That afternoon he was to take a 3:15 train home and went to the bench to bid the boys good-by. Then with his grip in hand he started across the field for the clubhouse. The bleachers saw him go. He had been rather popular out there, so the fans stood up and yelled:

"'Good luck to you, old sport. Hope you get going again and come back soon.'

"This pleased the old boy and he delayed his departure. 'If I can get them to do that tomorrow maybe the manager will relent and give me another chance,' he thought.

"So the next day, with grip in hand, he started across the field again. But all of a sudden the bleacherites got up on their feet and yelled:

"'You darned old stiff, haven't you

AMBITIOUS PLAN OF IMPROVERS.

WOULD LEVEL HILL AND BUILD MAGNIFICENT LAKE.

Claim Paternity of Removal-of-Entire-Hill Idea—Believe City Should Help Pay for It—Favor Granting Railway Franchise of San Pedro Street.

Agitation on the subject of tunneling Bunker Hill at First or Second street, from Hill to Figueroa, which has been before the people of the city for many months, brought out a proposition from the Bunker Hill Investment League to level the entire hill between these two streets and from Fifth street to Temple. It appears that this is not an entirely new proposition, as shown by the action of the N.E.W. Commercial and Improvement Association, at its meeting on Thursday, and in reaffirming its belief in the efficiency of this plan, called attention to its former action relative thereto. The following resolution was addressed to the City Council:

"Resolved, That, in accordance with plans submitted to this association about one year ago, and thereafter discussed, your honorable body instruct the Board of Public Works to detail an engineer to prepare an estimate of the cost of grading the area bounded by Temple street, Fifth street, Hill street and Fremont avenue, to conform to a 3 per cent. grade, all the streets within this area."

The belief is expressed in another resolution that the Los Angeles Railway will make a favorable arrangement for hauling the earth from the leveling of the hill, and use it for the building of levees and the creation of a large lake, from the waters of the Los Angeles River, adjoining Elysian Park. It is also stated that as the benefits will accrue to the entire city, the municipality should aid the property owners in making the notable improvement.

It is estimated that there will be 12,000,000 yards of earth to be moved, at a cost of 30 cents per yard or less, and that the cost will be no more than the cost of the proposed tunnels, that all conflicting interests will be harmonized by this plan, and that the street-car question will be solved.

Taking up the question of a street-car franchise on San Pedro street, the association urges upon the City Council to grant the franchise to the Pacific Electric Railway and the Los Angeles Railway, as proposed, "and thus meet the crying need of the San Pedro street property owners and the traveling public at large."

It is charged in the preamble that all efforts to change this plan are in the interest of the two transcontinental railroad lines now seeking entrance to the city, in order that they may get possession of the street, reduce the value of property and secure vast terminal facilities at a very low price.

"The cry of 'urgency' for the municipal line is absurd," continues the preamble, "seeing that if this one-street municipal line were laid now, there would be neither municipal 'power' to run it, nor any provision for transfers to render its use economical or convenient to the public."

KILLED OUT OF SEASON.

Water Department Juggernaut Crushes Highland Park Canine, and Brings Complaint by Patrolman.

The killing of a dog at the intersection of Avenue Fifty-five and Pasadena avenue by an auto truck belonging to the City Water Department, has caused a protest to be filed with the police against the alleged recklessness frequently displayed by chauffeurs and city employees in driving municipal machines in that vicinity.

Patrolman William B. White filed a report yesterday with Capt. Murray on the killing of the dog. He says the truck was being driven an an excessive rate of speed, and adds:

"The auto drivers exceed the speed limit most every day. The avenue has been a speedway for the past year. The public would like to have the speed ordinance enforced."

The matter is to taken up with the heads of the different municipal departments, with a view to having city chauffeurs cautioned against exceeding the speed laws, and admonishing them to handle their machines in a more careful manner. It is the contention of other people who have filed protests at police headquarters that city employees should be forced to obey the ordinance the same as other auto drivers.

THE POLITICAL WATCHTOWER

Local organists of Bull Mooseism are daily shouting in stud-type headlines that because Taft men may vote for Wilson, the latter has become the "reactionary candidate," whatever that is. But "Chattering Chet" Rowell, one of the first assistant California Moosers-in-chief, made a speech shortly after the Supreme Court ruled that Taft electors could not go on the ballot, in which he suggested that Roosevelt would get as many of the Taft votes as Wilson. Now in the name of "Bill" Flinn, sunrise oracle of Mooseism, is Roosevelt also the candidate of the reactionaries? Or are all Taftites who will vote for Wilson still reactionaries and those that will vote for Roosevelt "Progressives" of a few days conversion? Here's to Georgie Perkins, Dan Hanna, "Dynamite" Ed Perry and Bennie Cohn, each and every one a dear friend of the common people and a threecarat "battler for the Lord." On with the "uplift," down with "rebates" and "loathsome capital."

The ten candidates for the Superior Court bench are as busy as Durham bulls in fly time these sizzling pre-election days, buttonholing voters and propping up their political fence. Close political observers are of the opinion that Judges McCormick, Rives and Houser (incumbents) who led the field of twenty-seven candidates in the recent primaries, will repeat the performance on November 5. McCormick polled 37,953, Rives, 34,944 and Houser, 26,944. Judge Hutton, who ran fourth with a vote of 21,205, has withdrawn from the race and Louis Myers, who cleared the primaries in eleventh place, will take his place on the ballot. With three of the bench seats practically cinched, the fight for the two remaining places is decidedly keen between Horton, Summerfield, Taft, York, Frederickson, Wellborn and Myers. Ray Horton, the popular young Deputy District Attorney, is looked upon as a sure winner by political wiseacres, but he is leaving no stone unturned. Horton ran sixth in the primaries with 17,289. Justice of the Peace Summerfield is an experienced campaigner and he has built up a splendid organization, which is doing great work in his behalf. Summerfield trailed Horton on September 3, with 15,887 votes. Myers is the pet candidate of the Goo-Goo outfit, and is one of Boss Lissner's political confidants and advisers. The Lissner machine is making a special effort to put Myers over, but present indications are that he will wake up the mornin gafter in about the eighth position. Police Judge Frederickson, who ran tenth in the primaries, is working hard, and his friends are confident that he will be one of the five winners. Taft and York do not loom formidable in the contest.

Declaring that the Bull Moose party was "founded on hate, malice and disappointed ambition, and not on principles," Senator Works has fired another broadside at the so-called "Progressive" party and its leaders and bosses. Wholly unimpressed with the political importance of the fact that "Holy Hiram" is Roosevelt's running mate, the junior Senator from California is laboring night and day to encompass the defeat of Roosevelt and Johnson by an insistent and persistent advocacy of Wilson and Marshall. Works is one of the biggest cards in the hands of the national organization of progressive Republicans organized to support the educator-candidate. Works was elected to the Senate upon the insistence of Gov. Johnson and other devout "uplifters," who declared him to be the last word in progressive Republicanism. Senator Works refused to be a party to the grand larceny plot of the Lissner-Johnson-Finn machine and has ripped the Bull Moose party fore and aft with shells of the 12-inch variety ever since the third-term party held its personally-conducted convention in Chicago a few weeks after the regular Republican national convention. Local Bull Moosers headed by Lissner and Lee C. Gates, hard hit by the shells from the Work's batteries, sent him a letter signed by "forty" "progressives," demanding his resignation. Strange to say Senator Works politely refused to step down and out and hand his toga to Mr. Gates, who has had his eye on it for many years. Senator Works is now classed as a reactionary because he will vote for Wilson. These Bull Moose battlers are sure the funny fellows. Eh?

An indication of the turncoat character of Roosevelt and his party leaders, is given in a letter received yesterday by Attorney James T. McGhee, a recent arrival from Kansas City, from J. B. White of Kansas City, who presided as president of the recent National Conservation Congress in Indianapolis. President White, commenting on the fact that Roosevelt, Giff Pinchot, Jimmie Garfield and other Bull Moose leaders who once had so loudly supported the conservation idea, were not present at the meeting, although Roosevelt had accepted an invitation, declared that it appeared plain that "they are thinking more of politics and themselves nowadays than they are of their former conservation policies, which they once declared were so hateful to the lumber, power and other trusts."

Woodrow Wilson clubs are to be formed during the coming week in all of the Assembly districts of Los Angeles county. These clubs will work in conjunction with the Democratic County Central Committee and Chairman Cotton. The idea of forming these auxiliary clubs was conceived by Cotton, it being an excellent way to give Republican followers an opportunity to participate in the campaign and become identified with the Wilson workers. It is the purpose to allow voters, male and female, irrespective of political faith, to enroll as members of these clubs. The Democrats are perfecting a splendid organization and are bubbling over with confidence. The Bourbon leaders assert that Wilson will carry this city by several thousand votes and break about even in the county with Roosevelt. Johnson carried this county by about 7000 votes over Bell two years ago; but he was running on the straight Republican ticket then.

Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives, has informed Chairman Cotton that he finds himself unable to come to Los Angeles before election to speak for Wilson and Marshall. Efforts are being made by Bourbon leaders to bring Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, pure food expert, and Louis F. Brandeis, the Massachusetts lawyers, to Southern California in the interest of the Democratic ticket. Both Wiley and Brandeis are Republicans, but are out for Wilson. Dr. Wiley is the latest recruit to the ranks of those who brand Roosevelt as a falsifier and his indictment carries peculiar weight. Among the deeds for which The Pretender has been claiming credit for before the nation is the enactment of the pure food law. Now cometh Doc Wiley and sayeth that Roosevelt while President did everything in his power to block the passage of the pure food bill and his efforts were heartily encored by the "dope trust" and manufacturers of impure foodstuffs.

Thirty young men met last night in the California Building and organized a "Dodson Club" for the purpose of boosting the candidacy of Philip F. Dodson, Democratic candidate for the State Senate in the Thirty-fifth District. A general campaign was outlined. The organization is strictly non-partisan and is composed of young men from all political parties. Dodson is making a house-to-house canvas in his district. The officers of the club are A. H. Stockton, president; J. D. Randes, vice-president; A. F. Hoppe, secretary. The office of the club is at No. 626 California building.

A Wilson-Marshall rally was held at Arcadia last night and addresses were made by T. H. Kirk, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Ninth District, and Attorney John W. Huntsberger. Following the meeting, a Wilson Club was formed and officers were elected. A meeting of the Democratic County Committeemen was held last night at the headquarters, No. 616½ South Hill street. Music and speaking were features.

Make Church Attractive.

[Philadelphia Record:] Analysing the "empty church" evil, Bishop Sanford Olmsted said the other day in Denver:

"Of course, where the moving picture houses are open Sundays empty churches are almost inevitable.

"I heard the other day of a youngster who was taken to a moving picture show for the first time. On his return home his mother said to him:

"'Well, how did you like the movies?'

"'Muvver,' he answered, with solemn enthusiasm, 'if you once go to the movies, you won't never want to waste no time on church again.'"

WORLD'S COMMERCE.

Navigation Company (British Mail) owning a fleet of ninty-six steamers with a tonnage of 493,239 tons, operating from London to Japan and all parts of the world.

Messageries Maritimes (French Mail) owning a fleet of eighty-four steamers with a tonnage of 246,154 tons, operating from France to Australia, South America and all parts of the world.

Lamport & Holt Line, owning a fleet of forty-six steamers with a tonnage of 254,127 tons, operating from New York to South America and Europe.

Toyo Kisen Kaisha (Oriental Steamship Company) owning a fleet of eight steamers, with a tonnage of 97,000, operating from Japan to San Francisco and South America.

North German, Lloyd (German Mail) owning a fleet of 197 steamers with a tonnage of 710,000, operating from Bremen to Japan, Australia and all parts of the world.

Hamburg American Line, the largest steamship company in the world, owning a fleet of 402 steamers with a tonnage of 1,210,000, operating from Hamburg to New York, South America and all parts of the world.

Pacific Mail Steamship Company, owning a fleet of seven steamers with a tonnage of 120,200 tons, operating from San Francisco to Japan, China and the Philippines.

These companies are represented in this city by D. F. Robertson. The Hamburg-American Line, the British Mail, French Mail and German Mail boats are making special preparations to handle immigrant business from Germany and Southern Europe.

AS AN EXPORT PORT.

That this harbor is soon to become an important export port is the prediction made yesterday by D. M. Thomson, agent in this city for Belfour, Guthrie & Company, who represent the Harrison Direct line of freight steamers. The thin end of the wedge has already been driven, he says, in the recent heavy shipments of canned fruit and tallow.

The Harrison Direct line is prepared to increase its business here heavily in 1914. The company has a fleet of fifty vessels, with an aggregate carrying capacity of nearly 800,000 tons, one of the largest fleets of cargo liners in the world. The Workman and other vessels with a capacity of 10,000 to 12,000 tons are already beginning to make the port and before long larger vessels of the 14,000-ton class will come.

One of the company's vessels, the Magician, is due today with the biggest consignment of coffee that ever came into the port. The Magician will bring 4000 sacks directly from Santos, Brazil. The value of the consignment is about $120,000 The canal will cut the running time of fiftytwo days, which at present is considered fast, down to twenty-five days. Besides the saving of time in this way there will be other advantages to the merchants of this city in the way of receiving goods directly by water and getting them ahead of the northern ports.

The American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, with offices in this city, now has eighteen steamers in commission. Another one is nearly completed and seven more are to be finished at intervals of two months or less. Early in 1914 all twenty-six will be in commission with an aggregate cargo capacity of 254,000 tons. The American - Hawaiian steamers are now plying between New York, Boston and the Pacific Coast, and between the Hawaiian Islands. The fleet is divided and the freight is transferred at the isthmus, conveyed to San Diego and thence northward by rail. As soon as the canal is opened the company's steamers will come directly to Los Angeles. The company is negotiating with the Southern Pacific for terminal facilities and proposes to build 1000 feet of wharves and several freight warehouses.

THINGS TAFT HAS SAID.

Speaking at various times and in various places President Taft has said:

"Anything that makes capital idle, or which reduces or destroys it (tariff revision downward, for instance,) reduces both wages and the opportunity to earn wages. It only requires the effects of a panic through which we are passing (1907-8.) or through which we passed in 1873 and 1893; to show how closely united in a common interest we all are. We are in the same boat, and financial and business storms which effect one, are certain to affect all others.

"A nation like that of the United States, with over ninety millions of people, with resources unexampled in the history of the world, with ideals as high as those of any nation, with earnest desire to spread the principles of liberty and of popular government, cannot maintain a position of isolation with respect to the peoples of the world when fate shall have thrust some of those peoples under our control."

"Why should not a blacklisted laborer be allowed an injunction as well as a boycotted capitalist,' was asked of Mr. Taft at Cooper Institute, New York City, on January 10, 1908. Mr. Taft promptly answered:

"He ought to be, and if I was on the bench I would give him one mighty quick.

"Efficient regulation is the very antidote and preventive of socialism and government ownership. The railroads, until now, have been permitted to wield without any real control the enormously important franchise of furnishing transportation to the entire country. In certain respects they have done a marvelous work and have afforded transportation at a cheaper rate per ton, per mile, and per passenger, than in any other country in the world. They have, however, many of them, shamefully violated the trust obligation they have been under to the public of furnishing equal facilities at the same price to all shippers. They have been weighed in the balance and found wanting in some instances. The remedy for the evil must be radical to be effective. If it is not so, then we may certainly expect that the movement toward government ownership will become a formidable one, one that cannot be stayed.

"While I fully recognize the fact that the fifteenth amendment has not accomplished all that it was intended to accomplish, and that for a time it seemed to be a dead letter, I am confident that in the end it will prove to be a bulwark equally beneficial with the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments to an unfortunate, down-trodden, struggling race, to whom, in view of the circumstances under which they were brought to this country and the conditions in bondage in which they were continued for more than two centuries, we owe every obligation of care and protection. That which has been done for the negro race is the work of the Republican party.

"What the capitalist, who is the employer, must face is that the organization—the labor union—is a permanent condition in the industrial world. It has come to stay (very true—but while claiming full rights for itself it must not, as it does, trample on the rights of employers and others—the writer.)

"I do not know any place which thrills one's bosom with patriotic ecstasy as the sepulchre of the unknown dead in Arlington cemetery. The thought of the heroism and sacrifice of those who, without a murmur and without even hope of personal credit or glory, gave up all to maintain a sacred cause, makes all motvies of personal advancement of ambition seem small and sordid.

"It goes without saying that where an adjustment of labor differences cannot be reached by negotiation, it is far better for the community at large that they be settled by submission to an impartial tribunal and agreement to abide its judgment than to resort to a trial of resistance and endurance by lockouts and strikes.

"The course of the Republican party since its organization in 1856 and its real assumption of control in 1861 down to the present day, is remarkable for the foresight and ability of its leaders (except Roosevelt—the writer,) for its efficiency and deep sense of responsibility for the preservation and successful maintenance of the government, and for the greatest resourcefulness in meeting the various trying and difficult issues which a history of now a full half-century has presented for solution.

"The administration of exact justice by courts without fear or favor (untrammeled by 'recall of the judiciary' legislation—the writer,) unmoved by the influence of the wealthy or by the threats of the demagogue, is the highest ideal that a government of the people can strive for, and any means by which a suitor, however unpopular or poor, is deprived of enjoying this, is to be condemned.

"The difficulty with the Democratic party and the reason why the American people thus far have manifested their (general) distrust of it is because it has no policy which the country can depend upon. Its whole stock in trade is that of irresponsible criticism and obstruction; when charged with the responsibility for doing anything it utterly fails.

"Mr. Bryan asks me what I would do with the trusts. I answer that I would restrain unlawful trusts with all the efficiency of injunctive process and would punish with all the severity of criminal prosecution every attempt on the part of aggregated capital to suppress competition.

"We are making progress and ought to make progress in the shaping of governmental action to secure greater equality of opportunity, to destroy the undue advantage of special privilege and of accumulated capital, and to remove obstructions to the pursuit of human happiness; and in working out these difficult problems we may possibly have from time to time, to limit or narrow the breadth of constitutional guaranties in respect of property by amendment. But if we do it, let us do it deliberately, understanding what we are doing, and with full consideration and clear weighing of what we are giving up of private right for the general welfare. Let us do it under circumstances which shall make the operation of the change uniform and just, and not depend on the feverish, uncertain and unstable determination of successive votes on different laws by temporary and changing majorities. Such a proposal as this (recall of the judiciary, for instance—the writer) is utterly without merit or utility, and instead of being progressive, is reactionary; instead of being in the interest of all the people, and of the stability of popular government, is sowing the seeds of confusion and tyranny.

"The only substantial steps which have been really taken to stop the abuses and oppression attempted by the irresponsible holders of great wealth and corporate power have been by the Republican party.

"I believe that a navy is the greatest answer of peace that we could possibly have—a navy commensurate with our resources, and commensurate with our coast lines, and commensurate with the number of dependencies we have, and commensurate with our population and commensurate with our influence as a world power.

"Whenever called upon, the negro has never failed to make sacrifices for this, the only country he has, and the only flag he knows.

"The leader of the Republican party during the Civil War was Abraham Lincoln. In all the varieties of controversy with which it has since had to deal, it has never lost the inspiration of his leadership.

"Labor needs capital to secure the best production, while capital needs labor in producing anything. The more capital in use the more work there is to do—the more laborers are needed. The greater the need for laborers the better their pay per man. It is greatly in the interest of the workingman, therefore, that capital should be fairly treated. Any injustice done to it acts directly upon the wage-earners, who must look to capital for employment.

"I have examined this proposal (Roosevelt's) method of reversing judicial decisions on constitutional questions with care. I do not hesitate to say that it lays the ax at the foot of the tree of well-ordered freedom and subjects the guaranties of life, liberty and property without remedy to the fitful impulse of a temporary majority of an electorate.

"By this system of 'judicial recal' (recall of the judges) the question whether the judge is to be removed or not is to be left to that majority that may be greatly aroused to secure from him a judgment favorable to them. Could a system be devised, better adapted to deprive the judiciary of that independence, without which the liberty and other rights of the individual cannot be maintained against the government and the majority?

"Evils are to be suppressed by definite and practical measures—not by oratory or denunciation.

"The present business system of the country rests on the protective tariff, and any attempt to change it to a free-trade basis will certainly lead to disaster."

These utterances of President Taft are the utterances of a statesman, not Roosevelt claptrap.

Unconsidered Result.

ARMY'S DILEMMA FROM NEW LAW.

WILL SHAKE UP WORK BEING DONE BY OFFICERS.

Requirement That Men Must Rejoin Their Regiments Will Particularly Hit Service Schools and Cause Many Changes at Legations in European Countries.

WASHINGTON, Sept. [illegible].—[Special to New York Times:] The Judge Advocate-General of the army has been carefully scrutinizing the last army appropriation bill, and as a consequence the heads of the War Department are appalled at the duties imposed upon them by the new legislation attached as riders to the act. So far they have not quite worked out what will have to be done, but the general staff, by testing a few cases, estimates that nearly 600 officers at present on detailed service will have to be recalled to their regiments almost at once. Six months is the greatest length of time left for any of them to return, and officers responsible for failure to do so will have their pay and allowance stopped. In regard to the ordinary detachments from the army organizations the general provision for return to the colors causes no particular worry. But the new law strikes in a way that apparently was not intended, affecting about one-half of the instructors at all the service schools. These include West Point, and from present indications half the officers detailed at West Point as well as at the other schools will have to rejoin their regiments on December 15, in the middle of the school year. How to replace these instructors is something the department has not worked out, although it realizes that under the provisions of the act any delinquencies are out of the question.

Besides doing duty at the schools the detailed officers are serving with the militia, at private or State military schools, on staff assignments and as military attaches at various embassies abroad. Through the courtesy of the French government a number of officers are taking special courses at the riding school at St. Cyr, and many of these will have to return in the middle of the year. The military attaches at Vienna, Berlin and Brussels, particularly, will have to return to this country almost immediately.

The law officers of the department are of the opinion that Congress not mean such a sweeping provision, but the department heads are determined to take steps to carry it out to the letter. They have some hope, however, that as the ninety-day period in which the shifts must be made, does not expire until December 15, almost two weeks after Congress convenes, a joint resolution may be passed amending some features of the law. Meanwhile every officer below the rank of major, who has been four years or more on his present detail, and every officer selected to succeed him, will have to stand ready to move at an instant's notice in case Congress refuses to grant the amendment. The move is directed under a general provision that two years out of every six must be spent with his command by every officer below the rank of major.

The department is particularly worried as to the effect of the new provision on the service schools. The present high system of perfection has been in effect for twelve years, and it is pointed out that only the graduates under the new system are prepared to act as instructors. Therefore, the number of officers available for this detail is limited. Coming in the middle of the year the effect on the discipline of the schools is particularly feared.

The department approves in a general way the motive actuating Congress, and feels that officers should have experience in the field. But it is bending all its energies to have the act amended in some particulars as soon as Congress meets.

CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA.

The Country Is Pacific and Prosperous, But People Are Disturbed by the High Cost of Living.

[Washington Post:] "Russia is pacific and prosperous," said Dr. Ivan Kablukov, professor of chemistry in the University of Moscow, a delegate to the International Congress of Applied Chemistry. I AM WILLING TO PROVE I CAN CURE YOU

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine.

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

DR. LYNOTT
Who is Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number"—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 9089 Deagan building, Chicago, Ill.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of the medicine and full directions free of [illegible] I will do that. Easy Money.

SEES MILLIONS WITHIN REACH.

Chinese Merchant Tells How to Succeed.

Greed and Dishonesty Are Not Essentials.

Opportunities Rife, Says Chew Pack.

"Any young business man with ordinary intelligence and a desire to succeed, may become a millionaire in Los Angeles, by the time he reaches the half-century mark." This remarkable statement touching the possibilities in the business world of this city was made yesterday by Chew Pack, Chinese millionaire merchant, whose rise from abject poverty to affluence places him in the forefront of successful business men of the Pacific Coast.

Contrary to the widespread belief that large fortunes are amassed only as a result of trickery and dishonesty, this successful Chinese importer and journalist declares that absolute honesty, integrity of purpose and abiding faith in one's fellowmen, are the most valuable assets of the embryo millionaire. Amid the oriental splendor of his home, the squalor of the outside all portraying the magnificence within, this remarkable man told of his own struggles for success and with quaint axioms pointed the way for the ambitious of an alien race.

"Because of my warm regard for Los Angeles and Los Angeles people," he said, "I would be glad to advise the young men in such a way that their efforts might be crowned with successful achievements. There is but one true way to succeed and with perseverance and energy that route leads to great wealth and great responsibilities. Any young business man with ordinary intelligence and a desire to succeed, may become a millionaire in Los Angeles, by the time he reaches the half-century mark."

Urged to make public the methods which he insisted would lead to material success, and by his advice to assist those less fortunate in grasping opportunities as they presented themselves, he continued:

"The thing of most importance to be impressed upon the mind of the average business man and merchant of this city is that in each day's business he is laying the foundation either for success or failure. It is well that he remember to be just in all his dealings lest the shadow of some unjust act rise up in the future to cloud his success. In business life it is most true that if one takes care of the little things, the big things will take care of themselves. Failure cannot be to the man who speaks words of truth. Small successes, builded upon foundations of justice and truth, when properly appreciated will develop into much greater successes."

Commenting on the desire of many to accumulate wealth rapidly, and the tendency to use any and all means to accomplish the desired end, Chew Pack said that this tendency was a foe to legitimate business and was not based on enduring principles.

"Millions are not made in a day," he said. "First must the merchant or business man gain the confidence of others and by deserving that confidence and keeping it, make all proud of his success to which they will each contribute by their patronage. The young man must respect his elders. He must keep his promises lest his words become hollow and have no meaning to his friends. He must not become selfish and forget the friends who have helped him in time of need, thereby lessening his chances for ultimate success. 'Words must be true,' says Confucius.

"How do the merchants propose to succeed beyond their present condition unless they learn to economize? Too many of those who seek advancement in the commercial world live too high for that which first they must make. How much easier is it to spend than to save. That which is most enduring requires the greatest effort. Of course, the man who buys with the expectation of selling at a profit must first consider that it is good to see that first he gets back what he pays out. All else is profit but if he gets not back what first he invested then it is not good business. The man who invests his money and his time in legitimate ventures is entitled to recompense, but he must not overstep the bounds and take advantage of his brother in misfortune for truly the day may come when that same brother may be in the way of helping him.

"I would not advise along any one particular line of endeavor, for the opportunities in California are greater than ever before. For the man born in this country and familiar with its customs and its people, the task ought not to be so difficult as for an alien, and yet it has been done. Success is for the man who makes his spoken word as good as his written promise."

Speaking reluctantly of his own success, he told how he came to Los Angeles thirty-six years ago without money or friends, without even a knowledge of the English tongue, and through untiring efforts amassed a fortune that enables him to wield an influence in the great business affairs of the world. He began as a laborer in an orchard owned at that time by L. C. Goodwin. Today he is a member of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce and his sons and daughters are receiving college educations and he is happy and contented in his home at No. 306½ Marchessault street, in the heart of Chinatown.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CIVICS.

The Business Women's Civic Club will meet at the Science building of Los Angeles High School Thursday at 7 p.m., when Dr. Susan Ball will talk to the members on the subject of "Parliamentary Law." At 8 o'clock the meeting will be open to the public, and S. C. Graham, public service commissioner, will speak on the plan of the Public Service Commission for the distribution of the surplus water of the Los Angeles Aqueduct. Miss Maria Lopez will be chairman. During Miss Lloy Galpin's absence, those local issues which are to be voted on in November will be discussed. The public is invited.

NEW YORK BANQUET.

The New York State Society, Inc., will have an informal banquet and reception at the Metropolitan Club rooms, No. 349 South Hill street, Tuesday evening, the 22nd inst., at 6:30 o'clock. Interesting talks by New York men are promised, and all persons from that State are invited.

Chew Pack,

Who sees plenty of opportunities for young Los Angeles business men to become millionaires. He did it himself, though greatly handicapped.

Going Up.

CHRISTMAS BEEF PRECIOUS GIFT.

BOSSY READY FOR ANOTHER JUMP OVER THE MOON.

Local Firm Invests in Big Imperial Valley Lunch Station for Ten Thousand Cattle—Shortage Being Felt All Along the Coast—Arizona to the Rescue.

Christmas beef is going to be higher than ever this year, and by December a Porterhouse steak may take rank with precious jewels only to be given and received by the plutocracy, according to the statements of authorities.

The cow which our childhood fancy descried performing the unusual bovine athletic relaxation of jumping over the moon attained a plane of no higher altitude than early returns indicate that selfsame cow, reduced to rounds and sirloins, will reach before the gentle springtime zephyrs again waft against the fevered brow.

One of the heaviest cattle importers known to local fame is the firm of C. H. and O. R. Fuller, and they do not deny the awful prognostication made by A. L. Spellmeyer, a live stock commissioner. The Fullers, however, are gathering a congregation of feeders on their several ranges which, when turned loose upon the Los Angeles meat foundries, may cause the price balloon to hesitate in its mad course toward the moon aforesaid.

Having eaten up most of the feed farther north the Fuller concern has recently acquired by purchase and lease about 3000 acres of fine alfalfa land in the Imperial Valley, not far from Calexico, where every prospect pleases and the alfalfa grows so tall and luxuriantly that the residents are afraid to tell of it outside for fear of being condemned to the Ananias Club.

This Imperial grazing ground and the improvements which will be made in the way of fences, buildings, etc., involves an investment by the Los Angeles firm of over $500,000. Steers will be shipped to this feeding yard from various parts of the country and already the extent of the purchase is attracting the attention of cattlemen. The capacity of the Imperial ranch is about 10,000 head.

Arizona is becoming a heavy producer, and through Spellmeyer contracts for 8000 steers have recently been placed in that State. Feeders are costing from half a cent to a cent more than a year ago and it is said in the "trade" that the scarcity and high price of cattle make it exceedingly difficult to secure good stock in large quantity.

A cattle shortage is beginning to be felt all along the Coast, and northern packers are already paying $4.50 per hundredweight for fat cows in Arizona and $5.50 for fat steers, and the freightage and shrinkage in delivery is at least a cent.

MANY TO BE HIT.

Government to Make Arrests of Postal-law Violators Here and Throughout Country Tuesday.

The government will make another master stroke this week for the inviolability of United States mails, according to evidence received from Washington yesterday.

The character of the move is not known, but it is understood that it will cover scores of points in the country, Los Angeles included, and that wholesale arrests will follow, all being timed to take place at substantially the same hour, next Tuesday.

The alleged violation of law is most flagrant, it is understood, and so far as the efforts of the government are concerned, has almost passed unnoticed. There are many cities in the United States where the mails are employed to carry on nefarious practices, and a blow is contemplated that will teach a salutary lesson for all time.

In a number of cities, indictments have been found, but it is the understanding that no arrests will be made until Tuesday, when the legal net will be spread and a number of alleged violators taken.

That the strong arm of the law will strike in Los Angeles is known and there will be a furore when the move is made. There will be others interested than those who are taken into custody. Information from the Department of Justice indicates that there will be a general panic in the ranks of a class of undesirables when the blow falls.

The faith of the people in the mails was illustrated the other day during the examination of a witness in the Redman land fraud case. The witness was Ernest Smith, of Conneaut, O., who declared he had invested his money ($510) in the lands of the Homestead Association because the literature and booklets had come to him through the United States mails. He had no idea, he said, that an alleged swindle could be operated by means of the postal service.

THE HATPIN PROBLEM.

It Bothers Where Fair Ones Assemble—"Let's Put 'Em Out of Style," Argues a Sufferer.

"Unless the deadly hatpin is curtailed or banished altogether, accident and life insurance companies will be raising their rates," said a commuter as he stood at the apex, or the vortex, of a fearsome array of the deadly weapons in the Pacific Electric station last night.

The man from Pasadena had just been led away, a gory wreck, the result of a rake received from a pin worn by the girl from Long Beach who probably does not know yet that she is responsible for the sudden bulling of the court plaster market in the vicinity of Sixth and Main.

It's interesting to watch the battle from a point of vantage during the rush hours when crowds are storming the gates and the business ends of the pins may be seen getting in their deadly work. If a chap is short he is likely to lose one or more perfectly good eyes; if he is tall he becomes a human pincushion. Gatemen say that the air is frequently rent all the way from the Mt. Lowe chute to the Newport exit by the agonized cries of the wounded. Sometimes, the atmosphere is blue and sulphurous, too.

"Guess we'll have to get after them pins just as we did the big hats in theaters, and put 'em out of style," said the gentleman from El Monte as he wormed his way past a six-inch projectile and emerged triumphantly unscathed in the clearing of the trainshed.

WOUNDED BY NEGRESS.

R. C. Nelson, an operative for the secret service bureau of the police department, was cut in the right breast by an infuriated negress late Friday night, while assisting in making an arrest. He was removed to his home, where he may be confined for some days as a result of the injury. The woman, Pearl Jones, is held at the Boyle Heights Station for appearance in court tomorrow.

The Fur Styles Which Fashion Most Approves

And so another year has rolled around. The time for furs has come again; and with it this year, as in the past, the New York Store comes to the front with a showing of seasonable furs, which you will easily concede to be the largest and most authentic collection that the city contains. You will find them, as you have in the past, occupying space in the big First Floor Ivory and Gold Salon. The styles are substantially different from those of last year, making the replacing of your old furs almost a necessity. Mink will, of course, be the most approved fur of the year, with Squirrel in the blended or Mole shades a close second. Real Mole skins, news comes from France, are being widely sought. AMENDMENTS TO BE VOTED UPON.

Gist of Measures Submitted in November.

Free Text-books, Bonds and Taxation Involved.

Only Referendum Relates to Creation of Registrar.

Of the six constitutional amendments and proposed statutes to be voted upon at the general election November 5 in California, five are initiative measures and one a referendum measure. The latter relates to the creating of a registrar of voters. The initiative measures concern free school books, irrigation bonds, city and county consolidation, a racing commission and home rule taxation.

FREE TEXT BOOKS.

This amendment provides for the appointment or election of a State Board of Education by the Legislature. The present law constitutes the Governor, Superintendent of Public Schools, the president of the University of California and the professor of pedagogy of the university, the State Board of Education.

Under the old law, text-books are printed under the direction of the Superintendent of Public Printing and are to be sold at cost. The new law provides that the books shall be distributed without cost or charge of any kind to all children attending the day and evening elementary schools under such conditions as the Legislature shall prescribe.

Like the present law, the amendment stipulates that the books shall be continued in use for not less than four years.

IRRIGATION BONDS.

The section to which this amendment will apply provides that all moneys belonging to the State, or to any county or municipality within the State, may be deposited in any national or State bank, provided the banks shall furnish security in the form of United States bonds or other State or municipal bonds of accepted stability. Banks are required to pay interest at not less than 2 per cent. on daily balances. It is further stipulated that no deposit shall at any one time exceed 50 per cent. of the capital stock of the bank and limits the percentage of public funds that can be deposited in the bank by the custodian of the money.

The amendment adds the words, "or of any irrigation district within this State." This in effect gives the bonds of an irrigation district the same privileges as those of the State, counties or municipalities, within the limitations and subject to the restrictions imposed by the law.

REGISTRAR OF VOTERS.

The proposed legislation to create the office of registrar will come before the voters in three sections as follows: amending section 4013 of the Political Code by creating the additional office of registrar in all counties, adding sections 4149a and 4149f by providing for the salaries, amending section 4232 by providing for the salary and assistants of the registrar for Alameda county.

The duties of the registrar are prescribed as follows: The registrar shall be appointed by the Board of Supervisors in each county to serve for a period of four years. All the powers imposed by law on county clerks in relation to the conduct, management and control of the registration of voters and in relation to elections shall be exercised and performed exclusively by the registrar who shall also have all the powers heretofore exercised by the deputies of the county clerks in matters relating to registration and elections.

The salaries are fixed as follows: Counties of thirteenth class, $75; fourteenth, $250; sixteenth, $100; seventeenth, $500; nineteenth, $600; twenty-fourth, $100; twenty-fifth, [illegible]; twenty-sixth, $700; twenty-seventh, [illegible]; twenty-eighth, $300; twenty-ninth, $300; thirty-third, [illegible]; thirty-fifth, $1200; thirty-eighth, $500; forty-second, $360; forty-fourth, $100; forty-sixth, $100; forty-eighth, $400; forty-ninth, $100; fiftieth, $100; fifty-second, $75; all other classes except the third, $24 per annum.

FOR ALAMEDA COUNTY.

The amendment relating to salaries and fees in counties of the third class concerns only the salary and assistants of the Registrar of Alameda county. It provides a salary of $3000 per annum and one deputy whose salary is fixed at $1800. In such years as the compilation of a great register of voters is required additional deputies are allowed as follows: Ten clerks for a period not exceeding six months, six clerks for a period not exceeding two months and ten clerks for a period not exceeding one month, the salaries of these clerks being fixed at $100 per month.

CONSOLIDATION GOVERNMENT.

This is an initiative measure and a proposition to amend section 7, Article XI of the State Constitution, relating to the formation of consolidated city and county governments.

The amendment would have the effect of repealing the following portion of the existing law: "City and county governments may be merged and consolidated into one municipal government with one set of officers and may be incorporated under general laws providing for the incorporation and organization of corporations for municipal purposes."

The amendment provides for the merging and consolidation of contiguous territory of two or more cities, and counties, or counties, or any part of any county or counties containing in the aggregate in the proposed territory of population not less than 350,000. No city or county shall become a part of such consolidated city or county unless a majority of the voters of such city shall approve at a general or special election and at a special election shall adopt a proposed freeholders' charter for such consolidated city or county.

No city or town shall be included in such consolidation unless a majority of the voters of the entire county shall assent by vote. The provisions of the article relating to the removal of county seats and the formation of new counties are declared by the proposed amendment not to apply to the Los Angeles consolidated city or county and general laws of such government shall be enacted for removal of counties as necessary by merger. No consolidated city or county is made for a just proportion of

The amendments would have the effect of repealing the following portion of the existing law: "City and county governments may be merged and consolidated into one municipal government with one set of officers and may be incorporated under generals laws providing for the incorporation and organization of corporations for municipal purposes."

The amendment provides for the merger and consolidation of contiguous territory of two or more cities, or cities and counties, or counties, or any city in any county or counties containing in the aggregate in the proposed merged territory of population of not less than 350,000. No city or town shall become a part of such city or county unless a majority of the voters of such city shall approve at a general or special election and at a special election shall adopt a freeholders' charter for such consolidated city or county.

No city or town shall be included in such consolidation unless a majority of the voters of the entire county approve it by vote. The provisions of the Constitution relating to the removal of county seats and the formation of new counties are declared by the proposed amendment not to apply to the formation of such consolidated city or county governments, and general laws are provided for the removal of county seats necessary by merger.

The consolidated city or county is [illegible] for a just proportion of the existing debts and liabilities of the county or counties included in whole or in part in the merger.

General laws provide for the organization of county governments and for the jurisdiction of Superior courts in the remainder of any county whenever the territory included in the consolidation removes the county seat.

RACING COMMISSION.

This is an act to prohibit bookmaking and pool-selling, and to provide for the appointment of a State Racing Commission to grant licenses for horse-racing in this State for a limited period, and the permitting of wagering upon such races by the Paris mutual and auction pool systems only.

The act provides for a racing commission of five men to be appointed by the Governor within twenty days of the passage of the law. All horse-racing is made subject to the commission and licenses must be granted by the commission before any horse-racing event can be conducted. Every race meeting held otherwise is declared by the act to be a public nuisance. In the event that an application for a license is refused the commission is required to publicly and fully state the reasons.

Betting and pool-selling of all kinds is prohibited by the terms of the amendment except as follows: "Any and all racing associations which shall obtain licenses to conduct race meetings in the State of California pursuant to the act, may conduct and permit within the enclosure where horse-racing is conducted betting upon the races conducted within the enclosure by and through the Paris mutual and auction pool systems of betting.

HOME RULE TAXATION.

This is a proposition to amend article XIII of the State Constitution by the addition of a new section relating to the taxation by counties, cities and counties, cities, towns, districts and townships.

The proposed amendment provides that any city, county, or district in this State is empowered to raise revenues for its local purposes and to provide for the time or times of collecting taxes for such purposes in such manner as it may determine, by ordinance or resolution, adopted by a majority vote at an election held on the question of establishing a new revenue system.

The proposed system or amendment, under the proposed act, may be submitted at any general or special election.

Property may be classified for the purposes of taxation or exemption from taxes; and taxes, or exemption therefrom, shall be uniform for all property of each of such classes. No tax, however, shall be levied on any property set aside for the purpose of taxation for State revenue except for payment of the principal and interest of any bonded indebtedness created and outstanding.

It is further stipulated that no such tax shall be levied upon any property exempt from local taxation by constitutional provision.

JUSTICE COSTS MONEY.

Case Against National Homestead Company, Charged with Fraudulent Use of Mails, Is Expensive.

The records in the office of the United States Marshal yesterday disclosed the fact that for the past six days a total of $3300 was paid out by the government as witness and mileage fees, in the case against E. C. Redman, president of the National Homestead Association, who is charged with fraudulent use of the United States mails.

The case has now been in progress since September 17, and the total cost to the government has not been less than $10,000, including the fees incurred some months ago, when the witnesses were all gathered here and the case postponed.

It is expected that all this week will be taken to conclude the evidence and the arguments to the jury. The government has about finished its case, but there is considerable speculation in regard to the witnesses for the defense. Up to yesterday, but one witness had been served from the office of the United States Marshal, that being on C. P. Jones, of Lancaster. Under the law, Redman must pay the expenses of his own witnesses, and it may be possible that he hoped to utilize some of the government's witnesses, but they have nearly all been discharged and sent home.

Mysteries.

MASONIC SIGNS IN UXMAL RUINS.

EVIDENTLY MADE BY SKILLED WORKMEN FROM EGYPT.

Temple May Have Been Erected by the Same Men Who Worked Upon King Solomon's Temple, as the Measurements Agree With the Biblical Story.

[Orestes Bean in New York Tribune:] Every Free Mason in the United States will be interested in the discoveries made by the well-known scenic artist, John Young, amid the crumbling ruins of Uxmal, Yucatan.

In an attempt to get photographs and sketches for atmosphere and accuracy for the scenery and costumes of my new play, "An Aztec Romance," an expedition, journeyed to Central America through the wilderness searching the ruins of Uxmal, Palenque, Copan and Chichen-Itza, at the risk of life and limb, and made discoveries which undoubtedly solve many of the problems which have sorely vexed wise men and archeologists for years.

Neither the author who wrote the play nor John Young, who painted the scenery, are Masons, but David Kendall, who unfortunately lost his life in his zeal for the uncovering of the hidden secrets of the ancient America, was a Thirty-second Degree Mason.

The whys and wherefores of the thing were beyond Kendall. He knew only what he saw and he took photographs of them, most of which are to be used in perfecting and making accurate the scenery and costumes of "An Aztec Romance," designed to portray the civilization of the "first Americans, the white race which preceded the Red Men, and about whom so little is now known. Since the first act of this play is a scene within the "Temple of Justice," the Solomon's Temple of Ancient America, it is necessary to reproduce the signs and symbols found upon the ruins of Uxmal, which seemed to be their Mecca.

Mr. Kendall found an abundance of Masonic signs on the great temple, and the shape of the temple itself so nearly like that of Solomon's that he at once conjectured that they must have been built by the same hands or by artisans with whom they had intercommunication. Even the imperfect Biblical account of the great Jewish structure gives a good general idea of the edifice, which was seven years in building and which employed the energies of the most skillful workmen of Hiram of Tyre and Solomon of Juda.

Kendall was familiar with all architecture and symbols, and had been a close student of Masonic history. He was, therefore, well qualified to note the astounding similarity between this and the Uxmal temple. This similarity and his proofs were later shown to men who have greater knowledge and access to a wider range of historical literature, and the surmise which occurred to Mr. Kendall as an almost unbelievable possibility has been shown by them not only to be a probability, but almost a certain fact.

These evidences and the deductions from them show that there is a very strong likelihood that the Temple of Uxmal was built by workmen who knew all of the details of King Solomon's temple. Every Mason is familiar with the accepted story of the origin of Freemasonry, beginning with the building of King Solomon's temple. King David began the work of building the temple, but was not permitted to do more. Upon accession to the throne Solomon, his son, pushed forward with vigor the projects of his father, and hastened the completion of the temple.

As Josephus says, Solomon, after receiving a letter of congratulation from King Hiram of Tyre on his accession to the throne of David, asked his assistance in building the temple. Hiram sent him a number of wood cutters, who cut timber on Mt. Lebanon, cedar and cypress, for which Solomon paid in corn, wine and oil. Twenty thousand men were employed at this work, 7000 others carrying stone and materials, and 8000 stone cutters.

Solomon sent for an artificer from Tyre, whose name was Hiram. This man was half Tyrean and half Israelite by birth. He was skillful in all kinds of work, but his chief skill lay in working in gold, silver and brass. He made all the mechanical signs and symbols in and about the temple, according to the will of Solomon.

A son of Hiram, Aynon by name, was appointed master mason of this great work, and was especially distinguished for his geometric knowledge. Through him, possibly, the signs and symbols inscribed upon the Temple of Solomon found their way to the Temple of Uxmal, for the Tyreans and Carthagenians are generally believed to have had commerce with that "bright land shadowing like wings" which was many hundreds of leagues to the westward of the Pillars of Hercules.

The Maya and Aztec temples are rich in Masonic emblems, as any Mason may see from the accompanying illustrations, which are reproduced from actual photographs taken at Uxmal, Yucatan.

Another significant fact is that the ceremonies which those ancient people practiced did not entirely die out with them, but have been handed down imperfectly to their descendants. The Zuni Indians of today practice a form of Masonry, not a duplicate of Freemasonry of today, but embracing many of the same ceremonies and symbols which are known to Masons all over the world.

Frank Cushing, a Free Mason, who went to study the life and culture of the Zuni nation for the Smithsonian Institution, became a member of the tribe and was initiated into its sacred orders. He was greatly surprised at their similarity to Freemasonry.

A trip to the American Museum of Natural History, in Seventy-seventh street, will demonstrate the prevalence of Masonry among the Indians, for there can be seen exact reproductions of the altars, temples and statues of the ancient Mayas. Almost the first things seen there are seven Indian statuettes from the plateau area, representing the dueguards of the first, seventh, fourteenth, seventh, sixth, eighth and first degrees.

Another object of interest is an almost exact reproduction of a high priest's commandery apron, with the triangles upon it. Instances of the sacred number 3, 5, 7 and 9, the effulgent sun, the pelican, double triangles, squares, oblongs, stick of the Rose Croix, the serpent of the candlestick of the Rose Croix, the serpent of the twenty-fifth degree and the dueguards and signs of nearly every degree up to the eighteenth are frequent to the observant and initiated eye.

The reproductions of the ruins of Uxmal contain such specimens as a figure representing the penalty for violation imposed in the Royal Arch degree, a headless figure giving the sign of command; many making the sign of the Good Shepherd and a multitude of emblems on the sacrificial altar.

All these facts and theories seem to lead irrefutably to the conclusion that the skilled workmen who built the great Temple of Solomon were also the builders of the Temple of the Sun at Uxmal, Yucatan.

Invistigate The Neal Drink Habit Treatment

You Will Discover It Accomplishes In Three Days All That Is Claimed For It.

The average man who drinks to excess does not realize his peril. Wives, daughters and business associates are the ones who realize the truth. The drinker himself always finds excuses for his over-indulgence. He attributes his resistless desire for liquor to nervousness, worry over business, little domestic clouds, or any one of a dozen other reasons. As a matter of fact he overlooks the one great cause—that he is daily poisoning himself with a poison which constantly calls for more poison.

What the world knows as "liquor habit" is simply the result of alcoholic poisoning. This accumulation of alcoholic poison in the system of every moderate and habitual drinker calls for treatment because nature alone cannot expel it. The Neal treatment eliminates and neutralizes the functional effect of alcohol upon the body tissues in three days time, without the use of painful hypodermic injections.

No matter how long patients have been drinking, nor how much consumed each day, the Neal treatment will do away with all desire or necessity for drink in three days.

A business man who is drinking away his health, happiness and business prospects will find the Neal treatment the best investment he can possibly make.

For full information regarding the Neal treatment call at the Los Angeles Neal Institute, 945 So. Olive St., or, write or phone G. U. Neal, Mgr., for Dr. Neal's free book. Phone Bdwy. 4602, A4072.—[Adv.

For Picnics.

OLD FOLKS ORGANIZE UNIQUE ASSOCIATION.

With the election of a president 92 years old and a secretary 82, a unique society was organized yesterday at Hollenbeck Park under the name of the Old Folks' Picnic Association. The entire credit for the novel idea lies with N. R. Knox, who was enthusiastically elected the president. Some time ago he conceived the plan of getting old persons into some sort of an organization in order to perpetuate memories of the past and to renew former friendships.

The energetic nonogenarian went among some of his elderly acquaintances and found especial aid from H. L. Canfield of Pasadena, who considers himself young at 82. These old men put their heads together and began a systematic canvass for old people.

The press aided the organizers in their quest. Yesterday morning more than 200 old people mostly from this city met at the park. All brought their lunches, which were spread on long tables set in the grove. Following the lunch there was informal speaking.

Knox explained his wish in forming the organization and told some interesting experiences in his getting a list of members. He was unanimously elected president and Canfield, who also made a talk, was chosen secretary.

He recited an original poem and created much amusement by asking the oldest lady to come forward. She proved to be Mrs. Laura Barnaby of Pasadena, 92 years old. There was another lady present who was 90. It was estimated there were fifteen between 80 and 90 and nearly 200 over 70. In fact, to be eligible to membership one must be at least 70 years old.

The newly elected president announced that after the list of members was arranged he would try to call [illegible] member between the present time and the first Saturday in October next, when the second annual meeting will be held at Sycamore Grove.

Among those present was a lady who wore a dress said to have been purchased in an Illinois store where Abraham Lincoln was once a clerk. One of the men present said his father was a soldier in the Revolutionary War.

MANY GEORGIA PEACHES.

Local Offices of Southern Railway Get Encouraging Reports on Crop of Southern Fruits.

Figures received yesterday at the local offices of the Southern Railway indicate a record-breaking peach crop in the southern States this year. The movement of peaches from the Georgia territory over the railway for this year consisted of 5334 cars, as compared with 4820 cars in 1910 and 826 in 1911. Of this number 4993 cars originated at points within the State of Georgia in 1912, 4400 in 1910, and 745 in 1911, the remainder coming from points in adjacent States and being sent to market with the Georgia product. The total movement of peaches over all lines for 1912 is given as 7139 cars.

Of the 4993 cars handled from Georgia points, 4665 cars went to eastern markets, being handled in solid trainloads from Atlanta to Washington, 319 cars to western markets, and nine cars to southeastern points. Of the 341 cars handled from points outside Georgia, sixty cars from the section about Haleyville, Ala., went West and the remainder, originating at points in the Carolinas, went East.

The great improvements made in transportation facilities in recent years contributed largely to the satisfactory handling of this large movement of a highly perishable product, thus proving of direct benefit to the peach growers.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

The Merit System.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The "Merit system" for teachers as advocated by Superintendent Francis seems to be up in the air, temporarily, by reason of the lack of support the measure received from a majority of the Board of Education at last night's board meeting. This method of regulating the salaries of teachers is bound to go into effect sooner or later, and the fact that this plan is meeting with such strenuous organized opposition by the tariff-for-revenue-only brand of teachers is the strongest kind of a recommendation for its immediate adoption. If it is possible to submit this question to a decision of the people, who supply the "sinews of war" to maintain our educational system, at the next general election, the Board of Education will find they have made a very unpopular ruling.

Mr. Frank's contention that the adoption of "schedule B" would fill our school with a lot of "old broken-down teachers from the East" hasn't a leg to stand on. Neither has Mr. Scott's fear that its adoption will result in "open mutiny." On the contrary, the adoption of "schedule B" would effectually silence the mutineers, separate the "tares from the wheat" and serve as a warning to the tares that if they expect to stay on the job they must do something besides kick and draw salary.

When Superintendent Francis established the teachers' work day—from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.—a submerged war went up all along the line and you would hear such remarks as: "Mr. Moore was such a nice man, always doing something for the teachers," we used to get out at 2 o'clock," etc., etc. Six hours a day, five days a week, is a pretty hard dose to take, but it is presumed that if an open mutiny should occur the vacancies could easily be filled without drawing on the East for "old broken-down teachers."

F. H. ALLEN.

Et Tu, Brute.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As red-blooded heroes are always given deserved praise by The Times, the following incident ought not be lost. Hearing loud howls of pain near the corner of Fifth street and Central avenue, Glendale, Wednesday afternoon, October 9, my wife investigated and found that a large fox terrier had been run over by an automobile and was lying helpless in the middle of the road. In fear that the animal might be further injured by other vehicles, being unable to drag itself away, my wife halted an auto containing two ladies and (as she supposed) two men, and asked one of the men to assist her in removing the dog to the side of the road. Instead of complying, he asked her in a grieved tone if she could not find a policeman (?) and when told no, he still demurred, saying, "Why, this is in the city limits, isn't it?" Neither of the men showing any inclination to assist, one of the ladies, to end an awkward situation, finally said they were on their way to Los Angeles and would see that some one was sent to care for the animal.

My wife neglected to thank them, so I make this public apology, and would explain that when she stopped the auto she assumed that the dummy men's clothes contained men. I also wish to extend my personal thanks to the cake heroes, and only regret the lack of opportunity to administer them with the toe of my boot. Perhaps this publicity may accidentally bring their names to light.

WITH CONTEMPT.

Guy's Cinch.

INGLEWOOD RANCHO, Oct. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Regarding the Guy Eddie episode of which we hear so much these days, allow me to ask: Is Guy deserving of any pity for the predicament he now finds himself in, or is he not merely reaping what he has been continually asking for for a long time? Even if his case is a "frame up," can it possibly be any ranker than the doses he has fixed up for many another? This scandal failed to surprise me even a little bit, for my experience in life has taught me to watch more closely than anyone else the man who on all possible occasion assumes before the public an all-righteous pose, and so freely condemns other poor fellow-mortals, as human and liable to err as himself. With me, this rule applies to men in all walks of life, not even excepting the clergy.

Verily, Guy has had a "cinch" that is to be envied by some of us poor devils. For instance, if I desire to attend a show, where the naughty little fairies wear abreviated skirts and show, among other things, exceeding economy in dress, I must explain to my wife that it was "lodge night," or that "business detained me," or stammer some other flimsy excuse, but with Guy it has been altogether different. He could go to any "joint" he desired and "censor" it. No matter how well the diversions may have pleased him, all he needed to do was to throw up his hands in holy horror and that squared the account for him. How well he is explaining to his wife in the present instance in a matter of conjecture with me.

As to the theatrical productions that he has made it impossible for anyone to see unless he attended the same night that Guy did, are they not the same shows that other cities tolerate, from coast to coast, right along? Isn't it about time to quit "sky pilot" politics, drop a few of these Quaker village ideas? "As a man soweth, so shall he reap." "There are none righteous, no not one." Wonder if Guy ever read the Book where one finds these and scores of similar passages? Also about "the beam in thine own eye?"

GEO. M. VEILE.

The Vengeful Turk.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—[To The Editor of The Times:] "Cross wins great victory over Crescent." This was the heading of the Balkan war news of your paper of the 11th. In the past centuries Europe and Asia-Minor has been flooded with human blood for the supremacy of the cross or crescent, but the present war is not for the glory of the cross. Balkan nations are fighting to liberate their brothers from the oppression of the unspeakable Turk.

Turks do not admit that to oppress the non-Turk elements is a wrong-doing, they think they have the right to dominate, and whenever a protesting voice raises by any Christian nation in behalf of the oppressed Christian subjects, Turks call that act a Christian aggression against Mohammedanism, a crusade, and consequently they speak about Jehad, holy war. Their fanaticism boils to the top, and they begin to avenge on Christianity by torturing, pillaging, massacring unprotected Armenians, Greeks, Macedonians, with all the barbaric atrocities.

If so-called Christian Europe and America are powerless or not willing to liberate the oppressed Christian populace under the Turk, it will do some good, if they do not fan the Mohammedan fanaticism by raising religious hatred.

INSPECTS CUSTOMS OFFICE.

Representative of Secretary of the Treasury Expresses Satisfaction With Conditions Here.

Edwin R. Wakefield, chairman of the commission appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury to visit the various ports of the United States, with a view of preparing a uniform system of classification and valuation for imported merchandise, is here with his stenographer, and spending the time with Collector Pendleton and his force of appraisers.

The official put in the most of his time at the appraisers' stores, where the books of the office were examined, and a full and detailed account of transacting customs business at this port, was presented. With the expected opening of the Panama Canal, and the great influx of imports here, it has been thought desirable that the methods of classifying and valuing these goods be made as near perfect as possible.

There has never been an unvarying method of doing this sort of business. In the Los Angeles office some goods have been valued higher than the same quality at other ports, and vice versa.

Chairman Wakefield spoke in praise of the conduct of the local office, and had nothing but commendation for the men who are engaged in the important work of the government. It is understood that several other members of the commission, who are still engaged at San Francisco, will be in Los Angeles in a few days, to inspect the local customs office. Chairman Wakefield will conduct an examination in San Diego similar to that here.

TRANSOM-ROUTE THIEF.

A transom sneak thief took $14.75 from the Prosser & Dozier grocery store, No. 6700 Hollywood boulevard, Friday night, according to a report filed with the police yesterday morning. The wire screen over the transom was cut out, the thief crawling through the opening.

Monrovia Ostrich Farm Man Looking for the Automobile Driver Who Forced Him Off the Road.

George C. Fetterman, the millionaire mine, ranch and ostrich farm owner of Monrovia did not take the last police civil service examination for position as a detective, but he has volunteered his services to the Chief as a subordinate to Capt. Flammer, in an effort to learn the identity of the man who, he says, was responsible for his automobile accident last Wednesday night.

Fetterman's car was forced off White Oak avenue, near Monrovia, ran three circles around itself and landed against a pole, throwing him to the ground with sufficient force to sprain an ankle and otherwise injure him. He notified the police yesterday that he was not speeding, and declares that at the time of the accident all five lamps on the front of his machine were burning brightly.

"I was on the right-hand side of the avenue," Fetterman says. "The other car approached me on the wrong side of the thoroughfare with none of its lamps lighted, traveling at a high rate of speed. When I saw that he did not intend to turn to his right and give me the right of way, I was forced to swerve to my right. That sent my car into the ruts on the edge of the road. As the other car whizzed by me my machine skidded and jumped around in the uneven places in the road. Before I could gain complete control of it, it had run around in three circles and collided with a pole."

The unidentified chauffeur did not stop. Fetterman says he has a good description of the car, and expresses a willingness to co-operate with the detectives in an effort to bring the driver to justice, and force others to burn the lights on their machines.

BUNGALOW BURNED.

Fire of Unknown Origin Entraps Woman in Bathtub—She Escapes Unharmed but House Is Destroyed.

Entrapped in a bathroom while bathing by flames that had suddenly burst into life after smouldering for several hours among a quantity of rags in another part of the house, No. 934 Ramona avenue, Miss Ellen Dingleman, an elderly woman, was forced to fight her way through fire and smoke to save herself from being cremated shortly after noon yesterday.

The few garments the woman hastily threw around herself when she leaped from the bathtub, protected her body, but her feet were badly blistered from the superheated floor as she ran down the hall and out onto the front porch, calling for help.

Before the department arrived the seven-room bungalow had been burned, and the house next door, owned by a man named Donovan and occupied by James Hickman and his family, had been damaged to the amount of $250 by fire and water. Miss Dingleman estimates the loss on the bungalow and its contents at about $4000, with partial insurance.

The bungalow was owned jointly by Miss Dingleman, Miss Jennie Lowe, matron of the McKinley Home for Boys at Gardena, and Miss C. Bay, matron of the Childrens' Home. The origin of the fire is unknown. Miss Dingleman said that for several hours before the flames broke out she had smelled smoke, but did not make an investigation.

LONG-LOST HUSBAND.

After seven years of waiting for her husband, Elias G. Brock, to return, the suspense of not hearing from him or knowing whether he is dead or alive having wrecked her health and caused her hair to turn white, Mrs. Loera Brock of Lakeside, a few miles north of San Diego, asked the Los Angeles police yesterday to try to locate him. Brock is 42 years old, dark hair, medium height, blue eyes, weight 168 pounds. The first two fingers of his left hand are missing. The last Mrs. Brock says she heard of her husband was in 1905, when he was in Mexico working in the oil fields.

FEDERAL INDICTMENTS.

The Federal grand jury returned indictments yesterday, against Quong Lung, a Chinese, picked up at Upland, having a lot of smoking-opium in his possession, against Panfilo Castilleros and C. A. Saunders of San Diego charged with making an assault upon Harry Thompson. When Thompson hailed them and sought information in regard to a bundle they were evidently trying to hide, a fight ensued and Thompson was roughly handled.

Proposed Amendment.

STEP TO SINGLE TAX OPPOSED BY ASSESSOR.

"HOME Rule Taxation" was the subject of discussion at the weekly luncheon of the City Club yesterday. City Assessor Mallard was the principal speaker, and his arguments against the adoption of the proposed amendment to Article 13 of the Constitution was followed by a general discussion, in which proponents of the single-tax theory sustained the amendment.

Mallard maintained that the proposed amendment is fundamentally unsound and intended as a steppingstone to single tax. He stated that for fifty years prior to 1910, the people of California had been perfecting their revenue laws, always keeping in the Constitution the declaration that all taxes shall be equal; but that when the fundamental law was amended in 1910 by the taking of local corporations from local taxation, this made a favored class of the corporations, reducing their taxes and increasing the taxes of the general taxpayers.

"The outcome is that Amendment No. 1 has proven a failure as a revenue producer," said Mallard, "and has also plunged the State into litigation, the end of which no one can forsee.

"The people have two alternatives—first, raising the constitutional rates with a two-third vote of the Legislature; second, compelling the people to make up the shortage in the State revenues."

Mallard declared that it is a well-known fact that the dollar limit in the city charter, combined with great prosperity, which necessitates large outlays in improvements, has made Los Angeles the highest proportionate tax list in the State, and that the same may be said of the county assessment. He argued, therefore, that if each city, county or district is to have a special brand of taxation, this city will have to pay more than its fair share of the State tax.

"The city tax roll shows an assessment of sixty per cent. on the land and forty per cent. on improvements and personal property," continued the speaker. "If all taxes were to be assessed on the land, the $100 tax on a vacant lot would be increased to $166, and as eighty per cent. of all the vacant lots in this city are owned by wage earners, this wouldn't give a very encouraging outlook for this class of out population."

Mallard then discussed various phases of the single tax, which he asserted was the step that might be tried next, were the constitutional amendment carried and declared that all single tax advocates seem bent on killing the buying and selling value of land.

Mallard said that he had come to the conclusion that the local tax returned to the ratepayer, even more than his money's worth.

"I wish to say that the man with the $3000 home, on which there is placed an assessed valuation of $1500, will pay a tax amounting to $23.10, of which $9.60 goes to the interest and sinking fund and $13.50 for the maintenance of the city government, or about $1.12 per month, for which is returned to the taxpayer fire and police protection, street lighting and cleaning, sanitary precautions, garbage collections and many other things that give full value for the money paid.

"I believe that there are many like myself who are not sufficiently educated in the single-tax idea to see the value or benefit to the masses in destroying values. Certainly the rich cannot be reached without injuring the industrious, saving man in the operation, and to help the poor who have no property some other scheme will have to be devised."

G. W. Slocomb, a national organizer for the single-taxers, followed Mallard with a paper favoring the single-tax idea, and advocating the adoption of the amendment, so that the people may be in a position to adopt single tax locally if they so desire.

Forrest Parker, president of the City Club of Venice, spoke on the same line.

Meyer Lissner opposed the adoption of the amendment on the ground that the adoption of local option in tax matters is premature until such time as State taxation is definitely separated from local taxation.

Richmond Plant, a single-tax advocate, spoke in favor of the amendment, declaring it in line with the idea of the City Club of letting the people rule, and that, naturally, he desired it as an advance toward the adoption of a single-tax system.

The chairman announced the appointment of a committee composed of L. W. Myers, W. C. Shelton, Arthur P. Will, Lewis R. Works and David Evans to make a report to the club on the proposed constitutional amendments that will be submitted to the voters at the next election.

F. V. Owen filed with the board of governors a resolution that was taken under consideration. It deals with the incidents at the City Club a week ago, when opponents to the granting of the San Pedro-street franchise found themselves greatly outnumbered by the proponents and were unable to present the resolutions that they hoped to have adopted. It is understood the Owen resolutions denounce the scenes that took place at this meeting as disgraceful and censure men who, it is stated by members of the club, were present merely by courtesy and are not members.

INEFFICIENCY OF MAYOR

front and the establishment of a municipally-owned and controlled ferry. The administration has not fulfilled its promise to date, claiming that money is not available for the work. The citizens of San Pedro and Wilmington are nursing good-size peeves against the administration as the result.

The proposed municipal railroad has always been regarded as an essential part of the idea of a free harbor and especial emphasis was given it during the last campaign by administration leaders, but no definite plans have been made as yet for its construction. Engineers estimate that a double-track railway system from Los Angeles to San Pedro, equipped, will cost close to $4,000,000, and the administration isn't anxious to tackle the undertaking in view of the city's present financial condition.

THE STREET CAR JAM.

The administration bosses, however, have persistently refused to let their puppets in the City Council grant a franchise to the Pacific Electric Railway for a railroad on San Pedro street from Aliso street to Ninth street in order to relieve the congestion of street-railway traffic. The Goo-Goo bosses assert that they want to build the municipal railway on San Pedro street and for that reason it is withheld from the railway company.

Over a year ago Bion J. Arnold, traffic expert, was engaged by the administration to advise what should be done towards relieving the congestion of street-railway traffic and he was paid $6000 for his advice. Arnold recommended the routing of interurban cars on some other street than Main, preferably San Pedro street. Nothing was done by the administration until after repeated petitions and public clamor caused the City Council to take up the matter last April and refer it to a special committee. Since then the matter has been referred and re-referred, considered and reconsidered by various boards, councils and commissions with the same old result—nothing doing.

The Pacific Electric applied for a franchise on San Pedro street four years ago, but it was denied. The purpose was to secure relief from the traffic congestion on Main street—a congestion that not only affects a large portion of Los Angeles and the suburban districts, but the greater part of the San Gabriel Valley, now tributary to this city through the Pacific Electric service.

This application was denied, and the congestion continued to grow in intensity. The demand for relief continued so insistent that the Pacific Electric again made application for a franchise for the use of San Pedro street, with an alternative proposition of a franchise on Los Angeles street, being willing to use either street for the sake of securing traffic relief. The terms of this proposed franchise were advantageous to the city, but it has been tentatively turned down by five members of the Council who are posing as stalwart foes of "predatory wealth" and staunch friends of the "peepul." President Shoup of the P. E. stated seevral weeks ago in an interview in The Times that it didn't make any difference to his company whether the franchise is granted on San Pedro street or Los Angeles street, declaring that all the company wants to do is to believe the unendurable congestion on Main street. The Council will "consider" the matter October 22, meanwhile thousands of people are daily put to great inconvenience and vexation because of relief deferred.

The administration has failed to connect the streets of the city with the county highways, thereby causing inconvenience to thousands of farmers, shippers and automobilists. When the highways are connected with the paved streets of the city, a large part of the freight and passenger business now carried on by the electric lines between the city and its suburbs will be handled by auto vehicles. Efforts to connect the harbor highways with the proposed wharves of the harbor, which would save hundreds of thousands a year to shippers in reduced transportation, have been blocked at every stage by the administration.

RAISED EDDIE'S SALARY.

The administration, however, has been wonderfully efficient in raising the salaries of favored Goo-Goo officials. The city paid $2,740,000 in salaries last year and the increases this year will bring the salary total to $3,000,000.

City Prosecutor Guy Eddie, moral censor and Bull Moose uplifter, was one of the favored many to receive a fat increase in his yearly stipend. Shortly after this relentless foe of unrighteousness chopped a line out of the comic opera "Miss Innocence" because it might suggest improper things to impure minds, the Alexander administration increased his monthly pay from $175 to $225. The moral censor, who was recently arrested charged with contributing to the delinquency of a girl, was so overjoyed that a few nights later he ordered the manager of the "Queen of the Moulin Rouge" to garb his spear-carriers in pajamas instead of union suits.

The administration has devoted considerable time and money to censoring moving-picture shows, musical arcades and nickelodeons while neglecting the big municipal problems and questions which mean so much to every citizen of this great city. It is a cheap-show regime, disgraceful and disheartening to a splendid metropolis.

PERSONALS.

One of the warmest admirers of Los Angeles and one who never loses an opportunity to say a good word for the Pacific Coast city when traveling over the country, is Ralph Modjeska of Chicago. In his suite at the Hayward, the son of the late Madam Madjeska, who inherits many of the lovable traits of his talented mother, told of his admiration for this city and its people. Although his work as a civil engineer carries him to many large cities during the year, he has managed for several years now to make an annual visit here. "One never tires of the beauties of this place and I have gotten to a point where I look forward with great pleasure to my forthcoming visit in California," he said yesterday.

An interesting automobile trip has just been completed by J. M. Tuller, a business man of Mexico City, who with his wife arrived in this city yesterday after having driven from the southern republic capital. At the Hollenbeck, when somewhat refreshed after a tiresome trip, the automobile enthusiasts told of the incidents connected with the trip. No serious trouble was encountered, pains being taken to avoid the zones of insurrecto activities. Mrs. Tuller will remain here for a visit while her husband is transacting business. They probably will not attempt to make the return trip with their machine.

E. H. Merrill, San Francisco general manager for the Standard Oil Company, arrived yesterday and registered at the Van Nuys. The Standard Oil representative is here on a pleasure trip for the most part although he admitted that he might transact a number of business enterprises while here.

S. I. Monarch, a Denver coal magnate, registered yesterday at the Lankershim, for a short stay here. Business interests caused his present journey to the Coast although he expressed himself as more than pleased to mix his business with pleasure when in Los Angeles.

Tired out by stress of business worries and ripe for a protracted vacation J. Manheimer, widely-known Cincinnati distiller, took up his quarters yesterday at the Lankershim. Full of praise for his home city the visitor freely admitted that for pure enjoyment when tired and worn out, nothing revived one so quickly as does a pleasure trip to this city.

At the Alexandria one of the guests who apparently had come here with the intention of making himself at home and enjoying the pleasure of the Coast city, was E. F. Fenwick, who arrived yesterday from his home in Washington, D. C. His business affairs were the primary cause for the visit, but now that he is here Fenwick has announced his intention of staying until he takes in all Los Angeles has to offer in the way of pleasure, which is some contract.

L. R. Brewer, a business man from Mexico City, in company with E. Cordova, also of Mexico City, is registered at the Westminster. The business men and merchants of the Latin republic, according to these men are feeling the effects of the unsettled state of affairs very keenly. The general sentiment among the business men is that the trouble ought to be settled either one way or the other if commercial conditions are to be revived to any appreciable extent.

William L. Clark, a New York merchant who has made several trips to this city, on his annual visit this year has brought his wife with him for a pleasure trip. The couple registered yesterday at the Lankershim and they expect to stay long enough to take in the pleasures of this city and the adjacent beaches.

Earl Gibbson, Cincinnati merchant, registered at the Hayward yesterday, and will remain in the city several days, while transacting business for his firm. After completing his business deals he expects to take advantage of the opportunities for seeing the country nereabouts.

An Immortal Phrase.

[St. Louis Globe Democrat:] "I spent my vacation in beautiful Wiscasset," said Jerome S. McWade, the Duluth capitalist. "Wiscasset, you know, is famous for having originated the immortal phrase, "The woods is full of 'em."

"This is the story:

"A very deaf old man was shooting squirrels out Wiscasset way. A stranger happened along and said:

" 'Mr. Man, which is the road to Wiscasset?'

"The deaf old man, failing to understand, answered:

" 'Thar's one—that's a squirrel—settin' up thar on that tree. See him?'

" 'I didn't ask you about the squirrels,' said the stranger, impatiently. 'I asked you, durn it all, which was the road to Wiscasset?'

" 'Yep,' said the deaf old huntsman, excitedly. 'Yep, thar's another, too, just a peekin' outen that knothole.'

"Then the stranger, losing his patience, roared:

" 'You're a fool!'

" 'Yep, the woods is full of 'em,' said the old man, complacently."

Becoming Rare.

WHALE MEAT EATEN IN JAPAN.

IS SUPERIOR TO SOME OF THE BEEF SERVED UP.

Danger that These Interesting Marine Mammals May Soon Become Exterminated — Certain Species Have Already Disappeared, California Gray Whale Extinct.

[New York Sun:] That little has been known to the rest of the world about the whales of the Pacific Ocean was proved to Roy Chapman Andrews, assistant curator of the department of mammalogy in the American Museum of Natural History, during the two months he spent last winter with the Oriental Whale Catching Company on and off Southern Corea, studying the big fish and getting specimens for the museum. Mr. Andrews found among other things a whale which has been utterly unknown except to the Japanese. It is called the "sei" whale, and the Japanese have been catching it for the last fifteen years, but no scientific body had been informed of its existence.

Mr. Andrews, who returned from a long trip to the Orient last Wednesday, thinks the Japanese know more about the whale catching industry and pursue it to better advantage than any other people in the world. They use the whole of the fish, and none of it goes for guano. They eat all they can chew, and canned whale is esteemed a luxury among the Japanese. It has taken the place of fish in some households, a whale being a mammal that has become adapted to life on the ocean wave, and not a fish, according to Mr. Andrews.

"My primary object in going for whales was to get skeletons to complete my work done with Pacific whales in 1909-10," said Mr. Andrews yesterday. "In this the Oriental Whale Catching Company gave me every possible assistance. I suppose the commercial value of the specimens I got through them is at least $1000, and that doesn't take into account the trouble to which I put them. This company has its most important station at Ulsan, in the Sea of Japan.

"I was looking especially for the California gray whale, which follows the coast closely down, and has its young among the islands south of Corea. There is no specimen of this fish in America. The only complete specimen in a museum is the one in Tokio. This animal has practically been exterminated on our own coast without anybody getting a skeleton to preserve. Scientifically it is a very interesting species, because it represents an intervening stage between two great families of whalebone whales. Unfortunately we have had no alcoholic material to study, and practically nothing of scientific value has been known about it.

"I succeeded in getting one complete skeleton for us, and one for the Smithsonian Institution. I also obtained a tremendous amount of very valuable alcoholic material to be sent to Germany for study over there by a man who is a specialist in microscopic and histological work. I took a great many photographs—the only ones in existence of the gray whale—and I made three rolls of moving picture films illustrating the operations of a whaling station.

"I also got a humpback whale, the commonest whale there is, by the way, but of which there is no specimen here. It is a species most highly prized for food by the Japanese, and they kill them when they can. The humpbacked whale is almost extinct in those waters. Only five of them were taken at the station last season, three of which were taken while I was there.

"The California whale is one of the most intelligent of all whales. When the ordinary whale is feeding it pays no attention to you as you try to get close to it. The California gray is very wary. When you are looking for it it will come up and blow without the slightest noise, and it has a habit when pursued of keeping so close to the shore that a ship cannot get near it. One day we watched for four hours two grays rolling in three fathoms of water, almost on the beach. Finally they sneaked in behind some rocks and lay there until we went away.

Recently while looking over toward New York from a hilltop a spell came upon her and she plunged eighty feet down through trees and underbrush to the road below. Thanks to the growth through which she tumbled, she escaped no further injury than a cut knee.

What is believed to be the largest family of children in Iowa has been augmented by the birth of a girl, which makes the eighteenth child of Capt. D. K. Ewalt, aged 73, a farmer, three miles west of Albion. Altogether it is the twenty-fifth child of the combined parentage of Ewalt and his wife. Ewalt is 73 years of age and his wife is 39. She is Ewalt's fourth wife, and has borne him seven children. She also had seven by her first husband, a total of fourteen at 39 years of age.

"Welcome to Our City."

GLAD HAND TO THE NEWBORN.

Los Angeles First City to Pay Public Nurses.

Sick Poor Aided by College Settlement.

Patients from Almost Every Nation on Earth.

The gripping human-interest stories are not confined to "best sellers." The story of the District Visiting [illegible] of Los Angeles, the first [illegible] paid by a municipality in the [illegible] States, and their humanitarian [illegible] among the poor of the city, is a [illegible] vitally interesting to red-blooded people. Even the dry bones of the statistical tables take on life [illegible] reveal much that should be [illegible] to all substantial and charitably-disposed people of the city.

It will probably come to the attention of thousands of people for the first time, when they read this story, that under the auspices of the College Settlement, the city of Los Angeles employs at the present time a corps of five trained nurses, paying each a salary of $75 a month, to do nothing but look after the interests of the sick among the poorer people of the city. Los Angeles was the leader, but others have since followed her example and most progressive cities now have visiting nurses paid by the city. It is regarded as one of the most efficient means of saving people from becoming charges in the public hospitals, putting them beyond the possibility of [illegible]ment, and thus it has proven an economical movement as well as a humanitarian one.

While many more are needed, the following are the nurses now employed: Miss Jeannette Bund, graduate of State Hospital and Woman's Hospital, Buffalo; Miss Cordelia E. [illegible], graduate Memorial Hospital, [illegible] N. H., and Manhattan Hospital, N. Y.; Miss Lucy Mitchell, graduate Los Angeles County Hospital; Miss Carrie Steele, graduate [illegible] General Hospital; Miss Mari[illegible] Pollock, graduate Illinois Training School. These nurses are public servants, and it is desired that physicians and others interested in the poor sick [illegible] for them. Their hours are [illegible] 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., with time out for lunch, and they get but [illegible] half-day vacations in a month, which seems a little tough, inasmuch as every other city employee gets every Saturday afternoon. They are required to answer Sunday calls in the most severe cases. Three of them are resident at the Settlement House, No. 428 Alpine street, one may be found at Municipal Playground [illegible], and the other at Playground [illegible].

The association maintains a maternity cottage of eleven beds on Utah street; eight beds are available in the County Hospital; a milk and baby station at the Medical College on North Broadway, and a dispensary at the [illegible] Institution on Vignes street, but there is a crying need for more and better equipment in every direction.

GLAD HAND TO NEWBORN.

Said Mrs. Weston, the superintendent: "There are many agencies in our community occupied with the work of child welfare, but to us is granted the privilege of being the first to lay hands on most of the new-born infants among the very poor. Los Angeles has no large free lying-in hospital. Even if this lack of provision is not cruel, it is certainly short-sighted. Science and medicine long ago determined that prenatal influence is a supreme factor in determining what the future man and woman will be. If I could depict in vivid colors the wretched surroundings of some of the mothers and babies who come under the care of our maternity nurses, I know it would not only arouse your sympathy but your indignation."

The tremendous amount of life-saving work accomplished during the past year by this volunteer association and its coöperating physicians, is shown in the following statement made by the superintendent:

Total number of cases, 7273; number of working visits, 11,852; cases at Bethlehem clinic, 3427; cases at the milk station, 387; bottles of milk distributed, 24,924; maternity cases, 429; new garments given for babies, 897; nationalities represented.

It is astonishing to learn that all this was accomplished with an outlay of a little less than $5500. Why, the milk alone, at 5 cents per bottle, would cost $1246.

NEVER GROW WEARY.

Mrs. Weston tells of a couple of interesting cases, going to show the importance of prompt attention to calls, and the results that may be accomplished by perseverance.

"One of our nurses told me of an instance where, because of pressure of work, she felt she would not respond to a call at a long distance over the hills; that finally she decided to go and found the mother [illegible] the child's wound with [illegible]. Sometimes we have cases where the most vigilant care will restore the patient. In the seventh ward there was a bright young American girl who was about to lose her sight. To save her from blindness utmost care must be taken. It meant that every morning her eyes must have attention, that regularly the nurse must take her to an oculist whose office was many miles out of that [illegible] territory; and it was not a matter of days and weeks, but of months. The care given this one case extended more than a year's time. Today this young girl is a useful member of society, and not a charge upon the [illegible]."

A Meat Man's Eloquence.

[Kansas City Times:] A candidate for Congress had been making speeches in one of the towns of his district where he was not well known, and in the evening while waiting for a train he strayed into a [illegible] shop and without saying who he was began to question the proprietor about how he stood. "Did you hear that speech this afternoon?" he inquired, after some [illegible]

"[illegible]" replied the meat dealer. "I [illegible]

"What did you think of it?"

Rules That Will Govern The Times Booklovers' Contest

The contest is open to everybody. Only Times employees and members of their families are barred. Daily for 77 days will be published in The Times a picture representing the title of a book, one each day. Beneath this picture will be a coupon to fill in with the name of the book and the author, together with name and address of entrant.

Cut out the picture and coupon, filling in the book title and author's name, writing your name and address neatly and plainly in the place provided.

No restrictions are placed on the manner in which answers to pictures are secured. Each picture represents the title of one book only. If you are not certain of your solution you may send in one to ten answers to the picture. NO MORE THAN TEN ANSWERS WILL BE ACCEPTED TO A PICTURE. Incorrect answers will not count against contestant if correct answer is also given. And put one answer to each picture and coupon. Extra coupons must be secured and used for extra answers. All answers to each picture must be kept together in compiling your set.

Additional pictures and coupons may be obtained at The Times office, by mail or by person. Answers will not be accepted unless they are properly filled out on the coupons appearing beneath each picture. It is necessary that pictures be sent in with the answers in order that all answers may be uniform.

When you have all 77 answers, fasten them together and bring them or mail them in a neat flat package—not folded or rolled—to The Times office, addressed "BOOKLOVERS' CONTEST EDITOR." Prizes will be awarded contestants sending in the largest number of correct solutions. In the event of two or more persons having the same number of correct solutions, the person using the smallest number of extra coupons in the set of answers will be declared the winner. In event of two or more persons having the same number of correct solutions, and using the same number of coupons, an equal interest in the prizes tied for will be given to each of the tying contestants, or the persons involved in the tie may choose any one of the other lesser prizes.

More than one prize will not be awarded to any one family, but each member of the family may enter the contest and submit a complete set.

Only one complete set (comprising not more than 10 answers to any one picture) of answers may be submitted by a contestant. Awards will be made strictly according to the merit of each separate list. The names of more than one person must not be written on any one coupon.

All answers will be considered on their merits. The first set filed will have no preference over the last set filed; provided only that answers must be filed within the time specified after the last picture has appeared.

The awards will be made by the Contest Editor and three well-known citizens whose names will be announced later.

The correct answers to the series of pictures will be filed with a local trust company or bank a week previous to the close of the contest.

Entry to the contest may be made at any time. All communications or letters of inquiry concerning the contest should be addressed to the Booklovers' Contest Editor, The Times.

Get the Contest Catalogue. Printed in this Catalogue you will find SEVEN certificates. Each certificate is good for five pictures. Thus you get 35 pictures free with the Catalogue. For instance, Certificate No. 1 is good for pictures No. 1 to 5; Certificate No. 2 is good for pictures from No. 6 to 10; Certificate No. 3 is good for pictures No. 11 to 15; Certificate No. 4 is good for pictures from No. 16 to 20; Certificate No. 5 is good for pictures from No. 21 to 25; Certificate No. 6 is good for pictures from No. 26 to 30; Certificate No. 7 is good for pictures from No. 31 to 35.

How to Use the Certificates

If you wish pictures Nos. 1 to 5, tear out certificate No. 1 and present it at the office of The Times, and the clerk will give you the pictures, or send in the certificate by mail with the proper postage and the pictures will be mailed to you. If you wish pictures from Nos. 10 to 10, tear out certificates Nos. 1 and 2. If you wish pictures from No. 1 to 20, tear out certificates Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4. Of course, you cannot use a certificate for pictures until the actual pictures you want have been published in the paper. For instance, if you wished pictures Nos. 31 to 35, you would have to wait until pictures Nos. 31, 32, 33, 34 and 35 have been actually printed in the paper.

What the Catalogue Is

The Contest Catalogue is well worth possessing. It is a list of 4500 book titles. From this collection of titles the 77 titles represented by the 77 pictures that appear in the contest are selected. Thus, ALL the 77 correct titles are in the Catalogue. No more valuable aid could be given a contestant than the catalogue furnished. Suppose a picture represents a battlefield, in which a company of cavalry is riding down and routing an infantry command. Suppose that picture was drawn to represent the title, "Overcome by the Cavalry." Well, if you have a Catalogue you will not have to know, to begin with, that such a title exists. Use your ingenuity in figuring out what titles that pictures might represent. Then look in your catalogue to see if any such titles are listed there. If you do not find one of your possible titles in the Catalogues, then you can be sure that the title is not correct.

For All the Correct Titles Are in the Catalogue

If you use your ingenuity and your catalogue you will win. And with every catalogue, remember, certificates redeemable for the first 35 pictures are given away FREE. This is a double opportunity for you—the catalogue and the first 35 pictures together.

DON'T OVERLOOK THIS!

35 PICTURES AND COUPONS FREE WITH OUR BOOKLOVERS' CATALOGUE. GET ONE NOW!

SO THAT YOU MAY BEGIN THIS CONTEST WITH EVERY ADVANTAGE, The Times will give the first 35 pictures free with every catalogue of book titles sold. The price of the catalogue is 35 cents—40 cents by mail. The value of pictures given free with each catalogue is, of course, many times that sum.

This is the Contest Editor's official catalogue, copyrighted and published exclusively by the Booklovers' Contest Company of San Francisco. It contains the titles of 4500 books, with their authors, and FROM IT ARE SELECTED THE 77 TITLES REPRESENTED BY THE 77 PICTURES IN THIS CONTEST.

THUS ALL THE CORRECT TITLES ARE TO BE FOUND IN THE CATALOGUE!

Take an object lesson showing the advantages of the catalogue to contestants: Suppose a picture represents a ship on fire at sea. Suppose, also, that you haven't the least idea what title it can represent. Well, study out the picture. Turn to your catalogue. See if a book is listed such as "The Fire at Sea," or "The Burning of the Ship," or something like that. Keep at it, and use your brains, for remember that ALL THE CORRECT TITLES ARE IN THE CATALOGUE.

You don't have to know anything about books to be successful in this contest! But the contest is educational. When you get through you will know a whole lot more about books than you do now!

You'll find lots of fun in solving the pictures, and you know that there are lots of splendid prizes for the winners. It's profitable fun.

With each catalogue are given seven certificates, each good for five consecutive pictures from 1 to 35. Thus all seven certificates are good for the first 35 pictures. The certificates are redeemable separately, or all together, and may be redeemed at any time during the contest.

We admonish contestants that this newspaper reserves the right to withdraw the free picture offer at any time without notice. This remarkable offer is a new feature with the Booklovers' Contest, and it may prove too great an expense in redeeming and printing the pictures. It may be continued throughout the contest or summarily withdrawn.

YOU HAD BETTER GET A CATALOGUE AT ONCE.

The Answer Book is of convenient size to carry in the pocket or satchel. In shape it resembles a stenographer's note book—opens from the bottom like a note book, not from the side like a story book.

And, printed in the Answer Book are six certificates, each one of which is good for six pictures, with the exception of the last or sixth certificate, which is good for five pictures. To get these 6 certificates with the Answer Book all that is necessary for you to do is to sign a three months' subscription blank, agreeing to take the paper for that period. You will need the paper every day anyway in order to get the daily picture, keep posted about the contest, so you might just as well take the paper and get 35 FREE pictures with the Answer Book.

Certificate No. 6 is good for pictures from No. 66 to 70 inclusive.

Be sure you send in the proper certificates for the pictures you desire. And remember that no certificates are redeemable until the pictures for which they are good have appeared in the paper.

For instance, suppose you wish pictures Nos. 36 to 41. If these pictures have already appeared in the paper, you tear out certificate No. 1 and present it at the office of The Times, and the clerk will give you the pictures, or send in the certificate by mail with the proper postage and the pictures will be sent to you. If you wish pictures Nos. 36 to 47, tear out certificates No. 1 and 2. If you wish pictures Nos. 36 to 59, tear out certificates Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4. Of course, you cannot use a certificate for pictures until the actual pictures you want have been published in the paper. For instance, if you wish pictures Nos. 60 to 65, you would have to wait until pictures Nos. 60, 61, 62, 63, 64 and 65 had actually appeared in the paper.

The Answer Book

The rules of the contest permit you to make one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, or ten different answers to each picture. But, if you do not have an Answer Book, you must make each answer on a separate picture and coupon. If, for instance, you make one answer to picture No. 20, you will need only the one copy of the picture and coupon No. 20. If you make two answers to No. 20, you will need two copies of picture and coupon No. 20 on which to submit your two answers. And so on.

But if you have an Answer Book you can make from one to ten answers to each picture, and yet need ONLY ONE COPY OF EACH PICTURE.

The Answer Book contains 77 double pages. On the 77 top pages you paste the 77 contest pictures. On the 77 bottom pages you write down your answer or answers to each picture. Submit as many different answers to each picture as you wish, and so increase your chances of getting the correct answer to each picture, but you cannot submit more than ten answers to any one picture.

POLITICAL TIPS.

President Taft's confidence is explained in the October number of American Industries, as resting upon his belief that his administration has been for the best interests of the country and he will therefore have the continued support of the great army of business men and the better element of labor. The President is quoted as saying:

"It has been the constant and undeviating aim of my administration to protect the great number of comparatively smaller business concerns of the country from extortion by those who have sought to acquire monopolies on the one hand and from that injury which must inevitably result from the ruthless destruction of the protective tariff on the other, and in affording this protection to the employers the administration has been equally benefiting their employees.

"These are the reasons why I believe that although "big business" may strenuously oppose my re-election and may finance with a liberal hand the campaign funds of my opponents, I can rely on the support of the great army of comparatively smaller business men and their host of employees."

John Hays Hammond says in the North American Review that all honest and fair-minded Americans, irrespective of political bias, recognize and respect President Taft's integrity of purpose. A remarkable mental poise, a rare judicial temperament lies at the foundation of his character, and this fact was appreciated by the American people long before he was called to the chief magistracy. To these characteristics may be added other dominating traits—i. e., inflexibility of purpose, straightforwardness in doing things, and absolute frankness in public and private expressions. To these qualities those who know him well would add entire subordination of personal interests and motives and, no less, the subordination of partisanship to the general welfare of the nation. Then he has in a conspicuous degree the courage of his convictions, a great and abiding optimism, and a charity toward men only to be matched in the character of the immortal Lincoln. To the qualities I have named, all under the discipline of the remarkable equanimity to which I have referred, he combines a sincere geniality and a charm of manner that wins admiration and friendship even from those who may be called his political enemies.

Hebrew scholars have discovered a new meaning for "bull moose," the emblem of the Progressive party. They have found words in the Hebrew language which have the sound "bull moose," but which mean a "distressing disease," and are spelled "bul mos."

According to Talmudic interpretation a man suffering from "bull moose" may disregard religious laws in order to cure himself. The Talmud says that "bull moose" is a peculiar form of craving for food.

"It may be," says Editor Liderman of the Daily Hebrew Call, Chicago, "that in this passage, the historian spoke in parables and 'bull moose' may signify a person who is starving for fame as well as for food."

A local rabbi said: "It would not surprise me to learn that Roosevelt or somebody else misinterpreted the Talmudic passage. Roosevelt has shown a tendency to apply biblical terms to himself. This, nevertheless, may depict the leader, who perhaps, is suffering from 'bull moose.'"

"Any Polish voter who votes for Woodrow Wilson deserves to be called the 'scum of the earth' and deserves the tag Mr. Wilson placed on them in his books—'meaner class,'" said Alderman Stanley H. Kunz at a meeting of Democratic harmonizers in Chicago. He also told the members of the conference that if he caught any Pole or Bohemian or Italian friend voting for Woodrow Wilson he would brand him as the "scum of the earth." The succeeding situation is described by the Chicago Inter Ocean as having been painful.

Representative William Sulzer, the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York, says he has been twenty-three years in the public service and has no enemies to publish. So optimistic is he that he declares his nomination was not a personal triumph but a vindication of the people.

"Forty thousand plurality would be a fair estimate of the Republican vote in West Virginia, next September," said Davis Elkins, former ber," said Davis Elkins. There is no doubt that the Republicans will win the State this year. We shall elect every candidate for State office, the Legislature, and reclaim the seats in Congress which were taken away from us two years ago.

"Like other States, West Virginia is enjoying unparalleled prosperity. Business everywhere is good, the people are prosperous, and labor employed. With the question before the voters of deciding whether their industries shall continue to be protected or shall be open to free trade, there is no doubt at all which way their decision will go. West Virginia is a protection State."

"You know the third party tells us of our bosses and machine-made candidate, but can you show me any more arbitrary boss than the big Bull Moose himself? He is worse than Tammany Hall, for once in a while Tammany will allow a difference of opinion to develop in its meetings," said W. T. Lincoln Adams of Montclair, N. J., at a meeting of the Essex County Republican Committee.

The committee adopted a resolution indorsing all Republican candidates.

Atti.-Gen. Wickersham, in an address at West Chester, Pa., urged the need of compulsory voting. The principle of compulsory voting has been recognized and enforced in some of the municipalities and countries of Switzerland with the result that between 5 and 6 six per cent. only of the qualified voters failed to vote. Failure to vote is punished with fine increasing with successive offenses, and the fourth offense is attended with loss of the franchise.

Col. William S. Powell, editor of the Ellicott (Md.) City Times, who at the charge of the Literary Bureau at the Democratic State headquarters during the campaign last year, has notified each member of the Democratic State Committee that if his claim of $2046 is not paid by November 6, he will enter suit against each of them. Col. Powell became personally responsible for the lithographic connected with the campaign.

An attempt is being made to invoke the recall against Gov. Hunt of Arizona because of dissatisfaction with the honor system in the management of the State Prison, and the Governor's liberal use of his parole powers. This is the first move to apply the recall provision of which the Governor has been an ardent champion.

William Allen White of Emporia, Kan., the leading manager of the Bull Moose campaign in his State, recently stated that the Republican Party League was "putting from one to two hundred dollars in the organization of each county." In reply George A. Clark, secretary of the league, has sworn to a statement showing that the league has received only $1166 up to date. With the affidavit is a statement in which Mr. Clark declares that White knew nothing of the facts when he wrote his statement. The White statement was contained in a circular letter that was sent out over the State.

Mr. Clark has deposited $500 in the Merchants National Bank of Topeka, which he says he will give as a reward to anyone who can show that the statement he makes is untrue.

There are 105 counties in Kansas.

Dr. J. B. Aswell, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Eighth Louisiana district, in a published appeal for votes, says of the Bull Moose party that it "is a fashionable circus parading the country to the extreme delight of the rollicking crowds," and of the Socialist party he says it "believes in and stands for equal franchise between the whites and negroes, which fact alone makes it an impossible party in the South."

The national Constitution is therefore an impossibility in the South, according to this Democratic orator.

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—It was a close race in this city last month between matrimony and real estate. Sordid gain won out over love. It was by a narrow margin of twenty-two. There were 514 marriage licenses issued and 536 mortgages recorded. Cupid, perchance, will get busy this month and see that it does not occur again.

Dr. Anna E. Shaw, president of the National Women's Suffrage Association, told an audience that political equality for the sexes advertised California more than oranges, apples and grapes. She said: "You women voters must be self-reliant. Don't accept too readily the political talk of men, for if there is any place you can't trust the advice of men it is in politics." So, with one fell swoop, the learned Anna puts mere man in the Ananias class.

The first public parade of the I. W. W. in this city was a joke. The sidewalk crowds looked on and laughed. The police did not think it serious enough to make any arrests, though the paraders frequently shouted insults to the patrolmen. Some badly-spelled signs said the procession was to show sympathy for Ettor and Giovannetti, and certainly no one would begrudge them sympathy after seeing their sympathizers.

Ned Greenway, veteran social leader, denies that he is out of the game. He admits that he is getting fat and somewhat less nimble than of old, but he says that will not prevent him from pulling off a number of swell functions this winter.

For twenty years Angus MacDonald had been beating his wife. At least so the woman testified when she had the husband arrested. He beat her just once too often, so Police Judge Sullivan gave him six months in the County Jail to think it over. There was also testimony that he thrashed his wife's sister, so when he has served his term he may have another six months at the expense of the taxpayers.

The directors of the fair were glad to see Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio and he was glad to see them. There was mutual joy all around as he came to select a site for his State building. He assured the exposition people that Ohio would go the limit in making a success of her exhibit.

The payment by Mayor Rolph of $701,487.08 to the Mechanics Institute for the pavilion lot in the civic center is approved on all sides. It insures the city a site for the splendid auditorium which the fair directors are going to build for $1,000,000. If no other benefit comes from the exposition this building will be compensation enough.

There was some excitement here over the world's championship baseball series. We cannot get up much enthusiasm over the Seals because of their lowly place, so we had to turn to the East for our thrill. The rooting was pretty generally for the Bostons, since there were three Californians on that team, while there were only two on the New Yorks.

The telephone company has increased its expenses $100,000 a month by giving that much additional pay to its employees. This was done voluntarily and with the idea of improving the service. Because the girls at central are going to get more pay will not justify irascible patrons in calling them any more names.

BRICK FAMINE; CITY'S GROWTH.

SUPPLY OF A MILLION A DAY IS NOT ENOUGH.

Phenomenal Los Angeles Building Operations Consume All Available Material and Yards Can't Turn Out Stock Fast Enough to More Than Keep Even for the Present.

The tremendous building activity in Los Angeles caused a brick famine from which the city is just recovering.

So many new business houses, schools, residences and other buildings were put up during the spring and summer that brickmakers and contractors found themselves facing a proposition which they could not meet. With another season of improvement and brick consumption before them, the brick companies did not see how they were going to make supply meet demand. For a time, up to a fortnight ago, it didn't.

Now Los Angeles brickmakers are turning out 1,000,00 a day—and they are used as fast as they are made, while contracts are barely filled. Prior to September 25, brickmakers found themselves in a quandary as a result of the prenomenal development of the city. Contracts were delayed all over town.

Builders in the environs found it impossible to continue work. With not enough brick to supply Los Angeles, suburban orders had small chance of being filled. Those that were to have been supplied two months ago are now getting attention, but only in small consignments.

Municipal work in different parts and departments of the city was delayed, not to a serious extent, but long enough to give the contractors plenty of food for thought and some sleepless nights.

Secretary H. W. Simons, of the Standard Brick Company stated last night that local brickmakers have never before faced such a crisis, but while the question was serious from their and the contractors' viewpoint it cannot but be looked upon with optimism.

"More brick buildings have been erected in Los Angeles this year than ever before," he said. "We did not anticipate any such phenomenal development. While we were ready for the usual annual rush we were not prepared to meet the demands that did deluge us. There is nothing technical or mysterious about the famine. The answer lies in the one word 'growth' and the fact that brick is coming into more favor than heretofore. Why, half of the bungalows that are being built now are of brick, where a few years ago nothing but wood was used. The demand was embarrassing to brick men for a while, but it points to progress and prosperity and for that we are all ready to make some sacrifices. Next year, however, we will try to be prepared, and building operations will not be delayed."

Not only was there a shortage of building brick, but sewer brick also was short.

Work on the sewer from Hollywood to West Adams street was held up, as this construction required the entire three and a half-day output of all brick plants here, 3,500,000 bricks being used. Work was also delayed on the Hill-street tunnel, although to no serious extent, 1,000,000 bricks being used there.

B. C. Nichols, contractor for the Canal-street (Wilmington) sewer, was compelled to ask the Board of Public Works for an extension of time on his contract for the reason that work could not be continued without brick. He needed 200,000 bricks, and could get but 40,000 up to a few days ago.

The shortage of bricks was the greatest ever experienced in Los Angeles. Had the supply met the demand building activity would have been even greater than the wonderful record that has been made in the past few months.

When the brick famine overtook the manufacturers they immediately warned customers that the regular, or any part of the regular orders would be impossible to supply on "promise." It was a case of meet conditions the best way you can and wait for the tide to turn.

It has about turned.

One of the causes of the scarcity—but one of many causes, it is true—was the construction of twenty school buildings in the county.

City Born from Murder.

[New York World:] Around a hut, where, according to tradition, a young Irish princess was murdered, grew up the present town of Gheel, in Belgium, which became known as "the colony of the crazed." At first a temple in memory of the princess was erected, and later it became a refuge for the "sick in mind." The remarkable thing about this Belgiam town is that the residents accept patients into their own homes so that they may enjoy the beneficial effects of domestic and social intercourse. Nearly every home contains at least two mental incompetents, and except in certain cases the patients are permitted to go about town and enjoy themselves. A stranger may not know whether he is meeting a patient or a sane resident in his walks through the town. For more than 100 years this system has prevailed at Gheel.

WILLOW CITY

Buy Early Before Railroads Get There And Make the Big Profits

Those who bought early—ahead of the railroads—in Prince Rupert, Fort George, Edmonton and other places reaped the big rewards. In August, 1912, at the Government sale at Prince Rupert, one lot brought $1,160 per front foot, and the first fifty minutes of the sale brought $10,000 a minute. Three years ago Prince Rupert was a wilderness, but a few far-sighted people saw the possibilities, bought and made fortunes. The same thing was true of Fort George and Edmonton, and WILLOW CITY offers greater possibilities than Fort George or Edmonton ever offered.

The Government owns one-quarter of WILLOW CITY and guarantees the title. No interest; no taxes. The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is rapidly building into WILLOW CITY, and prices are certain to advance with its near approach. Don't delay. MAKE ALL THE PROFITS. We have pointed the way.

Gertrude Short,

An off-stage picture of the wonderful baby actress who was one of the best players in "Barbaraza," and who shares with Orrin Johnson first honors in "The Money Moon."

Thespianic Kindergartner.

BIGNESS OF SMALL PORGES, CLEVER GERTRUDE SHORT.

Little Star of "The Money Moon" Talks Art and Things With Miss Kingsley—Has Already Appeared on Broadway With Success that Has Won Big Notices Without Demoralizing Childish Heart.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

THERE is a little kid person over at the Belasco this week who is muddying up the dramatic waters quite some!

Her name is Gertrude Short, and she's a Fauntleroy-Sentimental-Tommy sort of person, whose brilliant eyes look as if they are belladonna'd—but aren't.

She has never been to school, this charming kid person. But if the school child "knows everything, why then she may be said to know other things!"

"Hinfant phenomena" there are always a-plenty, of course—from the wharf rat, who can beat up Casey's kid, to Coco's classic children "up in dates, who floor you with 'em flat"—I even knew an infant once who could beat strong men at poker. But Vincent Crummles's pump and realism were sheer airy persiflage compared to the reality of everything in Stageland to this Small Porges.

I had just left the three of them viewing the Belasco "Money Moon," with their fascinating backs to me, and the echo of a laugh sounding on that plaintively hopeful—"Oh, let me be your best man?" when presto—

A Raphael cherub, with Cupid's bow mouth, round chin pillowed on dimpled arms—and then the flash of a mirror in a dingy dressing room, showing it was only a reflection, after all.

And as further proof, there was the rear elevation—clothed in one simple, clinging garment and several unassorted dimples—a sturdy little body built for service and for the fearful toll of the footlights.

Presently a tiny hand seized a stick of rouge, a red tongue shot out to moisten it—and a small person with a retrousse nose was doing a most sophisticated make-up!

One makes a shrewd guess one may be writing dramatic history when one writes of small Gertrude Short, with her grown-up brain. One intimates as much, and adds—

"But you're young yet!"

"Oh, no, I'm not—I'll soon be old enough to be a suffragette!" she answers gravely quick.

Little Gertrude is never on the stage except when she's on the stage! Which is very refreshing in a performer, most of whom never leave off their the-carriage-waits-me-lord expression even when doing up their back hair or locking the cellar door! For the stage is only another sort of charming game to her, like playing house or burglars.

"Good evening, Georgie Porgie," called Mr. Hastings from the other side of the door.

"Good evening, Mr. Cassiles!" she called seriously back. That is one of the rules of this theater game, with her—carrying the play back of the scenes.

And back of the footlights, in the "Money Moon," among those quaint old English characters—Col. Newcome, Grandfather Smallweed, Sergeant Buzz-Fuzz, and the rest of the types—she never forgets her business for a minute—as when she gazes wonderingly into the face of Big Georges when she finds him under the hedge, or when eating jam she watches Auntie Anthea across the tea table.

Gertrude expects to play in "The Money Moon" in New York, with Miss Leslie and Mr. Johnson—when the piece has been sufficiently exercised upon the canine Us. But certainly the canine likes it, and particularly likes the Kid.

It's really tremendous fun interviewing a kid. A kid doesn't care if he is talking for publication. He won't tell you he likes tobasco and Wagner if he doesn't. A kid doesn't keep the parlor face. A kid doesn't take himself seriously, and tell you how much they think of him on Broadway.

Yet Gertrude is a child with notions, too—lots of 'em. And religion—she's a little stand-pat Christian Scientist. And ambitions. Only about the latter she can't quite make up her mind as to whether she prefers to be a musical comedy star, a bareback rider, a healer or to run a cat hospital. But is quite sure, I gather from her conversation, that whatever it is she wishes to be, she wishes to be that very much indeed!

I told her she was fastidious. She asked what was that? I defined as best I could, but she said quaintly that she "must look in the dictionary for the particulars!"

"She's an old maid!" cried her mother, in tender scorn, as she tied the Fauntleroy tie. "She gives her Lady Lou cat a bath every day, puts talcum on her, drenches her in toilet water and ties a pink ribbon round her long-suffering neck.

"She never plays with other children, except her brother. Then she has to learn to read and write and 'rithmetic, and, as for sewing—she knows the geography of the most intricate gown. She has a wonderful memory, learning many-sided parts almost through at one reading. As little Jack, in 'His Father's House,' she came on after three hours' notice, letter perfect. She thinks up most of her own business, too—because, you know, it's always a game with her, this play acting."

Of course, her particular passion is the theater. She goes whenever opportunity offers, and those direct-gazing eyes miss never a gesture or expression. On one occasion she came away pondering, and after many days she spoke up soberly: "Mamma, I don't think Miss Black should have sat down when she said those lines"—quoting them—"she should have stood up and walked around. She was so excited—why, she never could have sat still like that!"

One gets a new light on Laurette Taylor, from the small observer, who played with her in "Barbaraza."

"Why are you so fond of her?" I asked, a bit inanely, to be sure.

"Oh, lots of things—but mostly because she's so funny."

"Why, not in 'Barbaraza'——"

"Oh, she's funny when she's sad, too!" she said, not intending any sort of joke, but merely trying to express as one presses her further some subtle understanding she has to the nearness of laughter to tears, and also in recollection of the times when Miss Taylor, keyed to the highest pitch of emotion after trying scenes, relieved herself by a rather wild romping with the child back of the scenes.

Just incidentally, as showing a cross-section of character, Gertrude doesn't belong to the Tell Club, either. As witness the other afternoon, when Laurette Taylor took her, with three other little ones, to the Alexandria for tea. Said an uninstructed little boy when the finger bowls were passed: "I don't want no more water. I drinked enough." "Why, those are to wash your hands in, dear," said the wiser Gertrude. Whereupon he rolled up his sleeves, plunged his hands into the bowl, and conscientiously washed clear up to his elbows! "Miss Taylor told the story, but Gertrude never did," said her fond mamma. And Gertrude smiled in an inscrutable way, a little aggravating in one so young.

Speaking of the child's eyes, it was when Nance O'Neill gazed into them for the first time at an Oakland reception that she exclaimed impulsively: "Oh, I want that child!" And forthwith placed her in "The Golden Fleece." Her head wasn't very far from the ground then—she was only 4—but as far as possible, for she held it high.

Next she played David in "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie"—her wide-eyed wistfulness, her wondering little quips and quirks, as she listened to the stories of the quaint and lovable old Dr. Lavender, were delicious.

When Gertie was to apply for the place of Kiddie in "A Man's World" with Miss Mannering, her mother reminded her—"Remember, you may not get the place. You have a lot of boy rivals." "Well, I'm going to get this through science," said the little one stoutly. And maybe she did. Anyhow she got it. And Alan Dale said of her that she was the "whole cheese"—which mayn't be refined or original, but has force coming from a big one.

Then she had a lovely time fooling around gay old conceited New York—going to the movies one day and listening to Wagner the next!

When she returned, Richard Bennett was rehearsing for the "Money Moon." And gossips whisper that the reason he didn't play it was because they wouldn't cut small Porges's part to suit him! Yet how much Orrin Johnson makes of it—the childish devotion merely a foil for the tender humor and strength of big Porges—than which we have had no more charming characterization.

And now the question is, is Gertrude to become a starlet? That's the question over which her small bosom heaves at present. Mr. Morosco is thinking of running some children's plays—maybe "Editha's Burglar" or "Prince and the Pauper"—to give her a chance. Hartley Manners may even write a play for her—possibly an original play, or maybe a dramatization of some popular child book.

We talk of her future, till, being fully metamorphosed into a charming Fauntleroy, and having saturated me diligently with her favorite perfume, I leave her. This is the last act, and soon she'll be running home to dream of glory beyond the footlights—and a little, too, I hope, of fresh fields and dollies new.

The Week.

BLINN HERE IN UNDERWORLD.

ARMSTRONG DRAMA AT THE HAMBURGER MAJESTIC.

"Dollar Did It" Due for Burbank Premier—"Round Up" at the Mason—"Money Moon" Continuing. Various Vaudeville Announcements for the Week.

"A Romance of the Underworld," in which Holbrook Blinn comes to the Majestic Theater for the week commencing tonight, is the fifth success Paul Armstrong has written in five years. Each year since his name was suddenly flashed as the author of "The Heir to the Hoorah," he has contributed to the stage one of the big hits. The list is long and brings back pleasant memories. He followed "The Heir to the Hoorah" with "Salomy Jane;" then that vivid farce of the West, "Going Some," in which Rex Beach collaborated; then "Via Wireless," with Winchell Smith; and then "Alias Jimmy Valentine" and "The Deep Purple." "Alias Jimmy Valentine" has been translated into all modern tongues and has been a sensation in every country in continental Europe. It marks the highest point yet reached in our native drama in that the appeal was so universal. "The Deep Purple" was written in collaboration with Wilson Mizner, as was the big hit of last season, "The Greyhound."

In "A Romance of the Underworld," Mr. Armstrong is once again writing alone, as in "Alias Jimmy Valentine." There is a question as to which is the better play. "A Romance of the Underworld," put into vaudeville as a short play in two scenes, created a sensation. It was unfinished both in story and characterization and still records were broken in all vaudeville houses where it was shown. Mr. Armstrong, quick to see that he had struck upon a theme which interested the public, began the elaboration of the two-scene playlet into four full acts. The initial performance was given in Chicago, where a successful engagement of ten weeks vindicated his judgment.

The story of "A Romance of the Underworld" is accurately suggested in the title. It is romance of the Armstrong kind, full-blooded and vibrant, and it shows the underworld, that land of defeat, crime and failure, where thieves lurk and the shadow of the prison ever falls.

By an attempt to railroad an innocent man to prison, people of culture and refinement are obliged to meet and mingle with the underworld in the criminal courts and prison, as the story of the play is unfolded. They win their case and come back into the sunlight, but the shadows through which they have passed have given Paul Armstrong the chance for his greatest play and an opportunity for the creation of a novel set of characterizations, such as all of his plays are peopled with.

The cast provided by Mr. Armstrong for the support of his star, Holbrook Blinn, is one of the best of the season and includes in its roster, Catherine Calvert, Ruth Benson, Anna McDonald, James Marcus, Robert Stevens, W. Tammany Young, George Miller, Leonard Hollister, William Morgan, Charles Mylott, Benjamin Pierce and Norman Phillips.

Burbank.

One of the most interesting and important events of the current season at the Burbank Theater is the beginning this afternoon of the special engagement of the well-known American actor, Ralph Stuart, in the first production on any stage of the new comedy, "A Dollar Did It."

While the first presentation of "A Dollar Did It" will serve to introduce Mr. Stuart, it will also mark the opening of four new Burbank players, Walter Edwardes, known as one of the best all around actors on the American stage; Ione McGrane, a beautiful and talented young actress who has won success in big eastern productions; Richard Allen, who comes with a splendid New York reputation, and Kenneth Stuart, who has inherited much of the ability of his father.

Mr. Stuart is one of the best known and most popular actors on the American stage, having starred for several years, while of late he has played the leading roles in some of the biggest hits on the native stage, his last appearance having been made in the role of Wallingford, in which he achieved a record for continuous performances.

"A Dollar Did It" is a bright, brisk comedy of modern business methods, telling the story of the amusing complications in which a twentieth century promoter becomes entangled in his attempt to teach the people of a small Indiana town how to commercialize their natural resources and make a small fortune on a small investment.

This promoter's schemes are in every way legitimate and prove most successful, so promising in fact that the townspeople being educated to his methods, attempt to go him one better and "trim" him out of the proceeds of his labors, which, by the way, they come within a sixteenth of an inch of doing.

Mr. Stuart will be seen to splendid advantage in the role of Baxter Billings "B. B." as he is known in the play, a type of modern business booster familiar to everyone. Walter Edwardes will be seen in the fine character role of "Already Joe," a colored servant; Miss McGrane will have the role of Eva Page; Mr. Allen will play the part of the attorney, while Kenneth Stuart will be seen as "Slivers." David Hartford, Grace Travers and the others will all be found in the many fine supporting roles.

Mason.

Maclyn Arbuckle in Klaw and Erlanger's massive production of "The Round-Up," which created such a sensational success on its previous engagement, will return to the Mason Operahouse for one week, beginning Monday evening.

This powerful spectacular melodrama of life in Southwestern Arizona during the period when General Crook was chasing Conchise, the famous Apache marauder and his band of truant Redskins back to their reservation, has made a most remarkable appeal to theatergoers.

It touches with a singular force the romantic spirit inherent in every one. Its story is true to the heart and nature. Its characters are striking, well drawn and cleverly contrasted and the entire performance teems with fascinating dash and spirit from start to finish. It is so real in the personalities that tell the story, its Indians, cowboys, scouts and cavalrymen, its bucking bronchos, and its thrilling battle spectacle that one is translated to the locale of the scene, and for the time becomes a participant in these stirring events in the great Southwest.

The dramatic incident of twenty mounted Indians riding along a ledge on a cliff in the third act and the marvelously realistic battle scene add an element of realism to the play which has rarely been equalled on the American stage.

The cast includes Maclyn Arbuckle, Elmer Grandin, Ogden Crane, William Conklin, Gus Christie, Robert Vaughn, Harry Cowan, George Harcourt, Jaques Martin, Vernon Wallace, James Asburn, Edward F. Settle, Texas Cooper, Charles Aldridge, Grace Benham, Ethel von Waldron, and Mattie Edwards.

Belasco.

J. Hartley Manners' new comedy, "The Money Moon," which was given its first production at the Belasco theater last Monday night, has proved so popular that the piece will be given for a second week at the Main street playhouse, commencing with the performance tomorrow night.

Since the first performance, a full hour has been cut out of the speeches, and the performance is perfect in every particular, being a splendid example of flawless stock company production.

"The Money Moon" possesses all of the elements that went to make "Peg O' My Heart," by the same author, a record breaking success. It tells a mighty interesting and thoroughly delightful story, fanciful and fantastic to be sure, but brim full of happiness and good cheer, with an abundance of fine, wholesome comedy that causes ceaseless laughter throughout the four acts. The simplicity of the whole play, the charm of its love story and the splendid manner in which it is given, promise to make "The Money Moon" one of the most substantial hits the Belasco stage has shown.

Orrin Johnson has scored a distinct triumph in the chief role, while the same might be said of little Gertrude Short in the part of "Small Porges," giving a really wonderful performance of a very long and difficult role. Miss Leslie has shared equally in the praise for her delightful performance of Anthea Devine. One of the finest bits of character work that has been seen on a local stage in many a day is that of Thomas MacLarnie, while Howard Scott, James K. Applebee, Emily Melville, James Corrigan and the others have contributed some clever character work.

Following "The Money Moon," Miss Frances Ring will make her first appearance with the Belasco company in the first production on any stage of "The Child."

Orpheum.

Nat M. Wills, "the happy tramp," and four other new acts, making five in all, will feature the Orpheum bill opening tomorrow. With the three best acts from this week's bill, the new one, though light in nature, looks like a big winner. Nat Wills, himself the creator of a type all his own, which he keeps up to date by means of new dope from season to season, is always a welcome visitor, and this year he ought to be more so than usual, in that he is said to have the best line of parodies, sayings and patter yet evolved.

Next week's play—the one serious spot in the bill—is "The Bandit," written by E. Frederick Hawley and his company. It is a story of Mexico in the '70's, and written by Mr. Hawley after an extensive study of his subject, so it is historically correct. It has a good plot, virile action and plenty of sentiment and is pronounced a most entertaining dramatic vehicle for a capable corps of players; a classic of vaudeville, fascinating and strong.

McIntyre and Harty, in "The sugarplum girlie and the marshmallow boy," are hampered, perhaps by a title, but nevertheless, live it down. She is a dainty mite of a girl, and he is a big rotund personage of a boy, and that contrast is injected into the act at the very start. Smart patter, songs and sayings make up the skeleton of the turn, but the personality of the players is what comes so strongly in their case.

Annie Kent, "the little jester," is also a neat little personage who has songs that make you chuckle and dances that titilate your heels. She is a sort of live wire, and electrifies all who come to hear her. She is seen in several costumes, one change being actually made on the open stage.

Williams and Warner, French by nature, have an unique affair called a clacaphone, which they play; also they manipulate some score of other instruments, giving a musical turn worth while. "The Antique Girl," Minnie Allen and Bertish are Pantages.

Hawaiian music and Hawaiian dances have a singularly fascinating quality that is hard to explain on any scientific basis. Like negro music, they are not entirely aboriginal in character, but show the modifying influence of our own musical system. Their charm, however, is indisputable and inimitable.

Of the Hawaiian organizations that have appeared in vaudeville, none has ever attained a degree of popularity to compare with the double sextette headed by Lloyd Childs, which, after an absence of nearly two years, will be seen this week at Pantages. Childs's Hawaiians have always boasted the scenic superiority of their act as well as its musical and terpsichorean supremacy, and their offering of this season is said to fully sustain their well-won reputation of previous seasons.

The Hawaiians have many national dances, but the one that is particularly associated with Honolulu nights entertainments is the hula hula, much discussed, but seldom seen. This and their peculiar instruments, and instrumentation, with their softly harmonious chants, are the features of the offering of Childs's Hawaiians, as the act will be presented this week at Pantages.

The Five Juggling Jewels are a quintette of pretty girls—said to be as clever as they are attractive. A gymnasium scene furnishes the background for the act, and the pretty misses in their regulation athletic costumes help to explain the popularity of athletics among the young women of the high schools and colleges.

Ned Burton, one of the most popular character comedians on the vaudeville stage, will present "The Commercial Man," with the assistance of Norbert Myles and Marion Ford.

Gladys and Louis LeVere offer a routine of unusual gymnastics.

Black brothers are exponents of banjo melody and its natural terpsichorean accessories.

The Orpheus Comedy Four have many friends among the acts that have recently come down the Pantages line, who claim the quartette to be one of the most entertaining in vaudeville.

The Hawaiian offering includes wonderful scenic pictures of the islands, that will take the place for this week of the Animated Weekly.

Empress.

What gives every promise of being one of the biggest and best bills that has ever been seen on the Empress Theater stage will come to this popular-priced Sullivan & Considine vaudeville house tomorrow afternoon, headed by Charles Wayne and Gertrude Des Roches, with their big company, in the novel one-act musical comedy, "The Incubator Girls."

Both Mr. Wayne and Miss Des Roches have appeared in the leading roles of many of America's best-known musical comedy hits, and their present offering is said to be the brightest and most tuneful and novel miniature musical play that has been brought forth for the vaudeville stage in many a day.

There are six finely-shaped, vivacious young "incubator girls" in the act, who, from advance criticisms, have every right to be called "chickens." The act is brilliantly staged and possesses everything to commend it to the headline position it occupies.

The second feature of the new bill will be Dena Cooper, the Australian actress, supported by Walter Robinson and a capable company in the stirring one-act play, "The Confession." This is Miss Cooper's first visit to Los Angeles, although she recently scored a distinct hit in "The Confession" in the East.

Third in importance, and probably in popularity, will be the Arion Quartette, with new and catchy song hits. A quartette that is a good one is always a welcome feature in vaudeville, furnishing much enjoyable music and merriment. Frank and Pauline Berry will also furnish one of the particularly bright spots of the new bill in their laughable musical melange called "Do You Like Music?"

"Smiling Joe" Magee, known throughout the vaudeville world as the Mark Twain of Minstrelsy, will also be seen on the new programme, bringing with him a wealth of clever new material, which he distributes in his own inimitable way.

An ideal act for the children, as well as a highly-entertaining feature for the grown-ups, will be Wallace's famous "Educated Cockatoos," featuring "White Eagle," the bird mathematician.

Exclusive of these acts will be the new comedy motion pictures and the news pictures depicting events of the day.

Century.

The good old minstrel days will be recalled this coming week when Curran and Edwards's "Those Minstrel People" will be the headline feature at the Century Theater, commencing with Monday's matinee. Singing, dancing and telling the good old stories when grandpa was a boy are just a small feature of their act.

The Haywood Trio, a musical act of the highest standard, in a complete new repertoire of the latest popular and operatic selections, is another act that will share the headline honors. This is the first appearance at this new popular-priced vaudeville house of a star musical singing and instrumental act, and to say that they will prove big favorites with local audiences is putting it mildly.

Clyde and Bertie Edwards come billed as "Two Sully Kids." They will present a comedy singing, dancing and talking specialty. Miss Edwards is a clever singer and dancer, while her brother is a capable comedian.

Chet Wilson will be another bright light on the new programme. He is known the world over for his clever cartoons, as he was formerly connected with the New York World before entering into vaudeville work. He will appear in a fifteen-minute novelty number, presenting a number of his cleverest cartoons.

The Four Grahams are a quartette of comedy acrobats who will participate in a real comedy that will be new and interesting. An exciting few moments is the three-round boxing bout indulged in by the two younger members of the troupe.

Rose McDonald is a quick-change artist carrying a half-dozen trunks full of new songs and pretty costumes. Miss McDonald is one of the highest-salaried single artists playing the Century circuit of vaudeville theaters.

Tally's Broadway.

There is in all history no more noble or more awful monument to the courage of man than the famous Charge of the Light Brigade. "Into the valley of death, rode the six hundred." Scarcely one-third returned to answer roll call, over four hundred heroes giving up their lives to the everlasting glory and honor of England's military discipline. Immortalized in poetry by Lord Tennyson, it has remained for Thomas A. Edison to record it in motion pictures.

In beauty of setting, nobleness of theme, spectacular grandeur and heart-rending pathos, this film is worthy of its hallowed title—it is a masterpiece. It will be presented at Tally's Broadway Theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only.

Five other pictures, including a Biograph drama, "In the Aisles of the Wilds," compose the picture programme. "The littlest girl" is still singing at Tally's and offers two popular semi-classical songs for the coming week.

Mozart.

Beginning Monday afternoon, three special numbers will be given at the Mozart Grand-avenue Theater this week. "Art and Innocence" will have its premier production in America. Scenes of this attractive picture play are laid in Turin, Italy.

"The Sextette from Lucia" will be presented through the auxetephone by such great artists as Caruso, Scotti, Sembrich, Journet, Severina and Bada.

Brink's Cabaret.

Grand opera selections, ragtime music, and instrumental novelties will form the component part of the cabaret show bill at the Brink cafe for the coming week, beginning with the dinner hour on Monday evening.

An unusually attractive galaxy of singers and players has been provided by Amusement Manager Harold Moore and the same treat for music lovers is promised that has been in evidence in the past. Mme. Dossena, the coloratura soprano, will be heard in Italian, French and Spanish grand opera selections, at which she has few peers in the West.

Emilie Gardner, lyric soprano, is to be featured in lighter operas and semi-classic numbers. Happyana Robinson, the gaysome roly poly soubrette, will coonshout with contortions, and Paul Atwood, premier basso, will be heard in the familiar melodies especially fitted for his unusually low-ranged voice. Edward Buechner, the Prussian pianophiend, with his stringed orchestra will complete the bill which promises to be unusually well-balanced and prolific of talent.

GADSKI, THE MAJESTIC ONE.

TRULY GREAT GERMAN SINGER HERE THIS WEEK.

Some Comparisons of Accomplishment and Dissertation on the Makings of a Great Singer, by the Musical Editor—Notes of Local Musicians and Their Affairs.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

The great Johanna Gadski, than whom concert and opera contain no more majestic soprano, is to be heard here again; at the Auditorium, on the evening of Tuesday next, and again at the same place on Saturday afternoon.

The announcement that Mme. Gadski is to sing is not sensational. It contains no thrill. Neither does the announcement that "Hamlet" will be given at some particular place, or that the Boston Symphony Orchestra will be heard in concert.

Yet in her own way Mme. Gadski is just as standard as "Hamlet," and as great as the Boston orchestra.

The wife of Herr Tauscher, American representative of the Krupp gun works, Johanna Gadski has earned laurels for herself not only as a consummate artist of the stage, but in her own country as a leader of society, and in all countries where she has been as a model and devoted wife and mother.

The outre and the bizarre may have their productive merits, but [illegible] does seem to me that stability, [illegible] esty, respectability, mere [illegible] goodness, all give their little push forward to the products of art, and [illegible] the steady, progressive, [illegible] thinking artist always has at [illegible] little shade on the irresponsible [illegible]

I may be wrong, but I point to the grandeur—it is a word often [illegible]tuted by the inch-deep, but here I use it sincerely and worthily—of the characterizations of Gadski and Schumann-Heink, as substantial [illegible] for my argument. The histrionic power, the pathos and even the [illegible] stage characters by Schumann-Heink, the depth of feeling, the intense [illegible] abiding passion, the vast and [illegible]pressible womanliness of the [illegible]tions of Gadski—her [illegible] Aida, for example—testify to the minds and souls of these remarkable women, as well as to their [illegible]tions and voices.

Mme. Gadski's tremendous [illegible] this season has never been surpassed in any soprano's forecast.

She has twenty-one appearances [illegible] the Pacific Coast, and she returns [illegible] forty contracted roles at the Metropolitan Operahouse, eight guest appearances at the Boston Opera, and four with the Chicago-Philadelphia troupe. After that she has four orchestral dates, and another group of concerts before leaving for a [illegible]ly well-earned summer vacation.

Edwin Schneider is her [illegible]nist.

Do you wish to consult the programme? If you do, it is appended. Personally, I never care to inquire deeply into what Mme. Gadski will sing, as long as I am certain of the fact that she will sing. It is a case of transfiguration by great personality. "Ben Bolt" or "Das Erlkönig"—it is much the same.

However—the numbers: "[illegible] Willst Du," "Nachtigal" ([illegible]

Affairs of the Past Week in Local Society.

Following is an extract from a graceful private letter written by an ocean-going Los Angeles young lady, voyaging toward oriental shores in company with her gracious mother:

ON BOARD S.S. CHIYO MARU, AT SEA,
SATURDAY, Sept. 14, 1912.

Dear ——:

We are nearing the end of a thoroughly delightful voyage, which has consisted of smooth blue seas, clear skies and bright sunshine all the way; and while it will, of course, seem very good to be on terra firma again, we shall not leave the Chiyo Maru, which has been our home for so many days, without reluctance. Our captain, an extremely pleasant Irishman from Cork, has been most courteous and kind to mother and me in many ways, giving us places next to him at the table, and doing all in his power to make us comfortable during the trip.

Our short stop of ten hours in Honolulu was a real oasis in a desert of waters, and we both regret not having been able to spend a longer time there, for we immediately fell under the spell of its tropical charm. Our first glimpse of the Hawaiian Islands was under rather unusual conditions, for, being naturally hungry for a sight of land after seven days of nothing but sea and sky, mother and I rose at daybreak, the morning of our arrival, and stole silently up to the captain's bridge, from where we beheld "Diamond Head" vaguely outlined in the waning moonlight, like the phantom shape of a mirage; then, as the first faint flush of dawn spread over the eastern sky, the gradually-sloping, softly-dimpled hills emerged from the gloom of night, revealing their vivid emerald contours, which seemed to have been freshly bathed in rain; and as the golden glory of the rising sun shone on Honolulu as it lay gleaming on the shore of the shimmering sea. It was an entrancing spectacle, and as our steamer glided into the harbor we were greeted by a burst of inspiring music from the famous Hawaiian band, consisting of nearly 100 natives, clad in pure white, who had assembled on the dock to welcome us with our own national airs, which followed each other in gladsome succession, from "Yankee Doodle" to "The Star Spangled Banner." I won't attempt to describe our delightful day in this lovely city, for you have already admired its tropical splendor, luxuriant vegetation and gorgeous brilliance of beautiful blossoms; but the memory of it will never cease to give us pleasure.

Day after tomorrow we reach Yokohama, which will be our introduction to picturesque Japan, and we are anticipating with much interest our visit in this quaint oriental country, whose people and customs are so unique.

I have never before realized the vastness of this great Pacific ocean, which stretches a mighty expanse of [illegible] watery miles between us and those we love in dear, far-away Los Angeles. I trust things are going well with you, and that you think occasionally of the two absent friends who think of you a great deal.

[illegible] Tea.

Society's interest was divided last week between two notable events—the tea party given yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. J. Almada and their daughter, Miss Laura Almada, at their home, No. 2520 Wilshire boulevard, and [illegible] of the approaching subscription [illegible], which will enhance the social programme.

The party was a pleasant success and ninety guests responded to the invitations. The home was radiant with beautiful flowers. American Beauties in great clusters nodded in the living-room while the drawing-room and library were done in chrysanthemums—the large, shaggy kind. Both men and women enjoyed the hospitality and from 4:30 on were received by the host and hostess, their daughter and Mrs. Michael J. Connell, Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, Mrs. Mary Longstreet, Mrs. William May Garland, Miss Elizabeth Hicks, Miss Margaret Gaffey, Miss Katherine Ramsey and Miss Marjorie Ramsey.

Miss Laura Almada is among the young girls who will appear for their first large season this year and interest is centering on a coterie of the most lovable young debutantes ever presented. There are an unusually large number this winter, included among them Miss Daphney Drake, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Drake, who has had the advantage of boarding school and travel; Miss Katherine Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Johnson, Jr., who will have a formal coming-out party; Miss Katherine Flint, who will, it is hoped, make her entrance into the butterfly life this year, as will also Miss Helen Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carlos Jones, and Miss Aileen McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy. Miss McCarthy is a Mt. Vernon Seminary girl and but recently returned from Honolulu, where she was a guest of Col. Spaulding on his plantation there. The trip was made with Mrs. J. N. Senni of No 2310 Scarff street and the outing occupied about seven weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Balch of the Hotel Alexandria will leave San Francisco soon for an eastern trip. It is hoped Mrs. Balch will return for the subscription balls, as she was one of the most energetic of the 1910 patronesses.

The Krell Auto-Grand Player Piano

Sold and recommended by Barker Bros. as the Biggest Player-Piano Value offered anywhere. The reasons why you should consider this piano are:

"First the Individual Pneumatics placed below the keyboard close to the bellows. This is the supreme test of a player.
"Then, the Accessible Bellows—placed at back—the correct and logical position both for producing results and for cleaning or repair.
"Extra Reservoir for Air—no other player has this feature, hence on no other can you accelerate or diminish the music merely by pedaling. This is the reason you can get personal expression on the Krell Auto-Grand without use of levers—although all the usual expression devices are provided to be used in addition, if desired.
"Human Touch Striking Principle—the exact duplicate of the method used in hand playing. Consequently it produces the exact effect of hand playing.

PARIS SAYS:---

Gorgeous linings for the fur garments this season—the richest in moire, silk, velvet and brocade! Double Lining effects!

As just an instance of how we—each season—present to you what Paris decides will be most fashionable in furs—notice the lining of the model illustrated.

Of rich, soft, brocaded satin—it, alone, sets this coat apart from the ordinary fur coat.

And our designers have been unusually successful in handling the "double lining effect."

As you can see—the coat swings open—showing a loose, inside lining fastened with stunning big buttons.

Come in and slip into one of these wonderfully becoming coats. Many other models, too—every one with some of these "different" touches—characteristic of our workshops.

Unequaled Suit Values

$19.50, $25, $30 and $35

Tomorrow we are going to prove to a lot of women that these Suits are really better for the prices asked than any heretofore shown in Los Angeles; not better in but one respect, but in every particular—styles, materials, colors and tailoring. They were made to our order, by one of New York's most successful designers. Among them are plain tailored styles, Norfolks, Robespierre and other novelty effects. It's astonishing how much style they have, and how absolutely NEW looking each different model is. Even the lower priced ones show it to a marked degree. Blues, browns, grays and black are prominent.

OTHER NEW SUITS ranging in price from $40.00 to $100.00.

Misses' Tailored Suits

$17.50, $19.50, $22.50

—Second Floor—

If better Suits—or even as good as these—were ever offered for so little money, we have not seen or heard of them. It would be hard to imagine more style than they have. We want every miss in town to see them and be convinced that they are all, and more, than we claim. Plenty of women of small stature find a perfect fit in these Misses' Suits. They are shown on the Second Floor, with the Suits for women.

Alumni Card Party.

The Entre Nous Alumni entertained with a five hundred party last Saturday at the home of Mrs. Roy Malcolm, No. 623 Carondelet street, complimenting the active girls and the rushees. Shaggy yellow chrysanthemums ornamented the home, and score cards had on them the sorority pins embossed in gold. The hostesses were Mrs. Malcolm, Miss Helen Charles, Mrs. J. P. Copp, Mrs. Alexander Hatley, Miss Evelynman Dayman, Miss Ruth Fidey, Miss Albra Starey, Miss Ruth Fisher, Miss Nine Chadwick and Mrs. J. E. Brownrigg.

Following the card party the active members and the rushees went to Playa del Rey, where they enjoyed a week-end house party. Boys from the different fraternities were invited to dinner on Sunday.

Canada-California.

Dr. Ben F. Stanwoods of Prince Rupert, B. C., and Miss Ella Darling McKillip were married September 7 by Rev. Stanton Hodgin at the pastorate of the minister, No. 1957 West Twentieth street. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bosworth were the only guests. Mr. and Mrs. Stanwood left for San Diego after the ceremony. They will pass the winter there. In the spring Dr. Stanwoods will take his bride to British Columbia, where he is interested in mines and lumber.

A Home Wedding.

Fred Schlador and Agnes Thomas were married Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Thomas, No. 1236 West Fourth street. The bride was gowned in charmeuse satin, trimmed in pearls. She wore an orange-blossom wreath and carried lilies-of-the-valley and rosebuds. The maid of honor, Miss Heisman, wore pink satin and carried Cecile Brunner roses. The altar was decorated with white carnations and asparagus plumosus. A wedding supper was served after the ceremony. Forty guests were present.

To Study Abroad.

Mrs. Bessie Abbot-Howland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Abbot, No. 1745 West Adams street, has gone East to prepare for European vocal training. After visiting friends in Boston she will take up her studies in New York preliminary to going abroad. Mrs. Abbot-Howland graduated from the Los Angeles High School and the State Normal School. She is a member of the Woman's Lyric Club and has vocal studios both in Los Angeles and Long Beach.

Bridge Party.

Miss L. Allio of San Bernardino, who is to become the bride of George Spencer of Riverside, N. J., was tendered an afternoon bridge party and linen shower by her aunt, Mrs. Dalton, last week. Six tables were arranged for bridge. Tea was served. Twenty-four guests were present.

"Stork Shower."

An interesting affair of the week was a "surprise stork shower" tendered Mrs. Elmer Hickam by Miss Minnie Burchhardt at the latter's home, No. 116 South Reno street.

The decorating scheme was unique, pink being the general plan, with small electric lights trimmed in pink strung from chandeliers to walls and baby dolls hung from the ceiling. Pink carnations were the flowers used. Chocolate ice cream was served in miniature flower pots, and each place card contained a favor of nursery design. These favors ranged from toy doll bottles to rattles. Among the games played was a memory contest, in which a table laden with infant's toys was carried through the room. Guests made a list of what articles they remembered. Prizes were awarded. The guests included Mrs. Elmer Hickman, Mrs. Pearl Johnson, Mrs. Ollie Loque, Mrs. Melvin Chaney, Mrs. Carl Reiplinger, Mrs. C. F. Smith, Mrs. A. Wolf, Miss Marjory Miller, Miss Ina Hammon, Miss Evangelin Vignes, Miss Florence Zengler, Miss Irma Hanson, Miss Lola de Bartolo, Miss Bertha Crasp, Miss Clara Dotson, Miss Esther Palman, Miss Ruth Bricker, Miss Flossie Brake, Miss Lillian Hickam, Miss Bernice Roberts, Miss Barbara Bohnaker, Miss Barbara Smith, Miss F. Demond, Miss E. A. Clark, Miss Thirsa Simons, Miss Elizabeth Littleton, Miss Hazel Law, Miss Burns and Mrs. A. J. Robinson.

OUT-OF-TOWN-SOCIETY.

Pasadena.

ONE of the very few events of social importance occuring in Pasadena last week was the dance given last evening at the Altadena Country Club, which was noteworthy as being the opening event of a gay winter season. There was not only a large attendance of club members, but many Pasadena friends were entertained. The clubhouse was artistically decorated with chrysanthemums and autumnal foliage and a collation was served during the evening. There were 160 guests present.

REVIEWS OF THE WEEK.

NIETZSCHE: THIRD PAPER.

THE JOYFUL WISDOM. By Friedrich Nietzsche. Translated by Thomas Common. The Macmillan Company, New York.

AFTER the terrible formulae and analyses of "The Dawn of Day," Nietzsche gave us a book unlike any other he has ever written, namely, "The Joyful Wisdom." Temperamentally it came nearer being a parallel with "Thus Spake Zarathustra" than with any of his other writings. Heretofore a stupendous seriousness had marked his thoughts and the expression of them. In the two volumes of "Human, All Too Human" he had devastated the universe. In "The Dawn of Day" he had waged a bitter, terrific and effective warfare on modern moral standards. In "The Joyful Wisdom" ("La Gaya Sienza,") translated by Thomas Common, with the poetry rendered into English by Paul V. Cohn and Maude D. Petre, he revealed an entirely new phase of his character—a phase which no one deemed he possessed.

Nietzsche is popular in America largely through a series of brilliant aphorisms. This is unfortunate, for very often these aphorisms are merely the by-products of his thinking and in many cases have little or nothing to do with the abstract principles of his philosophy. Unfortunately America heard Nietzsche's bells before they heard the voice of the man, and even better, when his works began to appear fragmentarily in English and his philosophy was being introduced to English-speaking people through paraphrase and outline, his brilliance acted as a cloud to hide his profundities. In a majority of cases his syllogisms were not given, and his conclusions—perhaps the most startling of any philosopher—were hard to swallow without polemic preparation.

Furthermore, Nietzsche has suffered lamentably from vulgarization at the hands of the newly intellectual. Among those who have assumed his exploitation there seems to have been only an attempt to make of him a jack-on the-stick; a philosophical scaramouch; a shocker; a ballyhoo man; a mental peacock; a gargoyle. Such aphorisms as the following are the most familiar to us:

"Dante—the hyena poetizing in tombs!"

"Zola—the delight to stink."

"Here cometh a man who fought for truth like a hero—and at last won a little dressed-up life—he calleth it his marriage."

But these sayings are characteristic of the man only in his more rancorous moods, when his physical suffering aroused a desire for Schadenfreude. And yet it is upon such utterances that America bases its estimate of this philosopher.

Although "The Joyful Wisdom" might be considered as an interpolation in the philosophical works of Nietzsche, this book is nevertheless one of his best—not so much because it gives us any definite additions to the sum of his thinking, but because it throws a light on the philosopher himself. No more fundamentally hilarious book has been written than this, and yet there is nothing in it which will provoke a smile. It is the cosmic dance of a man's soul. There is no superficial jesting; no smartness; but a glorification of that subtle joy which accompanies the experiencing of knowledge. Therefore, provided one is familiar with Nietzsche's attitude, as has been set forth in his earlier books, one may read this present work with a sense of exhilaration and an emotion entirely unlike those which result from his more serious writings.

Do not misunderstand me. Beneath the surface the book is as sericus as any Nietzsche has ever written, only it assumes an aspect of almost contented resignation. In this work we have for the first time the assumption of that attitude which Nietzsche has called "yea-saying." Says he in the opening of the fourth and best section of this book called "Sanctus Januarius:" "Amor fati; let that henceforth be my love! I do not want to wage war with the ugly; I do not want to accuse; I do not want even to accuse the accuser. Looking aside, let that be my sole negation, and all in all, to sum up: I wish to be at any time hereafter only a yea-sayer."

Here begins Nietzsche's almost fanatical joy of life. Here begins the symbol of the dance. Zarathustra appears in the pages of "The Joyful Wisdom." The sound of piping is heard and Nietzsche, heretofore blasphemous, destructive and full of hate, begins to smile and shake his legs. Thus critics forever railing against Nietzsche's diabolism will do well to read "The Joyful Wisdom:" thus readers who have judged this vitriolic polemist through the excerpts of his destructive writings will find their opinions altered after reading this book. The hater has departed; the idol-smasher has laid down his bludgeon; the ruthless analyst has become the satyr; the logician has turned poet; the blasphemer has changed to a child—the frown has gone and the smile is triumphant. It is not a physical smile, however. It is that smile in the heart of one wallowing in the joys of life; the smile of supreme intoxication. The month of January inspired the book, and Nietzsche says of it in his "Ecce Homo, "the most wonderful month of January I have ever spent."

Only occasionally in "The Joyful Wisdom" does the pendulum swing toward the Apollonian pole—the Dionysian spirit of gayety is dominant.

The student, however, will find much in "The Joyful Wisdom" to interest him. Here are criticisms of German and southern culture; valuations of modern authors' views on the developments of art; theories of music; analysis of Schopenhauer and an explanation of his vogue; judgments of the ancient and modern theater; excursions into the philological fields; arraignments of contemporary classicism; the doctrines of creative artistry; personal paragraphs on mental culture, politics and commerce.

All of these things, however, are not materially a part of Nietzsche's philosophy, but rather the application of his doctrines—or ideas perhaps which floated on the surface of his thinking.

The third section of "The Joyful Wisdom" is made up almost entirely of short comments on men and things; brief analyses of human attitudes; desultory excursions into the sociological; brief remarks on man's emotional nature; brilliant apothegms on human attributes; bits of racy philosophical gossip; religious and scientific maxims. Sometimes they are cynical; sometimes gracious; sometimes bitter; sometimes buoyant; sometimes merely witty; but at other times profound.

The best and most stimulating section of the book is the fourth, namely, the Sanctus Januarius. Nietzsche's spirit of buoyancy is at its height; his mind becomes supercrystalline; emotions flash through him like rays of sunlight.

The fifth book, called "We Fearless Ones," and the appendix of "Songs of Prince Free-As-a-Bird" were added four years after the rest had been written. We note a little difference in these addenda, but their spirit is manifestly the same as the rest of the book.

In "The Joyful Wisdom" we have again the aphoristic style of writing. It has become keener, more sure of itself since "Human, All Too Human" and "The Dawn of Day." Flashes of poetry follow bits of diabolical value-twisting; there are detached definitions of impulses and activities; fantastic admonitions; disquieting questions. Throughout it all runs a spirit of maniacal joy—an emotional intoxication of victorious imagining.

In our next paper we will deal with Nietzsche's greatest and most personal book, "Thus Spake Zarathustra."

HOW TO RAISE 'EM.

THE BEGINNER IN POULTRY. By C. S. Valentine. The Macmillan Company, New York.

I APPROACH "The Beginner in Poultry" with a heart mellowed and saddened by bitter experience. I myself have been a beginner in poultry—likewise an ender. I have struggled with Barred Plymouth Rocks, with White Leghorns; I have nosed poultry journals in a vain hope to find some remedy, when my chicks began to die; I have tried every kind of health food and combinations of food to spur them on to their duty. But in vain. For months of toil I have little to show for my monetary investment and my time spent. Perhaps if I had had Mr. Valentine's book I might have been richer today.

It has been estimated that of the five million people who are raising poultry in this country today one-half have gone at it blindly and it is just as impossible to make a success of the poultry business without preparation as it is impossible to succeed in any other line of business without an acquaintance with the fundamentals. The difficulty which the novice has experienced in going at the raising of chickens systematically in the past has been that he could find no book in which the essentials of poultry raising were given, only the essentials and all of them. To fill this very real need "The Beginner in Poultry," by C. S. Valentine, was written. Here the road to success is clearly shown. Choosing the breeds, hatching and brooding with the mother hen and with the incubator and artificial brooder, feeding the young chicks from machines, the various food values, the prevention of disease, medicines, disinfectants, insecticides, modern housing in its various types, home-made conveniences, what the ideal fowl would be, a study of the cost of producing eggs, chicks and fowls, poultry schools and their real value, wire fencing, the raising of ducks and geese, of guinea fowl and quail, the disposal of the product, be it eggs or chickens—these are but a few of the many topics to which chapters are devoted in Mr. Valentine's book.

PROTECTING THE CHILD.

CHILD LABOR IN CITY STREETS. By E. N. Clopper. The Macmillan Company, New York.

"THE free rein at present given to child labor in our city streets is productive of nothing but harmful results, and it is high time that a determined stand was taken for the rights of children so exposed," writes E. N. Clopper in the preface of his book, "Child Labor in City Streets," which is published this week. The truth of this statement is amply demonstrated in the chapters which follow, which are made up of the actual stories of the lives of newsboys, bootblacks, peddlers, messengers and other juvenile workers. Just why this particular form of child labor should have been ignored in the general movement for child welfare is hard to understand, but as Mr. Clopper says, "perhaps it is due to the illusion of the near." Street workers have always been far more conspicuous than any other child laborers, and it is their approximation that has been their misfortune.

The first five chapters of "Child Labor in City Streets" review present conditions and describe causes; the next two deal with effects and the final ones are concerned with the remedies. The scope has been made as broad as possible, all forms of city work that engage any considerable number of children being described at length and opinions and findings of others freely quoted. The bad results of the policy laissez faire are presented; simply becarse these boys and girls have been ministering to its wants the public has given them scarcely a passing thought.

The conditions which Mr. Clopper's book discloses are appalling. Doubtless to the majority of people the thought that the life of the messenger boy—the newsboy or the bootblack serve equally well as examples—is attended with unquestionable evils, has never occurred and where it has occurred it has been as quickly put out of mind. Mr. Clopper makes clear just what these influences for the bad are, and how the messenger has no choice but to mingle with them. Mr. Clopper does not plead for the regulation of juvenile street labor, he pleads for its prohibition, the necessity for which will be more readily recognized after the book has been read.

THE RURAL MUSE.

POEMS OF COUNTRY LIFE. Compiled by George S. Bryan. Sturgis & Walton Company, New York.

WELL, well, well! Culture is certainly spreading. The farmers now have an anthology devoted entirely to the bucolic life. The compiler of this book is Mr. George S. Bryan. The book's pages are 350; its illustrations are four; and its selections are legion.

The book appears in Sturgis & Walton's series of The Farmer's Practical Library. Just how this poetry is "practical" I don't know; but let it pass. The selections are all good. Many of the poems are in dialect, and selected from authors whose names mean naught to me. On the other hand, I meet many old friends here, such as Whittier, Pope, Longfellow, Lowell, Jean Ingelow, Eugene Field and William Cullen Bryant. But the field is wide and ranges from Theocritus to Alfred Noyes, and includes many well-known authors including Whitman, Yeats, Shakespeare, Andrew Lang, Carlyle, John Vance Cheney and Horace.

Up and at it, ye rustics!

FOR THE BUILDER.

SUCCESSFUL HOUSES AND HOW TO BUILD THEM. By Charles E. White. The Macmillan Company, New York.

CHARLES E. WHITE'S "Successful Houses and How to Build Them" is a book on house building from the standpoint of the house owner. It is neither a dictionary nor an encyclopedia of building, but rather a work written in simple language, covering the entire field of building houses, large and small.

Beginning with a consideration of the building site and the subsequent purchase of the lot, it carries house building through all the interesting stages of making plans, condensed information about contracts, A chapter on the legal side follows, with condensed information about contracts, bonds, insurance, permits, guarantees, orders, payments and the multitudinous legal instruments so vexing to the inexperienced house owner. Then the actual building is taken up, chapters being given to excavation and foundations, frame house design and construction, masonry houses and fireproof houses; these are succeeded by considerations of plumbing, heating, ventilating and by descriptions of special [illegible] affairs. His [illegible] father has been [illegible] time and time again in the Assembly of his State, and Mr. Post was the youngest Presidential elector that ever sat in the Electoral College; and he has been chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee of his State, and the like.

Mr. Post and his father have been interested to improve both the cattle and horses in this region. They have brought in the heavy French draft horses, and the polled Angus Scotch cattle. In fact, the thing of which Mr. Post is at this time the most proud of is not his latest mount, but a Percheron-Norman colt that is eleven months old and weighs eleven hundred pounds. It is a beautiful land of low hills and rich sodded valleys that an English king granted to "Daniel Davisson, Gentleman;" and a civilization grew up on it that for romantic features has not been equaled by the cattle country of the West. But it has proved to be a richer country than either George the Third or Daniel Davisson imagined. It is underlaid with coal, oil and gas, and the development of these resources is encroaching upon the picturesque civilization of this old cattle land, and the life of it, with its vivid color, its traditions, its adventures and romances, will be presently a memory.

ROPING THE MUSE.

Robert V. Carr, Author of "Cowboy Lyrics, in an Interview Tells of His First Flings of the Poetical Lariat.

Robert V. Carr, the author of "Cowboy Lyrics," of which a complete and revised edition will be issued in October, did not write his lyrics of the western cattle range from the window of a Pullman, or in case and comfort.

Mr. Carr, in a recent interview, tells of his first attempts to lariat the wild and untamed muse.

Said he, "You must not think that the way of the writer of western verse is strewn with posies. I believe I was about fourteen years old when, in addition to an overpowering ambition to be a cowboy, I began to cherish fond hopes of becoming a writer. Possessing a couple of Indian ponies, I drifted from ranch to ranch, from cow outfit to cow outfit, and when I was not annoying the cooks I was scribbling poetry. Some of those verses I sent to a country editor. He returned them with a note to the effect that they were not worth space. Years later that editor transgressed the law and was sent to jail. That served as an awful warning to me, and later, when I became a country newspaper editor, I always published the poetry sent in.

"Still, in the camp and on the trail in that trampled country north of the Black Hills of South Dakota, I wrote of the things I saw. Sometimes they were printed, but more frequently rejected.

"I left the Western country for a better experience in the army in the Philippines and returned to the Black Hills a physical wreck, but still writing. I then sought the cities, but managing editors had little space for western poetry and I drifted on. In that time I came in contact with the 'down-and-outs', the hungry men, the broken men. I need no books to tell me of despair. In many a dark hole in the city I longed for the clean prairies and a sniff of sage. But still I scribbled. And in time I returned West.

"Years later, when my old cowboy friends had coiled their ropes forever, a magazine editor wrote me, asking for some cowboy lyrics. I was the most surprised mortal in the United States. The editor got his lyrics and I received a check. I hated to cash that check. Naturally one does not desire to part with something that has cost him fifteen years of fighting.

"Yes, the way of the poet, like that of the transgressor, is hard; but yet, when I get a friendly letter from one of the boys in the West, or some chap whose authorship is confined to chalk-marks on water tanks, I do not regret the efforts. I am thankful that I was made to suffer, for it is only by suffering that we learn anything worth while."

PETER ROBERTS.

A few months ago Peter Roberts, whose book "The New Immigration" is published this week, was the subject of one of the articles in the "Interesting People" section of the "American Magazine." It is from this that the following paragraphs are quoted.

"About two years ago the International Y.M.C.A. engaged, as immigration secretary, a Congregational preacher whose name is Peter Roberts. This man had a splendid record, and considerable was expected of him. But he has accomplished more than anybody dared hope he would accomplish. Peter Roberts, himself a miner in his youth, declares, after eighteen years of observation as a pastor in the anthracite coal region, that a large part of the loss of life in American mines is due to the fact that so many of the miners, not knowing a word of English, constantly misunderstand foremen's orders and do things which result in disaster. He can tell you the particulars in case after case which he personally knows about.

"Most foreigners would like to learn a little English, but the old-fashioned methods do not allure them. They hate to fuss with the alphabet and the rules of grammar. Indeed, many of them are not well enough grounded in their own tongue to go at the thing that way. In the old-fashioned way, it is also necessary to have as teacher one who can speak the native language of the pupils. In a class of Italians, for example, this results in much more talk in Italian than in English. I nany event the results have been pretty discouraging both to pupils and teachers, and so our foreigners have either learned most of their English from fellow-workmen (a good way if the fellow-workmen are interested and want to help,) or they have not learned it at all, living as they do in settlements of their own people. Peter Roberts's 'new scheme' for teaching English to immigrants came, he says, from a suggestion that he got from Guion's 'Art of Learning and Teaching Languages.' The teachers of Peter Roberts's system do not need to know a word of any language except English. The first lesson is entitled 'Getting Up in the Morning.' The teacher stands up before his class, shuts his eyes, yawns, stretches himself, and says, 'I awake from sleep.' The class imitates, and then the teacher goes on acting out and repeating over and over these sentences:

I must get up;
I throw back the bedclothes.
I get out of bed;
I put on my pants;
I put on my stockings and shoes;
I wash myself;
I comb my hair;
I put on my collar and necktie;
I put on my vest and coat;
I open the door of my bedroom;
I go down stairs.

This is the whole of the first lesson, and, aside from imparting a few words, it generally causes a good deal of amusement and a great deal of entertainment for the pupils. From this [illegible] the pupils go on through a series of thirty lessons, all of which are made up from the daily experience of an ordinary man.

"Now for the results. Although the plan has been in operation less than two years, 225 classes of foreigners, including some 7000 pupils, are now at work in the United States studying English in the manner prescribed by Peter Roberts. And the demand for the system is increasing so fast that Roberts spends more than half his time traveling from State to State giving 'demonstrations to new teachers and spreading the work. So this is the task that Peter Roberts, a Welshman, is entering upon at the age of 50. It is no new thing with him, this interest in the immigrant. He was, as I have said, a miner in his youth. Born in Wales, he came to this country, where, by his own efforts, he raised himself for above the laboring classes, so far as education is concerned. After a course in the Divinity School of Yale, he carried on his education until he received from Yale the highest academic degree that our universities can confer, the degree Ph.D. Along with all this he carried on his work as pastor of a church in the anthracite coal region, where his knowledge of the immigrant, and especially of the miner, was constantly refreshed. Finally, when the opportunity for broader service came, he was able to select something essential and to be simple about it. Having heart for the job, he also felt like tackling it hard."

The Panama Canal
The San Francisco Exposition

The interest in these events will continue to increase throughout the world until after 1914, when the Canal will be in operation, and until after 1915, the time appointed for the Exposition. Every intelligent person will want to know more of these occurrences, will want all the reliable information obtainable concerning them, causes and effects, economic and ethnic significance, evolving opportunities, and the enlargement of wealth and potentialties attending the opening of this last New World to civilization.

It is not too much to claim that more than elsewhere of this requisite information, much of it new and all interesting, all ably and clearly presented, may be found in the two books.

appliances of the latest types, such as pneumatic cleaners, pumps, automatic water heating systems and automatic electrical devices. Electric, gas and oil illuminations, carpentry, cabinet work, interior trim, tin work, roofing, painting, glazing, hardware, plastering, all receive adequate treatment.

The concluding chapters are devoted to plans, illustrations and details of houses designed by noted architects and actually built. These are taken up under such headings as city houses, town, country and farm houses, suburban houses and bungalows, camps and cottages, garages, barns and greenhouses. Outdoor accessories, such as architectural features, terraces, walls, banks, sidewalks, pergolas and the like, are also discussed.

"Successful Houses and How to Build Them" is the result of many years' experience on the part of Mr. White as an architect. He is in active practice at present, his work extending over every section of the United States.

The illustrations, of which there are more than four hundred, both line and half tones, serve to emphasize the author's points.

MORE COURT MEMOIRS.

THE EMPRESS JOSEPHINE. By the Baron de Meneval. Lippincott, New York.

ANOTHER book of those innumerable court memoirs which have been flooding America of late, via the English press, is "The Empress Josephine," written by the Baron DeMeneval, Minister Plenipotentiary, and translated by one D. D. Fraser.

The moral quibbles of a deceased aristocracy are about the only form of belles lettres wholly appreciated in America. Just why this should be the care I do not know. However, it is not the province of a reviewer, perhaps, to inquire into the causes of taste. That question can well be left to the psychologist. But whatever the cause, the effect is with us; and so let us make mention of this new tome of royal autobiography.

The purpose of this particular book of memoirs, it would seem, is the justification, by means of authentic documents in the possession of Baron DeMeneval, of the evidences of respect and esteem rendered to the memory of the Empress Josephine by the Duke of Reichstadt—an important and weighty matter, not to be overlooked by modern political economists and historians.

In the course of this justification we learn of Josephine's birth at Martinique; of her arrival in France and her marriage with Viscount de Beauharnais; of the viscount's political activities; of his imprisonment; of Josephine's endeavor to save him; of his execution; of the fall of Robespierre, and of Josephine's release from prison; of the calumnies of which Josephine was the victim; of her poverty and return to Paris; of her marriage to Gen. Bonaparte; of Bonaparte's letters to Josephine; of her visit to Italy; of her extravagance and her taste for luxury and dress; of the slanderous reports sent to Bonaparte regarding his wife; and of the happy reconciliation; of Josephine's partiality for Fouche; of Napoleon's letters to Josephine after he had taken the field; of Josephine's journey to Munich and her residence there; of her first fears of the possibility of a divorce: of the attempted assassination of Napoleon; of the ceremony of divorce and of Napoleon's subsequent dejection and his kindness to her; of the death of Josephine; and of Marie Louise's neglect of Napoleon in exile.

These chronicles are interspersed with—or perhaps, better, consist largely of—letters written by members of the royal family to one other. The book is replete in documentary evidence, and no doubt the justification which the Baron DeMeneval has undertaken is more than accomplished.

Let us indeed hope so.

BOOK NEWS.

Molly Elliot Seawell is the author of a new book, "The Son of Columbus," that has just been published by the Harpers. Through the enthusiasm of two boys at the Court of Ferdinand and Isabella, the author conveys a lively impression of the stir and bustle of the times, the excitement and anxiety that preceded the great adventure. The narrative presents many dramatic scenes with historical accuracy, notably the triumphal return of Columbus, and describes various striking historic characters. It is a story intended especially for younger readers, but the accuracy and originality of its historical features will undoubtedly make it appeal to mature readers as well.

Messrs. Cassell & Co.'s contributions to the autumn list of fiction are "The Man at Lone Lake," a romance of the Canadian wilds, by Virna Sheard; "The House of Windows," by Isabel Ecclestone Mackaye, a romance involving a great mystery; "The White Gauntlet," a tale of the war of the Spanish Succession and the Jacobite Rebellion; "The Adventures of Napoleon Prince," a tale of mystery, romance, with a fascinating master rogue of a new type for a hero; then a new story by Richard Marsh, author of "The Lovely Miss Blake." The title of the new book is "Violet Forster's Lover." They also publish "The Strong Hand," by Warwick Deeping, author of a dozen or more successful novels.

E. Phillips Oppenheim.

Arthur Sherburne Hardy, who was recently United States Minister to Spain, is the author of a new book, "Aurelie," that has just been published by the Harpers. The tale is half fanciful, half sentimental—such a story as might have come from Eugene Field. It concerns a delicate little orphan who held midnight talks with a tiny tin soldier that regularly appeared on the mantel beside his bed. Through the medium of the soldier, a delicate little love story is evolved. In "Aurelie" there is a tale within a tale—one laden with pathos, the other with infinite love.

Mrs. Campbell Praed, though an Australian by birth, has been for years one of the best-known literary figures of London. Some of her earlier books deal with her native country—notably "An Australian Heroine"—and in 1902 her autobiography called "My Australian Girlhood" contained a fund of information regarding her early and exciting days in the Antipodes.

In sharp contrast to these breezy, out-of-door stories are her later novels dealing with the occult—of which the latest example is "The Body of His Desire" (Cassell.)

One more is added to the innumerable cases of authors unconsciously using titles that have previously been used by others, in the announcement of Dr. Henry Van Dyke's "The Unknown Quantity," since Henry Holt & Co. quite recently issued a novel of that name, by Miss Gertrude Hall, which has been through several editions.

Henry Holt & Co. have made an unexpected addition to their fall list, by cabling Mr. Arrowsmith of Bristol, England, their acceptance of the American rights to "My Dog and I," written and illustrated by Gerald Sidney. This comes to the American publishers from the same English house which called Jerome K. Jerome to their attention, and has a similar claim on the reader's sense of humor.

Harper & Bros. announce that they have put to press for reprinting "Miss Gibbie Gault" by Kate Langley Bosher, and a special edition of "The Cook-Book of Left Overs," by Helen Carroll Clarke and Phoebe Deyo Rulon.

In her "Why Women Are So"—by Mary Roberts Coolidge, author of "Chinese Immigration," the author attempts to answer the question whether the characteristic behavior called feminine, as distinguished from womanly, is an inalienable quality or merely an attitude of mind produced by the coercive traditions of society. No standard book seems to exist in the same field as hers, in which she covers the development from the eighteenth century American woman to the twentieth. She does this, however, with a lightness of touch that makes it very easy as well as instructive reading.

The new edition of "The Lights and Shadows of a Long Episcopate," being the reminiscences of the Right Reverend Henry Benjamin Whipple, which is published this week, should be particularly welcome. It makes available the helpful autobiography of a noble man, which has been out of print for some little time; it is, moreover, published at a considerably reduced price without sacrificing either the durability or beauty of the original makeup.

R. L. Goldberg, the New York cartoonist, whose work is so well known throughout the country, and whose book "Chasing the Blues" is to be published this fall, by Doubleday, Page & Co., recently returned from a trip through the cities of the Middle West, terminating at St. Louis, only to start out again. On this particular journey Mr. Goldberg chased the blues from the vaudeville houses with his invulnerable weapons, "I'm the Guy," "Telephonies," "Foolish Questions," "They all Look Good," etc. Goldberg has been drawing his cartoons in vaudeville periodically for the last year with great success.

To survey French letters, particularly to show their connection with the political and economic conditions of the various periods which produced them, is the purpose of Mabel S. C. Smith, in "The Spirit of French Letters," just published. She accomplishes this not alone through comment, but by the use of translated extracts of outstanding examples, the choice sometimes being made to illustrate the author's reflection of the age and sometimes to exhibit his spirit and workmanship. The volume is one which should be of interest to all students of French literature and also to those who desire to grasp the broad outlines of world literature. The titles of the ten chapters, which show something of the author's aim of relating literature to other fields of human endeavor, run as follows: Through the Winter Days and After, In Lyric Mood, Stirrings of Democracy and the Great Awakening, When the Printing Press Came, The Century of Beginnings—the Sixteenth, The Great Century—the Seventeenth, Drama Through the Centuries, The Century of Discussion—the Eighteenth, The Century of Inventions—the Nineteenth, and Today.

Jean Webster's "Daddy-Long-Legs" was issued by the Century Company, September 24. The story is told in the form of a young girl's letters to her unknown guardian, and the illustrations are the author's own, just as if scribbled in pen and ink on the margins of letters to an intimate friend.

Jean Webster's last letter to New York was from Ireland, where she has been spending the summer.

In "The Wilderness of the North Pacific Coast Islands," Charles Sheldon, whose first book, "The Wilderness of the Upper Yukon" was published last year, gives an account of his exploring and hunting experiences on Vancouver, Queen Charlotte, Montague and Admiralty Islands off the coast of British Columbia and Alaska. His principal game was wapiti, bear and caribou. He shows the value of the book in these lines of introduction:

"This is a tale of hunting, during rain and storm, for special animals; much of the country traversed was unknown in detail to white men, some of it had not even been trodden by natives; it was not possible to obtain guides familiar with the habits and haunts of the animals; and the time which could be spared for each trip was limited. Little attention, therefore, could be given to natural history, which, in the regions visited, has fortunately to some extent been investigated. But no literature, giving the detailed experiences of hunting in all of these islands, exists."

Charles Scribner's Sons have just published the book which is handsomely illustrated from photographs, and from paintings by Carl Rungius, the animal artist.

Among the most important of the new educational books published by the Scribners this season is "British Poems from Canterbury Tales to Recessional," by Percy A. Hutchison. This book will be of especial interest to colleges, teachers who have courses in English poetry or who have general courses in English literature, where an anthology of British poetry is required.

It is fortunate that such a scholar as Dr. Hutchison has interested himself in this work. He is an editor of unusual ability, with keen literary appreciation. The resources of the Harvard library have been at his disposal and have made it possible for him to obtain always an authoritative text, and to correct a number of errors heretofore appearing in generally accepted editions. Over one hundred poets are represented. The selections under each poet are arranged chronologically.

Typographically the book is most attractive, as a particular effort has been made to make the arrangement of the poems pleasing to the eye.

A. C. McClurg & Co. will issue shortly a book from the hand, or, rather, out of the life of Mrs. Frances Kingsley Hutchinson (Mrs. Charles L.) "Our Country Life," a story of the happy activities of ten years on the shore-bordered estate of the family at Lake Geneva. This labor of love of a decade which has produced a garden spot of beauty where flowers and trees of every kind, frequented by friendly song birds, give joy to many, is enthusiastically described by Mrs. Hutchinson. The book by word and picture tells the story, and conveys to the reader much of the inspiration of the writer. The illustrations, which are from photographs, number seventy-five, and include not only full page views of the house and grounds, but also pictures of many birds and flowers.

John Lane Company will publish this week: "Footprints of Famous Americans in Paris," by John Joseph Conway, M. A., with an introduction by Mrs. John Lane. Franklin, Jefferson, Tom Paine, LaFayette, Paul Light, etc., the most striking figures of a heroic age, working out in the City of Light the great question for which they stood, are dealt with in this illuminating work. It opens up a new and absorbing interest to visitors to Paris, and contains 32 full-page illustrations. Mr. Conway served his journalistic apprenticeship with the Northwestern Chronicle and St. Paul Dispatch, but in 1895 he went to Paris, where he represented the New York American for many years. In this capacity he visited almost every country in Europe, was present at the coronation of King Edward VII, the swearing-in of King Alfonso and the election of Leo X. He dedicated his book to Col. Henry Watterson, "Dean of American Journalists, Noblest Son of the United North and South."

"At the Sign of the Reine Pedauque," by Anatole France, translated by Mrs. Wilfred Jackson, with an introduction by William J. Locke. This is the first of six or seven new translations of Anatole France's works that are planned for publication this fall and winter. Mr. Locke states in his introduction that this novel is "perhaps the most characteristic example of that illusive point which makes for the magic of Anatole France."

"Also and Perhaps," by Sir Frank Swettenham, author of "British Malaya," "Malay Sketches," etc. The author presents in this book studies of various characteristics of men and places in many parts of the world. It is written with his usual judgment, wit and literary ability.

"The Voice of The Garden," compiled by Lucy Leffingwell Cable Bilke. The idea of this novel is to gather from the literature of many ages and many nations what is fairly representative of all that has been written about gardens. A valuable addition to the volume is a delightful preface written by Mr. George W. Cable, himself a true lover of gardens and gardening.

"Pansy Meares," by Horace W. C. Newte, author of "Sparrows," "The Ealing Miracle," etc. Mr. Newte is distinctly a realistic writer, and in this new story of a London shop girl he takes his heroine, a simple country girl of great beauty, who, to escape from an undesirable stepfather and the boredom of country life, makes her way to London to earn her living. The white slave traffic, an important topic of the hour, plays a prominent part in the novel.

"Sunshine Sketches," by Stephen Leacock, author of "Literary Lapses" and "Nonsense Novels." Mr. Leacock has fairly surpassed himself with this new book. Here he is found in his merriest and maddest vein. It is very unlikely that we have in the century's literature a more humorous character than Joseph Smith with the "solemn inexpressible, unreadable face of the heaven born hotel keeper" and his two hundred and eighty pounds of solid flesh "encased in clothes which make him look like an overdressed pirate."

Other new Lane publications of the week are "Oxford Poems," by H. W. Garrod; and a new, popular-priced edition, in cloth and leather binding, of "Some Fruits of Solitude," by William Penn, with an introduction by Edmund Gosse.

WITH THE AUTHORS.

Henry L. Stuart, author of "Fenella" is back in New York, after having spent a year in Boston newspaper work. Mr. Stuart is doing independent writing and is preparing to write another novel.

Montague Glass, creator of "Potash & Perlmutter," and whose new book "Elkan Lubliner; American," is to be published by Doubleday, Page & Co., this fall, recently left for Europe with Mrs. Glass. They will settle down in some little town in Spain, where they will live for a year. After this they expect to return to New York, but all during that time Mr. Glass will continue his work.

Sara Comstock, whose novel, "The Soddy" is to be published by Doubleday, Page & Co. this fall, is known in New York and throughout the magazine world as a writer of serious articles, and her friends were surprised when they learned shortly after her return from a trip to Kansas that she was at work on a novel.

Miss Comstock did not go to Kansas for the express purpose of seeking material for her gripping story of the plains and sod houses, but went there primarily to study certain problems in connection with irrigation and reclamation. She came back with plenty of such material, and also with the plot of "The Soddy."

While no secret is being made of the fact that the real name of the author of "A Man's World" is not Albert Edwards, and even though there are in the United States, particularly in New York City, many men who know who the author is, nevertheless there are a great many conjectures being made by the uninformed and the curious as to his identity. "Does he know what he is talking about?" "Is he a social worker?" "Has he had large experience in the handling of men and affairs?" "Is he much traveled?" These are but a few of the different kinds of queries with which

"Mr. Edward's" publishers are being bombarded. Notwithstanding the fact, that the author of "A Man's World" has permitted the publication of his picture, there are those who, after examining it, have said, "Mr. Edwards is so and so," usually designating a person high up in social or philanthropic work.

During the coming winter Prof. Rudolph Eucken will lecture in the United States in German, on the "Leading Ideas of the Present Day." In these lectures he will, to a very large extent, cover the same ground as in the "Main Currents of Modern Thought," which Charles Scribner's Sons have just published. All those who wish to prepare themselves for what will no doubt be an event of great interest should therefore make a point of reading this important work.

LITERARY GOSSIP.

"The Woman of It," by Mark Lee Luther, has just been published by the Harpers. This is a story of the social life at Washington—not the maze of official functions, but the real, everyday social life of the capital, with its fussy formalities and incongruities as seen by the unsophisticated wife of a newly-elected Congressman. The principal characters are a big, hearty, self-made man, his old-fashioned, simple-minded wife, their daughter, who is being polished to the shining point at a finishing school in the city, and their son, who has acquired an overstocked vocabulary of slang at Yale. The story is told in crisp, readable dialogue, and in a way is typical of present-day American life.

Irving Bacheller wrote a large part of his latest book, "Charge It," which has just been published by the Harpers, at his camp in the Adirondacks. The original draught was made in a blank book such as children use for school compositions. An old woodsman who works around the camp was recently heard bragging to another woodsman about how easily his "boss" makes money. "He pays 10 cents for a nice, clean book," said he, "an' then he sets in a rockin' chair, three, four hours a day fer a couple o' months, mussin' it all up with handwritin', an' then he sells it fer a million dollars. Dogged if I wouldn't like to get on to how he does it."

At a recent public gathering James Oppenheim, author of several recent novels published by the Harpers, was approached by a very pretty and rapturous young woman in tow of the hostess. On being introduced, she seized Mr. Oppenheim's hand, gazed into his eyes and said, ecstatically:

"Oh, I've been longing to meet you for such a long time! I've read most of your books. They're so exciting!"

"H'm," muttered Mr. Oppenheim, feeling that the worst was at hand. "Which of the novels have you read recently?"

"Which?" she answered. "Why, let's see. 'The Prince of Sinners,' 'The Lighted Way' and 'The Yellow Crayon.'"

"I'm sorry," said Mr. Oppenheim, "but I didn't write them. They were written by E. Phillipps Oppenheim."

"But you're E. Phillipps Oppenheim," cried the horrified maiden.

"No, I'm James Oppenheim, author of 'The Nine-Tenths,' 'The Olympian', and——"

But the lady had fled.

Many readers will be of the opinion that the mantle of the late Myrtle Reed has fallen upon the shoulders of Clarice Vallette McCauley, author of "The Garden of Dreams," which had just been issued by A. C. McClurg & Co. The scene of Miss McCauley's first story is an old garden which, beyond its original fencing-in, had never been spoiled by the vandal hand of man. This wild old spot had been the scene of the boyhood dreams of a poor youth who subsequently gained fame as an author. Then, famous and well-off, he saw an advertisement of this old house and groundds for sale and promptly bought them. He arrived on the scene of his boyhood dreams to find a young girl in possession, acting as gardener, and finding in the garden just as he had done, the inspiration and material for the inner life of dream. Of course he falls in love with her and the book traces, in the form of letters written by both of them, the gradual transformation of their dreams into reality.

Considering the fact that "The White Waterfall," by James Francis Dwyer, is an adventure novel, the following comments from the strongholds of the "highbrows" will be interesting:

Extract from letter from Mary D. Pretlord, first assistant in St. Louis library:

"This summer the new books have been particularly dreadful—the feeble detective stories and the even feebler problems and psychological novels that are coming out in hosts—and then to prove that all the publishers haven't softening of the brain comes 'The White Waterfall'—a good story that has about it the ring of truth, even in its most impossible situations. All this may better be put in a single [illegible] for an absorbing evening'—I shall give the book to the first child that utters the words we hear all day—'My father says send him a good story and one that hasn't too much love in it,' or 'one that's not too sad.'"

Letter by Thomas W. Churchill, Commissioner of Education in New York City.

"Last Saturday night I read from cover to cover 'The White Waterfall.' It held me entranced. I did not believe that I had so much youth to be thrilled so by any work of fiction; nor have I been so thrilled in many years. Of course, it was the imaginative quality of the book and its keen turns of ingenious incident that made the blood course in my veins."

Stewart Edward White's book on Africa is scheduled by his publishers for publication in October, under the title of "On the Last Frontier." The book was announced for this fall many months ago, in fact, Mr. White had written a great deal of it before his return from the Dark Continent, but the date of publication has just been announced. There are many books on Africa, but Mr. White, with his rare understanding of the open, as well as his keen comprehension of the understanding of the average reader, has tried to tell the ordinary American just what Africa is like, in terms that he can understand. Mr. White intends his work neither as a book of pure adventure nor as a book of pure scientific discourse. It is a book by which the American who has never been there can learn something about Africa.

Since the publication of "One Look Back," by the Right Hon. George W. E. Russell, there has been considerable talk of this author's earlier books, "Collections and Recollections," which appeared in two different series; "Pocket Full of Sixpences" and "Sketches and Snapshots." All of these earlier books were anecdotal in form, while "One Look Back" is autobiographical. Even so, the author's ripened experience and friendly style leads him into the paths of reminiscence, which includes many stories of the greatest men of his time in England. Mr. Russell notes with special gratitude his obligations to the brilliant James Payn, whose love of anecdote called forth the author's first books.

"The Passes of the Pyrenees: A Practical Guide to the Mountain Roads of the Franco-Spanish Frontier" is a book for the tourist, more particularly the motorist who is weary of beaten tracks. The author, Charles L. Freeston, has proved his ability to write such a book by his popular "High Roads of the Alps," a year or so ago. In the preface he gives this explanation of his purpose:

"The scheme of this book may be said to be based upon three postulates":

"1. That all high ground is more likely to be picturesque than low, and is always worth seeking out for its own sake.

"2. That the mere fact that mountain roads in plenty are carried to greater heights than those of the average railway implies that tourists who trust to the latter alone must perforce miss much that is most beautiful in European scenery.

"3. That the Pyrenees, which are almost untouched by railways, from a worthy field of exploration for those who have already familiarized themselves with the beauties of the Alps."

Edgecumbe Staley made it plain in the "Tragedies of the Medici," "The Dogaressas of Venice," and "The Heroines of Genoa and the Riviera" that he could feel and interpret the romance of history. His new book is "King Rene d'Anjou and His Seven Queens." "Rene," he says, "was the most remarkable personality in the French Renaissance. "How many English readers of the romance of history, I wonder, know anything about him but his name? Of his "Seven Queens," two only are at all familiar to the English public—Marguerite d'Anjou and Jeanne d'Arc — and their stories as commonly told are unconvincing. The other five are not known even by name to the majority of people; therefore I have immense pleasure in introducing them to my clientele: Yolanda d'Arragona, Isabelle de Lorraine, Jehanne de Laval, Giovanna Il da Napoli, Jeanne d'Arc, and Marguerite d'Anjou. This galaxy of Queens, fair and frail, will appeal as something entirely new in sentimental biography to those in search of novelty."

Dry Fly Fishing is as old a sport in England as it is new in this country. Long before Izaak Walton wrote, the British trout were veterans in dodging anglers of one kind or another, and many years ago they became so cunning that the youngest among them would hardly wave his fin at sight of a wet fly. That is how the dry fly came to be invented, and that is what makes so valuable the opinion of a British expert on Emlyn M. Gill's "Practical Dry-Fly Fishing," which was written primarily for American sportsmen.

C. Farlow & Co., Ltd., London, England, does a larger business in dry-fly fishing tackle than any other house in the world. Its general manager is Mr. W. A. Hunter. He says: "I obtained a copy of 'Practical Dry Fly Fishing' as soon as it arrived in Londdon and after glancing through it passed it on to Mr. Farlow, who cordially agrees with me that it is the most practical and helpful treatise on dry-fly fishing ever published. It is a book one can learn a great deal from, and that can be said of few so-called practical works on fishing.

WHERE THEY GO.

The average man hears little of the special markets which are found for books published primarily for the general public. A publisher of text-books in stenography issued Edward Howard Grigg's "The Use of the Margin" in shorthand, with the result that large numbers of the book have been sold to students desirous of obtaining the key. A great life insurance company gives a copy of William DeWitt Hyde's "Self-Measurement" to everyone of its agents as a sort of ethical map of life. A prominent New York Catholic has been distributing Stephen Jenkin's "A Princess and Another" because of the unusual, but authentic light which this novel throws on the status of the Catholic in America during the Colonial period. Wallace Irwin's Homeric description of Mr. Roosevelt's wanderings in Africa published under the title of "The Teddysee" is being purchased by friends of the Bull Moose candidate. Will Irwin's little book, "The City That Was," is a standard souvenir for visitors to San Francisco to take away with them. The largest manufacturer of cash registers in the world is at the head of the movement to replan his city, and he has bought many copies of John Nolen's "Replanning Small Cities" for distribution with a view to reforming public opinion in his town.

"FRIAR TUCK."

Robert Alexander Wason's Preface to His New Book Shows His Method of Story Telling.

Robert Alexander Wason prefaces his new Happy Hawkins story, "Friar Tuck," by the following characteristic confidential chat, entitled "Just Between You and Me," which shows his method of story-telling in a most interesting manner.

"Reviews are not infrequently colored by a temporary elevation of the critic's mind (or a temporary depression of the critic's liver) advertisements are not invariably free from bias; so, perhaps a few words of friendly warning will not be considered impertinent.

"Whosoever is squeamishly sensitive as to the formal technique of literary construction will save himself positive irritation by avoiding this book. It is a told, rather than a written story; and this is a compromise which defies Art and frankly turns to the more elastic methods of Nature.

"It is supposed to be told by an outdoor man in those delightful moments of relaxation when the restraint of self-consciousness is droppe dand the spirit flows forth with a freedom difficult to find, outside the egoism of childhood. This general suggestion is easily tossed out; but the reader must supply the details—the night camps with the pipes sending up incense about the tiny fires, the winter evenings when the still cold lurks at the threshold or the blizzard howls around the log corners; or those still more elusive moments when the riding man shifts his weight to a single thigh, and tells the inner story which has been rising from his open heart to his closed lips for many a long mile.

"Nor will these details suffice to complete the atmosphere in which, bit by bit, the story is told. The greatest charm in the told story comes direct from the teller; and, toil as we will over printed pages, they obstinately refuse to reproduce the twinkle of bright, deep-set eyes, the whimsical twist which gives character to a commonplace word, the subtle modulations of a mellow voice, the discriminating accent which makes a sentence fire when spoken, and only ashes when written; or, hardest of all, those eloquent pauses and illuminating gestures which convey a climax neither tongue nor pen dare attempt.

"Happy Hawkins is complex, but the basic foundation of his character is simplicity. His audience is usually a mixed one, men of the range and an easterner or two, fortunate enough to find the way into his confidence. Occasionally he amuses himself by talking to the one group over the heads of the other; but even then his own simplicity is but thinly veiled. The phases of life which he holds lightly are exploited with riotous recklessness; but whoever would visit his private shrines must tread with reverent step.

"His exaggerations are not to deceive, but to magnify—an adjunct to expression invariably found among primitive people. A brass monkey is really not sensitive to variations of temperature; and yet, even among the civilized, a peculiarly vivid impression is conveyed by stating that a particular cold snap has had a disintegrating effect upon the integrity of a brass monkey. There is a philosophy of exaggeration which is no kin to falsehood.

"Happy has an eager, hungry, active mind, a mind worthy of careful cultivation; but forced by circumstances to gather its nourishment along lines similar to those adopted by the meek and lowly sponge. A sponge is earnest, patient, and industrious; but, fixed to a submerged stone as it is, it is hampered by limitations which no amount of personal ambition is quite able to overcome. As Happy himself was fond of saying, 'The thing 'at sets most strangers again each other is, the fact that each insists on judgin' everything from his own standpoint. A cowpuncher gets the idee that because an easterner can't sit comfortable on a bronco when it's sunfishin' or twistin' ends, he jes nachely ain't fit to clutter up the surface o' the earth; while the easterner is inclined to estimate the puncher an' his pony as bein' on the same intellectual level. If they'd just open up an' examine each other impartial, they'd mighty soon see 'at the difference in 'em came from what they did, instead o' the choice o' their lines o' business dependin' on their natural makeup. I once had a no account pinto which refused to squat back on the rope, and I rejoiced exceeding when I got seventy-five bucks for him; but the feller I took advantage of clipped his mane, docked his tail, introduced him into swell society, and got three hundred for him as a polo pony; which all goes to show——' (The finish of this is an expansive wave of the hand, a tilt of the head to the right, and an indescribably droll expression.)

"The above is a fair sample of the leisurely way in which Happy Hawkins tells a story. This is not the proper way to tell a story. A story should travel an air-line and not stop at the smaller stations, while Happy prefers to take his bed along on a spare horse and camp out wherever the mood strikes him. The reader who delights in a story which speeds along like a limited will probably be disappointed in this book; while, on the other hand, the reader who enjoys the intimate association which is lighted with the evening camp fire, runs a risk of finding some relaxation in taking another little trip with Happy Hawkins."

MELVILLE D. POST.

Melville D. Post, the well-known author of detective stories, whose latest mystery story, "The Nameless Thing," has recently been issued by D. Appleton & Company, is now on his cattle ranch in West Virginia. He and his father have three or four thousand acres of rolling blue-grass land, like that of Kentucky, lying in the foothills west of the Alleghenies.

Mr. Post claims that the best beef cattle in the world come from this region. His grazing land, included in the counties of Harrison, Upshur, Lewis, Monongalia and Marion, was the cradle of the cattle business in America. Long before the West was explored and before the railroads were built, the cattle from this region were driven overland to Baltimore and Philadelphia. It was a drive of six weeks across the great mountain range, and the old trail, forgotten since the West took over the romance of ranch life, was richer in its legends of adventure than any section of the West.

These lands owned by Mr. Post have also a historic interest. They have been in his family for more than a century. His ancestor, Daniel Davisson, got this country in Virginia, west of the mountains, by a grant from George, the Third, and it has been held by some member of the family ever since. Daniel Davisson, to whom the Daughters of the American Revolution have erected a monument at Clarksburg, W. Va., was an unusual man. He took possession of this grant which he had received from the King, when Dunsmore was Governor of Virginia and the whole province was a Crown colony. He built a great stone manor house, and his influence west of the mountains was feudal. He sat time and again in the Assembly of Virginia. Aaron Burr was a relation of his family, and, on his journeys to Blennerhassett he always visited Daniel Davisson. In the old storehouse there used to be a circular glass window on which the names of Burr, Davisson and others were scratched with a diamond. But Davisson took no interest in Burr's chimeras, and warned him, it is said, that "Tom" Jefferson would try him for treason.

Draperies

THE artistic value of a well-chosen drapery, softening the hard architectural lines of a room, cannot be over-estimated.

Draperies really tie a room together, and are a bond of harmony between the rug and the wall decorations.

From time immemorial hangings of some sort have been used to comfort or beautify man's abode, and are an artistic essential of our modern home decoration.

In olden times they were both a protection and an adornment to the home, and, from the first rude skins hung across his cave by the aborigine, through the storied wonders of the hand-woven tapestries of mediaeval times, down to the boundless variety of modern art-weaves, hangings have been required for utility and beauty.

At this store you will find a collection of varied fabrics from the world's best looms that offer a wealth of artistic possibilities at exceptionally attractive prices. We invite your inspection.

W. Parker, of No. 8117 Central avenue Los Angeles. The ceremony, which was Rev. Van der Las's favorite ring service, was performed at the First United Presbyterian Church, Los Angeles, at 8 o'clock, and was witnessed by a large gathering of the friends of the young people. The handsome interior of the church was beautifully decorated in green and white, the altar being banked with a mass of ferns. Miss Parker's gown was of white satin, trimmed in Chantilly lace, over which fell a bridal veil held in place with sprays of orange blossoms. Miss Helen Parker was the bride's maid, and wore a beautiful corn-colored satin, carrying a large bouquet of yellow crysanthemums. Earl Stone, attended Mr. Garber as his best man, and Ray Hastings, organist at the Temple Auditorium, played the Lohengrin wedding march at the beginning and the Mendelssohn at the conclusion of the ceremony. Mrs. Zobelin, solo soprano at the Auditorium, rendered a beautiful aria just preceding the marriage service. The mind loves to dwell in dreams of the magical land from whence came the Oriental Rugs. The vivid imagination of the average salesman is responsible largely for the "historical description" of individual rugs, and such descriptions are too often credited. Oriental Rugs must be judged and valued solely by their quality, condition and decorative fitness. Each rug must be valued solely on its individual merits.

Expert knowledge acquired by years of study and intimate association with Oriental Rug buying and selling is your best safeguard in making selections. Our salesforce in this connection are well qualified to aid you in making satisfactory purchases.

Those who have a desire to acquire Oriental Rugs, will find in this particular collection and sale, opportunities to secure specially fine specimens, with a choice of an unusually large and representative variety, and at prices which mean a very decided advantage as compared with ordinary quotations generally prevailing.

Seeing the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment I wrote for some. The immediate result was more remarkable than I can describe. I was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. C. The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pine is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

WHEN YOUR HAIR BRUSHES OUT

Your hair is as sensitive as your skin—even more so. It stands up under heavy hats, curling irons, and diseases of the scalp, etc.——But there is a limit.

When you comb and brush your hair in the morning, watch for the "TRAILERS" that turn grey, fall out, and comb out with the first morning brush.

You MUST know that there's something wrong. If your hair was in good health, it wouldn't fall out, nature never intended that. There is something wrong at the root of things—the hair needs a tonic—a restorer.

When you are sick you take medicine. That is your first thought. Its turning grey, falling out, are both ways the hair has of "complaining of illness." It can't do it in any other way.—Do YOUR part. Use—

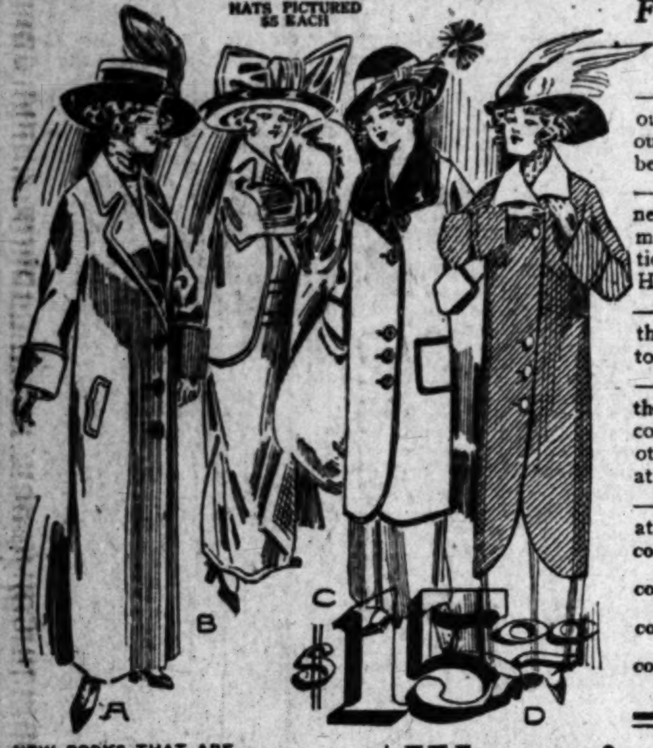
The Height of Value Giving



—The garment department is being pointed out for value giving. People are talking about our coats and suits, as they have never talked before.

—And now comes the presentation of these new coats and suits at $15, that is to create more widespread enthusiasm, directing attention specifically upon this one price in the Fall Harvest.

—The garment buyer has just returned from the market and these suits at $15 are a tribute to the care he exercised in the selection.

Ellen Beach Yaw, prima donna soprano, accompanied by Franklin Cannon, pianist, enraptured an audience that filled the High School auditorium a week ago Saturday evening, despite inclement weather, and won encore after encore as she interpreted such composers as Thomas, Puccini, Hahn, Massenet, Liza Lehman and compositions of her own. Taking into consideration both tone and vocal range, she has a voice equalled by few and surpassed by none of the artists of today, while her bird-like trills on the upper register reminded the audience of the warbling of the nightingale. She was well supported by her accompanist, whose deli- touch and exquisite technique plemented to its full measure the ness of her voice. He also re hearty applause for the instrumental selections rendered by him, which interspersed the numbers of Miss Yaw, and responded to frequent encores. An exceptionally well-arranged programme carried the audience from the purely classical music, through the folk songs made classical in their interpretation by the artists, and closing grandly with Rhapsodie Hongroise No. 8, by Liszt, rendered by Mr. Cannon, and Grand Aria (Ernani,) by Verdi, rendered by Miss Yaw.

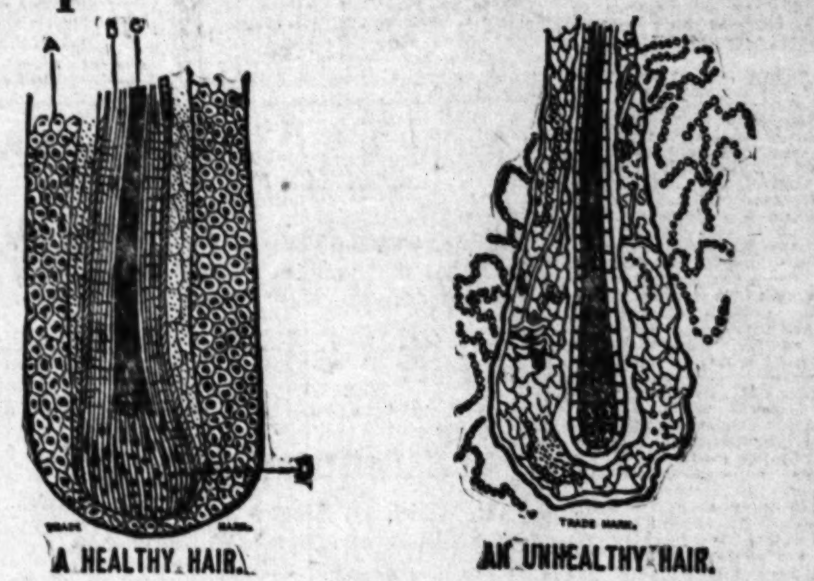
Keep Your Hair Healthy



Use
NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

If your hair lacks luster, is dry, brittle and uneven, it is unhealthy. One of these hair bulbs magnified several thousand times under a powerful microscope has the appearance shown here by the right hand picture. Such hair is far from pretty. Hair sickness is usually due to dandruff. The germ that causes this common, but annoying trouble burrows down into the follicle or hair bulb. As the microbe developes, it sets up an inflammation that ultimately destroys the adhesion at the papilla and the starved hair finally slips out.

Sick or unhealthy hair makes the regular and intelligent application of NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE imperative. This preparation has long been known as the Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer and Hair-Saver. Besides being a delightful and efficient hair-dressing, HERPICIDE possesses an exquisite odor which appeals to all, it contains no grease and does not stain or dye. When beginning the use of this great scalp prophylactic the most agreeable effect perhaps is the almost immediate cessation of itching.

Send For Trial Bottle and Booklet

One application of this remarkable and well-known toilet requisite is usually sufficient to convince the most skeptical of its great merits. A trial size bottle together with a booklet telling all about the hair will be sent to any address upon receipt of Ten Cents in postage or silver.

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

So quietly has the work of the Big Sister Organization of New York been conducted that, although started over a year ago, few people are aware of its establishment and growth and the great good accomplished by the methods of this society, says the Tribune.

The Association of Big Sisters is in charge of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, an original and practical philanthropist who is interested in several such movements. She is a woman of unusual sympathy and resourcefulness, and with her are associated fifty other women of like sympathies. Many of these are women of wealth and leisure, who find a new and peculiar interest in the work.

When these young girls, perhaps from 8 to 14, are brought before the Children's Court, they are usually neglected and forlorn, and most of their "badness" is due to their need of just such a friend as one of these big sisters can be to them. The aim of the association is to keep such children out of institutions, for it is felt that this is a move in the wrong direction for the interests of the girl. When the girl leaves the Children's Court with, at the least, a reprimand or perhaps on parole, and in charge of some probation officer, it is a great thing to find a friend beside her, quiet and efficient, who can and will show her the way into the better living she seems to have lost. The friends this girl makes just at this critical moment could come to her in no other manner through life, and she walks out of the Children's Court with the door open into better ways.

The emphasis in this organization is placed on individual helpful relations. Each girl who needs the assistance of the older woman is turned over to her, and the new big sister begins to work out the problem in her own way. She is expected to give what time she can to her new responsibility, and she is furnished with a little page of hints for her guidance. But much of the work must be original with her, as well as adapted to the special case. The child she undertakes to care for and become a practical friend to she must first get acquainted with, and gradually find out why her protege is at odds with society and what can be done to bring about a more desirable state of affairs.

One woman who is enthusiastic about this new method of charitable work said: "I only hope the girls get as much out of it as I do. It has opened ideas to me I never thought of, and possibilities that once would have seemed wildly impossible." To extend one's human sympathies and to find out in a practical way just how this little sister lives; what is her environment, her temptations, her limitations, and why it is she is debarred from the opportunities in life that one supposed were given to every girl, is a revelation to the woman who investigates these things.

Henry Beekman Armstrong, who died in the town of Red Hook, N. Y., several days ago, left many thousands of dollars to charities. After disposing of various things to relatives he left the residue of his estate, estimated to be worth $200,000, to his brother, James S. Armstrong, the whole to be used for philanthropic and charitable purposes within the limits of Rhinebeck.

A gift of $1500 from Mrs. Russell Sage to the people of Noyack, a farming settlement near Sag Harbor, N. Y., enables the building of a chapel for the benefit of the community. The donation was offered through Rev. W. T. Edds, pastor of the Sag Harbor Presbyterian Church.

The heirs of John Arbuckle of New York are to expend about $100,000 in the construction of an Arbuckle memorial building to be presented to the people of Brooklyn and Plymouth Church. The gift is in accordance with plans which the great coffee merchant had under consideration for some time before his death. Mr. Arbuckle's purpose was to have a fine social institute close to Plymouth Church for young men and women. Above the mantelpiece in the large building will be the following: "Presented to Plymouth Church and the people of Brooklyn in recognition of Henry Ward Beecher and what he did to save the Union."

James J. Farrell, an engineer, stuck to his post while several hundred volts of electricity passed through his body, and refused to release the hoisting lever of a big iron concrete bucket, which was being hoisted above six Italians at work in a concrete mould where the Long Island Railroad is building a viaduct across Main street, Flushing. The bucket struck a live wire, and the current shot through the iron crane and struck Farrell. To release his hold on the hoisting lever meant to let the bucket drop back into the mould pit and crush six Italian laborers. Farrell shouted to the laborers to get out of the way, and they scrambled out of the pit, then Farrell was overcome and the bucket dropped back into the mould. Farrell was revived and continued at his work after the dangerous wire had been removed.

The Country.

You may sing a song of the city,
 A song of its hustle and noise,
Of the rattle and clatter of traffic,
 And shrillings of gutter-bred boys;
Of the broad light-spangled highways
 Which glitter like gold in the rain,
But the song that rings in my ears
 tonight
 Is a song of a different strain.
It's the song of the wide-spreading country,
 A song of its fields and trees,
Of the creek that flows silently
 through it,
 Of the stir of the rare evening
 breeze.
There is nothing to fret or harass,
 With the whole wide world to roam—
You may sing a song of the city,
 But the country's the place for a home.

Operations Avoided

Thousands of surgical operations are performed every year in our great city hospitals upon women afflicted with serious female troubles. Sometimes the operations are successful and sometimes they are not; sometimes they are necessary, many times they are not.

It is safe to say that a very large percentage of surgical operations for female troubles may be wholly avoided. This statement is amply proven by hundreds of letters constantly being received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., of Lynn, Mass., and the following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock of Paw Paw, Mich., relates her sad experience, which is only one of thousands that are constantly occurring. Had she taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at first, as she finally did, her dreadful hospital experience would have been avoided.

Here is her own statement: Paw Paw, Mich.: "Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and finally sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks, and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and advise my friends who have any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. Orville Rock, Paw Paw, Mich.

If you are ill don't drag along until you are advised to have an operation, but remember that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills and has saved a vast army of women from surgical operations. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not at least give this famous medicine a trial.

A HANDSOME REWARD WILL BE GIVEN to any person who will prove that any of our testimonial letters constantly being published in the daily newspapers are not genuine and truthful, or that any of these women were paid in any way to give their testimonials or that the letters were published without their permission or that all the original letters did not come to us entirely unsolicited. THE LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., Lynn, Mass.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY SYDNEY FORD.

MEMBERS of the Ebell Club assembled in full force last week for the first fall meeting and the opening address of the president, Mrs. W. L. Jones, struck a high note in the way of advancement and effort along civic lines of this great body of progressive women which has the high honor of ranking first in point of numbers of any woman's club in this country—and that means the world.

Mrs. Thomas B. Stowell, as general curator, made a fine impression in her first address, outlining the courses of study to be pursued in the various sections, and both these leaders—the one of the public meetings of the club, and the other of the study sections—inspired genuine enthusiasm in the members.

During the summer vacation the clubhouse has been thoroughly renovated and I surely must mention that those classic pillars supporting the balcony of the assembly hall—you will remember that one—and I'm not sure but two—were cracked—have been replaced by slender columns of solid steel securely embedded in cement—so no nervous lady will have cause to shudder lest the gallery fall.

As a matter of fact, there was not the slightest danger of such a catastrophe, but—those cracks—you know how it is. Once let one get the idea that there's the least danger to safety and "all the king's horses and all the king's men" cannot eradicate that whim. On one occasion last year, when the clubroom was crowded to its utmost, a woman in the gallery fainted and in no time the whispered alarm passed from lip to lip—"The gallery is falling—those cracked posts," and a panic was narrowly averted. I expect that if all the rocks in the bed of the Los Angeles River had been piled into that gallery, it wouldn't have turned an eyelash or shivered a shake—but then—that cracked post created an awful impression. Anyway, it's gone, and solid steel reigns in its place.

Ebell has struck a new note in her year book. Hitherto these annual volumes have come forth clad in sober and sedate seal brown, the covers undecorated and unadorned, except by the club monogram, but these new 1913 books are as airy and ornamental as a Japanese garden in springtime. A spray of wisteria wanders artistically across the upper left-hand corner of the light tan-colored cover which is embellished with a charming study—done in pale green and white—of the clubhouse and grounds—the red-tiled roof being the only other touch of color. It is done in conventional style and altogether, is really stunning. I cannot refrain from printing in its entirety the quotation from Phillips Brooks which appears on one of the introductory pages and which outlines so clearly just what Ebell stands for in its united and concentrated effort. It says:

"As the course of life goes on, as its limit comes in sight and we see how short it is, the elective system must come in: Out of the mass of things which we have touched, we must choose those which are ours—the books, which we shall read, the men whom we shall know, the power that we shall wield, the pleasure which we shall enjoy, the special point where we shall drop our bit of usefulness into the world's life before we go."

In these strenuous days, when so many hands beckon and so many things entice us that we are in danger of growing bewildered with life's many-sided activities, it is good to be pointed a path by so sure a guide as Phillips Brooks.

Cosmos Club Opens.

The Cosmos Club delightfully opened its club year last Wednesday at the Ebell Clubhouse. This club now has 200 members and confidently expects to increase its numbers by at least another hundred before the year closes. A long list of names of applicants for membership were inscribed on the bulletin board and the secretary was kept busy making out membership cards.

Mrs. Frances Close Potts entertained the club in the most interesting fashion by her piano playing, winning encore after encore. Mrs. Potts, it will be remembered, accompanied Dr. J. Q. A. Henry and family when he made his memorable evangelistic tour of the Pacific, visiting the Far East, Australia and New Zealand. Mrs. Potts was accompanist for the chorus which was a feature of Dr. Henry's evangelistic work.

A feature of the programme was the report from the biennial Mrs. William F. Bryant, who is chairman of civics in the club, and Mrs. C. S. Delano, curator of the music department, each giving graphic accounts of their impressions of the great gathering of club women in San Francisco. Mrs. Bryant struck a new note when she observed at the close of her report:

"Ladies, as I watched those brilliant women in their modish gowns and smart hats, and thought of their hotel bills and their lavish tips extended on all sides, and all the attendant expenses, my mind went out toward the great American husband who was paying for all this," and she concluded her remarks by proposing a graceful and grateful toast to "Our Husbands," which brought out round after round of applause.

Mrs. Delano confined her report, for the most part, to the social functions and musical entertainments offered by the women of San Francisco, who simply covered themselves with glory by the lavish manner in which they entertained their guests, with automobile rides, excursions, picnics, al fresco luncheons and receptions, formal and informal. One function which particularly impressed the visitors was a picnic under the great oak trees in the Santa Clara Valley, when 900 women were served a luncheon which included delicious strawberries on the stem and other California delicacies, and this al fresco meal was served—listen—by men— and well served, too. Fancy catering to 900 pampered and petted club women hailing from all over the United States and not making a break—mere men, too.

The Cosmos Club, by unanimous vote made the following women honorary life members of the organization: Mrs. Anna S. Averill, Mme. Caroline M. Severance, Mrs. J. A. Osgood, Mrs. Greenleaf and Mrs. Guiberson.

Ebell Drama Section.

The Ebell drama department started off with great enthusiasm last Thursday morning when a large number of the club members indicated their intention to unite with this section for the serious study of the drama under the capable leadership of Mrs. Mila Tupper Maynard. Mrs. Ada Henry Van Pelt is again curator, to the intense satisfaction of members, and so large is the section that Miss Augusta Lamb, the secretary, will have an assistant in the person of Miss Juanita Brown. While the main study of the section will be directed toward Maeterlinck's plays, attention will also be given to the current French drama and to the British stage, Zangwill's plays, "The War God," and "The Next Religion," among others. Anything pre-eminent in other dramatic lines will also come under consideration, and a committee was appointed—Miss Marion W. Franklin and Mrs. Hubert L. Miller—to bring notes from the local theaters, while Mmes. James S. Montague, Ilot Johnson, Viola F Lowry and Miss Emily L. Wilde will contribute comments from the field in other quarters.

So, altogether you see, pretty close tab will be kept on things dramatic by this coterie of clever women who are interested in stage happenings, but, as Mrs. Maynard explained in an introductory address, the chief thing will be a thorough consideration of Maeterlinck, who stands as a world figure in literature, having passed the national boundary lines to an international height. Indeed, Dr. Richard Burton, who gave a course of lectures on the drama here last summer, and who is considered an authority in that field, went so far as to declare that Maeterlinck is the only one in the world of dramatic writers of today who will be a great figure 200 years hence.

Mrs. Frances Close Potts,

Whose artistic piano playing delighted Cosmos Club members at their opening fall session.

The particular Maeterlinck play under consideration for the morning was one of his earliest productions, written when he was but 23 years old, "The Princess Maleine," which was ably discussed by Mrs. J. S. Montague—a play full of horrors—a sort of undigested Shakespearean melancholy with th emurder of Hamlet and Macbeth and the melancholia of Ophelia, the dismal chant of nuns, the sights and shivering shudders of blood-and-thunder tragedy running all through it. A play absolutely hostile to every smile and with fear as its single sentiment, every scene emotional, every action extravagant. Indeed, the critics called the youthful author a mental cripple after this play was written. A dozen years later, however, his genius took a directly opposite turn, and he was writing optimistic plays as full of sunshine as his first was of shadow, and he was a real maker of drama—and yet young enough to have his future before him.

Mrs. L. A. Garretson read with great dramatic fervor parts from "The Princess Maleine," which fully depicted the high tragedy of the death and murder scenes.

At the next meeting of the section, which will occur on October 24, Zangwill's "The Next Religion" will be considered by Mrs. Charles Hall, and Maeterlinck's "The Intruder" by Miss Maud Maynard, with after-discussion by the members. This section meets but twice a month—the second and fourth Thursdays, at 10 o'clock in the morning, and promises to be one of the most popular departments in the club.

Sunshine Society at Clubhouse.

Through the kindness of the Friday Morning Club the Westlake branch of the International Sunshine Society will hold its monthly meetings this year at the clubhouse, No. 940 Figueroa street, on the first Tuesday afternoon of each month. An evening entertainment will also be a feature of these sunshiners every month during the fall and winter, the first of these to occur on Friday evening, October 25, when there will be cards and dancing and the funds so raised will be applied to the philanthropic and charitable work for which the Sunshiners are famous. The three branches of the society in Los Angeles number several hundred members.

She Hoarded Her Vouchers.

There is a woman in Washington who goes the stocking method of hoarding coin one better. For thirty years she has been employed by the government to care for machine covers in the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, for which she received a monthly compensation of $10. Instead of cashing her vouchers, she hoarded them carefully and now has a trunk filled with 360 of these warrants, calling for $3600 from the treasury. By this method of misering, the woman, Mrs. Kate Coombs, it seems, has run amuck of a certain treasury law which provides that such vouchers must be cashed within two years of the date of issue. An investigation is to be made and it is possible the vouchers may be paid out of the "outstanding liabilities fund." Otherwise, the bulk of the savings of this woman, who is now eighty years old, will be worthless.

Fortune for Catholic Charity.

It is reported that Miss Katherine Drexel will superintend the opening of the first of a chain of Catholic schools for negro children, to be established throughout the country under the auspices of the Sisterhood of the Blessed Sacrament, which she founded and is mother superior of. The necessary funds for the schools will be derived from the income of Miss Drexel's private fortune, estimated at $15,000,000, all of which, it is said, she intends to devote to the benefactions.

Friday Morning Club.

A pretty woman with a crown of snow-white hair, which framed a face with lines so youthful as to challenge this premature mark of time, stood before the Friday Morning Club last Friday—Mrs. Charlotte Reeve Conover of Ohio, who has been on the lecture platform for years. In fact, she has literally "lectured" her two daughters through Wellesley College, for she told me so. One of them has graduated and is happily married and settled in life, and the other is still a student there. The gentle mother has provided the means for the education of her two daughters through her public lectures. Her topic Friday was "Moliere and the Pedant" and she discussed his satires, "Les Femmes Savantes" and "Precieuses Ridicules" the first of which takes up a phase of life which corresponds to the club movement among women of the present day. That was away back in the seventeenth century, when there was a revolt among the dames of those days against fashionable life, and a current of sentiment set in toward learning and higher culture.

On Monday Mrs. Conover will address the Ebell Club—also on Moliere and these same intellectual women of the seventeenth century.

Court Singer at Ebell.

The delightful musical programme rendered by Mme. Esther Palliser was a feature of the opening Ebell programme last week. Mme. Palliser has been decorated by the late Queen Victoria and has had the distinguished honor of being a court singer in England. Her opening number was the folk song by the distinguished Russian composer, Tschaikowsky. She was accompanied by Mrs. Gertrude Ross, whose new song, "Dawn in the Desert," met with such approval that Mme. Palliser had to repeat it.

Caledonia Club.

The Women's Auxiliary was entertained at afternoon tea on Friday by Mesdames Mallory, Fischer and McCubbin. Mrs. Richmond of San Diego was introduced by Mrs. Teed, and gave a talk on "The American Women's Republic." The club has planned a Halloween party for October 25, at Burbank Hall.

Climate Captivates Her.

Miss Mary McClelland of Des Moines, Iowa, was a guest of the Friday Morning Club last Friday. Miss McClelland is president of the Iowa Press and Authors' Club and a woman of marked literary ability. She has lived much abroad, but during the month that she has been in Los Angeles has become so infatuated with Southern California that she contemplates coming here to reside permanently. She is a guest of Mrs. Ella Hamilton Durley, author of "My Soldier Lady," who until inoculated with Los Angeles climate and charms was also a resident of Des Moines, but is now a member of the ever increasing colony of Iowans here.

Entertains Book Committee.

Mrs. Margaret Frick, chairman of the Book Committee of the Friday Morning Club, entertained the members of that committee at luncheon last Wednesday at Redondo where she is temporarily residing with her son. More than forty members of the committee enjoyed the day and discussed plans for work during the year.

Gift to Averill Club.

The Averill Study Club was agreeably surprised last Tuesday when Mrs. F. K. Adams of No. 2024 La Salle avenue presented a fine, large engraving of the landing of Columbus when he first set foot on the soil of the new world he had discovered. The picture is beautifully framed and has been hung on the walls of the clubroom. A neat year book has just been issued containing an outline of the study to be pursued which deals with South America, that interesting continent to the south of us which the opening of the Panama Canal will bring into closer relations of neighborliness. The Averill Club enters on the new year in a flourishing condition with many new members enrolled.

Hollywood Woman's Club.

Mrs. Dorothy Clement Chevrier, contralto, assisted by Miss Hazel Fay, pianist, gave instruction and pleasure to the Woman's Club of Hollywood Wednesday afternoon, presenting groups of German, French and Indian songs.

For next Wednesday is scheduled the first 1 o'clock cafeteria luncheon of the year, followed by a programme which is anticipated with much interest. Current events will be presented by Rev. Henry K. Booth, assisted by Miss Gertrude Willey, whistler, and Miss Alice Brown, pianist. The hostesses for the afternoon are Mmes. E. L. Baker, W. H. Code, C. F. Curtis, F. L. Hemming and G. G. Greenwood.

Beaumont Women's Club.

The San Gorgonio Club of Beaumont will open its year's work next Tuesday with a luncheon to be served at 1 o'clock in I.O.O.F. Hall. This club numbers some sixty members and this opening function is limited to members only, the executive board to act as hostesses. Instead of drawing from the treasury to meet the expenses of the luncheon, the club has decided to charge half a dollar a plate. The attractive new year books, done in artistic shades of tan, have just been issued and the programmes as outlined indicate a busy and entertaining year's work.

Tea from Ceylon.

Mrs. J. F. Mullin, who has just returned from a trip around the world offered her sisters in the Cosmos Club a genuine treat at the social hour which followed the regular club session last Wednesday when tea from Ceylon, grown 6000 feet above the sea, and brought by her from the fascinating little island south of India, was served. Mrs. Mullin has twice circled the globe and only returned from her second tour about a month ago.

Girls Will Usher.

A quintette of pretty young girls—daughters of Badger Club members—Misses Margaret Gould, Margaret and Dorothy Brickles, Florence Bohan and Lucille La Brie, will act as ushers at the benefit performance of "Petticoat Patriotism" to be given at the Gamut Club auditorium on the evening of October 18. The funds derived are to be used for the Badger Club philanthropy and the play has been written by one of their number, Mrs. Elizabeth Baker Bohan.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

The Schools of the Future.

The great school of the future, writes Thomas Stockham Baker, director of the Tome School for Boys, in the New York Times, will lay greater stress on intellectual results; it will allow larger freedom to the individuality of boys; it will have fewer holdings; it will have greater regard for the personality of teachers. The most glaring defect in the schools of today, he says, lies in their low intellectual standards. The graduates of the high schools, indeed, even the graduates of the colleges, have few aspirations, and few intellectual interests. The work that is now done seems to be cut and dried, and possesses little vitality. The schools are themselves partly to blame for this as they have allowed the public to crowd upon them too many obligations. The first object of the school should be the mental development of its pupils.

Every thoughtful headmaster would like to promote in his school a better intellectual tone. He would like to lay the basis of a type of scholarship that would later produce real scientific achievement; he would like to give to his pupils some genuine literary interests; he would like to crowd the life of his boys with things which are permanently worth while; he would like to divorce his school from the mere mechanics of college preparation and make scholars of his boys.

An artist cannot be really great, no matter how genuine his inspiration, unless he has a well-developed technique. A scientist cannot do original work, no matter how painstaking and thorough and exhaustive his studies may be, unless he possesses imagination and inspiration. So with the school. It is not sufficient to make good workmen of its boys. It should not send them away until it had inspired them with an interest in some form of intellectual life. The school of the future, then, will not only give to its pupils a thorough and accurate method of work which should fit them to have at least an appreciation of sound scholarship, but it should furnish them with a stock of enthusiasm and inspiration which will direct their later studies. This individual interest should be carefully studied and the schools organized in such a way that boys may be directed intelligently in accordance with their individual abilities.

The school of the future will then have as its first object the development of high standards of thinking, and in reaching this ideal it will consider the possibilities and capabilities of its pupils individually, and it will strive to economize time by reducing the number of distractions to which its boys are exposed and by introducing a more national plan of holidays than exists at present. Finally, it will recognize that important and permanent results from school work can only be accomplished by teachers who are good scholars and good men.

Teaching How to Study.

The tutoring schools have become more or less of a necessity in the scholastic world. They are needed for boys who are naturally a little slow in their studies or who wish to do double work in order to go to college sooner. The Blake Country School of Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson is an example of the tutoring school. This institution, besides a winter session and a town school in New York City, has a summer school. It is claimed for the Blake Summer School that its students have passed college examinations with an average in all subjects of 95 per cent.

A successful tutoring school needs qualified teaching experts in every department. These high-grade instructors economize a pupil's time by teaching him how to study. The boys usually live in the same building with the headmaster and his family and the other masters. While opportunities are given for the boys to take part in most sports in which youngsters are interested a tutoring school does not make a specialty of athletics. It makes its claim for patronage chiefly upon its remarkably good record in college preparatory work.

Australia's School System.

[Christian Science Monitor:] The public school education system of South Australia is admittedly one of the most liberal in the world. Under its provisions a child can pass from the primary to the high or secondary schools, and by means of scholarships through the university practically without cost to his parents. Some interesting figures relative to the operations of the education department have recently been published.

The number of individual pupils in attendance at the schools under the department last year totaled 53,494, and the daily average attendance for the year in all schools was 37,427; the children attending the secondary schools in December, last, numbered 2168. The total number of teachers employed was 1325. During the year 690 schools were fully examined in detail by the inspectors.

The total number of children presented was 38,114. Out of 5009 examined in the fourth class, 2133 succeeded in passing the standard fixed by the education act for exemption from further attendance at school, and out of 3394 children examined in the fifth class 1924 obtained certificates. As regards the government schools, little difficulty was experienced in operating the compulsory attendance clauses of the act. For the whole year there were only forty prosecutions for breaches of the law.

An American Rhodes Plan.

[New York World:] With the aid of wealthy Americans, Dr. Parkin, organizing representative of the Rhodes scholarship trust, hopes to duplicate on this side of the Atlantic the scheme of the South African millionaire, so that English students may be sent to American universities. As matters stand, European students are infrequently found at the universities of this country, while long before Cecil Rhodes founded his Oxford system many Americans had regularly gone abroad to complete their studies at the universities of France, Germany and England.

Back of Dr. Parkin's suggestion that English students be sent to this country is the obvious hope that through them England may be helped to acquire a better understanding of American life, American institutions and American modes of thought and work. To the average American who travels abroad the ignorance and misconception of the educated Englishman, Frenchman or German about things American are likely to be appalling. In spite of the numbers of their countrymen that have settled in this country, they seem to regard it as a land that by nature is somehow queer, monstrous or abnormal.

A few score of young Englishmen residing year after year in American colleges might serve as useful missionaries after they returned home and strengthen the bond of sympathy between the two countries as only intimate acquaintance and close fellowship can.

The Use of Slang.

[Chicago Inter-Ocean:] Simple and everyday slang as an aid to modern education was warmly approved by Prof. J. C. Stone of Montclair, N. J., in an address at the annual Institute of Scranton Public School Teachers.

"The teacher's first aim should be to hold the interest of a child," he said. "And the use of so-called highbrow English is often out of place in the schoolroom.

"Use slang—it touches the spot and arouses the child-spirit in your pupil. I wouldn't give 2 cents for a teacher who does not use slang—that is, children's slang—to her class. I always did when I had charge of classrooms."

Prof. Stone is a writer on educational subjects and principal of the Montclair Normal School.

Ammi Judkins of Old Town, Me., says he hopes to vote for two more Presidents before he dies. He is 94 now, is a good Republican, was out parading (in an automobile) on election eve this year and smokes Pittsburgh stogies.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY SYDNEY FORD.

MEMBERS of the Ebell Club assembled in full force last week for the first fall meeting and the opening address of the president, Mrs. W. L. Jones, struck a high note in the way of advancement and effort along civic lines of this great body of progressive women which has the high honor of ranking first in point of numbers of any woman's club in this country—and that means the world.

Mrs. Thomas B. Stowell, as general curator, made a fine impression in her first address, outlining the courses of study to be pursued in the various sections, and both these leaders—the one of the public meetings of the club, and the other of the study sections—inspired genuine enthusiasm in the members.

During the summer vacation the clubhouse has been thoroughly renovated and I surely must mention that those classic pillars supporting the balcony of the assembly hall—you will remember that one—and I'm not sure but two—were cracked—have been replaced by slender columns of solid steel securely embedded in cement—so no nervous lady will have cause to shudder lest the gallery fall.

As a matter of fact, there was not the slightest danger of such a catastrophe, but—those cracks—you know how it is. Once let one get the idea that there's the least danger to safety and "all the king's horses and all the king's men" cannot eradicate that whim. On one occasion last year, when the clubroom was crowded to its utmost, a woman in the gallery fainted and in no time the whispered alarm passed from lip to lip—"The gallery is falling—those cracked posts," and a panic was narrowly averted. I expect that if all the rocks in the bed of the Los Angeles River had been piled into that gallery, it wouldn't have turned an eyelash or shivered a shake—but then—that cracked post created an awful impression. Anyway, it's gone, and solid steel reigns in its place.

Ebell has struck a new note in her year book. Hitherto these annual volumes have come forth clad in sober and sedate seal brown, the covers undecorated and unadorned, except by the club monogram, but these new 1913 books are as airy and ornamental as a Japanese garden in springtime. A spray of wisteria wanders artistically across the upper left-hand corner of the light tan-colored cover which is embellished with a charming study—done in pale green and white—of the clubhouse and grounds—the red-tiled roof being the only other touch of color. It is done in conventional style and altogether, is really stunning. I cannot refrain from printing in its entirety the quotation from Phillips Brooks which appears on one of the introductory pages and which outlines so clearly just what Ebell stands for in its united and concentrated effort. It says:

"As the course of life goes on, as its limit comes in sight and we see how short it is, the elective system must come in: Out of the mass of things which we have touched, we must choose those which are ours—the books, which we shall read, the men whom we shall know, the power that we shall wield, the pleasure which we shall enjoy, the special point where we shall drop our bit of usefulness into the world's life before we go."

In these strenuous days, when so many hands beckon and so many things entice us that we are in danger of growing bewildered with life's many-sided activities, it is good to be pointed a path by so sure a guide as Phillips Brooks.

Cosmos Club Opens.

The Cosmos Club delightfully opened its club year last Wednesday at the Ebell Clubhouse. This club now has 200 members and confidently expects to increase its numbers by at least another hundred before the year closes. A long list of names of applicants for membership were inscribed on the bulletin board and the secretary was kept busy making out membership cards.

Mrs. Frances Close Potts entertained the club in the most interesting fashion by her piano playing, winning encore after encore. Mrs. Potts, it will be remembered, accompanied Dr. J. Q. A. Henry and family when he made his memorable evangelistic tour of the Pacific, visiting the Far East, Australia and New Zealand. Mrs. Potts was accompanist for the chorus which was a feature of Dr. Henry's evangelistic work.

A feature of the programme was the report from the biennial Mrs. William F. Bryant, who is chairman of civics in the club, and Mrs. C. S. Delano, curator of the music department, each giving graphic accounts of their impressions of the great gathering of club women in San Francisco. Mrs. Bryant struck a new note when she observed at the close of her report:

"Ladies, as I watched those brilliant women in their modish gowns and smart hats, and thought of their hotel bills and their lavish tips extended on all sides, and all the attendant expenses, my mind went out toward the great American husband who was paying for all this," and she concluded her remarks by proposing a graceful and grateful toast to "Our Husbands," which brought out round after round of applause.

Mrs. Delano confined her report, for the most part, to the social functions and musical entertainments offered by the women of San Francisco, who simply covered themselves with glory by the lavish manner in which they entertained their guests, with automobile rides, excursions, picnics, al fresco luncheons and receptions, formal and informal. One function which particularly impressed the visitors was a picnic under the great oak trees in the Santa Clara Valley, when 900 women were served a luncheon which included delicious strawberries on the stem and other California delicacies, and this al fresco meal was served—listen—by men— and well served, too. Fancy catering to 900 pampered and petted club women hailing from all over the United States and not making a break—mere men, too.

The Cosmos Club, by unanimous vote made the following women honorary life members of the organization: Mrs. Anna S. Averill, Mme. Caroline M. Severance, Mrs. J. A. Osgood, Mrs. Greenleaf and Mrs. Guiberson.

Ebell Drama Section.

The Ebell drama department started off with great enthusiasm last Thursday morning when a large number of the club members indicated their intention to unite with this section for the serious study of the drama under the capable leadership of Mrs. Mila Tupper Maynard. Mrs. Ada Henry Van Pelt is again curator, to the intense satisfaction of members, and so large is the section that Miss Augusta Lamb, the secretary, will have an assistant in the person of Miss Juanita Brown. While the main study of the section will be directed toward Masterlinck's plays, attention will also be given to the current French drama and to the British stage. Zangwill's plays, "The War God," and "The Next Religion," among others. Anything pre-eminent in other dramatic lines will also come under consideration, and a committee was appointed—Miss Marion W. Franklin and Mrs. Hubert L. Miller—to bring notes from the local theaters, while Mmes. James S. Montague, Ilot Johnson, Viola F Lowry and Miss Emily L. Wilde will contribute comments from the field in other quarters.

So, altogether you see, pretty close tab will be kept on things dramatic by this coterie of clever women who are interested in stage happenings, but, as Mrs. Maynard explained in an introductory address, the chief thing will be a thorough consideration of Maeterlinck, who stands as a world figure in literature, having passed the national boundary lines to an international height. Indeed, Dr. Richard Burton, who gave a course of lectures on the drama here last summer, and who is considered an authority in that field, went so far as to declare that Maeterlinck is the only one in the world of dramatic writers of today who will be a great figure 200 years hence.

Mrs. Frances Close Potts,

Whose artistic piano playing delighted Cosmos Club members at their opening fall session.

The particular Maeterlinck play under consideration for the morning was one of his earliest productions, written when he was but 28 years old, "The Princess Maleine," which was ably discussed by Mrs. J. S. Montague—a play full of horrors—a sort of undigested Shakespearean melancholy with the murder of Hamlet and Macbeth and the melancholia of Ophelia, the dismal chant of nuns, the sights and shivering shudders of blood-and-thunder tragedy running all through it. A play absolutely hostile to every smile and with fear as its single sentiment, every scene emotional, every action extravagant. Indeed, the critics called the youthful author a mental cripple after this play was written. A dozen years later, however, his genius took a directly opposite turn, and he was writing optimistic plays as full of sunshine as his first was of shadow, and he was a real maker of drama—and yet young enough to have his future before him.

Mrs. L. A. Garretson read with great dramatic fervor parts from "The Princess Maleine," which fully depicted the high tragedy of the death and murder scenes.

At the next meeting of the section, which will occur on October 24, Zangwill's "The Next Religion" will be considered by Mrs. Charles Hall, and Maeterlinck's "The Intruder" by Miss Maud Maynard, with after-discussion by the members. This section meets but twice a month—the second and fourth Thursdays, at 10 o'clock in the morning, and promises to be one of the most popular departments in the club.

Sunshine Society at Clubhouse.

Through the kindness of the Friday Morning Club the Westlake branch of the International Sunshine Society will hold its monthly meetings this year at the clubhouse, No. 940 Figueroa street, on the first Tuesday afternoon of each month. An evening entertainment will also be a feature of these sunshiners every month during the fall and winter, the first of these to occur on Friday evening, October 25, when there will be cards and dancing and the funds so raised will be applied to the philanthropic and charitable work for which the Sunshiners are famous. The three branches of the society in Los Angeles number several hundred members.

She Hoarded Her Vouchers.

There is a woman in Washington who goes the stocking method of hoarding coin one better. For thirty years she has been employed by the government to care for machine covers in the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, for which she received a monthly compensation of $10. Instead of cashing her vouchers, she hoarded them carefully and now has a trunk filled with 360 of these warrants, calling for $3600 from the treasury. By this method of misering, the woman, Mrs. Kate Coombs, it seems, has run amuck of a certain treasury law which provides that such vouchers must be cashed within two years of the date of issue. An investigation is to be made and it is possible the vouchers may be paid out of the "outstanding liabilities fund." Otherwise, the bulk of the savings of this woman, who is now eighty years old, will be worthless.

Fortune for Catholic Charity.

It is reported that Miss Katherine Drexel will superintend the opening of the first of a chain of Catholic schools for negro children, to be established throughout the country under the auspices of the Sisterhood of the Blessed Sacrament, which she founded and is mother superior of. The necessary funds for the schools will be derived from the income of Miss Drexel's private fortune, estimated at $15,000,000, all of which, it is said, she intends to devote to the benefactions.

Friday Morning Club.

A pretty woman with a crown of snow-white hair, which framed a face with lines so youthful as to challenge this premature mark of time, stood before the Friday Morning Club last Friday—Mrs. Charlotte Reeve Conover of Ohio, who has been on the lecture platform for years. In fact, she has literally "lectured" her two daughters through Wellesley College, for she told me so. One of them has graduated and is happily married and settled in life, and the other is still a student there. The gentle mother has provided the means for the education of her two daughters through her public lectures. Her topic Friday was "Moliere and the Pedant" and she discussed his satires, "Les Femmes Savantes" and "Precieuses Ridicules" the first of which takes up a phase of life which corresponds to the club movement among women of the present day. That was away back in the seventeenth century, when there was a revolt among the dames of those days against fashionable life, and a current of sentiment set in toward learning and higher culture.

On Monday Mrs. Conover will address the Ebell Club—also on Moliere and these same intellectual women of the seventeenth century.

Court Singer at Ebell.

The delightful musical programme rendered by Mme. Esther Palliser was a feature of the opening Ebell programme last week. Mme. Palliser has been decorated by the late Queen Victoria and has had the distinguished honor of being a court singer in England. Her opening number was the folk song by the distinguished Russian composer, Tschaikowsky. She was accompanied by Mrs. Gertrude Ross, whose new song, "Dawn in the Desert," met with such approval that Mme. Palliser had to repeat it.

Caledonia Club.

The Women's Auxiliary was entertained at afternoon tea on Friday by Mesdames Mallory, Fischer and McCubbin. Mrs. Richmond of San Diego was introduced by Mrs. Teed, and gave a talk on "The American Women's Republic." The club has planned a Halloween party for October 25, at Burbank Hall.

Climate Captivates Her.

Miss Mary McClelland of Des Moines, Iowa, was a guest of the Friday Morning Club last Friday. Miss McClelland is president of the Iowa Press and Authors' Club and a woman of marked literary ability. She has lived much abroad, but during the month that she has been in Los Angeles has become so infatuated with Southern California that she contemplates coming here to reside permanently. She is a guest of Mrs. Ella Hamilton Durley, author of "My Soldier Lady," who until inoculated with Los Angeles climate and charms was also a resident of Des Moines, but is now a member of the ever increasing colony of Iowans here.

Entertains Book Committee.

Mrs. Margaret Frick, chairman of the Book Committee of the Friday Morning Club, entertained the members of that committee at luncheon last Wednesday at Redondo where she is temporarily residing with her son. More than forty members of the committee enjoyed the day and discussed plans for work during the year.

Gift to Averill Club.

The Averill Study Club was agreeably surprised last Tuesday when Mrs. F. K. Adams of No. 2024 La Salle avenue presented a fine, large engraving of the landing of Columbus when he first set foot on the soil of the new world he had discovered. The picture is beautifully framed and has been hung on the walls of the clubroom. A neat year book has just been issued containing an outline of the study to be pursued which deals with South America, that interesting continent to the south of us which the opening of the Panama Canal will bring into closer relations of neighborliness. The Averill Club enters on the new year in a flourishing condition with many new members enrolled.

Hollywood Woman's Club.

Mrs. Dorothy Clement Chevrier, contralto, assisted by Miss Hazel Fay, pianist, gave instruction and pleasure to the Woman's Club of Hollywood Wednesday afternoon, presenting groups of German, French and Indian songs.

For next Wednesday is scheduled the first 1 o'clock cafeteria luncheon of the year, followed by a programme which is anticipated with much interest. Current events will be presented by Rev. Henry K. Booth, assisted by Miss Gertrude Willey, whistler, and Miss Alice Brown, pianist. The hostesses for the afternoon are Mmes. E. L. Baker, W. H. Code, C. F. Curtis, F. L. Hemming and G. G. Greenwood.

Beaumont Women's Club.

The San Gorgonio Club of Beaumont will open its year's work next Tuesday with a luncheon to be served at 1 o'clock in I.O.O.F. Hall. This club numbers some sixty members and this opening function is limited to members only, the executive board to act as hostesses. Instead of drawing from the treasury to meet the expenses of the luncheon, the club has decided to charge half a dollar a plate. The attractive new year books, done in artistic shades of tan, have just been issued and the programmes as outlined indicate a busy and entertaining year's work.

Tea from Ceylon.

Mrs. J. F. Mullin, who has just returned from a trip around the world offered her sisters in the Cosmos Club a genuine treat at the social hour which followed the regular club session last Wednesday when tea from Ceylon, grown 6000 feet above the sea, and brought by her from the fascinating little island south of India, was served. Mrs. Mullin has twice circled the globe and only returned from her second tour about a month ago.

Girls Will Usher.

A quintette of pretty young girls—daughters of Badger Club members—Misses Margaret Gould, Margaret and Dorothy Brickles, Florence Bohan and Lucille La Brie, will act as ushers at the benefit performance of "Petticoat Patriotism" to be given at the Gamut Club auditorium on the evening of October 18. The funds derived are to be used for the Badger Club philanthropy and the play has been written by one of their number, Mrs. Elizabeth Baker Bohan.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

The Schools of the Future.

The great school of the future, writes Thomas Stockham Baker, director of the Tome School for Boys, in the New York Times, will lay greater stress on intellectual results; it will allow larger freedom to the individuality of boys: it will have fewer holdings; it will have greater regard for the personality of teachers. The most glaring defect in the schools of today, he says, lies in their low intellectual standards. The graduates of the high schools, indeed, even the graduates of the colleges, have few aspirations, and few intellectual interests. The work that is now done seems to be cut and dried, and possesses little vitality. The schools are themselves partly to blame for this as they have allowed the public to crowd upon them too many obligations. The first object of the school should be the mental development of its pupils.

Every thoughtful headmaster would like to promote in his school a better intellectual tone. He would like to lay the basis of a type of scholarship that would later produce real scientific achievement; he would like to give to his pupils some genuine literary interests; he would like to crowd the life of his boys with things which are permanently worth while; he would like to divorce his school from the mere mechanics of college preparation and make scholars of his boys.

An artist cannot be really great, no matter how genuine his inspiration, unless he has a well-developed technique. A scientist cannot do original work, no matter how painstaking and thorough and exhaustive his studies may be, unless he possesses imagination and inspiration. So with the school. It is not sufficient to make good workmen of its boys. It should not send them away until it had inspired them with an interest in some form of intellectual life. The school of the future, then, will not only give to its pupils a thorough and accurate method of work which should fit them to have at least an appreciation of sound scholarship, but it should furnish them with a stock of enthusiasm and inspiration which will direct their later studies. This individual interest should be carefully studied and the schools organized in such a way that boys may be directed intelligently in accordance with their individual abilities.

The school of the future will then have as its first object the development of high standards of thinking, and in reaching this ideal it will consider the possibilities and capabilities of its pupils individually, and it will strive to economize time by reducing the number of distractions to which its boys are exposed and by introducing a more national plan of holidays than exists at present. Finally, it will recognize that important and permanent results from school work can only be accomplished by teachers who are good scholars and good men.

Teaching How to Study.

The tutoring schools have become more or less of a necessity in the scholastic world. They are needed for boys who are naturally a little slow in their studies or who wish to do double work in order to go to college sooner. The Blake Country School of Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson is an example of the tutoring school. This institution, besides a winter session and a town school in New York City, has a summer school. It is claimed for the Blake Summer School that its students have passed college examinations with an average in all subjects of 95 per cent.

A successful tutoring school needs qualified teaching experts in every department. These high-grade instructors economize a pupil's time by teaching him how to study. The boys usually live in the same building with the headmaster and his family and the other masters. While opportunities are given for the boys to take part in most sports in which youngsters are interested a tutoring school does not make a specialty of athletics. It makes its claim for patronage chiefly upon its remarkably good record in college preparatory work.

Australia's School System.

[Christian Science Monitor:] The public school education system of South Australia is admittedly one of the most liberal in the world. Under its provisions a child can pass from the primary to the high or secondary schools, and by means of scholarships through the university practically without cost to his parents. Some interesting figures relative to the operations of the education department have recently been published.

The number of individual pupils in attendance at the schools under the department last year totaled 53,494, and the daily average attendance for the year in all schools was 37,427; the children attending the secondary schools in December, last, numbered 2168. The total number of teachers employed was 1325. During the year 690 schools were fully examined in detail by the inspectors.

The total number of children presented was 38,114. Out of 6009 examined in the fourth class, 2123 succeeded in passing the standard fixed by the education act for exemption from further attendance at school, and out of 3394 children examined in the fifth class 1924 obtained certificates. As regards the government schools, little difficulty was experienced in operating the compulsory attendance clauses of the act. For the whole year there were only forty prosecutions for breaches of the law.

An American Rhodes Plan.

[New York World:] With the aid of wealthy Americans, Dr. Parkin, organizing representative of the Rhodes scholarship trust, hopes to duplicate on this side of the Atlantic the scheme of the South African millionaire, so that English students may be sent to American universities. As matters stand, European students are infrequently found at the universities of this country, while long before Cecil Rhodes founded his Oxford system many Americans had regularly gone abroad to complete their studies at the universities of France, Germany and England.

Back of Dr. Parkin's suggestion that English students be sent to this country is the obvious hope that through them England may be helped to acquire a better understanding of American life, American institutions and American modes of thought and work. To the average American who travels abroad the ignorance and misconception of the educated Englishman, Frenchman or German about things American are likely to be appalling. In spite of the numbers of their countrymen that have settled in this country, they seem to regard it as a land that by nature is somehow queer, monstrous or abnormal.

A few score of young Englishmen residing year after year in American colleges might serve as useful missionaries after they returned home and strengthen the bond of sympathy between the two countries as only intimate acquaintance and close fellowship can.

The Use of Slang.

[Chicago Inter-Ocean:] Simple and everyday slang as an aid to modern education was warmly approved by Prof. J. C. Stone of Montclair, N. J., in an address at the annual Institute of Scranton Public School Teachers.

"The teacher's first aim should be to hold the interest of a child," he said. "And the use of so-called high-brow English is often out of place in the schoolroom.

"Use slang—it touches the spot and arouses the child spirit in your pupil. I wouldn't give 2 cents for a teacher who does not use slang—that is, children's slang—to her class. I always did when I had charge of classrooms."

Prof. Stone is a writer on educational subjects and principal of the Montclair Normal School.

Ammi Judkins of Old Town, Me., says he hopes to vote for two more Presidents before he dies. He is 94 now, is a good Republican, was out parading (in an automobile) on election eve this year and smokes Pittsburgh stogies.

London.

SAYS BRITISH WARSHIPS IGNORED SINKING VESSEL.

Testimony of Survivor Before Board of Trade Arouses the Admiralty—London Has Exhibit Showing Industries of the Empire—Old Time Convicts Are Finding Prison Life Attractive.

BY PAUL LAMBETH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Grave allegations of three British battleships ignoring the distress signals fired by a sinking steamer and leaving the crew to perish were made at a Board of Trade inquiry at Cardiff into the loss of the North Briton.

The sole survivor of the wreck, Oscar Jensen, said the North Briton left Sunderland with a cargo of 2660 tons of gas coal. Everything went well until the wind increased to a strong southeasterly gale, with a heavy sea breaking over the vessel. At 8 p.m., he went off watch, and at 11:15, all were called on deck. The steamer began to fill with water, and had a list of six degrees. The order was given to launch the boats, but the vessel lurched so much and the boats rocked so greatly that the guide rope broke.

As the ship was diving into the water rockets were fired. There was no panic and the engineers and firemen continued to work until ten minutes before the foundering of the vessel. As the ship sank a great many of the crew jumped into a small boat, which was swamped, and all the hands thrown into the water. Jensen then lost consciousness, and the first thing he remembered after that was that he found himself close to the ship's funnel, which was a little above water. He clung to a plank until 9 o'clock in the morning, when he saw a small boat, and into this he managed to get, when he again lost consciousness, and was picked up by a Swedish vessel, the Canadian.

Mr. Vachell (for the Board of Trade) asked Jensen: "Did you send up any rockets at all?"

"Yes, about five or six rockets, and at that time there were three battleships passing."

"How far off were they?"

"About four or five ships' lengths. We could see everything on board, including their big guns."

"And you were sending up rockets at the time?"

"Yes, and burning blue flares."

"And they actually passed you?"

"Yes. They did not take any heed of us at all."

The witness's evidence has created a profound and unpleasant sensation.

INSTITUTE GALLERIES.

The reproach which has been made so often that London possesses no museum illustrating the commercial products of the empire, is being, to a great extent, removed by the Imperial Institute, so far as inter-imperial trade is concerned. The public exhibition galleries of the institute, which are an important adjunct of its work, illustrate the commercial and industrial resources of the component parts of the British empire and provide an object lesson of their economic position.

The courts—in particular those of Canada and Iidia—depict the commercial and industrial resources of the self-governing dominions, of the crown colonies, and protectorates and of India. Each court, complete in itself, is illustrated by maps, pictures and photographs, and tells its own story by exhibits, to which special labels are attached. Of special interest are the royal presents, lent by the King, which are shown in each of the galleries.

Papua (British New Guinea) is now represented in a new court, in which the growing induestry in pearl shells is shown by specimens of gold-lipped and Lapi (showing pearls in situ.) Other new exhibits include indigenous vine and tree rubbers, copper ores, and Sisal hemp fibres. Specimens of phosphate of calcium, deposits from Benaba or Ocean Island, lying under the Equator, are exhibited in the Western Pacific Court. To the New Zealand Court has been added a working model, demonstrating the cold-storage system on board ship for the transport of frozen mutton.

PRISON BRIGADE.

The chaplain at Parkhurst prison says that the new system of dealing with aged convicts is filling that prison with old-timers who simply cannot resist the attractions offered the sinner against society.

He says: "There is no doubt that the condition of those worn-out veterans of crime (in prison slang they are called "the old brigade") has been considerably ameliorated, and the vast majority of them are keenly alive to the fact. There are grumblers, as a matter of course, but grumbling, after all, hurts no one and is, moreover, a safety valve of some value.

"So satisfied are the greater number that I am afraid many of them will return to penal servitude on purpose to end their days in comfort and cleanliness. That this is no mere opinion I am in a position to prove. One man over 50 years of age told me on his discharge that he could not earn a living and would not go into the union and that he intended to come back here. He was set at liberty and reconvicted within a few days."

GERMAN WAR SCARE.

Certain of the London newspapers published a sensational story about a German war vessel having been watched taking soundings off the Shetland Islands. Some mooncalf had mistaken the dmiralty Survey ship in Balta Sound harbor for a German cruiser. For several years past a German unarmored cruiser has visited Shetland in connection with the fishery protection, but she did not come over this season. There have been no German war vessels of any description in Shetland waters.

TEMPLE OF DIANA.

Excavations at the site of the Roman city of Caerwent, near Severn Tunnel Junction, have been attended with further important discoveries, Roman masonry having been laid bare which is believed to form the foundation of a Temple of Diana. Other remains discovered indicate that there were two amphitheaters in the ancient city. Blocks of masonry forty feet across have been disclosed, as well as two circles some 150 yards in diameter.

AEROPLANE STATIONS.

The Admiralty scheme for establishing a chain of aeroplane stations along the east coast is rapidly maturing. The latest establishment to be founded will be on a piece of land near the Forth Bridge, on it seaward side, the station being regarded as admirably suited for the keeping of an aerial guard over that structure and the new naval base at Rosyth.

LAND QUESTION.

The commission appointed by Lloyd George to consider the land question is not expected to conclude its investigations until about the middle of next year.

CLEVER STOCK-BROKER BEATS BANKERS TO IT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Towering above the shattered ruins of Lombard street, the Wall street of London, is a clean-shaven, sharp featured, matter of fact young man—Charles Birch Crisp of Croydon.

Stockbroker Crisp, still on the right side of forty, came on the London Stock Exchange when stocks were doing gymnastics during the South African war. The barons of Lombard and Threadneedle street, where the Bank of England looms like a fortress, refused to take him seriously. A couple of weeks ago Crisp gave the bankers of the world cold shivers by financing China when the six-power group said the yellow republic was not to get one fan-kwai (foreign devil) until the stipulations for foreign supervision were conceded.

Crisp is today the most talked of man in England.

Twelve years ago he essayed politics by trying to get elected running mate to Winston Churchill in Oldham, Lancashire. Oldham would have none of him.

"Goodbye, Oldham and politics," said Crisp. "There is more fun and money in business."

Since then, although a generous contributor to political friends, he has stuck to business. He is at the head of the Anglo-Russian financial syndicate and now he is master of the purse to President Yuan Shi Kai of the youngest of republics and oldest of nations.

"ORANGE REBELS". ARE DISMAYED.

HISTORIAN SAYS CHURCHILL BETRAYED IRISH.

Man Who Wrote the Ulster Slogan Is Now a Fallen Idol—Introduction of Cows in Achill Recalls the Gloomy Days When Famine Gripped the Emerald Isle.

BY THOMAS EMMETT.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

DUBLIN, Oct. 12.—Dismay has been caused in the camp of the "Orange Rebels" by the discovery of the fact that the author of their slogan "Ulster will fight and Ulster will be right," was a fell traitor to the cause, after all. Wilfred Scawen Blunt, digging into the records of secret statesmanship through the Gladstone period up to the formation of the present ministry, has proved conclusively that Lord Randolph Churchill was actively working for home rule while he was Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Tory administration of the Marquis of Salisbury. In the fall of 1885 he wrote many letters and gave numerous conferences to Irish members, in all of which he assured Parnell's associates that he was for home rule; a Parliament at Dublin and all; and that he was educating his party to this point of view." Six months later Gladstone's conversion to Irish self-government was announced; Lord Randolph switched around and became the most virulent foe of the Irish party.

COWS IN ACHILL.

They are breeding cows in Achill Isle. To the majority of Americans this will cause no interest or wonder. But to the Irish in the great continent it will cause more excitement than would the discovery of a diamond mine in the very heart of Broadway, New York.

Cows in Achill! The three words carry my mind back to the famine years of the eighties, during the worst period of which I went over to Achill in a tiny cockle shell of a coracle to witness the awful hardships borne with Spartan fortitude by the starving peasantry of the island. The day after I landed on that bleak, cragcleft mite of rock, where people kept body and soul together living on seaweed and—when the wild waves of the Atlantic relented in kindness—a fish or so; I saw an object, yellowish white, moving on a precipitous shelf within a foot or two of the highest point of the lone mountain peak. It had four lean legs, through my glasses I could see the ribs almost protruding through its shaggy skin. At first I thought it some species of mongrel, and then I made out two curled horns.

"A goat?" I hazarded to my companion—a Cannemara fisherman—in Irish.

The man flushed in anger and surprise. Speaking as if the subject were some sacred or peculiarly prized thing, he replied:

"That is the cow."

It was—the sole cow in Achill; and, ye gods and little fishes! from the field ice of the Arctic to the heel of Tasmania never was there seen such a representative of the bovine family. Later I had the privilege of seeing it at close quarters. It looked up at me with sad, brown eyes as if to say: "Yes, I know I'm a mistake; but what matter? Achill is all a mistake." It was then—the most god-forsaken place, I believe, on the wide breast of the world.

For six months of the year the people inhabiting the island, which is but a short way off the most western mainland, were completely cut off—isolated, alone; waves, mountain high, blocking the seapath to the rest of Connemara. Now, however, the new spirit breathing over Ireland has reached the west-flung Achill, where good crops are being raised and cows put out to graze on pastures won from the living rock. An under-sea tunnel is projected to pierce the narrow, but traffic-denying, straits, so that soon Achill will be brought right to the mainland, Achill's bovine epic to the new epoch in Erin.

About Carpets and Rugs.

History holds no record of the first woman who ever wove a carpet, but we know that she must have lived at least 5000 years ago and was probably the half slave wife of some wild tribesman in the deserts of Arabia or Persia.

Textile floor coverings were used in the palaces of the rich as long ago as 2400 B. C. Many of these carpets were exceedingly costly, being made of silk or camels' hair interwoven with threads of silver and gold, and often being ornamented with precious stones.

Early European and American Carpets.

Carpet making in France began in 1607 when Henry IV established a factory at the Louvre for making wall hangings and carpets. These carpets were called Turkey Stitch (Point de Turquil.)

In England, in 1745 a mill was located at Wilton under the patronage of the Earl of Pembroke, employing French weavers. This was undoubtedly the origin of the Wilton carpet industry.

American carpets were first manufactured in and about Philadelphia about 1760. In 1791 William Peter Sprague established at Philadelphia a factory for making Turkish and Axminster carpets. Other factories were established at Worcester, Mass., in 1804, at Frederick City, Md., in 1810, at New York in 1821, and at Medway, Mass., by Alexander Wright in 1825. A few years later this last factory was sold to the Lowell Manufacturing Company and moved to Lowell, Mass. This was the beginning of the Bigelow Carpet Company.

Bigelow Rugs and Carpets

—are being featured just now at the Big White Store. You'll find them displayed in the immense Hamburger show windows and spread on their spacious, well-lighted third floor where the purchaser can see just how they will look on the floor of her home. This, by the way, is no unimportant point for a rug seen hanging on rack or wall may not look at all the same when spread on the floor.

In 1810 the entire output of the United States was less than 10,000 yards of carpets. Today, the Bigelow Company alone produces over 8,000,000 yards annually. And a Bigelow carpet or rug of whatever class is a Bigelow—the standard of the world for that particular quality.

Bigelows Are Made of Imported Wools.

The wool raised in America is too short and lacks the necessary strength and toughness—has not the essential sheen or "silkiness" of the wool required for Bigelow carpets.

Just as the best furs come from cold, barren countries, so the best carpet wools come from sheep raised on the barren hills and mountains of countries like India, Arabia, Persia, China, Turkey in Asia, etc. They are long fibered, strong and wavy, of a peculiar toughness quite unlike the wools used in the manufacture of cloth.

The Imported Wools "Stand Up."

They resist hard service better than our short staple domestic wools and the importance of putting only the best, wear-resisting wools into high-grade rugs and carpets cannot be over-estimated. The quality and adaptability of the materials must be right before the best service can be secured.

What "Bigelow" Quality Means

—is nothing less than absolute satisfaction in the matter of appearance, design, coloring and wearing worth. It is, in fact, another way of saying "Hamburger dependability," for rugs and carpets of "Bigelow" quality conform to Hamburger quality standards even to the minutest detail of their materials, design and construction. One does not have to apologize for a Bigelow rug or carpet at any stage of its service. When it is new it reveals its newness in the soft harmony of its rich shades and colorings and when it is old it shows, and in a greater degree, the integrity of its construction and the honest materials and expert workmanship which characterize every Bigelow product.

A Word About Rugs.

To the man of means and luxurious tastes the antique rug—the genuine hand-made rug of Persia, Arabia or India, offers an unique means of home decoration, and, to the collector, a still more alluring incentive. But oriental rugs have suffered by their contact with western commercialism. What, three decades ago, were the product of the home—the handiwork of the individual family—are now "hand-woven factory products made to sell in the West and sell quickly."

The buyer who would secure a fine specimen of a genuine oriental rug must be sure of three things: plenty of money, a sufficient knowledge of true rug values to intelligently discriminate, and an honest salesman to deal with.

Briefly speaking, it is wiser to buy an honestly-made American rug, which is a faithful representation of the best oriental patterns and colorings. One may point with pride to a beautiful rug, which without pretending to be oriental, is a replica of the best ideas in imported rugs, without being subjected to the misgivings which attend the purchase of a rug of uncertain lineage and quality.

Rugs Offered By the Bigelow Company

—are above reproach in every way and give the buyer a greater degree of service and satisfaction than do many foreign rugs of several times their cost. A careful inspection of the Hamburger showing of these famous products is cordially invited. They are the best for money to be found anywhere. The name, "Bigelow" on a rug stamps it "sterling." in all that applies to integrity of construction, color effects and wearing worth

Terpsichore.

GOLDEN AGE OF DANCING.

Europe of Apotheosizes Cult of Swiss Professor.

Widow Confesses to Killing of Archeologist.

Gathering of Royal Ladies at New Palace.

BY MALCOLM CLARKE.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—Europe is apotheosizing the dance. After the mild Maud Allen, Pavlowa, Wiesenthal and other dance cults, the mere art of terpsichore is being raised to a philosophy. The wobbling of bare arms and legs is the arcanum not only of grace, harmony and the plastic and pictorial arts, but also of metaphysics, poetry, political economy, of civilization itself. If you dance like a Dervish you will transcend all poor mortal fallibilities and blend with the divine. So says the Swiss Herr Jaques-Dalcroze, who has opened a university of bare-limbed dancing to prove his views, and to prepare young men and maids for the new evangel of humanity.

Hellerau, where the university stands, is a new-born Garden City, an hour's dance from Dresden. You approach it with the reverence of a Greek approaching Eleusis. Before you rises a stately, austere and pillared temple with towering gable. That is the new Parthenon of the dance cult. Scattered about it are colleges and boarding-houses for the young men and maids who by twinkling their naked limbs are heralding the coming race. Nearly 500 persons in two years have come to be regenerated. They must be over 14 years old, and most of them are under 20. They learn dancing and Solfege (which is sight singing and ear training,) and rhythmical gymnastics, harmony, anatomy, respiration, choral singing and plastic grouping. Twenty-seven hours a week hard work and two years of it, before you are turned out to teach the world to dance and wobble itself in to the Golden Age.

Most attractive is the dancing and plastic grouping. It certainly makes you think of the Golden Age when fifty young ladies of the best families appear before you clad only in tight, short tricot of the kind which appears in Europe's less fashionable and less prudish bathing resorts. The music is good and the effect is heightened by a skillful operator who stands at a switch and flashes lights on the dancing maids.

The mystery of the death of the archaelogist, Dr. Blume, who was shot through the head on the banks of the Warthe, at Unterberg, near Posen, has been speedily cleared up by the confession of the widow. She broke down under the inquisition of the examining judge, and admitted that hers was the hand that directed the fatal bullet, but at the same time, she declared that in killing her husband she acted in a condition of mental disturbance brought about by the momentary excitement of a quarrel. If this were so she would, of course, under German law, be guilty of manslaughter and not of murder. On the other hand, the very facts, by the knowledge of which the judge was able to extort her confession, point to the deed having been deliberate, for it was the evidence of a shopkeeper that she had recently purchased from him the two revolvers, which convinced her of the futility of adhering to her version of the tragedy.

Further details of this sordid drama of passion and bloodshed have now become known. Fraulein Walters, it appears, was reputed to be altogether too conscious of her charms, even as a schoolgirl, and in the few years which have elapsed since that phase of her life, she was always the capricious object of much masculine attention. Eventually she betrothed herself to an engineer, but while she was still engaged to him, Dr. Blume appeared on the scene as a suitor. The young savant, who had the reputation of being a very shy and reserved man, to whom prehistoric Germans were much more real and living beings than his own contemporaries, seems to have been attracted by the sheer antithesis of her butterfly nature. The girl, it is believed, did not at all reciprocate his affection and when she finally accepted him in place of her former fiance, she was only yielding to the arguments of her friends that she would be foolish to throw away the chance of uniting her lot with that of a man destined to achieve distinction.

AIRSHIP SURVIVES ACCIDENT.

The Parseval company has received from Japan the news that the airship supplied by them to that country has not been completely destroyed, as was at first reported, but that the injuries are of a trifling nature and were caused not by a typhoon, but through the carelessness of a Japanese officer.

MERRY ROYAL LADIES.

The Kaiserin's eldest sister, Duchess Friedrich Ferdinand, has been on a visit to the New Palace, as she nearly always is when Her Majesty is alone, and the royal ladies are very happy together. The Crown Princess has arrived with her little sons, and has taken up her residence for the present at the Marble Palace on the Havel banks. The Crown Princess of Greece is also at the New Palace.

CHARGES OF GRAFT.

London Moving-Picture Operators Suspected of Giving the Double Cross to Charitable Institutions.

[A. P. CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Ugly charges of graft are being made in connection with the takings of the moving-picture theaters permitted to remain open in London on Sunday. Although charities are supposed to get 65 per cent. of the takings, the great disparity between the box-office receipts of the Sunday shows and the disbursements to hospitals and other philanthropic institutions is rather startling.

It is charged that certain favored charities agree to accept donations from the moving-picture places without scrutinizing the figures of gross and net takings too closely if they are assured their share will be regular and certain. During the period of nine months, according to the figures submitted to the London County Council, the total receipts amounted to $450,000, while charitable societies benefited to the extent of only $70,000.

The proprietors of the theaters explain these figures by declaring that the expenses of Sunday opening are so great that many times there are no profits at all. The charities are charged for rent, wear and tear and the operating expenses of the theater, and it is argued that in the cases of the least scrupulous houses the Sunday opening pays running expenses for a week and naturally there are no net profits left to be shared with charity.

ONCE.

Time was when I heard the still voices
That summon to pain and to life;
Time was when my dreams were all broidered
With starshine and beauty and strife.

Now dull the days drip past each other,
Dead calm and stagnant and set;
There's never a gleaming of sunlight,
There's never an hour of regret.

Sometimes with a shudder I question
If the wayfaring soul can be fled;
Sometimes I now it for certain—
The soul in my body lies dead!

WINS LAURELS FROM FRANCE.

American Sculptor's Work Praised by Critics.

Complaints Cause the Gas Man to End Life.

Gallic Laborites to Eschew Politics Altogether.

BY PAUL VILLIERS.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 12.—Andrew O'Connor, the gifted American sculptor, three of whose exhibits in the French salon have been purchased by the French government, is at work upon a large decorative group to be entitled "1812," and it is understood that the design has been approved by the President of the republic in person, with the suggestion that the work when completed shall be erected over an arch to be raised in commemoration of the heroism of the French guards throughout the abortive campaign in Russia one hundred years ago.

O'Connor and the beauties of his creations are themes of constant praise from the ablest French critics. His bust of Edward Tuck, the New Englander, now stands in the Luxemburg Gallery, the property of the French nation. O'Connor, like St. Gaudens, has struck a prophetic note in the art of his generation. His studio is the center of the most cultured taste in Paris; his disciples crowd the most exclusive salons.

STRICTLY GALLIC.

Continued complaints from gas users have driven the manager of the Poissy gas works to commit suicide. For some time past the unfortunate manager has been overwhelmed with letters complaining of the quality and low pressure of the gas.

A few days ago, owing to an accident, the service was again unsatisfactory, and complaints poured in more numerous and violent than ever. The manager thereupon blew out his brains with a revolver.

AN AMUSING TALE.

An amusing story is told of a cubist artist's picture sent to the Autumn salon. A painting was placed upside down before the fatigued Hanging Committee, as the porters were not sufficiently educated in cubism (which sees cubes in everything and everything in cubes,) to determine which way up the picture should go.

The picture was accepted, when suddenly some one remarked that it was the wrong way up. On being righted some deer were discerned at its base, and on examination proved to be so extremely cubical that the picture was rejected.

TO ESCHEW POLITICS.

By the overwhelming majority of 1057 to 35 the Congress of the Confederation Generale du Travail in session at Havre confirmed its programme as laid down at Amiens in 1906, and thereby reaffirmed its decision to remain "en dehors de toute ecole politique." The intention is declared of once more measuring swords with the government. To M. Renard's plea that legal were preferable to illegal methods the answer was made that the confederation quitted once and for all the paths of legality after the Amiens Congress of 1906. The breach then made between the Socialists and the C.G.T. has grown very wide and the C.G.T. claims that it alone has the right to speak in the name of the working classes. According to the Tempe the confusion between Syndicalism and socialism so cleverly fostered by M. Jaures and his friends has now vanished. It is a great opportunity for the Socialist party if they have the courage to cleanse their policy of the demagogy which has so long disfigured it.

CAMPAIGN CIGARS.

The doyen of French cigars known as the crapulos, price one-half penny, which fell into disfavor chiefly owing to its rankness and imperfect combustility, will not longer be offered for sale.

It is announced that a successor to it of better quality, but at the same price, is about to be offered to the public.

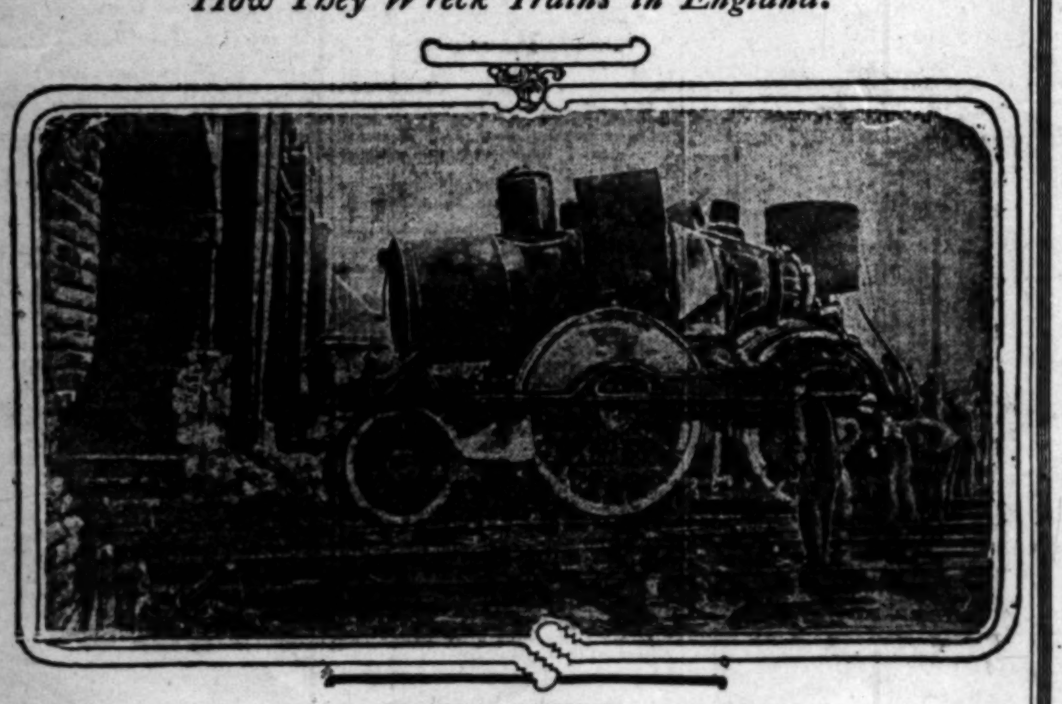
ENGLISH RAILWAY WRECK; FIFTEEN VICTIMS DIE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—No explanation is as yet forthcoming as to why the locomotive of the London and Northwestern express jumped the track at Ditton Junction, September 17. Fifteen people were killed outright and twenty-three severely injured in this, the worst railroad wreck for years in England. The King was among the first to send a message of sympathy to the sufferers.

Some of the passengers who managed to escape with their lives but who nevertheless sustained serious injuries, had remarkable experiences. A nurse who had a foot cut off was carried to a seat on the platform where she calmly tore off some clothing, and with a stoicism which she might have displayed in the operating theater of a hospital, proceeded to render first aid to herself. The missing limb was discovered among the debris.

How They Wreck Trains in England.



The Wrecked Engine.

One of the most terrible railway wrecks which has occurred in recent years in England, happened the evening of September 17, when the engine of the London and Northwestern jumped the track at Detton Junction. The locomotive struck the buttress of a bridge and the impact reduced the huge boiler literally to scrap iron. The wreck was attended by horrible loss of life.

WHITE PONIES FOR THE QUEEN.

Lord Granard Buys a String for Royal Stables.

Prince Albert in Final Term of His Studies.

Royalty Will Slight Old Buckingham Palace.

BY LADY MANWARING.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Lord Granard, the King's master of the horse, one of the highest positions in the empire, and the happy husband of one of the handsomest and most popular peeresses of the realm, the gifted Beatrice Mills, has just purchased for the royal stables a string of milk white ponies for the special use of Queen Mary. Lord Granard, who just recently celebrated his thirty-eighth birthday, is well suited to hold his exalted position. He is admittedly one of the best judges of horses in England. He is an Irish Earl and owns 20,000 acres in Ireland, but is also connected with England and Scotland. His mother was a Petre, a member of one of our oldest families, and though his honors are Irish, he is descended from a great Scotch house, as the name of Forbes would indicate. He sits in the House of Lords as Baron Granard of the United Kingdom, which title was conferred on his grandfather, a staunch Liberal, by the government of "all the talents" in 1806. And the same Earl was one of the peers who signed a notable protest against the act of union.

The present peer holds several foreign orders, among others the Red Eagle of Prussia, the Grand Cross of the Order of Charles III of Spain, and the Grand Cross of Isabel the Catholic. At the accession of King George V, he was elected to announce the fact at the Curts of Lisbon, Madrid, The Hague, Brussels, Copenhagen, Stockholm and Christiania. Lord Granard made a smart match when he took as his wife Miss Mills, one of the pretty daughters of the multimillionaire, Mr. Ogden Mills of New York. He has two daughters, but a Lord Forbes is still awaited.

The duties of a master of the horse are many and varied. The staff of Equerries is under his control, and there are seven Equerries-in-Ordinary, twenty extra-Equerries, and one Honorary Equerry. He is, of course, entirely responsible for the purchase of all horses for the royal stables and has entire controu over all royal processions. His duties at a coronation are, of course, most complicated, and he also arranges all details of the state program when His Majesty proceeds from Buckingham Palace to Westminster to open Parliament, so that the office is a splendid one but by no means a sinecure.

IN THE FINAL TERM.

Prince Albert is now entering upon his final term at Dartmouth, and at its conclusion he will go through exactly the same routine that followed in the case of his elder brother, the Prince of Wales, joining either the Cornwall or the Cumberland, and going on a cruise for practical instruction in the various phases of a naval cadet's duties. Beyond this, the Prince's future career has not yet been mapped out, although there is some prospect of his entering Wellington College for a period of military training. While it is extremely probable that Prince Henry will undergo a naval course like his elder brothers, his future career and that of Prince George will be largely dependent upon the way in which they shape while under instruction at school.

TO SLIGHT BUCKINGHAM.

It is regarded as significant that their majesties are not intending to spend any considerable amount of time at Buckingham Palace before February next. Queen Mary will come up to town about the middle of November and again in the early days of December for the purpose of making arrangements for her Christmas gifts and charities. His Majesty will stay in town for a day or two for the Smithfield Show, and will probably hold a council at Buckingham Palace for the prorogation of Parliament. If nothing happens in the political world before then. But there is no question of reopening the royal establishment, or of setting up a sort of German court. The time will be devoted to the engagements which His Majesty has made for shooting in Norfolk, at Windsor, and elsewhere. For the first time for many a long day there will be a prolonged court season at Windsor, very much longer than the brief November visits which were the rule under the Edwardian regime.

VISIT TO LUISE.

In preparation for the visit to the Princess Victoria Luise, which is to be paid in the spring by the Princess Mary, her royal highness is to devote herself throughout the winter to further studies in the tongue of the Fatherland. The Princess's French is not at all bad, although the Prince of Wales is inclined to "chip" her over her pronunciation, a thing about which he naturally regards himself as qualified to express an opinion. But the German of the younger generation of English Princes and Princesses is about on a par with that of the average public school boy, although they have the advantage of being able now and then to get some actual practice in conversation owing to the many Teuton royalties who visit the English court.

When Princess Mary was visiting some of the sights in Germany recently, she had no difficulty in following the explanations of her cicerones, but that is not quite the same as being able to chat in the family of the house with her Hohenzollern relatives. This is why her Highness is getting up some German in readiness for a visit to which she is naturally looking forward with a good deal of eagerness. People are unable to resist the temptation to go further in their forecasts as to what will happen at Potsdam next year, but for the time being it is as well to let it go at that.

LOVE IN THE OPEN; SURRENDER OF A HERO.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—"A romance of love in the open" kindled by Cupid, when Lieut.-Gen. Sir R. S. Stephenson Baden-Powell, hero of Mafeking, was founding the Boy Scouts and training the first camp at Parkstone, Dorset, several years ago, will be culminated shortly in the wedding of the chief scout to Miss Olave Soames, first girl scout, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Soames of Gray Rigg, the palatial manor house of Parkstone. Gen. Baden-Powell was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Soames while he was laying the groundwork for the great organization, which has since gone around the world, inculcating among boys and girls a love of the open, of chivalry and brave deeds. Pretty Miss Soames, a healthy, athletic girl, spent much of her time with the bronzed veteran of many wars and still in the flush of manhood's prime. She could not help admiring the warrior, who loved her from their first meeting. The wedding will take place towards the close of the year, and promises to be a brilliant social event.

Professor Gives Life for Sake of Fiancee.

BY CLEMENT J. DARETT.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

ROME, Oct. 12.—Shall warfare in the clouds be prohibited? Shall man's highest flights of originality, conquest of his own earth-born limitations, accession of the pinions with which the lark rises to greet the morning sun, be degraded to the destruction of his kind. This is the great question now agitating war-surfeited Italy.

Following the gathering of the Inter-Parliamentary Union at Geneva, many of the delegates traveled from Lugano to Rome, where meetings have since been held supporting the resolution passed, urging the prohibition of airships or aeroplanes as instruments of war and particularly forbidding the throwing of explosives from man's own eagles.

So far, the peace party seems to have much the better of the argument; but, as Baron d'Estornelles de Constant has taken occasion to point out, if aerial fighting is to be prohibited, what of the submarine warships? Shall they be tolerated?

"There is a marked distinction between the two," observes Signor Cesare Folcari. "The sea has been polluted by the bolts of war for ages. The clouds were sacred. Let us keep them so."

Against this view comes the obvious retort: How sacredly has the air been preserved? What of the bolts of Telamon, the archers of Etzel, the round-shot of Marlborough and Napoleon; the shrieking shells of modern times? Has anything on or around the earth been preserved sacred from man's inhumanity to mankind?

BELATED TEETH.

A woman of Milan holds the world's record for tooth-production. She has raised two elegant molars at the ripe age of 87.

Giacomina Cellini is her name, and she is quite strong and able to look after all her wants, despite her advanced age. A year ago she was almost toothless. But three of the teeth of her youth had survived to carry her through the rest of her life. Her surprise can be imagined when, after suffering anew the infant's trials in raising dental ivories, two remarkably good molars made their appearance. The old peasant woman of Milan is now the proudest body in all Italy.

SENTENCE OF DEATH.

In similar circumstances to those depicted in "The Death Sentence," a painting by a well-known English artist, aroused much attention and discussion when exhibited some years ago, and which represents a doctor informing a young man that he is incurable, a pathetic tragedy occurred at Trebino, in Lombardy. Paolo Vanizzo, a professor of languages in the technical school at Trebino, was about to be married to a young German lady, and every preparation had been made for the ceremony. The professor, who had long been suffering from acute neurasthenia, consulted a doctor, and learned that it would take several years of careful nursing to be cured, even if a complete cure were possible. Considering this to be his death sentence, Signor Vanizzo on returning home, wrote a pathetic letter to his fiancée, stating that he could not be cured; that he did not want to make the life of one he loved miserable, and that he would say good-by. He then shot himself, the letter and a discharged revolver being found by the body.

THE SECRET IS OUT.

Germany Gives a Statement Showing the Strength of Her Submarine Flotilla.

[A. P. CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—The secret of Germany's submarine flotilla is out. Until now nothing had been allowed to be made public as to its strength, but an authoritative statement just issued says that it consists of sixteen boats, of which fifteen are in commission, while the new naval programme adopted this year contemplates ultimately a fleet of seventy-two submarines.

A considerable number of these vessels are already under construction, so that the establishment of a second flotilla at Wilhelmshaven, on the North Sea (the present boats are all stationed in the Baltic Sea at Kiel,) is expected shortly. About one-fourth of the total personnel required for the seventy-two submarines is already under training, the list at present showing fifty-seven officers, twenty-five engineer officers, 210 warrant and petty officers and 306 seamen.

The admiralty is experimenting with the "crewless motorboat," the invention of a German engineer, the steering and engine control of which are operated by wireless telegraphy. The boat gave a number of successful exhibitions near Munich and Berlin last year, stopping, starting and answering the helm perfectly in response to wireless directives sent from a shore station, and the naval authorities believe it may be made a useful auxiliary to the submarines and torpedo boats.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE.

Short Paragraphs Concerning Persons, Places and Events About the National Capital.

BY MARGARET WADE.

With the verdict of the people and the lesson from the polls less than three weeks away, Washington is holding its breath and sitting tight. Although no one votes in the District of Columbia, every one of its three hundred thousand residents is deeply concerned in the election of a President. The season's debutantes who usually supply the main interest of the early winter are as much concerned by the political situation as Cabinet Ministers, diplomats or members of Congress. The large and important circle of friends of President and Mrs. Taft are naturally anxious to continue the pleasant social relations of the past three years.

The smaller, but also important, circle of polite society personal admirers of the Bull Moose candidate or his family, are awaiting November 5, with ill concealed pleasure, while the Wilson supporters are thus far confined to the households of Democratic Congressmen already in town for the season. In fact, the only Washington residents pursuing the even tenor of their way seem to be the Justices of the United States Supreme Court and the autumn brides.

The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Edward Douglas White, although a native of Louisiana, which State he represented in the Senate, a life-long Democrat, an ex-Confederate, a Roman Catholic, was never the less appointed to his present post by President Taft. The other seven members of this highest tribunal of the land include: Oliver Wendell Holmes of Massachusetts, son of the famous Autocrat of the Breakfast Table; Joseph McKenna of California, and William R. Day of Ohio, members of President McKinley's Cabinet; Charles J. Hughes, former Governor of New York; Joseph R. Lamar of Georgia; Mahlon Pitney of New Jersey; Willis Van Derventer of Indiana; Horace Lurton of Tennessee, who with their respective families make up what is the one permanent circle in Washington. Appointed for life or good behavior a Justice of the Supreme Court is above or beyond the clamor of the multitude, the animosity of the Executive or the activities of Congressional experiment.

The "Order of the Carabao" as yet little known except to its promoters and members, and destined by reason of the foundation on which it rests to become one of the greatest of fraternal and social bodys in the United States, is to hold annual meeting in Washington on December 14. Its annual "wallow" according to the text of the order, the definition of reunion and dinner, being descriptive of the animal for which the new order is named, rather than the occasion itself or the officers and gentlemen composing its membership.

For it is strictly a social organization of officers and gentlemen, limited to those who have seen service in the East, men who have met the Carabao and kindred beasts in their native wallows in the remote provinces of the Philippines. The order had its birth in Washington nearly ten years ago, simply as a supper club of a few officers from both branches of the service who considered a return to Washington, a matter of thanksgiving and good cheer. And so it grew. President Taft is a member of the order by reason of his acceptable service as Military Governor of the Philippines.

Chief of the Washington Corral is Brig.-Gen. Robert K. Evans, U.S.A., whom the new army legislation has just detached from the general staff to assume command at Atlanta, Ga.

Another popular officer "Manchued" by Congress and sent to command a regiment, instead of directing the Bureau of Insular Affairs in the War Department is Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, who has just left Washington for Ft. D. A. Russell, Wyoming. One effect of this new order, not of course, of the slightest interest to the War Department or the Military Committee in Congress is that it literally breaks up the Edwards home. The wife of the detached officer, a charming gracious woman, whose home was her kingdom, is the victim of a chronic heart affection unable to live in a high altitude, and forbidden by the physician to accompany her husband. They have an only child 12 years old. The latter has been placed in a girls' school near New York, while Mrs. Edwards, after bidding her husband good-by, joined her mother-in-law at Atlantic City, to recuperate, and gradually adjust herself to the change made necessary by this new order. Both Gen. Edwards and his wife are possessed of comfortable private means. Their Washington home was one of the dignified hospitable centers of the capital, but when the order came Gen. Clarence R. Edwards marched forth with the cheerful alacrity of the born soldier, be he private or general in command.

The return of M. Constantine-Brun as Minister from Denmark, after four years' absence in London, and at the envoy's own request, is a step so unusual as to give a deep life like color to the rumor that M. Brun returns for sentimental reasons. That any European diplomat should prefer the White House to the Court of St. James, is in itself a surprise, but that a Danish envoy, a countryman of Queen Alexandra, and a handsome bachelor should request such a change is a wonder. Many years ago, when M. Brun began his career in Washington, he was the guide philosopher and friend of a family just evolving from the comfortable but not exclusive or socially important Congressional circle, into the smart resident set—the latter more important twenty years ago than it is now. The young Minister from Denmark, a Charge d'Affairs of Italy, a minor official of Spain, who has since advanced to a high place in the councils of King Alfonso, all helped in the upward career. The mistress of the house was rich, hospitable, very gracious and with a strong business sense inherited from her statesman father. For years all moved smoothly, but in time the friendship of the diplomat and the mistress of the hospitable home became so marked there was a mild scandal, very mild and very unjust as subsequently appeared. However, the friendship was ruptured and the Minister found another post. The lady is now a widow, still very rich, the mistress of a new and handsome home much finer than that in which she first won her honors as a hostess. Society awaits the next chapter.

Passers-by on N street, from Scott Circle to Connecticut avenue, on which dwell some of the most exalted members of smart society, are much impressed by the various and numerous signs planted on the well-kept parking of No. 1733. These boards of many brokers tell the passer-by the house can be rented, purchased, leased, furnished or unfurnished—all in alluring terms. As the block is a most desirable residence and this particular property has never been untenanted in the memory of the writer, extra advertising is unusual.

The owner of the house is Mrs. William Sheffield Cowles, wife of an admiral in the navy and sister of former President Roosevelt, who purchased the same years ago as a permanent winter home, and even before her brothers coming to the White House, made it one of the recognized centers for official and resident society. With the close of the Roosevelt administration and retirement of Admiral Cowles about the same time, Mrs. Cowles leased her house furnished for two years and established an all-year-round home at Farmington, Ct. Last season the house was again leased, but for a short term only, the inference being Rear-Admiral and Mrs. Cowles would again take up their home in Washington. The unusual activity on the part of Washington real estate brokers now tells the tale that the former Miss Anna Roosevelt and her husband do not expect to live in Washington in the near future.

Miss Enna G. Mullen of Fox River, Wis., and Paris, France, is said to be one of the highest-paid woman wage-earners in the world. She is spoken of as one of the three best women accountants in this country, but her large income is made as a fashion expert. Because of her talent in this line she has practically given up her work as an expert accountant. Miss Mullen was born and brought up in Fox River.

The oldest living American railroad engineer is C. Augustus Jeffries, who is also the oldest pensioner of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He is 90 years of age, having been born in 1822 at Lancaster, Pa. He started as a fireman on the State-owned Columbia and Philadelphia in 1846 and three years later became an engineer.

Military Tidiness.

THE NEGLECTED SMALL THINGS IN EDUCATION

Why One of Our Students Was Turned Down at West Point—Consideration for Boy that Does Janitor Work to Pay for His Schooling—Precision in Neatness Not to Be Despised.

BY ALICE MACLEOD.

SMALL things sometimes assume large proportions and the time-honored fact of the mighty ocean being made from little drops of water should be borne more in mind than it is, when it comes to the training of children for mature work. As a timely article for the beginning of the school year, I should like to draw attention to the neglect, or rather inattention to a small item in the education of our youth, the lack of training in which caused one of our boys to be dropped from West Point.

We are too prone to look upon precise tidiness as belonging to a young ladies' academy and can readily understand how professors of colleges and public schools, with their minds full of the work of instructing in big things, should grow impatient at the thought of being compelled to pick up waste paper and close desks or force their pupils to do so. Yet this was the cause of the ignominious Waterloo of one of our brightest young men. He stood high in his classes, but thought it all nonsense and girlish and not at all like a warrior to set his shoes straight and hang his clothes without a wrinkle; and as for picking up discarded bits of paper—why, well, let the janitor do that. But from the neglect of these small items he received so many marks for disorder and so heartily resented it as pure tomfoolery, and found it so impossible to conform to rules that should have been the foundation of his early training, that he was finally dropped.

Now the fact remains and stares us in the face that our two government schools, West Point and Anapolis, have the precision, neatness and finickiness of a convent school, and with this fact before us, civilian schools, whether public or private, have no right to ignore, but should follow the example set them by the government.

General educators don't seem to realize that they are preparing the youth under their charge to meet any contingent that may arise, and that the little habit of precise neatness is a valuable asset in any walk in life.

Of course the boy that would allow conformity to strict rules to stand in his way would never make a good soldier; which is probably what his instructors knew. But on the other hand had he received this martial training from the time he entered school it would have become second nature to him and he would not have had the mortification of being dropped and being obliged to start in on a new line of life which is always deteriorating to character.

The asserted object of general educators is to fit pupils to take up any line they may choose to specialize. Now the instructors of this boy utterly failed in preparing him in a branch that West Point and Anapolis consider extremely important and I wager that nine schools out of ten in California are built on same lines.

Some boys are more com by nature than the boy I have but nature has nothing to do it, it is the training that should gin with the first grade and up to graduation from the school.

I have in my mind a certain school noted for its scholarly from which the boy I spoke of uated, and a private college establishment that has turned men that have become famous law and literature, and I must fess I never saw more untidy rooms at the close of the day I saw in those schools. their untidiness was Work that would have taken teacher and pupil but a perform was left for the janitors.

And who are the janitors? working their way through It is a clear case of the majority robbing the earnest ers of valuable time. I spoke eral of these boys and they told the same story. It took as time to pick up and close desks the teachers (oh shame!) and as it did to sweep and dust the building. "And there is no said one boy more frank than others, "for each room is with waste baskets and it take a second for each one his desk."

Gen. Baden-Powell was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Soames while he was laying the groundwork for the great organization, which has since gone around the world, inculcating among boys and girls a love of the open, of chivalry and brave deeds. Pretty Miss Soames, a healthy, athletic girl, spent much of her time with the bronzed veteran of many wars and still in the flush of manhood's prime. She could not help admiring the warrior, who loved her from their first meeting. The wedding will take place towards the close of the year, and promises to be a brilliant social event.

THE SECRET IS OUT.

Germany Gives a Statement Showing the Strength of Her Submarine Flotilla.

[A. P. CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—The secret of Germany's submarine flotilla is out. Until now nothing had been allowed to be made public as to its strength, but an authoritative statement just issued says that it consists of sixteen boats, of which fifteen are in commission, while the new naval programme adopted this year contemplates ultimately a fleet of seventy-two submarines.

A considerable number of these vessels are already under construction, so that the establishment of a second flotilla at Wilhelmshaven, on the North Sea (the present boats are all stationed in the Baltic Sea at Kiel,) is expected shortly. About one-fourth of the total personnel required for the seventy-two submarines is already under training, the list at present showing fifty-seven officers, twenty-five engineer officers, 210 warrant and petty officers and 306 seamen.

The admiralty is experimenting with the "crewless motorboat," the invention of a German engineer, the steering and engine control of which are operated by wireless telegraphy. The boat gave a number of successful exhibitions near Munich and Berlin last year, stopping, starting and answering the helm perfectly in response to wireless directives sent from a shore station, and the naval authorities believe it may be made a useful auxiliary to the submarines and torpedo boats.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE.

Short Paragraphs Concerning Persons, Places and Events About the National Capital.

BY MARGARET WADE.

With the verdict of the people and the lesson from the polls less than three weeks away, Washington is holding its breath and sitting tight. Although no one votes in the District of Columbia, every one of its three hundred thousand residents is deeply concerned in the election of a President. The season's debutantes who usually supply the main interest of the early winter are as much concerned by the political situation as Cabinet Ministers, diplomats or members of Congress. The large and important circle of friends of President and Mrs. Taft are naturally anxious to continue the pleasant social relations of the past three years.

The smaller, but also important, circle of polite society personal admirers of the Bull Moose candidate or his family, are awaiting November 5, with ill concealed pleasure, while the Wilson supporters are thus far confined to the households of Democratic Congressmen already in town for the season. In fact, the only Washington residents pursuing the even tenor of their way seem to be the Justices of the United States Supreme Court and the autumn brides.

The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Edward Douglas White, although a native of Louisiana, which State he represented in the Senate, a life-long Democrat, an ex-Confederate, a Roman Catholic, was never the less appointed to his present post by President Taft. The other seven members of this highest tribunal of the land include: Oliver Wendell Holmes of Massachusetts, son of the famous Autocrat of the Breakfast Table; Joseph McKenna of California, and William R. Day of Ohio, members of President McKinley's Cabinet; Charles J. Hughes, former Governor of New York; Joseph R. Lamar of Georgia; Mahlon Pitney of New Jersey; Willis Van Derventer of Indiana; Horace Lurton of Tennessee, who with their respective families make up what is the one permanent circle in Washington. Appointed for life or good behavior a Justice of the Supreme Court is above or beyond the clamor of the multitude, the animosity of the Executive or the activities of Congressional experiment.

The "Order of the Carabao" as yet little known except to its promoters and members, and destined by reason of the foundation on which it rests to become one of the greatest of fraternal and social bodys in the United States, is to hold annual meeting in Washington on December 14. its annual "wallow" according to the text of the order, the definition of reunion and dinner, being descriptive of the animal for which the new order is named, rather than the occasion itself or the officers and gentlemen composing its membership.

For it is strictly a social organization of officers and gentlemen, limited to those who have seen service in the East, men who have met the Carabao and kindred beasts in their native wallows in the remote provinces of the Philippines. The order had its birth in Washington nearly ten years ago, simply as a supper club of a few officers from both branches of the service who considered a return to Washington, a matter of thanksgiving and good cheer. And so it grew. President Taft is a member of the order by reason of his acceptable service as Military Governor of the Philippines.

Chief of the Washington Corral is Brig.-Gen. Robert K. Evans, U. S.A., whom the new army legislation has just detached from the general staff to assume command at Atlanta, Ga.

Another popular officer "Manchued" by Congress and sent to command a regiment, instead of directing the Bureau of Insular Affairs in the War Department is Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, who has just left Washington for Ft. D. A. Russell, Wyoming. One effect of this new order, not of course, of the slightest interest to the War Department or the Military Committee in Congress is that it literally breaks up the Edwards home. The wife of the detached officer, a charming gracious woman, whose home was her kingdom, is the victim of a chronic heart affection unable to live in a high altitude, and forbidden by the physician to accompany her husband. They have an only child 12 years old. The latter has been placed in a girls' school near New York, while Mrs. Edwards, after bidding her husband good-by, joined her mother-in-law at Atlantic City, to recuperate, and gradually adjust herself to the change made necessary by this new order. Both Gen. Edwards and his wife are possessed of comfortable private means. Their Washington home was one of the dignified hospitable centers of the capital, but when the order came Gen. Clarence R. Edwards marched forth with the cheerful alacrity of the born soldier, be he private or general in command.

The return of M. Constantine-Brun as Minister from Denmark, after four years' absence in London, and at the envoy's own request, is a step so unusual as to give a deep life like color to the rumor that M. Brun returns for sentimental reasons. That any European diplomat should prefer the White House to the Court of St. James, is in itself a surprise, but that a Danish envoy, a countryman of Queen Alexandra, and a handsome bachelor should request such a change is a wonder. Many years ago, when M. Brun began his career in Washington, he was the guide philosopher and friend of a family just evolving from the comfortable but not exclusive or socially important Congressional circle, into the smart resident set—the latter more important twenty years ago than it is now. The young Minister from Denmark, a Charge d'Affairs of Italy, a minor official of Spain, who has since advanced to a high place in the councils of King Alfonso, all helped in the upward career. The mistress of the house was rich, hospitable, very gracious and with a strong business sense inherited from her statesman father. For years all moved smoothly, but in time the friendship of the diplomat and the mistress of the hospitable home became so marked there was a mild scandal, very mild and very unjust as subsequently appeared. However, the friendship was ruptured and the Minister found another post. The lady is now a widow, still very rich, the mistress of a new and handsome home much finer than that in which she first won her honors as a hostess. Society awaits the next chapter.

Passers-by on N street, from Scott Circle to Connecticut avenue, on which dwell some of the most exalted members of smart society, are much impressed by the various and numerous signs planted on the well-kept parking of No. 1733. These boards of many brokers tell the passer-by the house can be rented, purchased, leased, furnished or unfurnished—all in alluring terms. As the block is a most desirable residence and this particular property has never been untenanted in the memory of the writer, extra advertising is unusual.

The owner of the house is Mrs. William Sheffield Cowles, wife of an admiral in the navy and sister of former President Roosevelt, who purchased the same years ago as a permanent winter home, and even before her brothers coming to the White House, made it one of the recognized centers for official and resident society. With the close of the Roosevelt administration and retirement of Admiral Cowles about the same time, Mrs. Cowles leased her house furnished for two years and established an all-year-round home at Farmington, Ct. Last season the house was again leased, but for a short term only, the inference being Rear-Admiral and Mrs. Cowles would again take up their home in Washington. The unusual activity on the part of Washington real estate brokers now tells the tale that the former Miss Anna Roosevelt and her husband do not expect to live in Washington in the near future.

Miss Enna G. Mullen of Fox River, Wis., and Paris, France, is said to be one of the highest-paid woman wage-earners in the world. She is spoken of as one of the three best women accountants in this country, but her large income is made as a fashion expert. Because of her talent in this line she has practically given up her work as an expert accountant. Miss Mullen was born and brought up in Fox River.

The oldest living American railroad engineer is C. Augustus Jeffries, who is also the oldest pensioner of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He is 90 years of age, having been born in 1822 at Lancaster, Pa. He started as a fireman on the State-owned Columbia and Philadelphia in 1846 and three years later became an engineer.

Military Tidiness.

THE NEGLECTED SMALL THINGS IN EDUCATION

Why One of Our Students Was Turned Down at West Point—Consideration for Boy that Does Janitor Work to Pay for His Schooling—Precision in Neatness Not to Be Despised.

BY ALICE MACLEOD.

SMALL things sometimes assume large proportions and the time-honored fact of the mighty ocean being made from little drops of water should be borne more in mind than it is, when it comes to the training of children for mature work. As a timely article for the beginning of the school year, I should like to draw attention to the neglect, or rather inattention to a small item in the education of our youth, the lack of training in which caused one of our boys to be dropped from West Point.

We are too prone to look upon precise tidiness as belonging to a young ladies' academy and can readily understand how professors of colleges and public schools, with their minds full of the work of instructing in big things, should grow impatient at the thought of being compelled to pick up waste paper and close desks or force their pupils to do so. Yet this was the cause of the ignominious Waterloo of one of our brightest young men. He stood high in his classes, but thought it all nonsense and girlish and not at all like a warrior to set his shoes straight and hang his clothes without a wrinkle; and as for picking up discarded bits of paper—why, well, let the janitor do that. But from the neglect of these small items he received so many marks for disorder and so heartily resented it as pure tomfoolery, and found it so impossible to conform to rules that should have been the foundation of his early training, that he was finally dropped.

Now the fact remains and stares us in the face that our two government schools, West Point and Anapolis, have the precision, neatness and finickiness of a convent school, and with this fact before us, civilian schools, whether public or private, have no right to ignore, but should follow the example set them by the government.

General educators don't seem to realize that they are preparing the youth under their charge to meet any contingent that may arise, and that the little habit of precise neatness is a valuable asset in any walk in life.

Of course the boy that would allow conformity to strict rules to stand in his way would never make a good soldier; which is probably what his instructors knew. But on the other hand had he received this martial training from the time he entered school it would have become second nature to him and he would not have had the mortification of being dropped and being obliged to start in on a new line of life which is always deteriorating to character.

The asserted object of general educators is to fit pupils to take up any line they may choose to specialize. Now the instructors of this boy utterly failed in preparing him in a branch that West Point and Anapolis consider extremely important and I wager that nine schools out of ten in California are built same lines.

Some boys are more by nature than the boy I have but nature has nothing to do it, it is the training that gin with the first grade and up to graduation from the school.

I have in my mind a certain school noted for its scholarly from which the boy I spoke of uated, and a private college establishment that has turned men that have become famous law and literature, and I must fess I never saw more untidy rooms at the close of the day I saw in those schools. their untidiness was Work that would have taken teacher and pupil but a perform was left for the janitor.

And who are the janitors? working their way through It is a clear case of the majority robbing the earnest ers of valuable time. I spoke to eral of these boys and they told the same story. It took as time to pick up and close desks the teachers (oh shame!) and as it did to sweep and dust the building. "And there is no said one boy more frank than others, "for each room is with waste baskets and it take a second for each one to his desk."

ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

"The Snowing of the Pines."

Softer than silence, stiller than still air,
Float down from high pine boughs the slender leaves.
The forest floor its annual boon receives
That comes like snowfall, tireless, tranquil, fair.
Gently they glide, gently they clothe the bare
Old rocks with grace. Their fall a mantle weaves
Of paler yellow than autumnal sheaves
Or those strange blossoms the witch-hazels wear.

Athwart long aisles the sunbeams pierce their way;
High up, the crows are gathering for the night;
The delicate needles fill the air; the jay
Takes through their golden mist his radiant flight;
They fall and fall, till at November's close
The snowflakes drop as lightly—snows on snows.

Art in the Orient.

Alois D. Riethmuller, a former student of the Art Students' League of Los Angeles, who has been making a leisurely two years' jaunt around the world in search of "impressions," returned recently. He enjoyed his tour so much that he intends to repeat it very soon.

In this extended journey Mr. Riethmuller saw Japan, China, India, Java, Ceylon, Burmah, Egypt, Italy, Switzerland, France and Germany. For one year out of the two he was a student of art in Paris and Berlin.

One of the pleasantest of his experiences in the Orient was the hunt for little objects of art. He picked up some that were veritable treasures. He found himself deeply interested in the modern art methods of the Japanese, who in this direction, as in all others, are casting traditions to the winds. The streets of Tokio, as everybody knows, are now beginning to resemble the streets of New York, European clothes being worn almost exclusively.

"In the art school at Yeno Park, Tokio," said the young globe trotter, "which is the best and most progressive in all Japan, they are learning to draw and paint almost exactly as I was taught in Paris—and in the Art Students' League of Los Angeles. They draw as we do, seeking for complete form and not conventionalized design. In coloring, however, they still cling to some of the old ideals—and may they long continue to do so!"

"They study from the nude figure," I suggested—"and do they become great painters when they leave the schools?"

"No," was the reply. "In post-graduate life they are like us Californians—they flock to landscape like ducks to water. And very good landscape painters they are getting to be, too. They do not seem to have much liking for oils, however, which is natural enough. They have painted in water colors for thousands of years, and they are going to keep on with the old medium. We may expect another great school of water colorists in Japan in the near future. It will be modern, up-to-date, completely—almost completely—occidentalized. There will, of course, be some difference between their work and ours. The oriental, with the best intentions in the world, can't become a European or an American in a year. Perhaps he never can. There are racial obstacles, temperamental barriers.

"But the commercial instinct, always strong among orientals, is invading the regions of art at a great rate. We'll never be able to compete with 'em in that line. Old Japanese art is being imitated right and left, and floods the market, for the genuine stuff is getting very scarce. It is almost impossible for an American to get at it at all. Art-loving people among the natives are buying it up, hiding and storing it carefully for the prestige of their fatherland. They don't intend to permit American millionaire collectors to grab it as they have been grabbing the old masters of Europe."

"The Japanese are small, but wise," I said.

"Say, rather, little but 'cute,'" the student suggested.

Miss Raymond.

A small exhibition of water-color paintings by Julie E. Raymond opened in the Kanst Gallery, No. 642 South Spring street, last Monday, to continue to October 19.

Miss Raymond, who was formerly a student of the Pratt Institute, came to California from Brooklyn six years ago, and during these six happy years she has traveled up and down the State, painting landscape and teaching outdoor classes. She has also been in Hawaii for a year, where she held several large outdoor classes. In Honolulu, at the Kilohana Art League, a flourishing institution, she held a successful exhibition. The Honolulans are enthusiastic buyers of pictures, as every painter who has been there can testify. Among the pictures from Hawaii that are shown in the Kanst Gallery are a number of small studies of the Volcano Kilhauea, which are as glowingly realistic as the last scene in "A Bird of Paradise."

The artist has painted a good deal in Santa Barbara and Monterey—Monterey, indeed, which is her favorite sketching ground, though she has found many attractions round Los Angeles. One of the best of the little water colors is "The Ancient Sentinel," a study of the famous palm, said to be 150 years old, at Miramar. The foliage round the ancient tree is very pleasing, the color and drawing are good, the distant mountains are atmospheric.

In "Eucalyptus" we have well-modeled trees reflected in quiet waters. The color scheme of cool greens and blues is very agreeable. Good color [illegible] "Over the Sunlit [illegible]," a group of oaks that are as airy [illegible] as the trees of Corot. Another Corot-like subject is "Under the Oaks," the trunks of the trees [illegible], those in the middle distance [illegible] gray. There is good [illegible], too, in "The Monarch of the [illegible]," the trunk of a redwood seen [illegible] a flashing stream. The foliage of the small trees under the "monarch" is vividly green and living. "[illegible] Shadows" gives us a [illegible] interior by a stream. "Late [illegible]" depicts an unusual view of [illegible] at Santa Barbara, the towers touched by sunlight. The [illegible] in the foreground is truthful. "Emerald Bay, Lake [illegible]," is painted in an effective [illegible] of odd purples and greens. [illegible] of the famous Castle Rock at [illegible] shows exceptionally [illegible] in the rocks themselves, while beyond them stretches a sea of deepest blue.

The modest but pleasant little exhibition remains open one week longer.

International Studio.

The opening article in the International Studio for October is on "Stage Setting, Realistic and Impressionistic," by Samuel Howe, illustrated by a series of very poetic sylvan settings from "Chanticler."

The frontispiece of the number is a brilliant piece of color, a reproduction of an oil painting, "Red Wine," from the brush of Glyn Philpot, to illustrate, among other reproductions that are in black and white, an article on the paintings of Philpot by J. B. Manson. Another good color illustration accompanies Octave Uzanne's paper on "Fernand Maillaud, a Painter of the Old French Province of Berry." Still another is from a painting by Kwason Suzuki, a Japanese artist.

J. Lester Lewine writes of the bronzes of Mahonri Young, with seven illustrations; Charles A. Parker of the paintings of Mary L. Macomber, with the same number of illustrations; Selwyn Brinton of Italian art at the Venice International Exhibition, with eleven illustrations representative of modern Italian art.

Other papers of interest are those treating of an embroidery exhibition at the Musee Galliera, Paris; the sculptures of Louis Potter; the pastels of Raphael Limauro, and so on.

The usual studio talk, lay figure and review notices appear.

Notes and Comments.

Hamilton Achille Wolf, who recently came here from New York, has taken the figure and portrait classes of the School of Art and Design. Mr. Wolf is the son of Henry Wolf, the famous American wood engraver. The elder Wolf is not a painter, as announced in Art and Artists two weeks ago, the mistake being due to the fact that some wood engravings from original gouache drawings by him were seen in exhibitions in Chicago and New York, and were supposed to be from paintings. Young Wolf's studio is at No. 860 Lake street, where he has already begun the portraits of several prominent Los Angeles men.

Marguerite Thompson, Futurist, will hold an exhibition of about a score of her recent paintings and etchings at the Royar gallery, beginning on Monday, October 21. Miss Thompson, who arrived in California from Paris a very short time ago, is a follower of the school of Matisse, more especially in her painting, and her work is sure to excite interest and comment. Nothing like it has heretofore been seen in Los Angeles.

An exhibition of fifteen or twenty colored etchings by Nell Brooker Mayhew will be held at the Daniell gallery in the Blanchard building for two weeks, beginning tomorrow. Mrs. Mayhew's admirable work is well known to lovers of art in Southern California.

Laura M. D. Mitchell, miniature painter, will open a studio in the Blanchard building in November. She is now organizing a class in miniature painting, her home studio being at No. 307 South Fourth street, Alhambra. Miss Mitchell studied under George Bridgeman at the Art Students' League, New York, under Kenyon Cox, at the same school, and with the famous miniature painters, Alice Beckington and Lucia Fairchild Fuller.

Silverwood's Broadway window will soon have an exhibition of poster work from the brush and pencil of J. C. Leyendecker. These posters should not be missed by anybody who loves strong and original work in art. They will be seen for a few days only, exact date not yet known. Watch the Silverwood window. The Leyendeckers, J. C. and F. X., are numbered among the most famous of American poster artists. This is J. C. Leyendecker's second exhibition in the West.

The California Art Club held an important business meeting last night at their rooms in the Copp building. The question of their forthcoming exhibition was up for discussion.

The St. Clair art gallery, conducted by Anne St. Clair, widow of Norman St. Clair, well-known water-color landscape painter, has been opened at No. 443 Chamber of Commerce building, Pasadena, for the sale of pictures by California artists. Success to it!

The October number of the Print Collectors' Quarterly contains the following illustrated articles: "Some Early Italian Engravers," by Arthur M. Hind; "Joseph Pennell's Lithographs of the Panama Canal," "Michel de Marolles, Abbe de Villeloin, a Prince of Print Collectors," by Louis R. Metcalfe; "Giovanni Battista Piranesi—The Prisons," by Benjamin Burges Moore; "Le Pere Coriot," by Robert J. Wickenden.

"Prints and Their Makers" is a new art book from the Century press. It contains essays on engravers and etchers, old and modern, by notable authorities, and is edited, with an introduction, by FitzRoy Carrington. The plates for the 197 illustrations have all been made from the original etchings.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Mrs. Chang, widow of a Chinese official, is the editor-in-chief of the Peking woman's paper, which is devoted entirely to subjects interesting to her sex. Besides Mrs. Chang's paper there are eight others in Peking edited, printed and sold by women. In Canton there are four, in Shanghai six and in Foochow three.

Miss Helen Dupuy of Chicago, a Smith College graduate of the class of 1908, has established herself as a landscape gardener. When she left college she went to work with a landscape gardening firm. She soon did independent work and a formal garden which she planned for Mrs. Robert Stuart of Chicago, who has a summer home at Charlevoix, on Lake Michigan, won her a reputation.

Mrs. Rebecca Wright Bousal, known among the veterans of the Civil War as the Little Quakeress of Winchester, has just celebrated the completion of her forty-fourth year as a clerk in the United States Treasury at Washington.

Miss Elsie Sem, the only practicing woman barrister in Norway, qualified as a lawyer in 1904. Not being content to remain "sakforer," or lawyer with right only to plead in minor cases, she has finished the four test cases necessary to her admission to the Supreme Court, and is now a barrister entitled to appear.

Mrs. Elmer Black, the first American woman to be invited to sit as a delegate to the International Peace Conference, which convened in Geneva, Switzerland, a few days ago, is president of the Women's Progressive Economic League. In London last year she was chosen vice-president of the Universal Peace Congress.

Dr. Maud B. Schram will be a candidate for Representative in Denver on one of the tickets. One of the things that she will work for will be a pension for the mothers whose husbands have deserted them, and a living wage for women with short hours of labor will also engage her attention.

THE WOMAN.

BY SAMUEL BARCLAY.

There was an excess of gesture in Mrs. Geoffrey Temple's disposal of herself before her dressing table; a bewilderment of jeweled hands, slim and white, fluttering about the rim of her bodice and at her hair.

"Your conduct," said she, twisting into its braid a saucy, golden tendril, "has been scandalous of late." She looked at him over the wonderful slope of her shoulder—a well glance with a smile.

He lighted a match and held it six inches from the end of his cigarette. When the flame crept back to his finger tips he dropped it, but his glance did not falter.

"Where is my powder puff?" Mrs. Temple was asking now. It lay among the other glittering mysteries of her table which she touched with stumbling fingers as she bent her face close over them.

He lighted another match.

"You are acting exactly as though—as though—" she twirled her puff round and round in its little golden shell—"as though you were trying to make love to me." She held the puff by its fragile stem, laughing with a sound as soft and sweet as the rosy, scented dust that floated from the elder-down. "Really," elevating her chin and dabbing it with a touch, "if you have no regard for your own reputation, pray consider mine!" Leaning a little on the arm of her chair she glanced at him again over the bewitching glimmer of her shoulder. "Even now my shocked maid is doubtless recounting to all the world below stairs how you have sent her out and are closeted alone with me—in my dressing-room! Tomorrow we will be the talk of the town."

"I'm going to be worse than scandalous. I am going to be serious—"

"I beg of you!"

"I must!"

"Then it is money. The establishment is too—too—one hates to breathe the word 'expense'—you have been on the street again?"

"It is not a question of money."

She was moving the puff lightly over her bosom that seemed to quiver a little under it. "Then why this infliction?"

"Am I an infliction?"

"Good Heavens!"

"But that does not answer me."

"Isn't one's husband always an infliction? Isn't he the one flaw in its scheme of which society has been unable to rid itself?"

"And you—you—." His voice that had been like the steady thumping of an engine, hesitated a little here. "You make no exceptions—then?"

Mrs. Temple's hands rested motionless on the edge of the table. The pink tips of her fingers fretted the meshes of the lace they found there. She looked down at them as though she studied the reflections of the lights in her nails, rosy and polished as so many tourmalines. "I didn't say so," she remarked in low tones after a while.

"You said all husbands were."

"Oh, dear!" Mrs. Temple sighed and in each hand took by their golden stems two little brushes. "It's dreadful—being serious," she declared, looking first at one little brush and then at the other.

"Am I a flaw—an infliction?"

"Dear mamma said," she went on, talking to one brush and then to the other, "that it would be simple and yet, after two months of being married he comes asking questions—'Am I an infliction?'" she mimicked in deep voice. "'Am I a flaw?'" She leaned back wearily and nodded into the mirror at the reflection of Geoffrey Temple, standing behind her; his face as white as his linen—and as lifeless, save for his eyes. When she saw these she lifted one hand sharply and dropped it among her trinkets with a clatter. "Dear Mamma said you understood—about the bargain, you know. You haven't forgotten the bargain, have you? I was to marry you for your—for an establishment," her eye-lids fluttered a little, "and you were to marry me because you wanted someone to sit at the other end of your table. I didn't—I don't," again the eyelids, "love you at all, you know." She rested her dimpled, rounded elbows in the cobweb meshes of the table's scarf, and began to smooth her eyebrows with the two, little gold-handled brushes. Suddenly she bent closer to the mirror, thrusting out her face as though she would scrutinize him—but her eyes were closed. "Love, you know," she breathed, her hands upon her bosom, "was not in the bargain." Her head drooped and her hands lay motionless with spread fingers like two spent butterflies sparkling on the table. "I am tired," she said at last. "Will you ring for my maid?"

"Not yet. You haven't told me whether or not I'm a flaw."

Mrs. Temple drew in a breath and grasped more tightly the two little brushes. "Does it matter?" she questioned, raising them and beginning to brush the slender crescents that were her eyebrows. "I haven't complained, have I?" Her voice rose a note or two. "And you—you—I'm sure," she hurried on, "I sit beautifully at the head of your table." She attempted a laugh that trailed off grotesquely. "Please, please don't ask any more questions." Round and round she turned the brushes in her hands. "Really, if you do not stop I shall throw open the windows and call the police. Fancy the papers tomorrow! 'Scandal in local society circles! Geoffrey Temple, an hitherto highly respected member of the community, arrested. Accused of accosting his wife in her own boudoir— or do they say 'boudoir' in the papers?"

"I'll consider my question answered."

Mrs. Temple's brows, rising, escaped momentarily the attentions of the little brushes.

"There remain only the details—"

"Even those," she declared, summoning a smile that flickered and went out, "will be exhausted if my maid is not called."

"Is your allowance sufficient?"

One of the brushes wandered off its eyebrow onto her forehead. "I think there's always something in the bank, if that's what you mean?"

"Then I'll double it—and you can leave for Nevada tomorrow if you wish."

"Nevada?"

"They make things easy out there, you know."

"Easy?" You mean—?"

He did not assist her to a word.

"—Divorce—" It was the mere glimmer of a word.

"The trip is not so bad this time of year," he was intensely businesslike. "It is better for you to go than me—as you said—I have no complaint."

It is possible that, at a certain change in his voice, she tried to look again at his reflection in the mirror before her, but the little brushes kept getting in the way.

"Of course, we can both remain here," he went on, practically. "I can take apartments downtown—"

"But the bargain?" she interrupted all in a breath. The brushes lay now neglected—fallen from her relaxed fingers as she stared into the mirror. "You forget the bargain."

"Whatever settlement you may wish as regards money will be made," he rapped out. And then—bitterly, "I shall not rob you of your establishment."

She did not speak, but waited as though she knew he had more to say.

"As for my side of the bargain—"

Still she did not speak.

"—things—are different—now."

Mrs. Temple moved her head a little to one side, as though she sought a more advantageous altitude, whereby to catch the faint new note that had crept into his bitter tone. Suddenly her chin went up and she played a light tattoo upon the table's edge with her fingers. Then slowly she arose and pushed back her chair, stumbling a little over the satin heap of her train. She leaned on the back of the chair, and her fingers, rosy as polished tourmalines, went dead white at the tips as they pressed against the hard wood.

"Who," said Mrs. Geoffrey Temple, pulling heedlessly at the lengths of her train upon which she stood, "who is she?"

"Eh? What do you mean? She—?"

"Who is the woman?" she demanded, smiling wisely and bobbing her chin up and down with an air of supreme gaiety.

Geoffrey Temple's amazed eyes regarded his wife for a moment and were then suddenly riveted upon the table at his side.

"She's just about your height?" he declared, brazenly. Has the same bright hair and eyes and the same kissable kind of a mouth. Yes," he continued regarding his wife's mouth speculatively, "she has exactly the same kind of a mouth."

Amazement and indignation clouded Mrs. Temple's face as she hastily covered her mouth with her hand. "Oh," she gasped, from behind the shelter of her palm.

"The only difference is," he added, advancing a step or two, "It's kissed—occasionally—"

She drew back ever so slightly, staring with wide, incredulous eyes, into which a flame of comprehension flared. Then she sighed and her hand slipped down and she swayed toward him—her chin out-thrust.

San Rafael, Cal.

Miss Lizzie Wooster, a Mitchell-county (Kansas) girl, wrote a school primer. She sent it to a publisher who put it on the market, making lots of money out of it, and then refused to her what she considered her share of the profits. She was very indignant and to help herself went to a law school and when she had finished the course knew just how to make the mean publishers divide with her. She can now take care of her own interests.

IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Cabinet Work for Girls.

Cabinet and woodwork for girls, preparatory to a course in carpentry, if they choose to take it later, architectural draughting and courses in textile weaving have been put in at Colegrove School by C. A. Kunou, supervisor of manual training. Said Mr. Kunou: "This is in line with the policy of the department, to give that work to each pupil which he desires, irrespective of sex. Many boys are now taking cookery, and those who take it excel, I understand."

Clay Modeling at Lockwood.

Clay modeling, in which the pupils fashion jars, vases and trays, is taught at Lockwood-street school. About twenty-five children are taking the work and this making of scientific mud pies is very attractive to them.

Library Instruction.

A school for librarians is virtually established at Custer-avenue intermediate, where Miss Florence Dull has charge of the library books. Miss Dull, while she attends to the pupils who come to her for special instruction in some one or more subjects, places a reliable pupil in charge of the books and allows him to attend to checking them off and handing them out to pupils, looking up references, etc. Students taking this work in rotation, learn library practice.

A fast class in book-keeping is also established under Miss Stapp, with pupils who take work late in the afternoons and before school, and who have special aptitude for the work.

Macy Social Center.

Patriotism will be taught with a capital P by Michael Long, recently of the United States navy, at Macy-street Social Center. Mr. Long will take the children to the armory to view the drilling and the large gun. The warlike side will not be emphasized, however, except to give the pupils an idea of the methods used in protecting their country. He will also teach the points of the compass, marches and songs.

Rigorous physical training was a part of Mr. Long's experience in the navy and he has evolved many theories for the care of the body and the correction of slight deformities. These he puts into practice in the form of exercise games, such as bouncing a ball on the head as a straightener of the spine, and rhythmic arm movements for round shoulders.

Mr. Long has a unique theory that the games which children play without apparatus are the most real and fascinating to the children, and therefore he will have no apparatus in his room, other than the Indian clubs for rhythmic exercise and boxing gloves for sport. Spotting the target, rope-jumping, tug-of-war, scout, lame duck and bull in the ring are among the games played.

Nineteenth-avenue Social Center.

A new social center has opened at Nineteenth-avenue school last Saturday evening. Assistant Superintendent Bettinger spoke, the Twenty-first avenue orchestra played, Miss Edna Cass, a charming whistler, lent her aid, and the day being Columbus Day, Miss Edna Thomas read Joaquin Miller's "Columbus," and Marco David, a native of Rome, gave a short talk on Columbus, in Italian, for the benefit of those of that nationality who were present.

Refreshments were served in the kindergarten room, after the social hour. The Reception Committee was composed of Mesdames P. A. King, W. A. Saunders, A. P. Stearns, O. A. Shorb, G. E. Olmstead, W. D. Hamilton, M. Stevenson and Messrs. Henry Riley, M. B. Berry, A. W. Whipple, I. Jones and C. H. DuBois.

Mr. and Mrs. William Frick have granted permission to the Nineteenth-avenue school to use the large lot owned by them at the corner of Avenue 18 and Albion, for gardening purposes. Already the dirt is flying and perspiring youngsters are digging and planting flowers and vegetables.

Arts and Crafts.

The truant schools are now being taught arts and crafts—meaning basketry, pottery, bookbinding and metal and leather work—under a special teacher, Miss Lillian Holt, a woman charming in personality and thoroughly prepared for her work.

"Playing store" isn't just playing, any more, over at Juvenile Hall, either, for very soon an exhibit-room displaying the baskets and jars and other things made by the children is to be fitted up as a salesroom. The children will have charge of the store and of the selling of these articles. Then the sloyd room will be turned into a shop and orders for work taken.

"Already the boys are beginning to sell their baskets," said Miss Holt, "but of course they do not yet get their full value. But it is valuable experience for them."

Industrial excursions are among the activities of the special truant school children, who have visited several times the Pacific Sewer Pipe Company's works, where they were most courteously shown about and instructed by the employees of that firm. Other excursions are being planned to factories, where reed furniture is made, and to the glass-works.

Twenty-first Avenue.

Continuation work has been started in the manual training department, because many pupils desire to utilize their time before and after the regular school hours.

Excursions to the manufacturing and industrial establishments are planned by Mr. Schoeffel, so that the boys may get practical knowledge of Los Angeles industries.

The music department is flourishing. Miss Pett, recently director of music at Santa Barbara, is in charge; but the classes are so large that Miss Pedroarena is assisting in addition to her Spanish work. The boys' and girls' glee clubs are started with a good membership. A mandolin and guitar club is being organized, and the orchestra made its first public appearance, before the Avenue Nineteen Social Center, last night.

Sixty-second Avenue Cocial Center.

"Uh-huh, you bet that's going to be a classy lath-house, and we're building it ourselves. Ask our sloyd teacher, Mr. Ward, if we're not. Sure! We're going to learn how to grow things from the ground up. You see we can start the tender plants, that don't have long tap-roots, in the lath-house flats, then transplant them in the spring. Some gardens! Well, I guess! We had 250 individual gardens last year, and lots of home potato clubs. This year we expect to have about 400 individual gardens, and slathers of home truck."

This with ingenuous enthusiasm from a small boy, diligently raking and sweating in the Sixty-second-avenue school gardens the other day.

Thursday the mothers of the neighborhood met at the school to sew for unfortunate children in the city. They were royally entertained at luncheon by the school faculty.

At the Social Center meeting, Friday evening, Mrs. Harriet Williams Myers, president of the Garvanza Audubon Society, gave an entertaining stereopticon lecture on "California Birds."

At the Social Center meeting to be held October 26, Dr. John R. Haynes, father of the initiative and referendum in Los Angeles, and president of the Charter Commission, will address the meeting on "The New City Charter and Commission Form of Government."

Miss Elizabetha Meyerl

Of Polytechnic High School, who last year took post-graduate work at Berlin University, to better prepare herself to teach German.

School Gardening.

If suitable ground for practice work can be secured close in, a class in gardening for city teachers will be started soon.

Several of the school gardens have already been partially planted, others are being prepared, and other schools are anxiously waiting for ground to be prepared roughly for work.

Teachers whose pupils wish to purchase their own seeds or bulbs may secure reduced rates for classes by clubbing orders together. Five-cent packets can be bought for 2 cents, 10-cent packets for 4 cents, etc. The list of bulbs upon which reduced rates are offered may likewise be secured.

Arrangements have also been made whereby pupils may purchase their own sets of tools, hoe, rake, spading fork and spade, by ordering several sets at once. These are good quality steel tools, only second size.

For information concerning any of the above consult supervisor of gardening, Clayton Palmer.

San Pedro High School.

The class in expression, organized this fall in the San Pedro High School, is progressing rapidly, under the direction of Mr. Hansen. Already the more advanced section is arranging four debates, two of which are to be given during the present month. The first question to be debated is: "Resolved, That Foreign Immigration Should Be Restricted." The affirmative side will be taken by Miss Alida Craig and Miss Laura Gomer; the negative, by Messrs. Harold Tarr and Harry Sweet. The subject of the second debate will be: "Resolved, That the Philippines Should Be Granted Their Independence." Affirmative, Miss Lillian Buckley and Miss Augusta Miller; negative, Norman Widman and Yjalma Sederland. The preliminary presentations of the debate will first be given before the class in expression and later offered before the whole assembly.

The High School's new physical director, J. C. Goodsell, began work Wednesday, and is making a hit with the students because of his congenial manner and love of boys' games. Mr. Goodsell is a graduate of the University of Southern California and has had two years' experience teaching physical training at that college, so there is no doubt as to his fitness for the position. His assistance in Rugby is greatly appreciated by the members of the team.

The football suits ordered Wednesday for the San Pedro High School team were received Friday, and the members of the team were greatly pleased with them. The jerseys are black and have sleeves with gold stripes. The trousers are the regulation Rugby style, and these, together with the black stockings, make a strikingly neat appearance on the field.

The boys will receive their first real tryout on the Compton grounds Saturday, October 12, and nothing would please them so much as to have a bunch of local fans along to help them win from their old rivals and to show their interest in school activities. The fellows are digging into the hard work of training with a vim and realize they must keep it up in order to properly condition themselves and to learn the game.

Sunday afternoon a delightful yachting party was given to a number of guests aboard the Mischief I by Carl Aspe, a member of the senior class, San Pedro High, and well known among his fellow-students as a yachtsman. The invited guests were: The Misses Genevieve Murry, Gladys Murry and Helen Murry and Messrs. Ralph Griffin, Lou Haller, Otto Boren, Fenton Gerstle, Warren Pierson and Fred La Plonte. The party had some exciting races with near-by yachts, especially with the Trojan, a neat little sailer of San Diego, now owned by people of Los Angeles. The Trojan's crew were amazed at the skill of the Mischief, which made numerous circles about her rival. The Mischief proved victorious in capturing a girl from the deck of the Trojan. She, of course, refused to divulge her identity. An excellent lunch was served by the host of the Mischief.

Manual Arts High School.

The girls are enthusiastic over the change made in the domestic arts course, which now makes cooking and sewing solid subjects. This department is fortunate in having Miss Minnie Sullivan, formerly of the California Hospital, in charge of a course in home nursing. Miss Wood of the New York Manhattan Trade School is teaching a class in costume designing and in interior decoration. Miss Dickson has been transferred to the Hollywood High. Miss Hodge of the trade school takes her place. Miss Magee has just returned from an extensive European tour. The first course in millinery is now offered by Miss Beecher, who is planning to make this work essentially practical.

The girls of the senior A and B classes are planning to give a baby party on October 18 in the new gymnasium. The Entertainment Committee is keeping its plans secret, but it is whispered about that the seniors are going to bring their dolls.

The book exchange has moved into its new quarters in the central building. Now it furnishes the students not only with second-hand books, but offers an assortment of athletic goods for the gymnasium department. Last year the receipts from the sale of books at a 10 cent profit amounted to $629.

The music department is busily at work with rehearsals and new organizations. Already the orchestra has played in assemblies and added much to the pleasure of the student body. The String Quartette and Mandolin Club are booked for several school entertainments. Miss Groves, the head of the department, spent the summer in Chicago, studying with Olaf Anderson.

The boys' gymnasium has been enlarged by the addition of those quarters formerly used by the girls. Dr. Hart, in charge of the boys' athletics, is assisted by Mrs. Biese, who comes to us from the city playgrounds. The boys are rejoicing over the fact that he is a Rugby coach as well as instructor in gymnastics. The students have worked faithfully to put their athletic field in excellent condition and are now sharing its advantages with the L. A. boys for football practice. A large number of the Rugby veterans are back and ready for the fourteen games which have been scheduled.

Polytechnic High School.

The Students' League held an important meeting Monday morning, October 7. Plans were discussed for a membership campaign; it was announced that three more high schools have joined the league. This year's vaudeville was arranged for, with Carroll Miller as director of the show. Spirited addresses were made by Herbert Brown, Tallman Track, Glen Troeger, Walter Stanley, Iri Brett, Harry Pafford, Harold Stewart, Carrol Miller and the president, John Cook.

The Senior Ionian will soon hold its first meeting of the year. The programme will have as its subject "The Home." Talks will be given by students of the different departments on house building and furnishing and everything that is interesting in regard to the home. Ralph Blakeslee, the new president, will officiate for the first time.

The Scribblers' Club met Monday afternoon and elected the following officers: President, Ralph Haney; vice-president, Ione Morrison; secretary, Nona Williams; treasurer, Frank Taylor. Part of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of plans for the new year. The club will hold an informal "get-acquainted" social affair in the near future.

The German Dramatic Club is at present studying a short comedy. Later the club expects to produce a German play.

This year Polytechnic's already most exceptional faculty has been augmented by the following: L. Kyle Humphries, of Yale, instructor in economics; R. D. Wadsworth, domestic chemistry; Belle R. Parsons, from Tucson, Ariz., dramatics and oral English; Jessie K. Pierson, biology; Penelope Murdoch, art department.

Hand-weaving is proving fascinating work to many Poly girls this year. The school now has six hand-looms, and some beautiful rugs and curtains have been turned out by the students. Until they become really proficient in the craft, the girls make articles for use in the schools. Later, they may buy their own materials and own the finished products. The weavers plan their own designs and color-schemes.

Many have entered the lists to try out for the gym clubs this year. The clubs have not been entirely chosen yet. Only eight girls from last year's girls' gym club are at Poly this year. Eight new members will have to be chosen to make up the required sixteen.

Poly measured itself with U.S.C. in football Tuesday afternoon on the U.S.C. field. Several of Poly's best players of last year were ranged on the U.S.C. side this year. The score was 8 to 0 in favor of U.S.C.

The eleventh and twelfth year students met Wednesday morning in the auditorium to practice school songs.

An interesting feature of the work in applied mathematics the past week under the head of "materials of construction," was the display and examination of various foreign and domestic woods. Wood structure was illustrated by sections taken tangentially and radially, to show slash and quarter-sawed effects, and sections taken perpendicularly to these to show the cellular structure. More than 100 specimens were submitted for inspection and their merits and defects pointed out. They were examined with reference to their cost, strength and general suitability, and the class was encouraged to compare the cost and durability of certain woods in this locality with the cost and durability of the same woods in other localities. Much illustrative material was obtained from various government reports submitted by members of the class. Metal, stone, and concrete building materials will be taken up, and computations made to determine amounts, cost, and so forth, for various classes of structures. Theory acquired in the lecture room is later subjected to actual trial in the shops, and laboratories to determine where theory falls short of practice, and where it serves to supplement and strengthen it.

Los Angeles High School.

The faculty meetings for this year are to provide entertainment as well as instruction. On the third Tuesday of each month the meetings will be chiefly devoted to informal talks by members of the faculty, who have traveled or studied abroad. The discussions will relate in large part to educational, political and social conditions. The first such meeting will be October 29. At this time Miss Frances McCray and Mr. Oliver will give some of their impressions of the Orient. Stereoptican views will also be shown.

Mrs. Dorsey, vice-principal, has among her other duties the registration of new pupils that come from the East. From this work she keeps in pretty close touch with the western flow of immigration. At present she finds the volume of easterners fully up to the records of other years.

Dora Berres, a graduate of the class of winter '08, is a Los Angeles citizen, who is actively preparing for the opening of the Panama Canal. She is fitting herself for the problem of intelligently caring for the immigrants that the canal will bring. Her trip to New York City will include a course in philanthropy at Columbia University, and studies at Ellis Island. Miss Berres graduated from U.S.C. Law School and was admitted to practice in 1911. She has since studied tenement problems, under Dana W. Bartlett.

Evidently anxious to break the existing tie as to contests won and lost, San Diego High School has invited Los Angeles High to participate in a simultaneous debate. If the suggestion meets with the approval of L. A. debaters, one team will journey to San Diego and the other meet a San Diego team at Los Angeles.

The editor-in-chief of the Blue and White Weekly is William Bell of the 13th year. For associate editors he will have Constance Grose and George Fenimore. Ray McArthur is business manager, and Sam Carter subscription manager. Editors and reports for various school activities are to be chosen after a competitive try-out.

Uniforms for the cadets have arrived and privates and officers are trying to wear their new togs without any appearance of conscious pride. Cadet officers for this term are: Major, Theodore Lee; chief medical officer, Jack Renfrew; chief signal officer, Hilyard MacGowan; adjutant, Raymond Best. The company captains are drilling their various commands in preparation for the regular term competitive drill. Russel Parsons, Arthur Redaker, Fred Subeth and Francis Thompson are the company captains.

Some idea of the diversified activities of a modern high school may be gathered from a list of the committees that Mr. Housh found it advisable to appoint this year. Here they are: Social, Arbor, Assembly Hall, Debating, Blue and White, Athletics, Fire Drill, Costumes, Morals and Manners, Prevention of Failures, School Decoration, Lunch Room, and the following special committees: Out-door Study Room, History of Los Angeles High School, and Blue and White Weekly. These committees are filled by various members of the faculty.

Mr. Van Cleve has recently taken his classes to local manufacturing plants, in connection with their class-room work in economic geography.

Pupils mathematically inclined are having a feast this year in a course of analytic geometry. Such work is new in the history of the school.

Hollywood High School.

The horticulture class has now organized itself on a business basis. Wednesday a talk was given by one of the members, John Lawton, in which he put forth the reasons for organizing, and what they expected to accomplish. They are planning on raising a number of the avocado trees, a native of Mexico. When the trees are six months old, they will be past the critical stage and will be sold by the members of the class, the funds to go toward the improvement of the horticultural department. The financial department is under the management of Ora Hake.

Another interesting lecture was given by Dr. Edwards, who is greatly interested in the zoology of the city. Stereopticon views of the native as well as foreign animals proved very interesting. Dr. Edwards stated what improvements were to be made in the zoological lines. Griffith Park has been chosen as the most practical for the new gardens, and if as much can be done as Dr. Edwards anticipates, it will be one of the interesting sights of the city.

There has been much progress in the management of the cafeteria this year. It was found necessary to build an addition in order to accommodate the increased number of students. The student body has taken a great interest in the management of the cafeteria. The managers, John Ellingston and his assistant, Francis Sanborn, have found many volunteers willing to give their services in every way. Another interesting feature in connection with the cafeteria is the candy booth under the management of Chester Miller.

Gardena Agricultural High School.

Mr. Curtis of the music department and Miss Peterson and Mr. Clarke of the English department, with the assistance of others, are planning an agricultural festival for the spring. It will be given out of doors and in a rural setting. The opera, "In the Days of the Padres," given last year, is a small effort compared with this. The music, the marches, the patomime, the drills, the speaking, and all that will make up the pageant will combine agriculture, local and industrial rural history, and American ideals. The rise of the agriculturist, his contribution to civilization and his life will be told in song, story and movement. Miss Peterson and Mr. Curtis wrote the "Days of the Padres," so successfully last year, and Mr. Clarke wrote the "Junior Farce," when a student at Berkeley, that the outlook for the coming festival promises nothing but success.

The school will give a reception to tober 18. A fortnight later the High School will give an afternoon reception to the intermediates.

EDUCATORS, CHURCHMEN.

Julian S. Huxley, a grandson of the famous professor who made Mr. Gladstone, the Duke of Argyle, Bishop Wilberforce and other orthodox Britons sit up, has come to this country to teach zoology at the Rice Institute, Houston, Tex.

Dr. Camden M. Cobern, professor of the English Bible and philosophy and religion at Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., and a member of the Archeological Society of Great Britain and America, will join a party which will go to Abydos, Egypt, where excavations are to be made. After staying at Abydos, till next summer, Dr. Cobern will trace the steps of the Children of Israel across the Sinaitic Desert to Palestine.

Rev. E. S. Wheeler of Woodville, Mass., thinks he has the honor of having established the first school house ever built in the South for the colored race. During the Civil War he served as chaplain of the Eightieth Colored Troops and in 1864 was permitted by his regimental commander to use what remained of a wrecked cotton gin warehouse in Louisiana for the erection of a school building.

For fifty years the Rev. Olympia Brown of Racine, Wis., has been preaching from a Universalist pulpit, having been ordained in 1853. She held several pastorates in the East before going to the Central States and has lectured in almost every State in the Union. In the early seventies she was married to John Henry Willis. A curious feature of their marriage was that Mr. Willis agreed to his wife's desire to keep her own name and to be known not as Mrs. Willis, but as Mrs. Brown.

Rev. Levi Johnston, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Newark, N. J., has just celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the ministry. He has been with St. Mark's Church since 1881.

BITS OF VERSE.

THE ARTIST.

He shut his door and mingled with the throng.
A smile, a something vivid, young,
half-wild,
A gleam of understanding in his eyes,
All-tolerant, all-wise,
Drew a man to him. As they swung along,
A woman joined them; last, a child.

And to all these that day was passing sweet;
For now, at last the man had found a friend,
The woman love, the child a fairyland;
Each yearning dumb demand
Of each he heard, and could divinelier meet
Than any dream. The day had end.

So through the sunset came they to his door,
And he fell silent, smiling still, withal,
But looking past, and through them,
"Let us come."
They cried, 'into your home!
Friendship—the future—Love we hold in store
For you, who taught us of them all!"

But he, as one who marveled, said,
"What need
Have I of these, who dwell with them apart?
Behold now, and farewell!"—They looked and there
A room showed, small and bare;
Nought could they see within it * *
save, indeed
The tools wherewith he shaped his art.
—[V. H. Friedlaender, in the Athenaeum.

BURNT OUT.

The sunset, late a bar of flame
That smouldered in the opal skies,
Beneath night's looming shade grows tame,
And with a last wan flicker dies.
Those splendid shapes of rosy clouds,
The golden plume and giant crest,
Rise gray like pale ghosts freed from shrouds—
Burnt out the glory of the west.

Yet, since a while, by that grand pyre
The wide seas were incarnadined,
And far bleak Alpine snows caught fire,
And vales with purple mists were lined,
We tread more bravely through the gloom,
We dream more sweetly in the night,
We feel less terror of the tomb,
Remember that enfolding light.

I watch my heart's red holocaust,
And stir its sullen flame in vain,
Brave hopes! what azure skies you crossed!
Now comes the darkness once again,
But if the shade in some dark tent
Dispelled by my heart's pyre may be,
Great God, who gilt the firmament,
Kindle this little flame for me!

"In Dem Schatten Meiner Locken," "Das Verlassene Magdlein" (Wolf;) "Meinem Kinde," "Ruhe, Meine Seele," "Das Geheimnis" (Strauss;) piano solo, "Romance" (Sibelius,) Edwin Schneider.

Operatic selections: Arias—"Elsa's Traum" from "Lohengrin," "Elsa's Song to the Breezes," "Brunnhilde's Farewell to Siegfried," from "Gotterdammerung" (Wagner;) piano solo, "Rain in the Garden" (Dubussy,) Edwin Schneider; "June" (Morse-Rummel,) "Sleep, Then, Ah Sleep" (Branscombe,) "Love and Springtime" (Metcalf,) "The Cave," "In the Tree Top High" (Schneider,) "The Lamp of Love" (Turner-Salter.)

Juan de la Crus won that engagement as soloist with the symphony that I predicted. I was sure that a temporary-resident singer of so great a voice could not be allowed to linger without surrounding that voice with an orchestral setting. And Messrs. Behymer and Hamilton seem to have agreed with me.

Among other soloists engaged are Harry Clifford Lott, baritone; Blanche Ruby, soprano; Josef Lhevinne, pianist; Mme. Gerville-Reache, contralto, and Mme. Hortense Paulsen, English soprano.

Moore's band, at Eastlake today, will present a programme including Chambers's "Falcon" march, the Strauss "Morning Journals" waltz, a selection from Verdi's "Attila," the lullaby from Lehar's "Man With Three Wives," Mann's "Isman," "I'm Going Back to Dixie," Bernier's "Oriental Caprice," and Calvin's "1863" medley.

Miss Stella Baker, Miss Jane Mary Thompson, Miss Margaret Reynolds and Morell Reynolds, pupils of Miss Mabel Brousseau, assisted by Miss Mollie Moore, soprano, were heard in recital last Thursday evening at the Hotel Ingraham, Ingraham and Bixel streets.

Arnold Krauss has removed from No. 941 West Eighteenth street to No. 2002 South Burlington avenue.

The Krauss String Quartette has been reorganized, and is to be a permanent concert organization under Mr. Behymer's management. There will be six concerts, the first on the evening of November 21.

Next Thursday evening the Columbia Musical College will give a piano recital by pupils, in the Gamut Auditorium. Miss Battelle's pupils will be assisted by Selma Siegelman, from the class of Mrs. Case, and Rosco Neiger, from the class of Nina L. Barber.

The United States Marine Band, under the direction of William H. Santelmann, will soon be heard at the Auditorium.

NEW VICTOR RECORDS.

Conway's Band Comes Into the Disc Family and James Whitcomb Riley Recites Favorite Poems.

Conway's band, appearing upon discs for the first time, is the feature of the Victor series for October. Under the leadership of Patrick Conway a number of selections of lighter nature are spiritedly given.

James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, also swims into the ken of phonography, reciting, in inimitable style, "Little Orphant Annie," "The Raggedy Man," "Out to Old Aunt Mary's," and "The Happy Little Cripple."

A new Metropolitan tenor, Lambert Murphy, proves his right to the big operahouse laurel, singing the prize song from "Die Meistersinger," in a voice which, if not all golden, is assuredly solid silver.

Victor Herbert's orchestra offers Mr. Herbert's own arrangement of Chaminade's "Pas des Amphores."

Herman Jadlowker, the young Russian tenor of the Metropolitan, gives a superbly modulated reading to Lohengrin's narrative.

John MacCormack sings "Wearin' o' the Green," and a new Irish song, "Maire, My Girl," in his original, limpid fashion.

Schumann-Heink has to offer Martin Luther's "Christmas Hymn," and Gadski sings Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song."

How to Beautify Complexion and Hair

To retain a charming complexion, tender skins need better protection against harsh, cold winds than is given by face powder. There is no finer complexion-beautifier to be had than a lotion made by dissolving 4 ozs. of spurmax in a half-pint witch hazel (or hot water), and adding 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. While this lotion cannot be detected when applied to the face, neck and arms, it transforms an ordinary complexion into one of girlish attractiveness. It does not show or rub off like face powder and is much easier to apply. This spurmax lotion will clear up and whiten any sallow skin and make it youthful and charming. It is unequaled for overcoming that shiny, greasy look which is so troublesome to so many ladies.

Quite a risk is taken in using "dry shampoos," for unless the powder is entirely brushed out it will clog up the pores in the scalp and cause dandruff. One can shampoo thoroughly only by using water. As it is dangerous to use soap and most ready-prepared shampoos, owing to the "free" alkali they contain, which tends to kill the hair, making it dull, faded and streaky, most pleasing results will be experienced from a shampoo made from one teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water. This shampoo lathers splendidly, cleanses thoroughly and dries quickly. It will stop itching scalp, remove dandruff and leave the hair bright, soft and fluffy. This shampoo has given such excellent satisfaction that it is now being used exclusively by many hairdressers.—[Adv.

THREE DEGREES.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK.

Indictment.

Allis had kept me perched in the fork of an island alder four hours while he painted me. All this weary while I pretended to have been reading the only book available at Avalon that day—Sudermann's Song of Songs—and this, you will admit, is no proper volume. One closes it less with a sigh for the unwise heroine than a distinct longing for a Man's book, say the stories of the clean O. Henry or something fresh from the vivid Kipling of twelve years ago. I suppose I felt ashamed. Anyway Allis stopped his agile brush, poising it rather abruptly above his head.

"Don't shoot," I called down, wriggling my feet which had taken advantage of the fact that they were not posing for a celebrity and had unromantically and unmistakably gone to sleep.

Allis grinned. "I ought to," he said. "You have been making faces for ten minutes and your atmosphere is ruined."

"I will not have my atmosphere exhibited at the salon of your grande dame next month," I protested stoutly. "Not though she were forty times a patron of art."

"Till I tell you I had to break my promise and sketch in the feet?" he retorted with as much apology, I hope as malice.

"And not my hands?" I exclaimed in disappointment. I am rather vain about my hands. Somebody once remarked that they were like Stevenson's and I have affected a beloved vagabond pose ever since, even verging upon the hemorrhages as a last essential to the realism of the part.

"Allis," I began in deep earnest, "Why is art so often hectic?" "Must you spoil a day like this?" he complained with the petulance of temperament. "Because for a minute again, I caught the look I wanted."

I ignored him and his now valiantly busy brush. "Modern art is unsound," I insisted. "It is turbulent, fanciful and much that is delightful, but an honest eye must always pierce its thin disguise. Can you paint a beautiful woman without making me see a hideous skeleton? can Sudermann write a book without disclosing a cringing company of bitterly disillusioned persons?"

I did not pause for his answer. I [illegible] hot flashes turned upon vermin that stand for men. I know the Paris that Allis had painted was different from this, and there is sometimes a [illegible] from the blue sky even in Zola's industrial horizon—witness his delicate "Page of Love."

"Life is not sick," I urged, thoroughly approving my own argument, "and men and objects are not in ruins. We are the sick—we artists, musicians, poets. We nourish body and soul on a subtle poison. Our gardens are filled with blue roses. We put all our values under a magnifying glass, distorting our vision horribly, like the cheat who raises a check. We do not eat or sleep as other men. We do not think their thoughts or speak their language. And they look to us to paint them, to sing for them, to weave the romance of their realities—we who have never set foot in their sound world, where they move with purpose, freedom and strength, living their own glorious poetry. God, to give one of them my passion for the right word. To see revealed at last—"

"If you are feeling any better you may come down, Zachariah," Allis interrupted.

It took time to get the crazy tingling out of my feet. Then I descended and had a squint at his canvas. Not bad for the subject—a touch of divine sky, a graceful spray of towering branch, a clump of cactus in the background, heavy with dull red pears—cactus and brown grass and, in the swaying tree fork above, a frowning soul holding a condemned book.

Proof.

That night Allis said: "Tomorrow we leave. This is the hour of romance. It is now or never between ourselves and the island. What shall it be?"

"We will walk apart for an hour," I ordained, "and each shall follow his fancy as pleases him. Then we will return and say what we have done."

It was Allis who told his story first when the absurd appointment was kept at Ernest Windle's corner.

"By the Red Star, you should have seen her," he said with an enthusiasm that quickly united my own. "Like [illegible] [illegible] dared?" I asked, a little envious of the possibilities of his experience.

He shook his head. "It was enough to look at so much loveliness," he answered. "But"—and he waited a little to give me the force of a surprise—"I wrote to her."

"What!" I exclaimed.

"Yes," he said; "I learned her name from one who spoke to her in passing and I wrote her a letter about her wonderful self. She is very young. Perhaps she is not 16. To think of being 16! When I wrote I thought of nothing else but that golden step on the threshold of life. I hope I did not preach, but in my hints of what the future might hold for her I am afraid the warmer tints were shadowed now and then by a subdued warning. You see, in her brightness I wanted her yet to be tender; in her beauty and gladness I would have her faintly conscious of some undertone of yearning. When we read such a letter at 16 we know we can be happy and we want to be good."

"My romance is less magical," I had to confess. "At Pebble Beach near the window of a meager shack reclined a sick girl. How old she was I cannot say. She might have been 17; she could have been 27. I only know that her face was full of pain, softened by the lingering lines of a long malady, and that its sadness fixed itself upon me after I passed her way. I went to the garden beyond the golf club and called. No one answered, and I scrambled over the high rustic gate. Picking a bunch of fragrant white stock and a few blossoming sprays of purple heliotrope, I sought the sick girl's door again and left my flowers there."

Sentence.

Allis finished his pipe and I my cigar in silence. Morning came and 9 o'clock found us at the water front. On a bench alone sat a beautiful young girl, one hand pressed lightly to her heart, her lovely eyes gazing dreamily across the bay, while the other hand fondly caressed the loose pages of an unsigned letter from a strange first lover she would never, never know.

Smiling significantly, we turned our steps to Pebble Beach. Without the witching tracery of moonlight the hut I had visited the dim night before seemed even more forbidding. At the window sat the wan invalid, her slender, wasting hands filled with the wondrously chaste flowers in which she buried a pallid face, now gently suffused by the glow of happy questioning always and always without answer.

Liquors

CAN NOW BE MADE AT HOME FOR TWENTY-FIVE CENTS A QUART.

CINCINNATI (Ohio), Oct. 12.—Through a recent discovery of an expert distiller of this city a method has been discovered for making Whiskies, Liquors and Cordials in the privacy of the home. With a concentrated extract a smooth and mellow whiskey, liquor or cordial can be made saving the liquor dealer's enormous profits. Requires no apparatus of any kind. A few minutes does the work. The question of legality of this process has been carefully investigated and found to be legal and legitimate under all laws. This new method of making liquors at home will be welcomed by thousands of people not only on account of the purity and excellence of the liquors that can be made, but on account of its great saving. With this new method a quart of delicious and healthful liquor can be made for 25 cents, equal if not better than that sold at four times the price. It is indeed wonderful and the discoverer of this method has received thousands of letters of praise. We understand that the discoverer of this wonderful product, is permitting any responsible person to try a whole quart free on trial and we would suggest that any one who enjoys a real good whiskey write to the Universal Import Co., 9020 Sycamore St., Cincinnati, O., and ask for free trial offer with booklet giving every secrets of the liquor business which will prove very interesting.—[Adv.

Health and Beauty Advice

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

R. M. S.: Sallow complexion, liver blotches, pimples and other eruptions of the skin indicate the need of a good blood-tonic and liver-regulator. Dissolve one ounce of kardene in one-half pint of alcohol (not whiskey), add one-half cupful of sugar and enough hot water to make a full quart. Take one tablespoonful five minutes before each meal. Kardene purifies the blood, arouses the liver, clears the skin, restores lost appetite and tends to strengthen and build up the entire system.

J. W.: You can add greatly to your beauty if you rub pyroxin on your eyebrows with finger-end. This makes them grow thick and silky. Applying pyroxin at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger makes them grow long and curly. Use caution and don't get pyroxin where no hair is wanted.

Mrs. D.: Those ugly hairs can be quickly banished from your face with a paste made with powdered delatone and water. This paste should remain on the hairy surface two or three minutes, then rub off and wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. The delatone treatment never fails and leaves the skin free from spot or blemish.

Annette: The affliction of over-fatness is to be deplored at any age, but it is a positive calamity to a young and pretty woman to become too fat in these days when fashion decrees the slender figure the only correct one. You can reduce your weight almost at the rate of a pound a day until you reach normal if you will dissolve four ozs. of parnotis in 1½ pints of hot water and take a tablespoonful before each meal. You can buy parnotis from any first-class druggist. It is a harmless, fat-dissolver, and those who take it marvel at its wonderful effect. It makes one look and feel younger, brighter, more buoyant and energetic.

Fannie R.: To be sure a face-lotion is far better than face powder, but you will have to be careful what you use, as most "liquid face powders" contain injurious ingredients that are likely to ruin your complexion. Try this inexpensive one which is all right: Dissolve four ozs. of spurmax in a half-pint of witch hazel or hot water and add two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Rub this on your face, neck and arms, and it will give your skin a very pleasing, velvety tone. This lotion does not show or rub off like powder, and will remove that shiny, sallow look from your skin. This preparation is a wonderful skin-beautifier, and I find it excellent for rough, red or sallow skins, freckles and skin-pimples.

Mrs. David Q.: The only reason why many hair and scalp-specialists advise against frequent shampooing is the danger that comes through the use of soap and inferior shampoos which contain "free" alkali or other ingredients injurious to the hair. If your hair is thin, very dry or oily and looks so dull, "stringy" and unkempt a few days after shampooing, try cleansing with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water, then rinsing thoroughly with clear water. You can use this shampoo as often as you like, as it will benefit your hair and scalp wonderfully. It will relieve that itching sensation and make your hair beautiful, fluffy and appear twice as thick. This shampoo dries quickly without any danger of streaking or discoloration.

Miss E. L.: If you only knew what was in the cheap, greasy cold creams you have been smearing on your face, you would never use them again, as they are really harmful. Never use anything but a greaseless cream if you don't want hair on your face. At a small expense you can prepare an excellent complexion cream-jelly by stirring together and allowing to stand over night two teaspoonfuls glycerine, one ounce almozoin and one-half pint cold water. Use this regularly and it will clear up your complexion wonderfully by removing all dirt and oil. It will also remove quickly those blackheads and other effects of hot weather such as freckles, tan and roughness of the skin of which you speak. This is the only reliable cream I have ever found for removing wrinkles without leaving the skin rough and flabby after massaging and for reducing the size of large, dirt-collecting pores.

Victoria: Your scalp needs a good, stimulating quinine hair-tonic to remove the dandruff, stop irritation and falling hair. Get from any drug store one-half pint alcohol (not whiskey) and one ounce quinzoin and mix it with one-half pint water, and you will have a much better tonic than any of those ready-prepared tonics you have been buying. Brush your hair daily and twice a week apply this tonic to the scalp, rubbing it in gently. This will do wonders for your dull, lifeless, falling hair, and put your scalp in a healthy condition. This tonic will make your hair soft, silky and lustrous. Keep the scalp clean by frequent shampoos with canthrox and you will not have further trouble with your hair.

Enid S.: Your headaches and generally despondent feeling very likely come from your weak, inflamed eyes. You should attend to the matter immediately or you may have to wear glasses permanently. Get an ounce of crystos and dissolve it in a pint of water. Put a few drops in each eye two or three times a day and I am sure it will strengthen your eyes wonderfully and remove your eye troubles generally. I find this a splendid remedy. It does not smart the eyes and is fine for dull, tired, sore eyes that have that over-worked feeling.
